CONSCIENCE.

BY F. M. ADLINGTON.

Busy conscience what art thou?
Something in my nature strong
Telling me the why and how,
This is right and that is wrong.

Ever busy prompting me,
Checking Fancy in its course,
Ev'ry little fault you see,
And your tyranny enforce.

Can't you, sometimes take a nap,
Be obliging, now and then,
You're a most uncivil chap,
Nothing 'scapes your searching ken.

Watching over ev'ry act,
Prying into ev'ry thought,
Plainly stamping ev'ry fact,
This as good, and that as naught.

You have been a friend you say,
Guide and guardian in my need,
While your kindness I repay,
Wishing from you to be freed.

No I would not have you go,
Altogether from me quite,
Yet you sometimes teaze me so,
I can scarce conceive you right.

What will Mrs. Grundy say,
Conscience sometimes whispers me,
'Tis not well to disobey,
What her wisdom may decree.

'Tis a saying quaint and old,
Vox Populi, Vox Dei,
Sure you need not to be told,
Safely none that voice defy.

But should Mrs. Grundy say,
Wrong is right—despite her spell,
Go as conscience points the way,
Tho' you 'gainst the world rebel.

Interesting Selections.

CHILDREN'S COLDS. The following is an excellent and safe remedy: Take onions, slice thin, and sprinkle loaf sugar thickly over them; put in the oven, and simmer until the juice is thoroughly mixed with the sugar. It makes a thick syrup, very nice. Give a teaspoonful as seems to be needed, four or five times a day.

A SHINE. A young fellow who had been married for a twelvemonth said it was all sunshine, the next twelvemonth was all moonshine, and the later period of his matrimonial career was without shine at all, except when his better half took it into her head to "kick up a shine."

☞ A stranger, observing an ordinary roller-rule on the table, took it up, and on inquiring its use, was answered, "It is a rule for counting houses." He turned it over and over, up and down repeatedly, and at last, in a paroxysm of baffled curiosity, he inquired, "How in the name of wonder, do you count houses with this?"

☞ Hall's Journal of Health thinks this way, "Men may live long and in health who never taste meat, but they can never excel in anything which requires energy.

☞ "Do you think raw oysters are healthy?" said Angelina to the doctor.—"Well, yes, I should say so: at least, I never heard one complain of being sick."

☞ Dr. Ballot and others strongly urge buttermilk as a remedy for cholera infantum.

☞ Every parent is like a looking glass for his children to dress themselves by. Therefore parents should take care to keep the glass bright and clear, not dull and spotted, as their good example is a rich inheritance for the rising generation.

☞ Water is not a fashionable beverage for drinking your friend's health, but it is a capital one for drinking your own.

☞ Two young Misses discussing the quality of some young gentlemen, were overheard thus: "Well I like John, but he is a little girlish; he hasn't got the least bit of a beard." "I say John has got a beard, but he shaves it off."—"No he hasn't either, any more than I have." "I say he has too, and I know it for it pricked my cheek." That's how she knew.

☞ Not long since a premium was offered by an agricultural society for the best mode of irrigation, and the latter word, by mistake of the printer, having been changed to "irritation," a farmer sent his wife to get the prize.

REALITIES. A person being asked what was meant by the "realities of life," answered, "Real estate, real money, and a real good dinner, none of which could be realized without real hard work."

☞ A gentleman resident in Edinburgh, whose personal dimensions were somewhat similar to those of Falstaff, was in the habit, when traveling by coach, to secure half the inside of the vehicle for himself. Having a new servant, he sent him one day to book him for a neighboring town. The man returned with the following pleasing intelligence:—"There weren't two inside places left, so I took one in and another out."

Miscellany.

DOWN IN A COAL MINE.

I have been inside a coal mine, as Lowell says:

"Down among the tangled roots of things
That coil about the central fire."

I carefully examined the places which bluff old operators and railroad men had assured me were "perfectly safe, airy, and wholesome, not a bit of danger, sir. That's all nonsense, Why you couldn't get the men to work anywhere else, etc." All I've got to say is, let those who like to work in a mine stick to it—I resign all my share of this underground elysium, and would thankfully drive an ash cart, or grind a hand-organ in preference to earning even the magnificent wages which we are assured these miners receive. Let me try and give your readers a simple description of what a coal-mine is like. The one we entered was at Tripp's Slope. It is entered by a slope on the side of the hill, and, like all those in this region, penetrated for miles under ground, so that the City of Scranton is completely honeycombed, and some day may suddenly tumble in and be swallowed up in these New World catacombs. Taking a small lamp whose flaring flame scorched my fingers every few minutes, I entered the mine, in company with a guide and a friend. The slope descended gradually, and was about five feet and a half square, hewn out of the solid rock. At first we could not walk without stooping, owing to the beams placed overhead to brace the roof; but soon we could stand erect.—After a hundred yards the slope turned to the left, and we lost all daylight and had nothing but our lamps to guide us.—A car-track ran along the passage, filling it all up except a narrow space at each side, where a man could pass. The cars are driven by mules, who never leave the mines, yet keep fat and lively in spite of their subterranean homes. When the mines are fully worked our guide said the din from the rolling cars, driven by shouting boys, was fearful, while there was great danger of being jammed among them, or against the walls. We soon came to a chamber at one side where was a donkey engine at work pumping out water. This has to be done unceasingly, and is an expensive job. From this point branch roads led away in all directions. Some of them for three miles, deep into the mountain. Taking one of them we proceeded some distance, until we were about an eight of a mile underground. The floor was pretty even, but covered with fragments of coal and stone and pools of water, into which we floundered, while the roof and walls were clammy with moisture, which rubbed off on our hat and clothes. Unmindful of these annoyances, we pushed on, passing every little while light wooden doors, which we learned were to help secure a supply of fresh air. We had no difficulty in breathing, but our guide said he could take us to places where the air was foul enough. In some mines it is common for men to fall down insensible, but this one was well ventilated, and besides, we kept near the entrance, in the best parts. The passageways we went through were lined with stout logs of hemlock placed upright about four feet apart, and supporting cross pieces as a protection to the roof. Between each of these guards, however, was a bare space. Is there no danger of the roof at these points giving way?" I asked our guide. "Oh, yes. The other day a piece weighing several tons fell down, and smashed a coal-car all to atoms. Here is a piece that is just as like as not to come down in the same way."

This was not very comforting to visitors but we still kept on until, at last, we entered a chamber about fifteen feet square whose roof was supported in the centre by a single pillar of coal. A car-track ran across the floor to the farther end, and stopped in front of a jagged wall of glistening mineral, at the foot of which lay piles of coal and tools left by the miners on going home.

"This is where the coal is taken out. That is the "breast" at which two men work. They use drills from five to seven feet long, and drive blasts sideways into the face. When the coal is taken out it is loaded into cars and they are run along this track to the lower end of the slope by mules, where the engine on the hill hoists them up."

"How many blasts can a man make in a day?"

"Five or six."

"How far does he go away when they are fired?"

"Oh, a couple of hundred feet or so.—It makes a big noise, I can tell you."

"How do you get the smoke out?"

"That's a hard matter. I've known men to work here for hours after a blast when neither couldn't see his mate or the car he was loading, but each had to work by feeling. You could scarcely see even a light at a short distance, and when you go home your eyes will be so blinded that you can't stand the daylight for a long time."

"But what is to prevent the roof falling in during or after a blast?"

"Nothing. There is a shell next to the coal, which usually comes down at the time of the blast, but other pieces often follow at other times. Do you see that lump there? That has fallen since the man who was at work here went home. It might, just as likely, have fallen while he was here; and, if so, where would he be now? The temperature in the mines is about the same winter and summer; but it often gets very hot from the powder and steam."

These statements were confirmed by other miners afterwards, and some of them gave a vivid picture of their daily life. Said one: "I go to work at seven and stay mostly till three or four, but often till six and seven, when there is extra work to do, such as laying the track, or putting up braces, for which we don't get any pay. We wear nothing but pants, boots, and a flannel shirt; and mostly they are wet through with sweat, and the boots full of water. Often we have to work up to our knees, or even our waists, in water; but what is worse is to have it drip down from the roof right on your back and make you feel like a drowned rat. Often we have to work for weeks without a dry stitch on us, and this soon brings on the cramps.—Then for accidents, they happen every day. There are places in Tripp's mine where the roof has fallen in, so as to leave a room twenty feet high, and this will show if there is any danger. They say it is easy to learn mining, but that's a lie; a man may work a second very well, particularly if the other is his friend and wants to keep him; but let him be alone, and have to look out for his roof and other things, and you'll see how soon his head will be broken. It ought to take over a year to learn mining well."

After picking up some specimens of shale finely marked with the impress of plants which existed in preadamite times we turned our steps surfaceward. As we passed another wooden door, our guide paused, and said:

"I worked at Avondale, and this is the kind of door the men inside barricaded to keep out the fire. They filled up the clinks with their hats and clothes, but it was no use."

A feeling of awe stole over us as we stood and looked at this weak defence against the ravaging flames. Suppose the miners who had seen us enter the mine, and who bore a spite against our guide, should take it into their heads to imprison us inside. There was more than one rough among them who might do such a thing. Horrid thought, and without delay we ascended the slope to its entrance, and viewed the sky and inhaled the pure air once more with grateful feeling. Better a year of sunlight than a century of such subterranean occupation, with a fortune as payment.—Is it possible that any one can call groping about like a mole underground, pleasure? Let those who have never seen such a place try exploring a flooded cellar with a small lamp, and they will have a fair conception of being inside a coal mine.

NEW MODE OF LATHERING.

A nicely dressed young gentleman entered a barber shop in a somewhat retired portion of a Western city, a short time ago, for the purpose of getting shaved. The tonsorial artist spit on the brush and proceeded to lather, when he was stopped by the horror stricken customer, who inquired what he meant by spitting on his brush.

"Why," said the barber, "aint you a gentleman?"

"Yes," replied the stranger.

"Well," said the barber, "that's the way we treat gentlemen; if a rough comes in, we just merely spit on his face."

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, SEPT. 22, 1871.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

There is at present a most exciting time in this great city, on account of the discovery of a systematic series of frauds, perpetrated by the rulers upon the taxpayers. Some weeks since the "Times" called attention to the extensive robberies being carried on right under the nose of the citizens, and acting upon these suggestions the people—at all times a dangerous power to invoke—arose in their might and demanded an investigation into the comptroller's account. It was then found that it cost the city of New York the sum of $23,913,973 for current expenses for one year, and that this entire sum had been spent in six months, leaving the treasury bankrupt for the remainder of the year. People then began to ask what had become of the money. It was found that $773,530 had been spent for furniture for the new court house, and $300,000 for plumbing work on the same building, with like sums for carpets, plastering, repairs, etc. A committee of citizens began an investigation, when lo; on Sunday last the vouchers, or a greater portion of them were stolen from the comptroller's office by a burglar. Yesterday the janitor of the court house, an ex-councilman, was arrested, charged with being the scoundrel who spirited these same vouchers away. Sufficient evidence has accumulated to show that this man is guilty and that there are other parties high in office in this city who must be brought to the bar of justice as instigators of the robbery.

The weather has been remarkably cool for the last few days, which has had the effect of driving back from their country holidays the people who were lucky enough to escape the dust and heat of the last three months. Every train and steamer that arrives brings hundreds back to their homes, and this makes business, which has been very dull all summer, more brisk. The fall trade is expected to be very heavy and our merchants have made great preparations to meet it.

The cholera, which has been a bugbear for some weeks, has not yet made its appearance here, and the hope is indulged in that the season is now too far advanced for us to receive a visit from the dread pestilence. A case of genuine Asiatic cholera, though in a mild form, has been brought to light in Perth Amboy, New Jersey, but the woman was a passenger in the steamer Westphalia, which arrived from an infected port.

There has been a dearth of murders, and suicides lately, and nothing has occured to disturb the public mind in that line since the "trunk horror."

Politicians are beginning to organize for the fall campaign, and both parties are doing their "level best" to win the fat places in State and City.

The Grand-Duke Alexis son of the Czar of Russia, will soon be among us, and his advent will create quite a flutter among our fashionable belles. We expect to give his highness a very enthusiastic reception. More anon. W. F. G.

A BACHELOR'S WOES.

What a pitiful thing an old bachelor is, with his cheerless house and his rueful phiz, on a bitter cold night when the fierce winds blow, when the earth is covered with a foot of snow. When his fire is out, and in shivering dread he slips 'neath the sheets of his lonely bed. He draws up his toes all encased in yarn hose, and buries his nose 'neath the chilly bed-clothes, that his nose and his toes still encased in yarn hose, may not chance to get froze. Then he puffs and blows, and he swears that he knows no mortal on earth ever suffered such woes, and with ahs and with ohs! and with limbs so disposed that neither his toes or his nose may be froze, to his slumber in silence the bachelor goes. In the morn when cock crows, and the sun just rose, from beneath the bed-clothes pops the bachelor's nose, and as you may suppose when he hears how the wind blows, and sees the windows all froze, why back 'neath the clothes pops the poor fellow's nose, for full well he knows if from the bed he rose, to put on his clothes, that he'd surely be froze. The above we suppose is the experience of those who scorn the repose which the married man knows.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS.

A meeting called by the ladies' committee in aid of the Fair of the Massachusetts Society, for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was held at Revere Hall last Saturday evening. Although the attendance was not so large as had been hoped, the reports of the sub-committees appointed to visit different parts of the town were highly favorable, showing that our citizens feel a decided interest in the objects of the Society. Judge Bigelow, who had been asked to preside, made a very clear and interesting statement of the claims of this Association to the support of the community. Our statutes protecting persons and property may be said to enforce themselves, since every man who is aggrieved by their infringement constitutes himself a special constable to see that justice is done.—But the dumb animal that is inhumanly treated can neither summons a policeman nor bring an action in court. This must be done through the agency of those who are sufficiently enlightened to feel the importance of enforcing our laws against cruelty. The Society has already done much to protect the health of the community by preventing gross barbarity in the transportation of animals, which rendered them unfit for food. This is a matter of especial concern to persons of moderate means. Those able to pay the large prices for meat that fashionable provision-dealers demand probably have some measure of protection. But the poor man, who must take such meat as he can find at the average market price, is too often the victim of a fraud which brings fever and death to his family.—Judge Bigelow mentioned that a lady, by no means rich, who lived upon one of the roads by which cattle are driven to Brighton, lately sent the Society a check for five hundred dollars. She declared that she preferred to make a change in her manner of living, rather than again witness the inhumanity to animals which had been stopped through the efforts of its agents. The main work of the Society is the prevention rather than the punishment of cruelty. The presence of its officers in the streets, slaughter-houses and railroad trains ensures a compliance with the laws. It further aims to instruct the young in the principles of justice and tenderness towards our brute dependents. Its work is cordially recognized by all forms of Christian belief. The Catholic Bishop of Boston heads the list of its vice-presidents, and clergymen of all denominations have eagerly offered their aid. The interest already awakened in Quincy is due to the active and personal work of the committee of ladies appointed to represent the town. They believe that Quincy should contribute to this Fair in some just proportion to its population and wealth. It is said that another public meeting will be called which Judge Bigelow and others have consented to address. If this is done, every humane person in town should endeavor to be present, and assist the ladies in their important work.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK. We learn that Daniel Baxter, Esq., who has been President of this Bank for several years past, has resigned that position and Edward Turner, Esq., has been elected President. Israel W. Munroe, Esq., succeeds as Vice President. The vacancy in the Board of Trustees, caused by the death of Wm. S. Morton, Esq., has been filled by the election of Charles A. Howland, Esq.

The attractive and commodious rooms now occupied by this Bank, are much approved by all who have occasion to visit them for business. A large safe, manufactured for the Bank, by the American Steam Safe Company, of Boston, in the most perfect style of this branch of manufacture, has just been placed in the building. It is a very beautiful and thorough piece of workmanship combining all the best present known security, possible.

We congratulate our community on the successful establishment of this Bank in apartments specially adapted to its own business, in convenience and manner in every respect so creditable to the Trustees, and so generally satisfactory to all persons interested in the prosperity of our local institutions, as shown by the continued large increase in the number of depositors, and amount of deposits, as we are credibly informed.

The well known reputation of the Officers of the Bank, in financial matters, is a sufficient guarantee for safe and profitable investments of the funds left in their care by the depositors.

EVENING SCHOOLS. It will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's paper, that these schools, which were so fully attended last winter, will commence on Monday evening next.

THE LECTURE COURSE.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

We desire, through your columns, to call the attention of our citizens to the course of lecture entertainments in Quincy of which mention was made in the last issue of your paper.

A class of lecturers have been engaged, who cannot fail to be highly acceptable to our people, and the price of admission, one dollar and a half for a ticket admitting one person to the course of six lectures only twenty-five cents an evening—is so low, as to be within the means of all, and will ensure the popularity of the undertaking.

The lecture system has become an institution, through the length and breadth of our land, and every town claiming any character for life and spirit has its course of lectures—Quincy must have hers, and we want large audiences, live audiences to inspire the speakers, and cheer the listeners with the sight of a pleasant hall, well filled with wide awake and public spirited citizens, ready to applaud a good point and to forget a poor one.

We are glad to hear that the programme as privately announced is giving very general satisfaction, and that this course of lectures promises to be much the most successful of any ever given in this town. They are not given in the interest or under the auspices of any religious society, but simply with a view to keep Quincy in line with the neighboring towns, and to furnish pleasant and profitable evening amusement for our people.

Tickets will be sold with reserved seats, but cannot be purchased or secured until they are offered for sale to the public, at the time and place to be announced hereafter.

The course will commence on the evening of November 9th, with a musical and humorous entertainment given by Mr. H. C. Barnabee of Boston, aided by an accompanist on the piano—probably Mr. Howard M. Dow. To those individuals who have seen and heard Mr. Barnabee nothing need be said. They have generally found themselves at the end of one of his performances like poor "Oliver" "asking for more" and will probably avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him again. To those not acquainted with this gentleman's powers we would advise, that they be at the hall, and judge for themselves.—Mr. Barnabee's success in the line of his profession has been most certain and decided—see criticisms in the Boston papers within the last week. He was formerly in the employ of the well known house of Hovey & Co., on Summer street, but his genius as a singer and comic delineator is so marked that he has found it for his advantage to devote himself entirely to this line of business, and his talents are called into constant requisition. He seems to have been born to make people laugh, and at the same time there is nothing in his performances to offend the most refined taste. He sings a good song, is a member of the choir of the Church of the Unity in Boston, and will be liked in Quincy.

On the 23d of November we are to have Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, the Editor of the "Woman's Journal" and universally acknowledged, as one of the very ablest, fairest, and most convincing debaters of the cause, to which she has devoted her talents and her life. She has spoken from the pulpit, the platform, and in the halls of legislation, and has always commanded the attention of cultivated audiences by her honest, earnest, whole-souled eloquence. For her invaluable services her official connection with the Sanitary Commission, during the late rebellion, she deserves the hearty sympathy of the public, and she stands before the community as one of the very best representatives of the ideas which she advocates. Her subject will probably be "what shall we do with our daughters" and it is not to be doubted that her advice will be such as is much needed in these later days.

Afterwards will come Hepworth the popular preacher; Parsons the Irish orator and scholar; Fitch the eloquent speaker from the great West, ex-member of Congress from Nevada and counsel for the famous Brigham Young, and last but not least, Wyzeman Marshall the Tragedian assisted by Miss Webster, as dramatic readers, of whom we may have something to say next week. P. B. P.

HANDSOME PRESENT. We were pleased the present week, to learn of the good fortune of a young lad in this town, who was the recipient of a thousand dollars, to be used for his education. We feel sure from what we know of the boy that the donor will have occasion to be proud of her protege, and find that her money has been well invested.

☞ The National Mount Wollaston Bank is now paying a semi-annual dividend of eight per cent. to its stockholders.

IN MEMORIAM.

WILLIAM SAXTON MORTON.

"Man goeth to his long home and the mourners go about the streets—or the silver cord be loosed or the golden bowl be broken or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken, at the cistern: then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." One of the most solemn passages of holy writ and in its assurances of immortality, the most solacing. The angel of death is ever busy in its visits to us.

To our honored and highly esteemed townsman, William S. Morton, Esq., the summons of departure from this mortal to immortality came tranquilly in the early evening of Thursday, Sept. 21st ult., and he departed in peace, on the sixty-second anniversary of his well spent life. Mr. Morton was born in Roxbury, Mass. He received his preliminary education at Exeter Academy for a college course; entered Harvard University in 1827, and graduated in good standing in a class of 65 in A. D. 1831. Among his classmates were Hon. Asaph Churchill of Milton, John Lothrop Motley, Rev. Dr. Morison of Milton, Wendell Phillips and Ex-Mayor Shurtleff. More than half of the class has preceded Mr. Morton, in their passage to the tomb. Embracing the legal profession, he pursued his law studies under the direction of the Hon. Sydney Bartlett of Boston, and was in due course admitted to the practice of his profession. He soon after visited Europe, spending sometime very pleasantly abroad in travel and in literary pursuits. Some thirty years past he removed to Quincy with his family. Here he entered zealously and successfully in the labors of his profession, an arduous calling at the best, and won largely the esteem of our community. His life was useful, active and honored; the true aim for all men to live. The citizens of his adopted town were not wanting in their appreciation of the talents and capacity of Mr. Morton. In 1850, with the Hon. George White, he represented Quincy as delegate to the State Constitutional Convention, and subsequently was an useful and active member of the House of Representatives. For many years he served most acceptably to his constituents as a member of the general School Committee, and at the period of his demise was Chairman of the Board. The oasis of his pathway was the deep interest and pleasure he manifested for the cause of Public Education. He loved our Schools, their worthy teachers and pupils—and the sentiment to the knowledge of this writer was reciprocal. For nearly two decennial periods he was President of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, one of the best conducted and most successful institutions of its kind in the Commonwealth, and his chair at the Board is left vacant by his departure never more to return. For many years he has filled the responsible and in many respects the unenviable office of Trial Justice for the County of Norfolk, and with him in the administration of justice to the unfortunate, he ever leaned liberally on the side of mercy. He cherished a deep and abiding interest for the prosperity of Quincy, and for a long period has filled the office of Director or Trustee in our Banking institutions. Mr. Morton was erudite, scholarly and a great reader of literature from early life. He was well read in the classics, and was gifted with a strongly retentive memory. His specialty was poem, and the writings of the British Poets and those of a more recent date in our own country, were in their general features as familiar to him as household words. His own effusions of Poetry which are numerous, for beauty of diction and tone, are excelled by few writers of the present day. As we draw near to the sanctuary of his private life, his good qualities shine brighter and brighter. All will bear me testimony, that he was a good citizen and neighbor; scripturally "he loved his neighbor." Genial and social in manners, he delighted to see others happy and his hospitality to visitors at "sweet home" was unbounded. In the sacred precincts of the domestic circle he dwelt in peace, love and happiness. D.

☞ A good fitting shirt is something that every man can appreciate, and to get one at a price that will not bankrupt the pocket is a consummation devoutly to be wished for. Cushman & Brooks, 37 & 39 Temple Place, make an excellent article to order, at $2.50 each, to which they invite attention, also to the quality and prices of their night shirts, Merino undershirts, drawers, gloves, stockings, half-hose, socks, etc. They have all the very best makes, including the Cartwright & Warner's, Norfolk and New Brunswick, Scotch, English, French and German undershirts, drawers, hose, half-hose, socks and long stockings, all of the best quality and at the very lowest rates.

NATIONAL MT. WOLLASTON BANK. After a term of eight years, Edward Turner, Esq., has resigned the Presidency of this Institution. During this time, this Bank has attained a degree of success almost unexampled in the history and experience of banking, which by the almost unaminous verdict of the stockholders, is attributed in a very large degree to his careful, conservative and judicious management. Semi-annual dividends at the rate of sixteen per cent per annum, and at the same time a steady increase of the surplus fund, and no losses, are results, not arrived at, without continued and patient labor, care and watchfulness, and knowledge and experience in the matter of loans and investments, that we are sure ought to be fully understood and appreciated by stockholders.

John Quincy Adams, Esq., has been chosen as successor to Mr. Turner, and it will redound to his great credit, if he succeeds in maintaining, as no doubt he will, the high position now held by this Bank, among the moneyed institutions of Boston and its suburbs, and on the list of National Banks.

Mr. Edwin B. Pratt has been chosen a Director, thus resuming his former connections with the Bank.

☞ E. Granville Pratt, Esq., wishes us to say to our readers that he can be found at the Office of John Q. Adams, Esq., on the corner of Hancock and Temple streets, morning and evening, where he will be pleased to see those desiring to consult with him. Office hours will be given as soon as perfect arrangements can be made.

AUCTION. The attention of the reader is called to the advertisement of the sale of furniture at the residence of Charles P. Derby on Wednesday next; who on account of ill health intends leaving for the West. On this particular occasion he would be glad to see all of his friends, and Mr. Joseph W. Lombard will also be there and in his pleasant and gentlemanly manner will do the very best to entertain the large crowd who is expected to be present.

DEATH OF A SHIPMASTER. The Boston Journal says, that "Capt. James T. Sherburne, late of barque Lyttleton, whose serious sickness compelled him to land at St. Helena, August 26 while on the voyage from Cape Good Hope to Boston, died at that place on the fifth day after he was put ashore. The cause of his death was a disease of the heart. Captain Sherburne was a skillful shipmaster, and a man much esteemed in this vicinity, where he was well known, having sailed in the employ of Mr. Isaac Taylor of this city for many years past. He commanded at one time the fine ship Baltic (formerly the Collins steamer of that name), and always discharged the requirements of his position with marked ability."

Capt. Sherburne is well known to our citizens, particularly to those residing at the Point, where he has made it his home. He has left a wife and two sons, who mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father. Mrs. Sherburne and one son were with him on this voyage, and had the satisfaction of doing all that laid in their power to make his last hours as comfortable as circumstances would permit.

☞ Rev. Benton Smith, of Boston, will preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow afternoon at 2 1-2 o'clock.

Commissioners' Notice.

To the County Commissioners for the County of Norfolk:

YOUR petitioners, inhabitants of the town of Quincy, would respectfully represent that the public convenience and wants require that a road and highway should be laid out and constructed, beginning at Beale street on Wollaston Heights, and running south along a private way known as Newport Avenue, (and including this) to the land of Hon. Charles Francis Adams, thence continuing in a direct line through the land of said Adams to Adams street so called, thus making a short and direct way to Quincy village, and so reducing the distance for many of the residents on Wollaston Heights from one and a half miles to a few rods. Your petitioners, (the town having refused to lay out and construct the above) would therefore ask that your Honorable Board would view the premises and locate and construct said road and highway, in accordance with the laws in such cases made and provided. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

G. F. PINKHAM, and 131 others.

At a meeting of the County Commissioners, begun and held at Dedham, within and for said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-sixth day of September, A. D. 1871:

ON the Petition aforesaid, Ordered, that the County Commissioners will meet at the Wollaston Station of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, in Quincy, in said County, on MONDAY, the twentieth day of November, A. D., 1871, at nine and one half o'clock, A. M. and thence proceed to view the route described in said petition, and hear and act thereon.

And that an attested copy of said Petition with this order thereon, be served upon the Clerk of the Town of Quincy, thirty days at least, before the time appointed for said view, and also that a like copy be published three weeks successively in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, the last publication to be fourteen days at least, before said view, and that like copies be posted up in two or more public places in said Quincy, fourteen days at least before said view, that all persons and corporations interested for or against said petition, may then and there appear and be heard if they see fit.

Funeral services at his house, on Washington Court, on Monday, at 2 o'clock P. M.

In East Braintree, on the 29th ult., George H. Jr., son of Mr. George H. and Mrs. Lucy C. Bird, aged 4 years and 8 months.

In Milton, on the 26th ult., Mr. Ebenezer Williams, aged 70 years and 3 months.

In Milton, on the 2d inst., Miss Susan E. Bronsdon, aged 40 years and 3 months

In this town, on the 1st inst., Mr. Joseph B. Lake, aged 42 years, 6 months and 16 days.

How sweet is the memory of loved ones
That have passed to the spirit land,
For we know they have left us to join
A happier, better band.

But I would not say, weep not
For this loved one passed away,
For well I know your hearts
Are wrung with grief to-day.

And if the fount of tears
Should be forever sealed,
Methinks your wounded hearts
Never could be healed.

But look beyond the grave,
Where the lifeless body lies,
To a home all bright and radiant
On the clear and sunny skies.

Where the flowers are ever fragrant
And never will decay,
And where the birds are singing
There sweetest song alway.

And music, O so heavenly,
Could we but catch its strain,
I think we'd gladly go to him
And wish there to remain. H. W.

Boston, July 2 1871 ep—1y

WEST QUINCY. Last week we announced that the cars were to commence running on Monday, but learned afterwards that we were a little in advance of time. To-day is to be the gala day: the citizens of this part of the town are to have a free ride, the cars leaving Boston, at ten o'clock, and on their arrital at the pretty little village, nestled under the great granite hills, a bountiful dinner will be served. We believe that many of the dwellings are to be decorated, and great joy is expressed by the citizens.

☞ It is said that President Grant, and the members of the Cabinet, will visit Boston, to be present at the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new Post Office, which takes place on the 16th inst.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The BOYS then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

SONG SKIPPING THROUGH LIFE.

Some men have politics on their brain,
By which they hope a living to gain.
Others the temperance cause will take,
As a hobby by which some money to make,
Not that they're true to the temperance cause,
Or care how often we break its laws.
The almighty dollar they have on their brain,
While they promenade with their ill gotton gain,
Excuse me kind friends, while my subject I change,
Although at first thought you may think it quite strange
We all must have clothing, we all want the best,
We like a fine coat, nice pants and good vest,
We'll buy of GEO. RICHARDS his prices are low.
He sells his goods cheaper than others we know,
He sells custom clothing, for years it will wear,
Prove it by bargains at twenty-five Dock Square.

WATERS'
BOTANICAL
Hair Life.

THIS Beautiful preparation for the Hair and Scalp, has gained the confidence of the people more than any thing that has ever been discovered. It restores the Hair from a Gray, to a beautiful Black or dark Brown, without those poisonous minerals that's so injurious to the eyes; it removes all Dandruff and the most inveterate itching of the Scalp. For a toilet article, is unsurpassable.

Taylor's Flour, $9 50 per Barrel.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers; both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for his Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $9.50 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

MISS SAWYER'S SALVE.

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.

It is prepared by Miss Sawyer, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.

The principal diseases for which this salve is recommended are, Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Deafness, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scaldz, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on Children.

It never fails to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs. For Piles it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons that have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For Erysipelas it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For Chapped Hands it produces a cure immediately. For those with Salt Rheum obtain this Salve, and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in cases of Scrofula and Tumors. Cutters have been cured with it. The best Salve ever invented for Swollen Breast and Sore Nipples. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. Sore or Weak Eyes—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting in the ears on a piece of cotton. For Felons this is superior to anything known. For Pimples this acts like a charm. For Burns and Scalds, apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For Old Sores, apply once a day.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or Bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a Christian lady and a skilful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:

Poetry.

TEARS.

The sea shone bright in the distance far,
Where the sun's last rays were thrown,
As we sate by the lonely fisherman's hut,
We sate all still and alone.

The mist hung dark—the waters swelled;
The sea-gull skimmed around;
While from thine eyes the trickling tears
Fell fast upon the ground.

I saw them falling on thy hand,
And to my knees I sank,
And from thy little lily hand
The scalding tears I drank.

Since then my body has burned in pain,
And languished my soul for years,
Alas! the wretched, artful girl
Has poisoned me with her tears.

Farmers' Department.

WHEN TO SELL PRODUCTS.

In nine cases out of ten it pays to sell farm products as soon as they are ready for the market. The aggregate loss of holding them is at least ten times the aggregate gain, taking the experience of any hundred farmers together.

Take, for example, grain. In the natural order of things, the supply is equal to the demand. The exceptions are when war takes from the producing to add to the consuming class, which, in addition to waste and expense of transportation, inevitably increases the demand, while decreasing the production, and of course augments the price; or when a failure in some crop in some section places the supply below the needs of that section, and other districts are called upon to make up the deficiency.

But both of these causes are exceptional. As to the failure of the grain crops in any section, it has become almost an axiom that when corn or wheat is below the average, something else that can take the place of one or both is above, and thus the general average, except in rare cases, is preserved.

Then as to potatoes. They are generally lower in the fall than in the spring, but the larger price in May rarely, if ever, nets as much as the smaller price in October. The shrinking during the intervening six months is never less than twenty-five per cent. under the most favorable circumstances, and is likely to be much greater.

Take, also, wool. The clip is generally bought up in July and August. If not sold then, it must be held till the next year, and, though there is no shrinking, if properly kept, yet there is some trouble, the loss of interest on the money and the possibility of even a less price, which the possible advance, in a large majority of cases, never covers; and thus in every department of the farm the principle that should underlie all operations is: Raise the best of everything; when the crop is ready for market, if offered a fair price, let it go.

FARMING FOR WOMEN.

The Horticultural School for Women in Newton, opened in June, 1870, as an experiment, has proved a success in the education of young ladies, for the carrying on or superintendence of garden farms or greenhouses. During the year the eight young ladies of the class have spent from six to eight hours daily in the garden or greenhouse, doing all the work except the heaviest and coarsest, and as the fruit of their toil have supplied the families of a dozen or more amply with vegetables. Each has given from thirty to forty minutes daily to recitations in botany, etc. Now one of the young ladies is about to start a greenhouse and garden at Jamaica Plain, and another at some other point near the city.

Anecdotes.

"My dear," said a gentleman to a young lady to whom he thought to be married, "do you intend to make a fool of me?"

"No," replied the lady; "nature has saved me the trouble."

Little six years old Georgie, having been instructed by his Aunt Kate to pray for his papa, and being one evening interrupted in his devotions, and told by her that he must pray for his mamma, replied: "Aunt Kattie, you just ho'd your horses now. Who's runnin' this prayer, you or me?"

A young lady became so dissatisfied with her lover that she dismissed him. In revenge, he threatened to publish her letters to him.

"Very well," replied the lady, "I have no reason to be ashamed of any part of my letters except the address!"

A quarrelsome couple were discussing the subject of epitaphs and tombstones, and the husband said: "My dear, what kind of a stone do you suppose they will give me when I die?"

"Brimstone, my love!" was the affectionate reply.

A young lady being asked whether she would wear a wig when her hair turned grey, replied with great earnestness: "Oh, no, I'll dye first."

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d. We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

THE HALL

TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

KEATING & SPEAR'S

Furniture Rooms, who are the agents for Quincy.

K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to Invalids.

Poetry.

Lines in Memory of Wm. S. Morton, Esq.

Blow on, ye autumn breezes,
Ye zephyrs murm'ring low,
And waft the mournful tidings,
A man of worth lies low.
In earth lies low the earthy,
While mounts his soul the sky,
To broad and grand unfoldings,
In realms of light on high.

Go whisper to the mourners
Kind words with comfort wrought,
Tell of his glad reunion
With friends of frequent thought.
Go bathe the fevered forehead,
And calm the aching brain,
And breathe in tones of solace
His glad release from pain.

They say the little children
With whom he oft did meet,
Who flocked around his footsteps
His glad approach to greet,
Now wear a look of sadness,
A shadow clouds their brow,
And teardrops flow unbidden
For one they see not now.

Then kiss the cheek of childhood,
And dry the glist'ning tear,
That rises up unbidden
For one esteemed so dear;
And tell the youthful grievers
To emulate his deeds
Of kindness, and his court'sy,
His care for human needs.

When too his kinsmen gather
And dwell upon his name
Wherein he acted nobly
Go bid them do the same.
And if too great compassion
Be deemed a weakness grave,
Go lisp that suff'ring millions
In vain this blessing crave.

Blow on ye autumn breezes,
Ye zephyrs murm'ring low
Waft ye the joyful tidings
That all on earth may know;
Our dear departed loved ones
Still watch and wait and pray
For those they left behind them
Until reunion day. J. J. Glover.

Interesting Selections.

Apple-Slum. Pare good cooking apples, put in an earthen dish with sugar, butter, and water enough for juice.—Make a paste as for biscuits, only thin enough to spread easily with a spoon. Spread over the apples and bake half an hour. Berries and prunes may be used instead of apples, and make an equally palatable dish. Serve with a nice sauce.

☞ A German waiter at Bingen on the Rhine has displayed a remarkable talent for fraud. A lady found a chicken in her egg, and called his attention to the circumstance. He charged her for a boiled chicken.

☞ Sealing wax is not wax at all, nor does it contain a single particle of wax. It is made of shellac, Venetian turpentine and cinnabar. Cinnabar gives it the deep red color, and turpentine renders the shellac soft and less brittle.

Consoling. A country squire in New England was called in by a colored family to make a few remarks at the funeral of their son, in the absence of the only clergyman in the place. The weeping friends were seated about the room, when he arose and said: "It's pretty bad; but if I were you I wouldn't take on so. It's all for the best. 'Spose he'd lived and grown up to be a fat, healthy boy, why, he'd never be nothing but a nigger anyhow!"

☞ A little boy three years old, who has a brother of three months, gave a reason for the latter's good conduct—"Baby doesn't cry tears because he doesn't drink any water, and he can't cry milk."

☞ Hyposulphate of lime is recommended for washing clothes, as it whitens them admirably and does not, like carbonate of soda, tend to injure the fabric in bleaching it.

☞ One of the toasts drunk at a recent celebration was "Woman: she requires no eulogy—she speaks for herself."

☞ Two-thirds of the women in lunatic asylums are wives of farmers.

☞ Happy is the man who in going through life lays up constantly a treasure for himself in the happiness of others!—Happy is he who is followed by grateful prayers and blessings, after he has forgotten the deeds that called them forth! That man is Christ's who does indeed give to Christ's service himself and all that he possesses. His is the sweet melody and peace of life; his alone is true success.

☞ A little four-year-old, while combing her father's hair last Sabbath, was asked if she saw any white hairs? "Yes," she replied, "it looks just as if it had been snowing in your upper story."

☞ An old bachelor recently gave the following toast: "Woman — the morning star of our infancy, the day star of manhood, and the evening star of age. Bless our stars, and may they always be kept at telescopic distance!"

Miscellany.

A WOMAN'S STRATAGEM.

"Mary, your corn-bread is never done! I wonder what is the reason everybody else has things right and we always have things wrong!"

"Why, Joe, I'm sure the corn-bread has never been in this state before! You see, the 'fire had a fit,' and couldn't be made to burn this morning."

"O, yes! you are always ready with an excuse. Now, there is Mrs. Smith; her stove never has fits. And she always has the lightest, sweetest bread, and the nicest cakes and preserves I ever ate.—I wish you'd take pattern by her."

"Well, I am sure, Joe, I do my best, and I think I succeed oftener than I fail. I wish I could suit you always; but that, I suppose, could hardly be expected;" and Mary gave a weary sigh.

Mary Starr had been married about a year, during which time she had found housekeeping rather up-hill work. She was a neat little body, and conscientiously did her very best to please her husband; but he, whatever might be the reason, was very hard to please,—in fact, seemed determined not to be pleased with anything she did. Perhaps, like the old soldier, in one of Dicken's stories, he had a vital and constant sense that "discipline must be maintained." At any rate, he never allowed Mary to be pleased with herself, on any occasion if he could help it.

Mary was an amiable wife, fortunately, and not easily irritated, though to tell the truth, there were times when her forbearance was sorely tried. For instance, whenever she and Joe took tea out, or went to a party, or even to church, he seldom allowed the opportunity to pass unembraced to animadvert on some deficiency in cookery, or manners, or dress, on the part of his wife; and that pro bono publico. For instance, it would be:

"Mrs. Jones, what splendid sponge cake you make! Mary, take notice how light this cake is. I wonder why you can never have it so puffy!" Or, "Mrs. Brown, you certainly are an adept at entertaining company. I wish Mary, that you would try to steal Mrs. Brown's art." "Or, "Mrs. Green, your dress is always most becoming. Your taste is exquisite. I don't see why it is, Mary, that with all I spend for you, you never can reach the 'je ne sais quoi' of Mrs. Green."

On this occasion Mary would blush and bite her lips, and be inwardly annoyed, but she was a woman of too much pride, and good sense to make a display of her mortification or chagrin; and she was really to good natured and Christian a person to let it change her feelings toward Joe, whom she knew to be, after all very fond of her, and a very just man at heart. After a while, too, seeing that the fault was probably curable, she bethought herself how she should proceed in order to break him of his disagreeable habit.

Fortune favored her. One day, a lady, one of her most valued friends and best neighbors, called to invite Joe and Mary to a tea party at her house.

"It will be a small affair," said she, "but very pleasant, I think. You only are wanted to make the circle of harmony complete."

"Well," said Mary, "I will come, Mrs. Vane, on one condition."

"Condition! Is it come to this, that you must make conditions? Well, my dear, make your demand."

"The condition is," said Mary, "that you will allow me to furnish all the refreshments."

"Well, that is an odd idea! Mary, my dear, I hope you don't mean to insinuate that I am getting poor?"

"No, Hattie; thank fortune, she has showered her favors on you quite liberally. But I have a notion for this, which, if you please, I will not divulge; only let me have my own way this once, just for the oddity of the thing."

"If anybody but you, Mary, had made such a request of me, I certainly should have taken offence. But I never could be angry with you; so, if it will be any satisfaction to you—though for the life of me I can't imagine what your drift is—I will comply with your condition. When may I expect my supplies?"

"Let me see—to-morrow is my baking day, and your tea party is not to be before Thursday. Well, on Wednesday afternoon you shall be supplied with bread, biscuit, cake, and all the other accessories; and mind the only thing I allow you to furnish is butter, which I do not make."

"Very well. It's all settled, then, and I will leave you. On the whole, this arrangement suits me; it relieves me of a great responsibility, for your cookery is well known to be particularly nice. So, good-bye till Thursday."

"Mind, you say, nothing about this Hattie, to any one; it is a secret of mine."

"Very well, as you say, I'll keep mum. Good-bye again, for you will have your hands full, and I will not interrupt you."

So, off Mrs. Vane went, inwardly wondering what crotchet demure little Mary had got into her steady little head.

Everything come off on that baking day precisely as Mary could have wished it. Her bread was light and sweet, and white as a snow-flake, with just a golden brown line of crust surrounding it; her cakes were perfection; her crullers crisp and delicious. Then she knew that her preserved fruits were nice, and if there was sponge cake more like solidified froth she would like to see it. Everything was sent into Mrs. Vane on Wednesday afternoon, and she had all Thursday to devote to her dress.

Mary looked very pretty that night at the tea party, for her eyes shone with a purpose, and she had just excitement enough about it to redden her cheeks in a very becoming manner. Add to this that she was dressed with neatness and taste, and you will not be unwilling to believe me when I say that she was quite the belle of the occasion. Joe evidently thought so himself, for, strange to say, he made no remarks on her appearance that night calculated to lower her self-esteem, but contrarywise gazed at her, from time to time, with most profound satisfaction.

"But, "Murder will out." It came on this occasion, when they sat down to supper. Everybody was delighted; there had not been such an unexceptionable "tea" in that neighborhood for a long time. Country people are very fond of their "teas;" they compare one with another with admirable connoisseurship. This one was a triumph.

"Mrs. Vane, you are the perfection of bread-makers. Your biscuits are quite beautiful. Were ever such crullers made! How do you manage it, Mrs. Vane? What lovely sponge cake!"

Mrs. Vane and Mary occasionally changed glances and smiled, but nobody noticed it. Joe had been behaving so beautifully all the evening, that Mary began to be afraid her plans had failed.—He came out now, however, greatly to Mary's satisfaction.

"This is a feast, indeed," he said.

"A fellow is fortunate who has a wife that can make such bread as this, to say nothing of the sponge cake. I can't see why it is, Mary—you improve it is true, I give you credit for that; but I don't see why it is that all women cannot have the knack that Mrs. Vane, has, at cooking to perfection. If you could make such bread as this Mary, your husband would be a happy man."

Mrs. Vane looked at Mary, and Mary looked at Mrs. Vane. Light was breaking upon the mind of the latter.—It broke like a flash of lightning, and then there was an explosion—not of thunder but of laughter. Joe looked up amazed.

He was a man who petted his dignity enormously. What did these women mean, to laugh so at a sober, sensible remark of his? Particularly, what could Mary mean, to so trifle with the respect she owed her husband.

He began to grow very red, indeed.—Mrs. Vane saw it presently, and came to his and Mary's relief; for poor Mary had already began to be a little frightened at the success of her own scheme. She did not like Joe to be angry at any rate.

"Mr. Starr," said Mrs. Vane, "I am truly glad you like this very excellent cookery, for it is all your wife's. By your own showing, you ought to be a happy man."

Here the whole company caught the infection, and joined in the laugh against Joe. It was of no use getting angry with so many people; so, before long, Joe joined in the chorus himself.

And so the tea party broke up with the greatest good nature all around, and Joe went home with a lesson he never forgot; for it was the last time that Mary ever heard any complaints from him.—He is now the most easily pleased of any husband for ten miles around.—Wood's Household Magazine.

PLAIN TALK TO GIRLS.

Your every-day toilet is part of your character. A girl who looks like a "fury" or "sloven" in the morning, is not to be trusted, however finely she may look in the evening. No matter how humble your room may be, there are eight things it should contain, namely:—A mirror, wash-stand, soap, towel, comb, hair, nail and tooth-brushes. These are just as essential as your breakfast, before which you should make good use of them. Parents who fail to provide their children with such appliances, not only make a great mistake, but commit a sin of omission. Look tidy in the morning, and after the dinner work is over, improve your toilet. Make it a rule of your daily life to "dress up" for the afternoon.—Your dress may or need not be anything better than calico; but with a ribbon or flower, or some bit of ornament, you can have an air of self-respect and satisfaction that invariably comes with being well dressed.

A girl with fine sensibilities cannot help feeling embarrassed and awkward in a ragged and dirty dress, with her hair unkempt, should a stranger or neighbor come in. Moreover, your self-respect demands the decent apparelling of your body. You should make it a point to look as well as you can, even if you know no one will see you but yourself. —Household.

HOW A DUTCHMAN GOT EVEN.

Once on a time there lived a jovial Dutchman, whose name was Hannes Von Shrimpetiffel. He had a wife. He also had a little grocery, where beer and such personal property was sold. He gave credit to a parcel of dry customers, and kept his book with a piece of white chalk on the headboard of the bedstead.

One day Mrs. Shrimpetiffel, in a neat fit, took it upon herself to clean house and things. So she did, and she cleaned the headboard, and with soap and water settled the old man's accounts by wiping away every chalk mark.

Pretty soon, the old vender of things came into his house and saw what ruin his frau had wrought. Then he said:—

"Mein Gott, Frau Shrimpetiffel, what for you make ruin man of me, I guess not? You make vipe avay all dem name and figeres vat I owe dem vellers vat's going to pay me pevore dey gets reaty, and I lose more as swei hoondred tollar.

His frau left the room in fear and disgust. When she returned, he had recovered the headboard with chalk marks. Then she said:—

"Hannes, you vas make dem all right again don't it"?

"Vell, mine tearer frau, I make de figeres all right, but I put doon better names as dem old vellers vot you viped out!"

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

"Bridget, bring me the castor-oil; the baby is sick."

"It is all gone, marm: there's not a drop left."

"All gone! Why, we have not opened the bottle."

"Sure, you have had it every day, and I have seen you use it myself, on your salad."

"Why you don't mean to say we have been eating castor-oil every day during the season?"

"Sure, you have."

"But didn't you see the bottle was labelled castor-oil?"

"Sure, and I did marm, and didn't I put it into the castor every day?"

WATER IN PLANTS AND ANIMALS.

Hamlet complained of "this too, too solid flesh" of ours, but it is not so very far from being fluid, after all. Organic bodies in general are made up of a very little solid matter to a great deal of liquid. To quote from Rolfe and Gillet's Handbook of Chemistry, "Water constitutes the greater part of all plants and animals. The human body is four-fifths water. In many of the lower animals the proportion is much greater. From a sun-fish weighing 30 pounds, only 240 grains of solid matter were obtained; so that water makes up about .999 of the weight of such animals. The vegetable substances which we use for food contain almost as large a percentage of water. In potatoes the fraction is .75; in apples .80; in turnips, .90; in watermelons, .94; and in cucumbers, .97."

CHICAGO.

☞ A collection will be taken up in the First Church to-morrow morning for the benefit of the Chicago sufferers. The weekly Sunday School collection will be devoted to the same object.

☞ Rev. John D. Wells has already forwarded several boxes of clothing to Chicago contributed by our citizens, and will send others. Persons disposed to contribute serviceable garments of any kind, for men, women or children, are invited to send them to his house, whence they will be promptly forwarded.

THE CHICAGO FIRE. The great fire in Chicago, which commenced about 9 o'clock Sunday evening and continued up to Tuesday morning, when it was extinguished by heavy rains, was the most destructive one that ever visited this continent, and the suffering for a time must be terrible. This enterprising city has been transformed from a proud emporium of wealth and grandeur, to a heap of smouldering ruins; and what adds to the horror is the dreadful loss of life, it being estimated that over nine hundred were burned or killed. All the principal buildings, banks, post office, hotels, theatres and depots are laid in ashes. A district of three miles in length by one in width, was burned over and eighty thousand persons are rendered homeless. We are pleased to say that the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, had no property insured in Chicago.

SAD ACCIDENT. Two little boys, William J. and John F. Doherty, of Fall River, aged respectively 12 and 13 years, were killed while walking on the railroad track, in this place, on Wednesday evening last. They left home and procured half tickets for Taunton, but instead of leaving the cars at that place, proceeded on to Boston. They were noticed by Conductor Mellus and asked why they did not stop at Taunton, but did not give any satisfactory reply, and he threatened to give them to the police on arriving in Boston. But they escaped him and started for home on foot. On coming to the railroad bridge, over Granite street in Quincy, they were caught by two approaching trains coming from opposite directions, and in avoiding one, were struck by the other,—one was killed instantly the other lived a few moments in an unconscious state.

Both received shocking wounds on the side of the head, several inches in length, from which the brains protruded.

Coroner Bass was called who immediately took charge of the bodies and an inquest was held, but no blame we learn was laid to the engineers, of the trains. Conductor Mellus no doubt did wrong in allowing the boys to go so far from home without friends or money; and if he had left them at the first stopping place, the accident would not have happened.

Their remains were placed in coffins, and sent to their father, yesterday. Their mother is dead, and fortunately will not suffer the terrible blow, which such a melancholy accident incurs.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. Last Tuesday evening being the fifteenth anniversary of the wedding of our worthy townsman, George F. Pinkham, Esq., his Wollaston neighbors and friends from abroad, to the number of one hundred and forty, gathered to tender to him and his estimable wife their congratulations. His spacious dwelling was brilliantly lighted and tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers, from parlors to attic.

The well known caterer, J. B. Smith, furnished the sumptuous repast; after which "Judge" McIntire in a humorous and unique speech, presented sundry beautiful presents embracing both the useful and ornamental. Notwithstanding grave doubts expressed by the speaker and three justices present, the original marriage was decided to have been valid.—The Wollaston Glee Club enlivened the occasion with appropriate music.

At an early hour the company separated with the best wishes for the host and hostess and with a secret intention to meet them again on their twenty-fifth anniversary.

QUINCY MUTUAL. At a meeting of the Directors of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, held at their office on Thursday, Israel W. Munroe, Esq., was unanimously elected President, to fill the vacancy, caused by the death of Wm. S. Morton, Esq.

At the same meeting, Resolutions on the death of Mr. Morton, were passed which will appear next week.

THE GRANITE BRANCH RAILROAD.

The opening of this branch road for the better accommodation of the citizens at West Quincy and East Milton, on Saturday last, was a very pleasant affair.

A special train left Boston at 10 o'clock, drawn by the locomotive "Gridley Bryant," in honor of the projector and builder of the original railway, in 1825,—the first constructed in America,—of which this forms the main portion of the new line.

The first cost of the old road was fifty thousand dollars, and that of the first car six hundred dollars. This car had wheels six feet and a half in diameter, the load being suspended on a platform by chains under the axles. Stones of eight or ten tons weight were transported by connecting two trucks, which made an eight-wheeled car, which was used to transport the columns for the Court House in Boston, each one weighing sixty-four tons in the rough.

Many distinguished gentlemen were among the party, also Gilmore's Band, which did its best to enliven the festivities of the day.

On arriving at Railway Village a hearty welcome awaited the company from the citizens assembled. Flags were displayed, and an unwonted degree of enthusiasm prevailed. A brief stop was made, during which the band delighted the people, and the company inspected a fine commodious passenger station, which is quite an ornament to the locality.

From this point the train, now filled with excited participants in the celebration, moved on to the terminus at Belknap square, where a collation awaited the guests.

Our distinguished townsman, Charles F. Adams, Jr., was unexpectedly called to preside.

He said he could not remember when the Granite Railway did not exist, and recollected when the stakes were driven for the Old Colony road. The former was the elder road, but to-day the child had adopted the father, and they had met to celebrate an event unequalled in America, as the road which was here opened was the oldest on this Continent. They had come to see it rejuvenated and take its place as the youngest. It was eminently proper that they should pay their respects to the memory of the men to whom they were indebted for this boon, two of whom should be held in grateful remembrance by the people of Quincy, and whose names should be placed high on the scroll of honor. One contributed his genius, the other furnished the sinews of war. He proposed the memory of Gridley Bryant, originator of the Granite Railway, and introduced Hon. George Lunt to respond.

Mr. Lunt then delivered a very able eulogy on the life and character of the late Mr. Bryant, which was listened to with attention, and was frequently applauded.

Mr. Adams then called upon ex-Mayor Shurtleff, who said he remembered a few things of the old town which might be as well known to all present as himself.—Quincy or old Braintree, had long been famous not only for its men, but for its staple article of granite. When our forefathers began to build with substantial material they came to this town, where they found a few rocks. The extent of the resources of the Quincy quarries were so little known that when King's Chapel, in Boston, was built, the town was pledged not to use any granite until the edifice was completed. But there was no lack of the material, which had proved the best in the country, and been used in the most important Government structures. At the period when King's Chapel was built, the cutters knew nothing of the modern appliances of splitting stone. In those days the hammer was the only implement in use, and it is unquestionably a fact that the stone of which the old edifice on the corner of Tremont and School streets is built was put in shape with the hammer. The method of splitting stone with iron wedges dates back to the commencement of the present century, and was first adopted at the State Prison in Charlestown. A few years ago King's Chapel was enlarged, when the antiquarian love of the society led them to come to Quincy to get material to put into the new part. In conclusion, Dr. Shurtleff said he rejoiced "that the old part of Quincy was to be brought so close to the metropolis; that we can come here and you can come to us so easily and so expeditiously."

From invitation from Mr. Adams, Capt. Robert B. Forbes and Oliver Ames made short but pithy speeches which were received with applause. The ceremonies closed with three cheers for the new railroad.

The train returned to Boston filled with the people living along the line of the branch, who were tendered a free ride to the city and back by Superintendent Bullock. The occasion was fraught with deep interest and pleasure to all who participated.

The entire length of the new branch is three and a quarter miles. Three trains will be run daily, and connects with the old road near the Atlantic station. This road will open to the whole Commonwealth the inexhaustible resources of the Quincy quarries; two millions of tons of waste granite which will be worked into paving blocks, thereby furnishing additional employment to hundreds of stone cutters, who even now are turning out one hundred thousand "pavers" per month.

LIBERALITY.

L. S. Richards who has given much attention to the study of the sciences the past few years and having just delivered a course in Marshfield, will give the same course of six lectures upon the Natural Sciences, before the High School and the highest classes in the Grammar Schools of Quincy, at the Revere Hall. Commencing on Monday evening the 23d inst., at 7 1-2 o'clock and continuing each successive Monday evening until the completion of the course. A few prominent citizens have contributed sufficient funds to defray the expenses of the hall, and these patrons and their families with the members of the schools mentioned will nearly fill the hall and consequently we are sorry to say, this instructive course of Lectures is not open to the public at large. The following we are informed are the subjects of Mr. Richards' Lectures:—

LECTURE 1st. Chemistry—description of the air, water, oxygen,—formation of rain, snow, hail, dew, frost, ice, and wind,—radiation of heat, why cooler on the Mt. top,—steam—boiling water,—chemical analysis illustrated by experiments.

LECTURE 2d. Mineralogy—specimens — Do rocks grow,—how they form to day—description of marble, coal, diamonds and all the precious stones—First and second stone age—bronze and iron age—metalurgy—science of the reduction of ores to metals—iron, copper, lead, zinc, arsenic, gold, silver with experiments on the blow pipe and assaying.

LECTURE 3d and 4th. Chemistry of soil and vegetation—how soil was originally made—glaciers—description of the most prominent rocks and their chemical properties—The recession of the Falls of Niagara—decomposition of rocks—origin of first plant—"How and what makes the blade of grass grow" explained—"red snow"—cells—capillary attractions—flow of sap—analysis of the plant,—what it needs—adoption of soils to vegetation—fertilizers,—temperature of soil and elevation.

LECTURE 5th. Astronomy—a description of the solar system, including the planets, moon, asteroids, comets, meteors or "falling stars"—our sun,—"fixed stars"—the milky way,—how a planet is discovered, and the distinction between a fixed star and a planet—the constellations—the tidal wave,—the universe.

LECTURE 6th. The Correlation of forces, motion and heat—resistance of the air and of ether in the interplanetary space,—falling motion—what the effect of the moon coming in contact with the earth—Heat is motion, and motion, heat—light, its cause and velocity—the eye—how photographs are taken—light from the stars—electricity,—the cause of lightning and its effects,—lightning rods,—sparks produced—leyden jar—electric shocks given—progress of the telegraph and its operations clearly explained. Experiments will accompany the lecture.

For the Patriot.

THE COURSE OF LECTURES.

The PATRIOT last Saturday contained an article signed P. B. P. that was heartily welcome no doubt to all the people of Quincy. I had thought we should not get a course of lectures this winter seeing that the persons financially interested last year were losers to a considerable amount. On inquiry I find that Mr. Wyzeman Marshall is to read on one evening. This alone is well worth the price for the course whatever it may be. I really rejoice to think we can comfortably sit in our new hall and listen to the eloquent speakers, and readers that are to appear before us during the winter. J.

SALES. We would call the attention of our readers to the sale this afternoon, of furniture at the residence of Chas. P. Derby. The sale was postponed on Wednesday last, owing to the heavy rain.

Also, to a large sale on Wednesday next, of horses, cows, wagons, &c., at the residence of the late Dr. Woodward. See notice.

DONATIONS. We understand that our fellow townsman—Henry H. Faxon Esq., has, with his accustomed liberality, presented to the "Fragment Society," connected with the "First Church" of this town, the sum of one hundred dollars.

This Society has for many years been greatly indebted to the same source, for very generous contributions to its funds: and feeling confident of its quiet, but constantly increasing usefulness, we trust it may long continue to be the almoner of his bounty.

Mr. Faxon, has also given to the Baptist Society at the Point, a check for fifty dollars.

The aged and disabled seamen, at the Sailors' Snug Harbor have once more good reason to be thankful that this generous hearted individual does not forget them in his frequent donations. He has subscribed for some six or more of the leading daily papers of Boston, and ordered them to be sent to this Institution for the benefit of its inmates. Acts of this kind is certainly commendable and the donor will receive his reward.

The Charitable Society of this place, we learn, has also been presented with a check for seventy-five dollars.

CONCERT AND BALL. The painters have put the finishing touches upon the walls, and but little more remains to be done to prepare the Town Hall for the public inspection. We learn that the first public entertainment in the Hall will be a Grand Promenade Concert and Ball, to be given under the auspices of Paul Revere, Post 88, G. A. R., of this town; and in addition to the attractions of the Concert and Ball, the great improvements which have been made in the appearance and in the general arrangement of the Hall ought to attract an overflowing house to see and admire them, and to applaud the efforts of the Committee who have given us at last a Town Hall which is comfortable, convenient and of which we need not be ashamed.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, OCT. 9th, 1871.

The advent of Prince Alexis, son of the Emperor of Russia, upon the shores of free America is causing a great flutter among our belles, and a great amount of preparation by our citizens, one hundred of whom have banded together to show the Prince the "elephant" in Gotham.

The "committee of seventy," who are investigating the frauds practised by the members of the city government, are indefatigable in their endeavors to bring to light the peculations of a "ring" of swindlers. So glaring and well defined are the charges that honest men of all parties are banding together to place in offices of trust men who are honest and worthy. The Republicans held their convention week before last at Syracuse, and a "split" took place; and last week the Democrats, held a convention at Rochester and managed also to get up a "split." The truth is that parties have all become so corrupt that honest men stay away and allow the scoundrels to attend these conventions.

The weather is charming, pleasant and sunshiny in the day, cool and bracing at night. The effect has been to bring people back to the city and make the times lively. Theatres are doing a good business, notably the Olympic, with Humpty-Dumpty; while Opera is flourishing like a green bay-tree, with the gifted Parepa-Rosa at the helm. Next week we are to have Nilsson for the first time in Italian opera, which will be a rare treat, for she is said to be as fine an actress as she is a vocalist.

The news of the energetic action of the grand jury in Utah in arraigning Brigham Young causes a great deal of satisfaction, and we trust to soon be rid of Brigham and his "pestiferous" doctrines.

The news reached us to-day of the terrible conflagration which has almost wiped out of existance the great city of Chicago. Meetings have been called and aid will be immediately furnished for the sufferers. Wall street was "wild" when the news arrived, and a dozen insurance companies will have to go "up in a balloon." The disaster will also affect our whole business community, for our merchants have made large advances in cash expecting to receive in return the grain stored in Chicago, but now it has all been swept away in a single day, and there can be no return for advances made; so that many failures in the commercial line may be looked for.

The small pox has again made its appearance, and has become epidemic in Brooklyn. Thanks to the efficiency of our health department it will soon be under control.

The New York Yacht Club is busy preparing for a race for the Queen's cup, which Mr. Ashbury expects to take back to England with him.

There was a slight touch of earthquake felt at Salem, New Jersey, and Wilmington, Deleware, last night, but no damage done, except to frighten the inhabitants.

BOSTON MUSEUM. To add to the attractions of Monday, the 16th inst., when the President is to visit Boston to attend the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new post office, the managers of the Boston Museum, announces an extra entertainment in the afternoon.—Warren and the entire Museum company will appear in a choice selection of pieces.

☞ Peter Dunbar, Esq., a highly respected citizen of Boston, and brother of T. J. Dunbar, Esq., Agent of the steamer Massasoit, died at his residence at Long Island, on Saturday. Throughout his life he was an active and progressive business man, possessing the confidence of the mercantile community, and his death will be deeply lamented by hosts of friends. He was about 65 years of age.

THE LECTURE COURSE.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Resuming the notice of the forthcoming lecture course left unfinished in your paper of last week, on account of the crowded state of your columns, we commence with the 6th of December, at which date, we may expect to listen to Rev. George H. Hepworth, of New York City, who was called from a large and flourishing parish in Boston, to a still larger field of action, where he holds high rank as one of the three most popular and eminent ditines in the great metropolis. He is not unknown to fame in Quincy, and has always addressed large and gratified audiences, when he has spoken here.

He is a speaker of fine presence, graceful, and cultivated in manner, with a heart of large sympathies. He has made himself what he is, is one of the people, and when he talks to us, as he probably will, of "Luck and Pluck," we may expect to learn from him of the real worth of manly courage and endurance, as contrasted with the adventitious lustre which is reflected upon the individual, who is born to wealth or position, but without manhood. Mr. Hepworth knows how to address the young men, and we hope they will be present to listen to him.

On December 21st, comes the Hon. William Parsons, of Ireland, who has been universally endorsed by the American lecture going public, as one of the most brilliant and successful orators who have occupied the lecture platform. He is a highly educated scholar and gentleman, and one who by his training in connection with the London newspaper press, in Parliament, and as the advocate of popular rights and institutions, has added to, and developed those graces and powers of oratory of which in so many instances are the natural out-growth of the Irish temperament and character. Mr. John Bright said of him in England, that his "eloquence had electrified the audience." He has a list of a dozen or more lectures, from which has been selected the same one which he delivers in one of the Boston courses, on "George Stephenson," that self-made man, to whose genius, energy, and perseverance the world is so much indebted for his great contribution, the locomotive engine with its railway train; which has revolutionized society, annihilated distance, and made one people of the inhabitants of the Atlantic and Pacific slopes.

This notice will be concluded next week. P. B. P.

THE FLOWER MISSION. During all the later Spring, the entire Summer, and the early Autumn, certain ladies and gentlemen met every Monday and Thursday morning in the chapel of the Hollis St. Church in Boston, to receive and arrange such donations of flowers and fruit as may be sent to them from city and country, which they cause afterwards to be distributed, under their own supervision, to the various Hospitals throughout the city.

This year, for the first time, Quincy has undertaken to furnish regularly, from week to week, her contributions to this beneficent Mission. A large number of families connected with the First Church have successively collected and forwarded the flowers, and word continually comes from the Boston Committee, that the Quincy donotions are among the largest and most acceptable of all.

It is worthy of remark and remembrance that the Bowditch Express Co. has cheerfully assumed the task of transporting the flowers and fruit, during the entire season, free of expense.

☞ By order of the Right Rev. Bishop of Boston, a collection will be taken in the two Catholic churches next Sunday in this town, for the suffering poor of Chicago fire.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 12th inst., Mary, daughter of the late Daniel and Mrs. Ellen O'Keefe, aged 17 years and 11 months.

COMPLETE OUTFIT FOR BOYS. Fenno at his new store has inaugurated the system of clothing boys complete. Boys' Clothing, Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes, Furnishing Goods. Corner Washington and Beach Streets, Boston.

Loss of teeth is a great misfortune, and many good teeth are pulled because of ague in the teeth and jaws, which might be cured and the teeth saved, by using Renne's Magic Oil. This article is good to use when brushing and cleaning the teeth, and keeps the gums healthy.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The BOYS then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

SONG SKIPPING THROUGH LIFE.

Some men have politics on their brain,
By which they hope a living to gain.
Others the temperance cause will take,
As a hobby by which some money to make,
Not that they're true to the temperance cause,
Or care how often we break its laws.
The almighty dollar they have on their brain,
While they promenade with their ill gotton gain,
Excuse me kind friends, while my subject I change,
Although at first thought you may think it quite strange
We all must have clothing, we all want the best,
We like a fine coat, nice pants and good vest,
We'll buy of GEO. RICHARDS his prices are low.
He sells his goods cheaper than others we know,
He sells custom clothing, for years it will wear,
Prove it by bargains at twenty-five Dock Square.

Commissioners' Notice.

To the County Commissioners for the County of Norfolk:

YOUR petitioners, inhabitants of the town of Quincy, would respectfully represent that the public convenience and wants require that a road and highway should be laid out and constructed, beginning at Beale street on Wollaston Heights, and running south along a private way known as Newport Avenue, (and including this) to the land of Hon. Charles Francis Adams, thence continuing in a direct line through the land of said Adams to A lams street, so called, thus making a short and direct way to Quincy village, and so reducing the distance for many of the residents on Wollaston Heights from one and a half miles to a few rods. Your petitioners, (the town having refused to lay out and construct the above) would therefore ask that your Honorable Board would view the premises and locate and construct said road and highway, in accordance with the laws in such cases made and provided. And as in duty bound will ever pray.
G. F. PINKHAM, and 181 others.
Quincy, May 26, 1871.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
NORFOLK, ss.

At a meeting of the County Commissioners, begun and held at Dedham, within and for said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-sixth day of September, A. D. 1871:

ON the Petition aforesaid, Ordered, that the County Commissioners will meet at the Wollaston Station of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, in Quincy, in said County, on MONDAY, the twentieth day of November; A.D., 1871, at nine and one half o'clock, A. M. and thence proceed to view the route described in said petition, and hear and act thereon.

And that an attested copy of said Petition with this order thereon, be served upon the Clerk of the Town of Quincy, thirty days at least, before the time appointed for said view, and also that a like copy be published three weeks successively in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before said view, and that like copies be posted up in two or more public places in said Quincy, fourteen days at least before said view, that all persons and corporations interested for or against said petition, may then and there appear and be heard if they see fit.
ERASTUS WORTHINGTON, Clerk.

A true copy of the original Petition on file, and Order thereon.
Attest:

Taylor's Flour, $10 per Barrel.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

Poetry.

THERE IS ROOM AT THE TOP.

They say the professions are crowded
By seekers for fame and for bread;
That the members are pushing each other
As close as their footsteps can tread.
But be not discouraged, my brother,
Nor suffer exertion to stop,
Though thousands are pressing around you,
There is plenty of room at the top.

Be true to thy love and thy country—
The dastard wins never a prize;
But the earnest are ever the victors,
And he who on justice relies,
Who wins the good guerdon by labor,
Will garner sweet rest as his crop,
And find, as the hills sink behind him,
That there's room enough at the top.

Oh! let not the evil disturb you,
There's good if you but search it out,
Make pure thine own conscience, my brother,
Nor mind what the rest are about;
And whether your work may have fallen
In sanctum, or office, or shop,
Remember the low grounds are crowded,
But there's always room at the top.

Farmers' Department.

THE CANKER WORM.

The canker worm is generally known, and is very injurious to various fruit and shade trees. It is very destructive to the foliage of apple, plum, and cherry trees. This worm is no new enemy to our fruit trees, as it was known many years ago, and is a native of this country. The pupa, or infant worm, is formed under ground. The male moth has four wings, and is of an ashy color. The female has no wings, and has a more vigorous body. Late in autumn, in winter, if the season is mild, and early in spring, the female crawls up the trunks of trees to deposit her eggs.

To prevent her from going up the trees for this purpose, various means have been devised. Circular troughs of tin or lead placed around the trees and filled with some cheap oil have been used, but in this case great care must be taken not to permit the oil to come in contact with the tree. Other means have been used, such as spreading upon the ground around the trees muriate lime, and placing a conical mound of sand heaped around the trunk of the tree. A belt of cotton placed round the tree has been used, but proves no hindrance to the ascent of the canker worm.

Of all the schemes that have been invented to prevent the grub's ascent, the most satisfactory one is tarring the tree. To prepare the tree for tarring, we should in the early part of October, encircle it with a belt of canvas or tarred paper ten inches wide. As soon as the grubs make their appearance, which will be about the 15th or 20th of October, the canvas or tarred paper should be covered with tar. The tar must be renewed every other night, except cold and stormy nights, when the grubs are quiet. In purchasing, the thinnest tar should be selected, and it may be applied with a varnish brush. Sometimes it is necessary to make the tar thin; for this purpose a heated stone can be put into the vessel containing the tar. The tarring should be continued in the autumn, and in the winter, if the season is mild, and spring, until the grubs are no longer seen. The belt should then be taken off, and the trunk of the tree should be thoroughly scrubbed below the band with strong soap suds, so as to destroy any eggs that may have been deposited upon the bark.

To be successful, the tarring should be commenced in season and faithfully applied; in autumn, as soon as the frosts slightly hardens the ground, in winter, if the surface of the ground is thawed, and in spring, just as soon as the frost begins to come out of the ground. If the tar is then properly applied and persevered in until no grubs are found, it will almost completely extirpate them, and the worm will be prevented from doing any harm. —Watchman and Reflector.

Anecdotes.

"Mister, give me back my money.—Them fire-crackers came all to pieces fust time I used um!"

"Didn't they go off, my lad?"

"Yes 'm."

"Well, let's see you do the same—bite him Jowler!" Exit boy in haste.

Lady—'Four of those chairs which I so lately purchased of you are broken!" Upholsterer.

Indeed, madame! The only way in which I can account for that is, that some one must have been sitting on them."

A youth of six summers, was taken to task by his aunt for some supposed offence which he persistently denied.

"Now, Jonnie," said she, "I know you are not telling me the truth; I see it in your eye."

"Pulling down the lower lid of the organ which had well-nigh betrayed his veracity, Jonnie exultingly replied:

"You can't tell anything about it, aunt: that eye always was a little streaked.

"A coffin," said an Irishman, "is the house a man lives in when he is dead."

Lace Curtains, Draperies and Bedding.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d. We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

THE HALL

TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertion as used in walking, to which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

KEATING & SPEAR'S

K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent, Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION. Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system, Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1846, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Poetry.

THE HEART'S GUESTS.

When age has cast its shadows
O'er life's declining way,
And the evening twilight gathers
Round our departing day,
Then we shall sit and ponder
On the dim and shadowy past:
Within the heart's still chambers,
The guests will gather fast.

The friends in youth we cherished
Shall come to us once more,
Again to hold communion
As in the days of yore.
They may be stern and sombre?
They may be bright and fair:
But the heart will have its chambers;
The guests will gather there.

How shall it be my sisters?
Who then shall be our guests?
How shall it be, my brother,
When life's shadow on us rests?
Shall we not 'midst the silence,
In accents soft and low,
Then hear familiar voices
And words of long ago.

Shall we not see dear faces,
Sweet smiling as of old,
Til the mists of that still chamber
Are sunset clouds of gold.
When age has cast its shadows
O'er life's declining way
And evening twilight gathers
Round our departing day.

Interesting Selections.

Yeast. Boil six potatoes without the skins; add six tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one quarter pint of brown sugar. Mash the whole, having poured over the mixture a pint of the water in which the potatoes were boiled, scalding hot. When lukewarm add half a pint of yeast. Excellent for biscuit.

To Pickle Cabbage. Quarter them till they are thin enough to let the vinegar strike through; put them down in layers with spice, salt, and vinegar: scald your vinegar as often as is necessary to make them tender.

☞ Hon. Gideon Welles will contribute the next of The Galaxy series of political articles. His paper will appear in the November number of that magazine. It will be a detailed history of the capture of New Orleans, with the purpose of showing that to Farragut, and not Butler, is due the honor of the capture of New Orleans. Mr. Welles also incidentally attacks the pretensions of other military and naval commanders.

☞ In a street car, only one place was vacant between two very voluminous ladies A gentleman presented himself to occupy it, himself of colossal proportions, and looked with anxiety at the meagre space. "You have nothing to seat yourself with, Monsieur," said one of the ladies, making herself as small as possible. "O yes, I have plenty—but I don't know where to put it."

☞ Women as telegraph operators have proved a great success. They send the electric sparks right through a fellow.

☞ Dr. W. H. Searles recommends poultices of tea leaves moistened with hot water, as preferable to all other remedies in the first stage of burns and scalds.

☞ Women's rights may yet aspire to positions in the navy. Lot's wife was an old salt, you know.

☞ A barefooted, bare-headed little boy, astonished a worshipping congregation a few Sundays ago by rushing into the church and exclaiming, "Where's my papa? The pigs are out!"

☞ Some statistician has found that of 1001 young ladies who fainted last year, 997 fell into the arms of gentlemen, three fell on the floor, and one fell into a water-butt.

☞ In reply to a young friend leaving a town because some things in it were not exactly to her taste or content, an old lady of experience said, "My dear, when you have found a place where everybody and everything are always pleasant, and nothing whatever is disagreeable, let me know, and I'll move there too."

☞ A little bit of a thing, who had just got back from a party, was asked by her mamma how she had enjoyed herself. "O, mamma!" she said, "I am so full of happiness—I couldn't be no happier without I was bigger."

☞ The unspoken word never does harm, but what is once uttered cannot be recalled, and no man can foresee its consequences.

☞ A gentleman addressing a passionate love-letter to a lady in the same town, added this curious postscript:—"Please to send a speedy answer, as I have somebody else in my eye."

☞ Good intentions can never justify evil deeds.

Miscellany.

HOW HIS SHIP CAME IN.

I ran across what first struck me as a very singular genius on my road from Springfield to Boston. This was a stout, black-whiskered man who sat immediately in front of me, and who indulged from time to time in the most strange and unaccountable manœuvres. Every now and then he would get up and hurry away to the narrow passage which leads to the door of these drawing-room cars, and when he thought himself secure from observation, would fall to laughing in the most violent manner, and continue the healthful exercise until he was as red in the face as a lobster. As we neared Boston these demonstrations increased in violence, save that the stranger no longer ran away to laugh, but kept his seat and chuckled to himself, with his chin deep down in his shirt collar. But the changes these portmanteaus underwent! He moved them here, there, everywhere; he put them behind him, in front of him, on each side of him. He was evidently getting ready to leave, but as we were yet twenty-five miles from Boston, the idea of such early preparations was ridiculous. If we had entered the city then, the mystery would have remained unsolved, but the stranger at last became so excited that he could keep his seat no longer. Some one must help him and as I was the nearest he selected me.—Suddenly turning, as if I had asked a question, he said, rocking himself in his seat the meantime, and slapping his legs and breathing hard, "Been gone three years! Ah! Yes, been gone in Europe. Folks don't expect me for six months yet, but I got through and started. I telegraphed them at the last station; they've got it by this time." As he said this he rubbed his hands and changed the portmanteau on his left to his right and the one on his right to his left again.

"Got a wife?" said I.

"Yes, and three children," he returned, and got up and folded his overcoat anew, and hung it over the back of the seat.

"You are pretty nervous over the matter, ain't you?" I said, watching his fidgety movements.

"Well, I should think so," he replied; "I hain't slept soundly for a week. And do you know," he went on, glancing around at the passengers and speaking in a low tone. "I am almost certain this train will run off the track and break my neck before I get to Boston. Well the fact is, I have had too much good luck for one man lately. The thing can't last, 'taint natural that it should do so, you know. I've watched it. First it rains, then it shines, then it rains again. It rains so hard that you think it's never going to stop; then it shines so bright that you think it's always going to shine; and just as you're settled in either belief, you are knocked over by a change to show you that you know nothing about it."

"Well, according to the philosophy," said I, "you will continue to have sunshine because you are expected to have a storm.

"It's curious," he returned, "but the only thing which makes me think I will get through safe, is because I think I won't."

"Well, that is curious," said I.

"Yes," he replied. I'm a machinist—made—a discovery—nobody believed in it; spent all my money trying to bring it out—mortgaged my home—all went. Everybody laughed at me—everybody but my wife—spunky little woman—said she would work her fingers off before I should give it up. Went to England, no better luck there; came within an ace of jumping off London bridge. Went into a shop to earn money enough to come home, with; there I met the man I wanted. To make a long story short, I've brought £30,000 home with me and here I am."

"Good for you!" I exclaimed.

"Yes," he said, £30,000; and the best of it is, she don't know anything about it. I've fooled her so often, and disappointed her so much, that I just concluded I would say nothing about this.—When I got my money you had better believe I struck a bee-line for home."

"And now you will make her happy," said I.

"Happy!" he replied, "why you don't know anything about it. She's worked like a dog while I've been gone, trying to support herself and the children decently. They paid her thirteen cents apiece for making coarse shirts; and that's the way she's lived half the time.—She'll come down there to the depot to meet me in a gingham dress, and a shawl a hundred years old, and she'll think she's dressed up. Oh! she won't have no clothes after this—oh, no I guess not!" And with these words, which implied that his wife's wardrobe would soon rival Queen Victoria's, the stranger tore down the passage-way again and getting in his old corner, where he thought himself out of sight, went through the strangest pantomine, laughing, putting his mouth into the drollest shapes and then swinging himself back and forth in the limited space, as if he was "walking down Broadway," a full-rigged metropolitan belle. And so on till we rolled into the depot, and I placed myself on the other car, opposite to the stranger, who, with a portmanteau in each hand, had descended and was standing on the lowest step, ready to jump to the platform. I looked from his face to the faces of the people before us, but saw no sign of recognition. Suddenly he cried, "There they are," and laughed outright, but in a hysterical sort of way, as he looked over the crowd. I followed his eye and saw some distance back, as if crowded out and shouldered away by the well dressed and elbowing throng, a little woman in a faded dress and well-worn hat, with a face almost painful in its intense but hopeful expression, glancing from window to window as the coaches glided in. She had not yet seen the stranger; but a moment after she caught his eye, and in another instant, he had jumped to the platform with his portmanteaus; and making a hole in the crowd pushing one here and there, and running one of his bundles plump into the well-developed stomach of a venerable-looking old gentleman in spectacles, he rushed towards the place where she was standing. I think I never saw a face assume so many different expressions in so short a time as did that little woman while her husband was on his way to her. She didn't look pretty. On the contrary she looked rather plain, but someway I felt a big lump rise in my throat as I watched her; she tried to laugh; but God bless her, how completely she failed in the attempt? Her mouth got into that position, but it never moved after that, save to draw down the corners and quiver, while she blinked her eyes so fast that I suspect she only caught occasional glimpses of the broad-shouldered fellow who elbowed his way so rapidly towards her. And then as he drew close and dropped those everlasting portmanteaus, she turned completely round with her back towards him, and covered her face with her hands. And thus she was when the strong man gathered her up in his arms as if she had been a baby, and held her sobbing to his breast. There was enough gaping at them, heaven knows, and I turned my eyes away a moment and then I saw two boys in threadbare roundabout standing near, wiping their eyes and noses on their little coat sleeves, and bursting out anew at every fresh demonstration on the part of their mother. When I looked at the stranger again he had his hat drawn down over his eyes; but his wife was looking up at him, and it seemed as if the pent up tears of those weary months of waiting were streaming through her eyelids.

MANAGEMENT OF BROOMS.

If brooms are wet in boiling suds once a week, they will become very tough, will not cut a carpet, last much longer, and always sweep like a new broom. A handful or so of salt sprinkled on the carpet will carry the dust along with it and make the carpet look bright and clean. A dusty carpet may be cleaned by setting a pail of cold water out by the door, wet the broom in it, knock it to get off all the drops, sweep a yard or so, then wash the broom as before and sweep again, being careful to shake all the drops off the broom, and not sweep far at a time. If done with care it will clean a carpet very nicely, and you will be surprised at the quantity of dirt in the water. The water may need changing once or twice if the carpet is very dirty. Snow sprinkled over a carpet, and swept off before it has had time to melt or dissolve, is useful for renovating a soiled carpet.—Moistened sawdust is used with good effect by housekeepers. What is said in the following is true: In many town and city houses the apartments receive but one thorough sweeping a week.—Brooms wear out carpets quite as much as feet do.

HIS ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Fred.—Yew aint obleeged to ask the gal's mother if you may go home with her from a party; get the gal's endorsement, and go in; it is proper enough to ask her to take your arm, but you have no right to put your arm around her waist, unless you meet a bear on the road, and then you are supposed to relinquish your hold as soon as the bear gets safely by.

Whip.—You are right—mules live to a lonely age; I have known them myself to live one hundred years, and not half try. You are also right about their being sure-footed; I have known them to kick a boy twice in a second, ten feet off.

Gertrude.—Your inquiry stumps me. The more I think about it, the more I can't tell. As near as I can recollect now, think I don't know. Much might be said both ways; neither may be right. Upon the whole, I think that I would or would'nt, just as I think best or otherwise.

Plutarch.—You're mistaken; the Shakers don't marry. If young Shakers fall in love they are set to weeding onions, which kures forthwithly. I can't tell you how much it takes to join the Shakers, but I believe the expense used to be, including having your hair cut and learning to dance, about sixty-five dollars.

Sportsman.—Your inquiry is not exactly in my line, but I hast to reply as follows, to wit: The right length to cut off a dorg's tail has never been fully discovered, but it is undoubtedly somewhere back of the ears, provided you get the dorg's consent. N. B. It isn't necessary to have the dorg's consent in writing.

Kitty.—To my own personal views in the premises, it appears that the best rat and mice exterminator, is a well regulated Thomas cat; beware of base imitations sold by the respectable druggists.

SUNSHINE.

The sunshine of life is made up of very little beams that are bright all the time. In the nursery, on the playground, and in the schoolroom, there is room all the time for little acts of kindness that cost nothing, but are worth more than gold or silver. To give up something where giving up would prevent unhappiness; to yield, when persisting would chafe and fret others; to go a little around, than come against another; to take an ill word or cross look, rather than resent or return it; these are the ways in which clouds and storms are kept off, and a pleasant, smiling sunshine secured, even in the humble home among very poor people, as in families of higher stations. Much that we term the miseries of life would be avoided by adopting this rule of conduct.

CLOSING CRACKS IN STOVES.

It may be convenient to know a ready method of closing up cracks, which are not uncommon in cast iron stoves; and we are assured that the following receipt is a reliable one. Good wood ashes are to be sifted through a fine seive, to which is added the same quantity of clay, finely pulverized, together with a little salt.—The mixture is to be moistened with water enough to make a paste and the crack of the stove filled with it. This cement does not peal off or break away, and assumes an extreme degree of hardness after being heated. The stove must be cool when the application is made. The same substance may be used in setting in the plates of a stove, or in fitting stoves pipes, serving to render all the joints perfectly tight.

FRICTION MATCHES.

Friction matches are as common as nails, but probably a very small proportion of those who use them understand the principle on which they operate. It is in fact a very simple affair. The tip of the match is a combination of sulphur and phosphorus. The phosphorus ignites at a heat of 120 degrees, which a slight friction will produce, and this in turn ignites the sulphur, which requires 450 or 500 degrees. The flame of the sulphur sets fire to the pine wood of which the match is composed, and which ignites at about 600 degrees. The combination is necessary because the phosphorus alone would not kindle the match, while the sulphur alone would not ignite with the ordinary friction.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

A CONSERVATORY. Colonel A. B. Packard's splendid hot house, on Hancock street, is just completed, and for neatness and beauty we can truly say, that it is not only an ornament to his already handsome estate, but to the surrounding ones. Great taste is displayed not only in the building, but in the arrangement of the flowers, and a pretty little fountain with its misty spray, gives it an Eden-like appearance. How delightful during the coming cold weather, when all without looks dreary and desolate, to walk among the beautiful flowers.

SOLD OUT. Our young and enterprising merchant, James A. McLellan, has sold out his business to two gentlemen, from Boston, who take the store on Monday next.

As a business man, Mr. McLellan is gentlemanly, pleasant and obliging, and has won for himself in this town many firm friends. He has the best wishes of all his acquaintances. Those of our readers desiring bargains, should be on hand to-day, as he is selling his goods very cheap.

NORTH QUINCY. We copy the following sales at this part of the town, from the Boston Journal:—Isaac H. Meserve to Benj. Dodge, 22,500 feet of land, corner of Prospect and Lincoln avenues, Wollaston, for $2250. Joseph H. Beale to Benj. King, 9185 feet of land and buildings corner of Central and Lincoln avenues, Wollaston, for $4400. Isaac B. Jordan and wife to Isabella J., wife of John K. Abbott, 20,000 feet of land on Beach and Cottage streets, Squantum, for $2000. George E. W. Reed to John Preston, an undivided half of 26 acres 12 rods upland and marsh on Dorchester Bay; an undivided half of 3 acres, 1 quarter and 4 rods salt marsh at Farm Bars: an undivided half of 4 acres 1 quarter and 25 rods salt marsh at or near Farm Bars, on Neponset river; an undivided half of 117 1-2 rods at Farm Meadows; an undivided sixth of 3-4 of an acre of salt marsh at Farm Bars, near mouth of Neponset river, Quincy, $15,000.

A FINE SHOT. Wild geese have commenced their flight southward in large numbers, which is a sign that cold, rough weather is near. Mr. Geo. T. Smith, of this place, killed at one shot yesterday morning, three large handsome ones in a pond back of Mr. Nathaniel Eaton's at Mount Wollaston. There were nine in the flock. We learn that he would sell one or more, if any of our citizens wished. Residence near Mr. Urbane Cudworth's.

BRAINTREE. A concert was given at the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, by the musical talent of Braintree, for the benefit of the Chicago sufferers. The Braintree Brass Band favored the audience with some fine music. The Columbian Quartette Club of South Abington, who volunteered their services, sung a number of songs receiving great applause. Sig. Gomez, as usual was extra on the guitar. Some very fine duets, songs and choruses were sung by ladies and gentlemen of Braintree. Little Susie sung in her best style, Miss Mary Thompson likewise; but after all, the best of it was, one hundred and sixty dollars were the net proceeds of the concert, which will be forwarded by the selectmen to Chicago.

The new School House at the south part of the town is soon to be ready for the children. They are already rejoicing in view of it. D.

☞ Geo. H. Locke, Esq., Collector of Taxes, wishes to inform those persons who have not paid their taxes, that he has moved from West Quincy to his new residence on Franklin street, South Quincy, where he will be pleased to see those desiring to pay.

THANKS. William Adams, Esq., Proprietor of the Mount Belknap House, Lake Village, N. H., has our thanks for a fine mess of pickerel. They were very large and handsome, and came to us in good condition.

☞ There was a snow storm at Montreal on Wednesday. A few flakes fell in Boston on Thursday and it was quite cold all day. On Friday, about sunrise, we noticed a little girl passing along our streets barefooted,—it gave us a chill to look at her.

☞ A collection amounting to $733.19, in aid of Chicago, was taken in the Unitarian Church, in this place, on Sunday last.

The Episcopal Church gave $100, and the Orthodox about the same.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTIONS.

The Republican County Convention met at Memorial Hall, in Dedham, on Tuesday last, for the purpose of nominating two County Commissioners, two Special Commissioners, Clerk of the Courts, Sheriff and District Attorney. The Convention was called to order by Henry O. Hildreth of Dedham, Chairman of the County Committee, and Hon. F. A. Hobart of Braintree, was chosen President, and George F. Woodman of West Roxbury, Secretary.

A Committee on Credentials reported that nineteen towns were represented by sixty delegates, and that there was a double delegation from Hyde Park, which was entitled to two delegates, and also a double one from Norfolk.

Considerable time was spent in hearing and discussing the claims of delegates from these two places, and resulted in admitting the bolting delegation from Hyde Park and Norfolk.

An informal ballot was then taken for a County Commissioner for three years, which resulted in no choice. A formal ballot was then taken which resulted as follows:—

Whole number of votes	63
Necessary for a choice	32
David B. Bates had	32
E. S. Beals "	17
John Q. A. Field "	9
Scattering	5

and Mr. Bates was declared to be nominated.

After several ballots, Galen Orr of Needham, was chosen a Commissioner for two years to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Churchill.

Ballots were then taken for Special Commissioners, and Messrs. George P. Morey of Walpole and John Q. A. Field of Quincy were nominated.

On motion of Mr. Jewell of Randolph, Asa French of Braintree was nominated for District Attorney by acclamation; on motion of Mr. Homer of Brookline, Col. John W. Thomas of Dedham, was nominated for Sheriff, and on motion of Mr. Gray of Hyde Park, Erastus Worthington of Dedham, was nominated as Clerk of Courts.

Messrs. H. O. Hildreth of Dedham, C. C. Greenwood of Needham, J. Q. A Lothrop, of Cohasset, W. B. Prescott of West Roxbury, and E. A. Hunt of Weymouth, were elected as a County Committee, when the Convention dissolved.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

As soon as the proceedings in the County Convention closed, the delegates to the Second Norfolk Senatorial Convention assembled for the purpose of nominating a candidate to represent the district in the next Senate. The call having been read by Henry O. Hildreth, Mr. John A. Haven of Dorchester, was chosen President, and George W. Prescott of Quincy, Secretary. A Committee on Credentials reported eight towns represented by twenty-seven delegates. There was a double delegation from Hyde Park, and the same action was taken as to their admission as in the County Convention.

Col. French of Canton, moved that Hon. Thomas L. Wakefield of Dedham, be nominated for Senator by acclamation. Henry H. Faxon, Esq., of this place, seconded the motion and spoke very ably in favor of Wakefield, and he was unanimously declared the nominee.

The following District Committee was then chosen:—Henry L. Pierce, of Dorchester, C. A. Howland of Quincy, J. M. Churchill of Milton, Eliphalet Stone of Dedham, C. C. Greenough of Needham, Theodore Dunn of Dover, and R. C. Wood of Canton.

The Convention was then dissolved.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT. At a meeting, of the Board of Directors of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, held at their office in this town, on the 12th inst., the following resolutions, on the death of their President, Wm. S. Morton, Esq., were passed.

Whereas,—By the mandate of Omnipotence, our late worthy President, William S. Morton, Esq., is removed from this life to a better World,—

Resolved,—That we sorrow at the loss this Board has sustained by the death of Mr. Morton, who has presided over the deliberations of our meetings for near twenty years past, with courtesy, dignity and impartiality. A warm friend and co-worker from the start in advancing the prosperity of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

Resolved,—That we cherish in grateful remembrance, the uniform kindness in all his official relations to us members of this Board. A worthy and honored citizen has passed from earth.

Resolved,—That we deeply sympathize with the family of the deceased in their bereavement, and tender to their acceptance a copy of these Resolutions.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Josh Billings' Farmer's Allminax for 1872, has been received. It is filled with the comic writings of the renowned Josh and must be read to be appreciated.

The November number of Scribner's illustrated monthly is on our table, and to those who are lovers of good and entertaining reading this number offers a rich treat.

Harper's Monthly for November is before us. Its table of contents presents its usual variety of good reading with illustrations. This number concludes the forty-third volume, and the new and beautiful type used for the first time in this number, adds much to its attractiveness.

Frank Leslie's weekly for October 28, contains many illustrations, and an interesting account of scenes during the conflagration of Chicago. The above publications are for sale at Souther's

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, OCT. 17th, 1871.

The great fire in Chicago is at present occupying the minds of our citizens. This grievious calamity, which has nearly swept out of existence the first city of our great West, may be regarded as a national calamity, for its effects will be felt throughout the length and breadth of our land. Here in New York, where so many insurance risks had been taken, the effect has been to depress the stock market, and create a panic, which no one can see the end of,

No sooner did the news reach the city, that thousands of people were hungry and houseless, than all classes set to work and ere thirty hours had gone by, a train was on its way, loaded with provisions and blankets. The Chamber of Commerce has raised $457,000 alone, and other portions of our community are engaged in collecting, so that even in this short time the Empire city has contributed nearly three millions of dollars to the sufferers. The reports from all parts of the country tell how favorably the good work is going on, thousand of dollars reaching the ruined city daily. Truly we are a wonderful people.

This conflagration should teach us a useful lesson, that in a thickly settled town there should not be allowed to be built any wooden buildings.

The Prince Alexis has not yet arrived but is daily expected. A plot has been discovered in the city to assassinate the prince on his arrival. It originated among the Poles, whose hatred to Russia is most abiding. We think the plot has been nipped in the bud.

The Fenians have been kicking up another rumpus, this time at Hudson Bay post. General O'Neil, with thirty men, seized the custom house, but was immediately "gobbled up" by some of the U. S. regulars.

I looked in at our new post office this morning. It begins to look like something definite, the first story above ground being well underway.

The "Bridge" which is to connect the two cities of New York and Brooklyn, is also progressing rapidly, and we begin to look forward with a great deal of eagerness to its completion. The span will be the longest in the world.

In my letter I mentioned an earthquake in New Jersey. It was so reported in all the dailies, but eventually turned out to be caused by an explosion of gunpowder near Wilmington, Delaware.

Yesterday the first race for the Queen's Cup came off. Mr. Ashbury, who speaks so boastingly of taking back the cup to England, had a good chance to study the science of hull-making, as his yacht, the Livonia, was some three miles behind the American yacht, the Columbia.

We have reports from all parts of the West, of great and extensive fires, and it is calculated that fifteen hundred lives have been lost in parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

The weather is cool and pleasant.

LECTURES. Mr. L. S Richards commences his course of lectures on Monday evening next. We learn that many adults have applied for tickets to this interesting course, who could not be accommodated. As the lectures were intended mainly for the younger portion of our citizens, Mr. Richards does not wish to have more tickets out than can be seated, therefore he has been obliged to refuse many. Let those who attend, go early as each lecture will be commenced promptly at half past seven.

SUDDEN DEATH. A telegram announces the death of Rev. George Newcomb, at Beaufort, S. C., of yellow fever. Mr. Newcomb was a native of this place, and only a few weeks since was in Quincy on a visit and preached in two of our churches. He has many warm friends and relatives here, who will miss his social visits, and mourn his sudden departure.

☞ Jerry Marrah of this place was carried to Dedham on Thursday last, having been sentenced to the House of Correction for six months for being a common drunkard. This is his second offence. We learn there are several more in this place, who will have the same winter quarters unless they mend their wayward course.

☞ By the great fires in Michigan the Milwaukie and Detroit railroad company has lost in the one item of fences, over $40,000 worth of property.

Summary Intelligence.

The Cardiff giant, after a long series of thrilling adventures, now lies boxed up in a commission merchant's store in Indianapolis, awaiting the liquidation of $16 charges against him.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

Union Chapel, at Wollaston Heights, was closely packed last Saturday night, with an audience which gathered to hear and see an entertainment, gotten up for the benefit of the Chicago sufferers. As the participants had but one day and two evenings in which to prepare the entertainment, it reflected great credit upon their ability.

It consisted of an opening solo and chorus entitled: "We come again with songs to greet you," followed by a declamation by Master Irving Evans. Then followed tableaux, songs, declamations, &c., for an hour and a half, when the audience adjourned to the Art Gallery, in one of the large upper rooms, where were exhibited many things which were never seen before, and probably never will be seen again.

In the centre of the large table extending the whole length of the room, a large space was reserved for the "dead (cabbage) heads," three or four of which were present On the right was one "dead beet," and a few "small potatoes" which some one remarked represented the people who did not live on the Heights. Another remarkable object was the "Old (coffee) mill "and (tow) "waterfall," The (paper of) Tacks on Tea, which caused so much trouble between England and America, years ago was exhibited, looking as fresh as ever. "Mustard in and Mustard out" (of the box) was one of the chief attractions. Many other important relics were exhibited including a (saw) horse said to be Dexter, but grave doubts were expressed by some of the spectators as to its being original.

The total receipts were $16. All had a good time, and as was promised them in an address before the entertainment opened. "They had all they wanted."

SCICUL.

☞ We have received from Mr. Charles C. Page of Kansas, a former resident of this place, a pair of ears taken from a Jack Rabbit, the largest species of the rabbit family, and is said to be the fastest animal that runs on the prairies. We asked our "devil" if his ears were long enough, and he thought, they were, so we desided to keep them ourselves. They are upwards of five inches in length and are quite pretty.

☞ Rev. E. P. Thwing of Portland, Maine, will preach in the new Orthodox Church to-morrow morning and evening, at the usual service hours. Mr. Thwing is an able preacher and has many warm friends, both in and out of said Church, who will no doubt be pleased to learn that he will be here to-morrow.

☞ Rev. E. A. Perry, recently of Scituate, will preach in the Universalist Church, to-morrow afternoon, at the usual hour.

☞ The Norfolk and Plymouth District Senatorial Labor Reform convention will be held at Torrent Engine Hall, West Hingham, on Tuesday next, at 1 o'clock P. M.

THE LECTURE COURSE.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

After the lecturers already mentioned, on the 4th of January, will follow Hon. Thomas Fitch, member of the United States House of Representatives from Nevada, in the Forty First Congress.—Mark Twain introduced him to a Boston audience, saying. "He is a fascinating speaker" no matter what subject he chooses, whether it be worn or fresh, old or new, he will make his audience think they never listened to anything so delightful before" His theme will be "The Coming Empire," in which he gives a most interesting and graphic description of the Great West, its treasures and resources, and of the wide unbounded future which lies before it. Some of our citizens will know by personal experience, whereof he affirms. Others may be inspired by his discourse to become passengers, next summer, over the great Pacific Railroad.

The course will be concluded on Wednesday evening January 17th, with a dramatic reading by Mr. Wyzeman Marshall, assisted by Miss Lucette Webster. The programme will include selections from Shakespeare, and from other favorite authors and will embrace a variety, ranging from grave to gay, from seriousness to frolic. Mr. Marshall has many friends in Quincy who have seen him on the stage, and know him off of it, and if his readings here does not add numbers to the list, it will belie the high reputation which he has long maintained as an actor and elocutionist.

Will not the people of Quincy give a generous support to this series of lectures, show their public spirit by so doing, and at the same time secure the enjoyment of some pleasant meetings for themselves and their friends. P. B. P.

RESOLUTIONS. At an adjourned meeting of the Board of School Committee held on the 14th inst., Hon. John Q. Adams, presented and read the following Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:—

Resolved,—That the School Committee of Quincy, feel deeply the recent death of their esteemed associate, William S. Morton, not only as a personal bereavement to themselves individually, but also as a public loss to the town of Quincy and to the cause of common School Education in the Commonwealth:

Resolved, — That the kindness and courtesy of his relations with his fellows of the Board, his cordial and unfeigned interest in the happiness and welfare of the children of the Schools, and his constant and unwearied devotion through many years to the advancement of good learning in the town, entitle his memory to the grateful remembrance of his fellow citizens and the affectionate recollection of this Board:

Resolved. — That a copy of these Resolutions be placed upon the record of this Board; and a copy be also transmitted to his bereaved helpmeet with the assurance of our respectful commiseration.

Voted,—That the above be also published in the Quincy Patriot.

A. WELLINGTON, Sec'y.

MERITED DISTINCTION. The well-known Groton Junction, on the great thoroughfare of the Northern Lines to Boston, has ceased to be. With a large and increasing population, proud as well as prosperous, its citizens, in mass meeting assembled, have voted to change the name of their town to "AYER"—after one of the best known men in America, Dr. J. C. AYER, of Lowell—and the legislature of Massachusetts has enacted that decision into law. We commend their choice, for not only is the name short and distinctive, but Dr. AYER'S medicines have made it gratefully known to the ends of the earth. Probably no living man has carried relief to such countless multitudes of the sick as he, and this honor, from his neighbors, tells the estimation in which he is held by those who know him.—Bristol Times.

☞ The Governor has nominated Edward L. Pierce, Esq., of Milton, to the vacant seat of the Superior Court, made by the resignation of Judge Reed of Taunton.

SONG.

The laborer works from day to day,
Struggling hard his bills to pay;
The merchant sits in his easy chair
Counting his golden coins so rare;
The sailor rides o'er the stormy seas;
He tries his shipmates all to please.
Head winds and gales he'll never mind,
A port he is always bound to find.
'Tis a supreme law that all must work,
No man from duty should ever shirk;
The greatest study of man is man,
'Tis true, deny it now who can.
'Tis true that George H. Richards sells
Fine clothing cheap, his suits fit well,
Suits no'obs, splen did, rich and rare,
Buy at Twenty-five Dock Square.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The BOYS then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

Ayer's
Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

Poetry.

NEVER GET DISCOURAGED.

Never get discouraged,
Though your efforts seem to fail;
If right, have faith and patience
And your cause will yet prevail.

The man who goes to battle
With a flinching coward's soul,
Will never wear the laurels
While the years in order roll.

Never get discouraged!—
Put your shoulder to the wheel—
Let your will be like to iron
And your nerves to finest steel.

Let the faltering call you foolish—
Let the weak in heart deride—
If a neighbor stop your progress
Put him gently to the side.

Never get discouraged,
Though the sky seems dark as night,
For the sun will shine to-morrow
And our God will aid the Right.

Farmers' Department.

PLANTING POND-LILIES.

No more beautiful flower lies upon the bosom of our summer water than the pond-lily. It is not fastidious about its bed. It prefers, possibly, a pond through which the water flows gently, but it grows rankly in pools with no outlet, and where the water is very low in the dry season. Many a stagnant pool can be made beautiful with this charming aquatic plant. It is not difficult to transplant, and it is only, perhaps, because it grows often in deep water, that transplanting is not more frequently attempted. The root is often as large as a man's arm, and where it grows in soft mud it is readily taken out with a spade. In the fall the water where it grows is often very low, and it is easily removed. In putting out the roots in artificial ponds it is well to put in a load of river mud, if the bottom is not already sufficiently soft. They will strike root in any soft bottom, and the only precaution necessary is to get them so far into the mud that they will not be washed out during the winter. A pond upon the lawn, or near the farm-house can have no more beautiful drapery than these lilies. They start quite early, and cover the water with their glossy leaves. They begin to bloom in June, and we can gather the flowers until September. The fragrance is grateful to most people, the beauty is admitted by all. No better day's work can be done in October, by the owner of a pond, than to make a plantation of water-lilies.

COOKING POTATOES FOR SWINE.

As the season for digging potatoes is at hand, it is well to consider the most economical mode of dealing with the small ones. Often farmers are so mistaken as to save them for seed; but as the seed is, so will the crop be. Plant small potatoes, and the crop be "small potatoes." Small potatoes may be fed to hogs in such a manner as to return a fair value. But they must not be fed raw. The result of all the experiments we have heard or read of, as well as of those made by ourselves, shows that potatoes are much more profitable when fed cooked than when fed raw. The extra labor and fuel are well paid for. A good plan is to boil them in a large iron kettle set in an archway of rough stone (which economizies fuel), and boil a few bushels at a time. When cooked they are dipped out, with all the water, into a barrel, and a peck of corn-meal mixed with each bushel of potatoes. The meal is thus thoroughly scalded. When the mess is cold, it may be fed. If two barrels are kept, one will be always cool, and will be somewhat fermented, while the other is preparing. We would not advise any warm feed to be given to hogs. It has generally resulted in producing a diseased state of the liver, and consequently unwholesome pork. Fermented food, on the other hand, seems to be agreeable to them and wholesome.—Hearth and Home.

☞ A Lewiston market gardener claims that the time he has bestowed upon his garden this year will pay him $20 a day.

Anecdotes.

"Mother," said a little girl who was engaged in making her doll an apron, "I believe I will be a Duchess when I grow up."

"How do you ever expect to become a duchess, my daughter?" her mother asked.

"Why, by marrying a Dutchman, to be sure," was the reply.

"Mamma," said a wee child, one Sunday evening, after having sat still in the house all day, like a good child, "have I honored you to-day?"

"I don't know," replied the mother; "why do you ask?"

"Because," said the little one, shaking her head sadly, "the Bible says, "Honor thy father and mother, that thy days may be long," and this has been the longest day I ever saw."

During an examination, a medical student being asked the question. "When does mortification set in?" replied:

"When you pop the question and are answered "No."

Mortgagee's Sale.

PURSUANT to a power of Sale, contained in a mortgage deed, made by Caroline J. Plummer and Rufus B. Plummer, in her right to Harris Russell, dated August 29th, 1870, and recorded in the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds, Liber. 397, Fol. 61, for breach of condition and default and non-payment of the same; will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, in Hyde Park, on MONDAY, the 6th day of November, 1871, at half past three o'clock, in the afternoon, all that lot of land in said Hyde Park, with the buildings thereon, containing about 17,420 feet; bounded Southeast by River Street, about one hundred and eight feet ten inches; Southwest by land of Campbell, about one hundred and fifty-two feet eight inches; Northwest, by land now, or lately of Harvey Cook, about one hundred and thirty-seven feet, and Northeast by Perkins Avenue, about one hundred and thirty-nine feet, six inches; being the land, which was conveyed to said Caroline, by E. G. Perkins, by deed recorded in said Registry, Lib. 367, fol. 175—with all improvements thereon, and all right and interest of said mortgagors, in the granted premises, whether at law or in equity—said premises are subject to a prior mortgage, named in said deed of mortgage, and this sale is of said premises subject thereto.

Commissioners' Notice.

To the County Commissioners for the County of Norfolk:

YOUR petitioners, inhabitants of the town of Quincy, would respectfully represent that the public convenience and wants require that a road and highway should be laid out and constructed, beginning at Beale street on Wollaston Heights, and running south along a private way known as Newport Avenue, (and including this) to the land of Hon. Charles Francis Adams, thence continuing in a direct line through the land of said Adams to Adams street, so called, thus making a short and direct way to Quincy village, and so reducing the distance for many of the residents on Wollaston Heights from one and a half miles to a few rods. Your petitioners, (the town having refused to lay out and construct the above) would therefore ask that your Honorable Board would view the premises and locate and construct said road and highway, in accordance with the laws in such cases made and provided. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

G. F. PINKHAM, and 131 others.

NORFOLK, ss.

At a meeting of the County Commissioners, begun and held at Dedham, within and for said County of Norfolk, on the twenty-sixth day of September, A. D. 1871:

ON the Petition aforesaid, Ordered, that the County Commissioners will meet at the Wollaston Station of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, in Quincy, in said County, on MONDAY, the twentieth day of November, A. D., 1871, at nine and one half o'clock, A. M, and thence proceed to view the route described in said petition, and hear and act thereon.

And that an attested copy of said Petition with this order thereon, be served upon the Clerk of the Town of Quincy, thirty days at least, before the time appointed for said view, and also that a like copy be published three weeks successively in the Quincy Patriot, a newspaper printed at Quincy, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before said view, and that like copies be posted up in two or more public places in said Quincy, fourteen days at least before said view; that all persons and corporations interested for or against said petition, may then and there appear and be heard if they see fit.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Poetry.

MAKE HOME HAPPY.

Oh, mother, laugh your merry note,
Be gay and glad, but don't forget
From baby's eyes look out a soul
That claims a home in Eden yet.
More than building showy mansions,
More than dress and fine array,
More than station, power and sway,
Make your homes both neat and tasteful,
Bright and pleasant, always fair,
Where each heart shall rest contented,
Grateful for the beauty there.

More than lofty, swelling titles,
More than fashion's luring glare,
More than Mammon's gilded honors,
More than thoughts can well compare,
See that home is made attractive
By surroundings pure and bright;
Trees arranged with taste and order,
Flowers with all their sweet delight.

Seek to make your home most lovely,
Let it be a smiling spot,
Where, in sweet contentment resting,
Care and sorrow are forgot;
Where the flowers and trees are waving,
Birds will sing their sweetest song;
Where the purest thoughts will linger,
Confidence and love belong.

There each heart will rest contented,
Seldom wishing far to roam,
Or, if roaming, still will cherish,
Memories of that pleasant home.
Such a home makes man the better,
Pure and lasting its control;
Home with bright and pure surroundings,
Leaves its impress on the soul.

White Mountain Cake. Four eggs well beaten, with two cups and a half of white sugar, one heaping cup of butter, one cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, five cups of flour, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one of lemon, a heaping cup of raisins, (whole without stoning,) half a cup of candied orange-peel and citron sliced, half a cup of almond meats sliced. It is a delicious cake, and this amount will make two common-sized loaves.

Miscellany.

LITTLE MILLY.

Milly sat down under the old apple-tree and watched the white, fleecy clouds go gliding along the blue line of the horizon. Overhead there was nothing but the blue sky, full of a soft, warm sunshine that made it very lovely. The wind went and came lazily enough, and the birds sang softly and dreamily in the branches of the apple tree. Milly wondered if they enjoyed the warm, quiet, beautiful day as much as she did just then.

Milly was an orphan. Her father and mother died when she was only three years old. Since their death she had lived with her aunt. I am sorry to tell you that her life was not a happy one. I do not think her aunt meant to be unkind; but very often she used harsh words when kind ones would have been far better. Milly was a delica te child, and the heavy tasks her aunt compelled her to perform were too much for her strength, so that sometimes she had to give up. Then her aunt scolded her, and called her a lazy girl, when the truth was she was tired out. How much she longed for words of kindness, and for the caresses she could just remember from her mother's tender hands! Often she laid awake to think of the fair, loving face that had bent over her little bed in the twilight, when her prayer was said, and kissed her good night. Now no one ever kissed her, or heard her say her simple prayer, and no tender hands smoothed the tangles out of her brown hair; no voice ever touched her heart with the sweet thrill her mother's had done, and no arms held her close in a tender, motherly way. It was very sad, and poor, motherless Milly's heart yearned for the love she had once known with a yearning never to be gratified on earth.

"Milly! Milly!" called the sharp voice of her aunt.

"Oh, dear!" Milly got up slowly, in a tired sort of way, and went toward the house.

"You lazy good-for-nothing!" cried her aunt. "Here I've been wanting you ever so long, and you was down there idling away your time! What do you think'll become of you if you waste the minutes in this way? I'm sure I've done enough for you to deserve your gratitude, and you're as ungrateful a girl as I ever saw."

"Oh, Aunt Mary, I didn't know you wanted me, and I was so tired," Milly said, with her eyes full of tears, for the sharp, unkind words of her aunt went like a knife to her heart.

"Oh, no! Of course not," answered her aunt, in a sneering way; "and didn't want to either, though you might have known there was enough to do, if you'd only have taken the trouble to think about it. I'm sure I can't give you a home and support you in idleness."

"I'm willing to work," answered Milly, in a choking voice; "I don't want to live without doing anything.—What is there for me to do now?"

"Take the pail and bring up water from the brook, for I've got to wash to-morrow," replied her aunt not thinking that a child so young and delicate was unfitted for such a task. "You can put the water in that barrel," and the thoughtless woman entered the house, while Milly took the pail and started for the brook.

She carried the pail filled with water up from the brook and emptied it into the barrel. Then she went back again after another. A sharp pain kept shooting through her heart as she toiled up the steep ascent to the house, with the pail hanging like a leaden weight in her hand; and when it was emptied, she sat down very faint and dizzy, feeling too unwell to go again.

Her aunt came to the door and saw her sitting there with her hand clasped over her heart, and something in the poor, pale face touched her strangely,—it was so sad, so full of the keenest pain!

"Are you not well, Milly?" she asked, in a kinder tone than usual.

"No, I don't feel well, Aunt Mary," Milly answered, her eyes filling with tears as the sound of kind words fell upon her ears.

"You may go up stairs and lay down till supper is ready," her aunt said, and the quick look of thanks that Milly gave her made her resolve to be more like the child's own mother in future.

Milly went up to her little room and laid down on her bed. All the while the pain kept shooting through her heart, and sometimes she had to cry out, it was so sharp. After a while it grew duller, and a heavy, throbbing ache took the place of the quick, keen thrill. Then this died away, and Milly thought she would go to sleep. And when her eyes closed she thought she saw her mother coming towards her through the air. It seemed very real, and Milly's heart gave a great leap, and she cried out in a glad, touching sort of way, "Mamma, oh, mamma!" And she stretched out her hands with a mute yearning to the bright vision, for she longed to lay her head on mamma's breast again, and feel mamma's arm around her, and listen to the dearest of all voices as in the years gone by.

Milly thought that the form came nearer and nearer, while the walls of the room seemed to expand, and all the air grew full of golden sunshine, and birds sang till the breezes that were full of clover-smells and scents of new-mown hay were all astir with beautiful melody. And sweeter than any other sound was the voice that whispered, "Mother's darling," and dearer than all other sights was the face so full of tender love-light; and Milly thought that she never wanted to wake again, if that was dreaming, for mamma," arms held her close, and just as of old she felt mamma's kiss upon her brow.—"Oh, mamma," Milly cried clinging to the neck of her angel mother, "don't leave me any more, for I'm so lonesome without you! Take meback to Heaven with you, for I don't want to live if you can't be with me, miss you so much, and no one kisses or loves me as you do!" And Milly thought her mother kissed her again, and said that she would never leave her darling any more.

"Milly! Milly!" called her aunt, when supper was ready. But Milly did not come, or answer to the call. Another call, but all was still, and the woman went up to the room where Milly slept. There was a cold, white form upon the bed, with a look of deep, touching, quiet peace on the still face; but Milly was not there. She had gone home with mother!

A MIGHTY BIG MIRACLE.

A gentleman once charged his slave, who was setting off for church, to remember the text, and repeat it to him on his return home. But when questioned, Sambo's idea of a "text" seemed very vague. "Well, if you can't tell the text you can surely tell me what the sermon was about," said the master.

"O, yes, massa, I can tell heaps of what it was 'bout," replied Sambo. "It was 'bout when de twel' 'postles was hungry, dere was a mighty mericle worked to feed 'em."

"And what was the miracle?"

"Why, sah, dere was five thousand loaves of bread, and five thousand small fishes fetched 'long by a boy to feed 'em wid!"

"But, Sambo," asked the master, "if there was so much food, where was the miracle?"

"Why, bress yer heart, massa, de mericle was dat de 'postles ate all dat stuff, and didn't bust!" replied Sambo, with triumph in his air.

A great many people who are white, and wiser than Sambo, go to church Sabbath after Sabbath, and year after year, and yet know as little of the Bible as he did. We recently heard of a gentleman who had represented his town in the Legislature, who, in advocating the division of a township, said, "Gentlemen, let us have peace! Our town is very large, and if we cannot agree on a site for the new town-house, let us say as David said to Jonathan when there was strife between their herdsmen, "Let there be no strife between thee and me."

Another, a rich man, who had attended church from his boyhood, in speaking of a painful separation from friends, said, "I felt as Peter did when he said to his Master, "Whither thou goest I will go, where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried!"

Did poor, ignorant Sambo's blunder beat that of the legislator or the rich merchant?

It is not enough to hear or to read carelessly the Word of God. It must be studied and treasured up in the memory. If people choose to be ignorant of the best of books, they should never venture to quote from its pages.

NOBLE AIMS.

Live for something nobler than the mere pleasure of the moment. That which gives us most satisfaction, in the retrospect, is some good deed that we have done. The higher our aims, the more our characters impress; and we must either advance or retrograde; nobody can stand still. If we think only of ourselves, we finally cease even to be happy; the truest felicity is in making sacrifices for those we love; whatever beautifies a home, adds in the long run to happiness, because it refines and elevates. It is an error to suppose that only those things are useful which are practical and material. There must be food for the imagination as well as for the body. As flowers perish if shut out from light and air, so the heart and intellect wilt and die out, if deprived of proper sustenance. The house in which there are no books or pictures is a failure after all; it is in such homes that the best souls perish, and perish, so to speak, of famine.

THE PUZZLED MONK.

"How is the wind, Jack?" asked the captain of a ship, addressing the man at the helm. "North east by north, sir," was the instantaneous answer of the tar. A jocular monk, who was a passenger, drew near the sailor. "My son," said he to him, "I hear thee answer like a demon in the storm. Dost thou know thy prayers as well as the sea compass?" "No," replied Jack, "for I can tell you that I know my compass a great deal better than ever you knew your prayers." "Thou art joking, my son," said the monk. "Quite in earnest," replied Jack; and upon this our tar began as follows:—"North by east, north east," and so on, till he had gone around and come to north again. "Now," said Jack, "it's your turn." The monk recited his pater noster in a very ready manner. "That is clever," observed the son of Neptune. "'Tis my turn now." He went on, "North, north by west," &c., till he came to north again. "Now," said he, with a grin, "give us your prayers backwards." "Backwards! I can't my son. I never learnt it but one way; it is not necessary." "Then," observed the triumphant sailor "I know my compass better than you know your prayers, for I can tell it a thousand ways."

ABOUT ADVERTISING.

You can't eat enough in a week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

People that advertise only once in three months forget that most folks cannot remember anything longer than about seven days.

No bell can ring so loudly as a good advertisement. People will believe what they see rather than what they hear.

Quitting advertisements in dull times is like tearing out a dam because the water is low. Either plan will prevent good times from ever coming.

An Indian once tried the softness of feathers by laying one on a rock and stretching himself upon it. There are some who try the virtue of advertising on the same plan.

It's as true of advertising as of anything else in life, that if it is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well.

Bread is the staff of human life, and advertising is the staff of life in trade.

A simple "card," may profitably stand years without changing; but a sensation advertisement should be changed as often as you can get the printer to do it.

We don't recommend advertising as the best way to get a good wife; but we can recommend it as the best way to get a good trade.

Small advertisements are worth more in proportion than large. If all people were deaf, loud advertisements might be expected to win.

A heavy advertisement once is more than quadrupled in value by a small card published for a few months after, giving your address.

Beware of long, prosy advertisements. If you want people to read them, have them "short and sweet."

Judicious advertising always pays.

Large type is not necessary in an advertisement. Blind folks don't read newspapers.

Never run down your opponent's goods in public. Let him pay for his advertising.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THE ADAMS ACADEMY.

When is the Adams Academy to open? We have heard this question repeatedly asked by citizens of Quincy, as well as by many who are interested in education in other towns of the State. There can be no doubt that such an institution as John Adams wished to secure for us is demanded at the present time. "The great want of America," says President Porter of Yale, "is an organized system of secondary schools. If the tens of millions of dollars that have been wasted, and worse than wasted, in founding superfluous colleges and pretended Universities, had been bestowed in endowing classical schools of the highest order, the colleges themselves and the general education of the country would long ago have been lifted to a higher position." It is certain that President Porter does not overstate the importance of "a classical school of the highest order." There could be few better agencies through which to advance the moral and material interests of this town. The training of such a school would be of high value not only to a few who may desire to enter college, but to many who can command neither the time nor money required for a university course. From the Adams and Woodward schools, in connection with our two libraries, those of our boys and girls who are naturally students will easily gain that undefinable level of intelligence which is called culture. And the contemplated Academy is not without a commercial value. Its usefulness in drawing a desirable class of taxpayers to the town is clearly recognized by the shrewd business men who control the building upon Wollaston Heights. Their circular specifies our free Academy as a peculiar attraction to those seeking suburban homes.

It would seem to be a matter of interest to all the citizens of Quincy that the Adams Academy should open at once, and as soon as possible, achieve a reputation second to none in the State. There is no reason why, in a few years, it should not rank with the classical school at Exeter which draws pupils from all parts of the country, and is a marked source of profit to the town. The broadly democratic character of the management of the Academy will give its success an interest which, so far as our knowledge goes, no other endowed school in the country can claim. For founders of schools generally encumber their trusts with restrictions, and give their control to close corporations, or to selected classes of scholars. John Adams, on the contrary, imposed few conditions, and decided that his school should be forever controlled by the people of Quincy. It is thus freed from trammels which have injured the usefulness of kindred institutions, and may be readily adapted to the changed requirements of a future day.

It may not generally be known that the Adams Library has been removed to the upper story of the Academy Building, thus leaving the lower hall to the sole occupancy of our town books. While we shall soon enjoy the beautiful reading-room which President Adams has given us, we should see that the school he desired to found is established at the earliest practicable day. And we have reason to believe that if an appeal were made to our citizens, either individually or in their collective capacity, the Academy would soon open upon a foundation honorable to the memory of John Adams, and justifying the confidence he felt that his townsmen could appreciate such an institution and manage it to the best advantage.

☞ Rev. E. P. Thwing of Portland, Me., delivered two very able discources in the Orthodox Church in this place, on Sunday last. The audiences were quite large, both morning and evening, and listened with marked attention to the flowing words as they fell from the speaker's lips. As an orator and elocutionist, Mr. Thwing has few his equal in this vicinity.

THE POST OFFICE BURGLARS. The five boys, who were arrested for breaking into and robbing the post office in this town last September, were arraigned on that charge in the United States Circuit Court, in Boston, on Tuesday last, and all of them pleaded guilty. Four of them, Nicholas Elcock, William Sullivan, Frank McDonald, and Thomas Lally were sentenced to Dedham jail for four years. James Daley on account of some mitigating circumstances was given but three years. The Boston Herald says, "their average age is apparently about 18 years and with the exception of Daley, are as hard a looking set of juvenile criminals, as was ever placed in the criminal dock in Boston."

BRAINTREE.

CONCERT. The First Baptist Sabbath School held their usual Monthly Concert last Sabbath evening. The subject was Dress, and the audience was deeply interested in the remarks made by the speakers, and much pleased with the singing by the scholars.

ACCIDENT. On Monday morning last, a son of Mr. Frank Hollis of the south part of the town, aged six years, while climbing upon the staging of a house, in process of building, fell to the ground, breaking his collar bone and otherwise bruising himself. He is now doing as well as can be expected.

BRAINTREE BAND. The Braintree Brass Band paid their compliments to Mr. F. B. Parks, on Monday evening, giving him some of their fine music. He in return invited them in, and very soon spread a fine collation, to which they did ample justice. After visiting other friends they marched to their band room playing No. 15.

AMERICAN ORGAN COMPANY. The large building near the South depot has been secured by this Company and they will commence operations at once. This will bring quite a number of workmen into town and more houses are already called for. Some twenty or more could be sold or let, at once, if we only had them. Capitalists are thinking about building.

PROHIBITORY CONVENTION.

The Prohibitionists of Norfolk county met in convention at Temperance Hall in Dedham, on Tuesday last, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the different county officers to be voted for at the coming election. The convention was called to order by Mr. E. F. Gay of South Dedham. Mr. E. F. Conant of Randolph was chosen President, and A. F. Stevens, Secretary.

The Committee on Credentials reported 11 towns represented by 30 delegates.

The following nominations were made by the convention:

County Commissioners—Willard Gay of Dedham, for 3 years; E. F. Humphrey of Braintree, for 2 years.

Special Commissioners—Charles Winship of Sharon, and E. W. Thayer of Randolph.

Clerk of Courts—R. K. Clifford of Stoughton.

Sheriff—A. B. Shedd of Brookline.

District Attorney—Emery Grover of Needham.

After the appointment of a County Committee the convention dissolved.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION

At the close of the County Convention the delegates to the Second Norfolk Senatorial Convention were called to order, and Hon. Thomas L. Wakefield of Dedham, was nominated as the candidate by acclamation, and after the appointment of a District Committee the convention dissolved.

CONVENTION. At the Republican Councillor Convention for this District, held at North Easton, on Thursday last, Hon. Wm. L. Reed, of Abington, was nominated for that office, after numerous ballots, and much excitement.

CONVENTION. At the Labor Reform Senatorial Convention for Norfolk and Plymouth district, held last Tuesday, W. C. French of Weymouth was the unanimous nominee. He declined and Mr. Martin Lincoln, Esq., of Cohasset was nominated by acclamation.

VALUABLE PROPERTY AT AUCTION. It will be seen by our advertising columns, that a handsome two-story house, on Spear street, will be sold to the highest bidder, on Monday next. The house is in good repair and very pleasantly situated. To any one wishing a fine residence, this sale offers a grand chance, as it will positively be sold.

PEOPLE'S COURSE. As will be seen by a notice in another column, tickets for the People's Lecture Course are now ready and for sale at the store of Mr. J. O. Holden. The speakers and readers who are to appear during the winter are well known, and the announcement of their names, is a guarantee that there will be a large audience.

The old chandelier has been removed and some new jets near the ceiling have been added which lights the hall finely; the ventilation has been decidedly improved; and with the new and comfortable seats a pleasant hour may be passed once a fortnight, in listening to the popular speakers secured for this course.

☞ Rev. Nelson Clark, a former pastor of the Orthodox church, of this town, but more recently of Somerset, has been invited to become pastor of the Congregational church of Rochester, in this State, and is to be installed on Wednesday, November 1.

☞ Prof. Shipman, of Tufts College, will speak in the Universalist Church to-morrow afternoon.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

The Democrats of Norfolk county met in convention at the Phœnix House in Dedham on Tuesday last, for the purpose of nominating candidates for District Attorney, Sheriff, Clerk of Courts, two County Commissioners and two Special Commissioners. Dr. Wm. S. Pattee of Quincy was chosen President, with about a dozen Vice-Presidents and Secretaries.

A Committee on Credentials reported 18 towns represented by 84 delegates.

On motion of D. D. Broadhead of Brookline, a committee was appointed to retire and nominate candidates for the various offices to be filled, for the consideration of the convention, and they reported the following names.

County Commissioners—For 3 years, A. A. Belcher of Randolph; for 2 years, William Aspinwall of Brookline, and each of these was adopted as the nominee of the convention.

Special Commissioners — Franklin Woodside of Weymouth and S. E. Pond of Dedham. These were both adopted as the nominees.

District Attorney—John R. Bullard of Dedham. A motion was made to substitute the name of Edward Avery of Braintree for that of Mr. Bullard, on the ground that Mr. Bullard did not desire to have his name used for any office, but it having been stated that Mr. Avery would not accept the nomination, Hon. Percy Simmons of Hanover was nominated by the Convention.

Clerk of Courts—A. B. Wentworth of Dedham, and he was adopted as the nominee.

Sheriff—A. B. Endicott of Dedham. To this an amendment was proposed, that the name of John W. Thomas of Dedham be substituted, and an amendment to this amendment was proposed, to substitute the name of Charles Hammond of Medfield, when both amendments were rejected and Mr. Endicott was adopted as the nominee of the convention.

Messrs. Charles J. Randall of Wrentham, Waldo Colburn of Dedham, and Bushrod Morse of Sharon, were nominated as Commissioners of Insolvency.

A commitee reported the names of the following as a County Committee: John R. Bullard of Dedham, W. S. Pattee of Quincy, A. T. Pratt of Braintree, A. A. Belcher of Randolph, L. Blake of Wrentham, B. Morse of Sharon and William Aspinwall of Brookline, and these gentlemen were elected, when the convention dissolved.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

In the afternoon the delegates to the Second Norfolk, Senatorial district met at the same place and delegates were called to order by Dr. W. S. Pattee of Quincy, who was chosen President, and Hartford Davenport of Dorchester, Secretary.

A Committee on Credentials reported that there were 6 towns represented by 37 delegates.

On motion of Mr. Vincent of Ward 16, Boston, Hon. Waldo Colburn of Dedham was nominated by acclamation as the candidate of the party for State Senate.

Messrs. A. B. Endicott of Dedham, E. D. Wadsworth of Milton, P. Norton of Dorchester, W. S. Pattee of Quincy, W. W. Brooks of Canton and Mr. Clark of Needham were chosen as a District Committee, and the convention dissolved.

COUNCILLOR CONVENTION.

The delegates from this district met in convention at the Phœnix House the same afternoon, to nominate candidates for the Executive Council. The convention was called to order by Mr. W. W. Brooks of Canton, and he was elected President. On motion of Mr. Hobart of Quincy, Dr. William S. Pattee, was nominated for Councillor by acclamation. The District Committee of last year was re-elected, Mr. Hobart's name being substituted for that of Mr. Eaton, from Quincy, deceased.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

As some of the laborers employed by the company were removing a mound of gravel on the corner of Beale and Norfolk streets, last Friday, they found at the depth of six feet, a large flat stone, and on removing this, a well, some ten or twelve feet deep was discovered.

This well is about eighteen inches in diameter stoned in good shape and well preserved. It must have been built at least a hundred years ago as the earth above it was solid gravel. Mr. Joseph S. Beale, who has owned the land for the past fifty-five years, says that he never heard of it before.

Another important discovery was made last week, this being a ledge of "Wollaston" granite, on the southerly side of the hill, which appears to be capable of furnishing cellar stone, for an indefinite period.

Last Monday, school opened in the new school house on Beale street. Remarks were made by several gentlemen who were present. Twenty-seven scholars were present and this number will be increased to fifty when the private school now in session closes, in about three weeks

Building is progressing rapidly, this fall. Thirteen houses are now underway, and a dozen more will be started the coming month, most of them being built by private individuals for their own occupancy.

Mr. George Souther has sold his estate on Warren Avenue to Mr. Frank C. Litchfield of Southbridge for $4500.

SUICUL.

NOT GONE YET. Our young merchant, J. A. McLellan, has not left yet, and, will be pleased to accommodate his old patrons, a short time longer. The parties from Boston who had bargained for his stock and stand, after spending two days in taking account of stock, backed out, so he continues to keep the store till he can find another purchaser.

Summary Intelligence.

There are now in process of erecting in Fall River sixteen cotton mills to be put in operation this and the coming year, the cost of which will be at least eight millions of dollars.

Five tons of telegraph wire were shipped from Worcester to Chicago on Wednesday, 11th, to repair the wires damaged by the great fire.

In the Wright County, Minn., poor-house is a "living skeleton" who drinks two buckets of water every day.

There were eighty-nine newspaper publishing establishments destroyed by the recent fire at Chicago, including dailies and monthlies.

The Boston, Hartford and Erie railroad has given up the use of kerosene in the cars, and substituted "patent non-explosive mineral sperm oil."

Fifty thousand dollars and all expenses paid is the inducement offered Miss Kellogg to sing in California twenty-eight nights.

The value of school buildings and apparatus destroyed by fire in Chicago is $298,000. Eight school houses were burned.

One lady contributed a parasol in aid of the Chicago sufferers.

Louisville undertakers are selling their summer coffins in order to make way for the "unique and handsome winter styles."

The new Roman Catholic church at Randolph, which was begun two years since, was dedicated on Sunday in the presence of a large assembly.

A DELIGHTFUL TRIP. Rev. Herman Bisbee, of St. Paul, Minn., formerly pastor of the Universalist Church, in this town, and under whose mission the society was so prosperous and united, has been rusticating with his family during the past summer, at the beautiful town of Newport, Vt., at the residence of his wife's father. We learn that Mr. Bisbee has now returned to St. Paul, having rode there with his family in a one horse carriage, a distance of fifteen hundred miles. The carriage held out as well as the horse, and the latter "a Morgan mare, with a sprinkling of French blood in her veins," trotted into the streets of St. Paul, after her achievement, as if she had merely taken a "flyer" from Central Park to Harlem. Mr. Bisbee was forty-five days on the road, and so averaged a little more than thirty-three miles a day. The expense, he says, proved to be the same as by rail—an estimate, we suppose, which omits provisions. These, he adds, were usually excellent, and he was surprised to find so many good hotels in obscure corners of the country.

AID FOR CHICAGO. The collections taken in the St. John's and St. Mary's churches, on the 15th inst., in aid of the Chicago sufferers, amounted to $147.75; which added to the sum collected in the other churches in this place, amounts to over a thousand dollars in cash, to say nothing of the large quantities of clothing and other things which have been contributed.

We also learn from a reliable source that the Rural Lodge of Masons in this place voted on Thursday evening last, one hundred to aid the sufferers of that sad city.

The aggregate receipts at Chicago in cash and by draft for relief of the sufferers, up to the 25th inst., amount to $1,486,986.00.

On and after November 1st, every ton of anthracite coal sold in Philadelphia must contain twenty-two hundred and forty pounds, and fractions of a ton must contain corresponding fractions of twenty-two hundred and forty pounds.

CHICAGO. The Chicago Journal says:—Careful measurements and calculations of the area of the burnt district of the city place its length, from its starting point to its place of ending, at four and a half miles, and its average width a little more than one mile. The number of acres laid waste is not far from 2,300. A pretty careful computation places the number of building of all kinds destroyed at 18,000, of which at least 1,500 were substantial business structures. The actual total of the pecuniary losses is estimated at three hundred million dollars, but no fair estimate that we have yet seen or heard of places the grand total below two hundred million dollars. We still believe the latter will cover all the losses.

Rheumatism is cured by using Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil thoroughly. We do not say it cures "after the joints are turned into a chalky substance;" but its early and faithful use prevents this change.

A St. Louisian who died worth $20,000, left his children $1 apiece.

Marriages.

In Philadelphia, on the 11th inst., by the Rev. Charles H. Payne, D. D., Mr. John A. Newcomb, 2d formerly of this town to Miss Anna A. Russell, of Philadelphia.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 21st inst., Nellie M., daughter of Mr. John F. and Mrs. Catherine Parrott, aged 1 year and 4 months.

In Malden, on the 10th inst., Annie F., daughter of Mr. Francis E. and the late Elvira Clapp, formerly of this town, aged 19 years and 10 months.

PREPARE FOR WINTER. As the cold weather of the past few weeks admonishes us to prepare for what is to come, we call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Fawcett, Hawkes & Co., in another column. They are gentlemen of well established business ability, and perfectly reliable as many of our citizens who have had dealings with them can testify; they also furnished we believe furnaces for the new Orthodox church, St. Mary's church and the Washington school-house in this town. Should any of our comfort loving readers intend to put a furnace or other heating apparatus in their dwellings they will do well to give them a call.

MUTILATED CURRENCY. Secretary Boutwell is about to issue an order concerning the redemption of United States mutilated currency, covering fractional and legal tenders; under which, if more than one-half, a note is presented for redemption it will be received for its full value, and if less than one half, payment will be absolutely refused unless accompanied by positive evidence that the missing portion was destroyed.

☞ Thanksgiving day in New Hampshire is appointed for the 30th of November.

☞ Richard Anderson of New Bedford has a three months old black and tan "pup" which weighs but 1 lb. and 7 oz., and, as the Mercury says, "can be carried in a good sized man's vest pocket."

The "Walter Raleigh grape vine," on Roanoke island, is nearly three hundred years old; and it is said to cover an acre of ground, and that from it last year $3000 worth of wine was made.

SONG.

The laborer works from day to day,
Struggling hard his bills to pay;
The merchant sits in his easy chair
Counting his golden coins so rare;
The sailor rides o'er the stormy seas;
He tries his shipmates all to please,
Head winds and gales he'll never mind,
A port he is always bound to find.
'Tis a supreme law that all must work,
No man from duty should ever shirk;
The greatest study of man is man,
'Tis true, deny it now who can.
'Tis true that George H. Richards sells
Fine clothing cheap, his suits fit well,
Suits nobby, splendid, rich and rare,
Buy at Twenty-five Dock Square.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The Boys then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,

A Splendid Present!
BY BUYING A
Ticket for 25 Cts.
This entitles you to any kind of the above named Pictures, by paying the remaining $3 25, when you will receive your presents and Pictures.
☞ Any one wishing to take their Present at the time they buy their Tickets, can do so by paying the full amount, ($3.50) and hold the Ticket, which will entitle them to their Pictures whenever they are ready to sit for them.
THIS IS NO SHAM AFFAIR, got up by some travelling show to make money and swindle the public, but I do it to ADVERTISE MY BUSINESS, and give the public a better chance to see my work.
I Guarantee Perfect Satisfaction to all.
And the presents are all valuable, ornamental and useful, and are worth not less than $1.50, and from that to $7.00 or $8.00 each.
They consist of Albums, Chromos, Marble Vases, Watch Stands, Card Receivers, and a lot of other pretty things in this line, and also articles in the Dry Goods line, making up a Splendid Assortment of Presents, which will be on exhibition in one of the large windows of DR. NYE'S DENTAL OFFICE.

Taylor's Flour, $10 per Barrel.
We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.
Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

Ayer's
Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.
It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless langour of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."
Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.
Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.
As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

Poetry.

BY THE SEA.

Backward and forward, under the moon,
Swings the tide, in its old-time way;
Never too late, and never too soon;
And evening and morning make the day.

Backward and forward, over the sands,
And over the rocks, to fall and flow;
And this wave has touched a dead man's hands,
And that one has seen a face we know.

They have sped the good ship on her way,
Or buried her deep from love and light;
But here, as they sink at our feet to-day,
Ah, who shall distinguish their voices aright?

For their separate burdens of hope and fear
Are blended now in one solemn tone,
And only this song of the waves I hear,
"For ever and ever His will be done."

Backward and forward, to and fro,
Swings our life in its weary way;
Now at its ebb, and now at its flow:
And evening and morning make the day.

Sorrow and comfort, peace and strife,
Pain and rejoicing, its moments know;
How from the discords of such a life
Shall ever the clear music flow?

Yet to the ear of God it swells,
And to the blessed round the throne,
Sweeter than chime of vesper bells,
"For ever and ever His will be done."

Farmers' Department.

FARM MATTERS IN OCTOBER.

Each month in the year has its special, as well as general duties. The special ones are those which can more appropriately be performed now than at any other time. It is certain that many kinds of work cannot be done while the ground is in a frozen condition.

One of these duties is that of draining lands which are unfit for cultivation in consequence of a surplus of standing water in and upon them.

The importance of drainage is better appreciated than it formally was; indeed many persons believe in it now, who never did before. Some progressive neighbor has placed an example before them, whose excellent results have won them over to the good work.

Another October duty is with regard to manure. We have often stated as our opinion that there is no mode of applying manure to soil, which is so cheap, and at the same time so efficacious, as to apply it in its crudest condition and plunge it under the surface some two to four inches. This opinion was formed from the most careful practice in the employment of manures in various forms and ways.

When ploughing under towards the close of October, it suffers no loss whatever. Whenever the soil becomes sufficiently warm to induce fermentation, the gases thrown off are at once taken up and held by the soil—storing them in fact—for future use. This operation is said also to have a mechanical effect upon the soil, similar to that of yeast in a pan of dough rising in by separating the particles, and thus making it lighter for the roots of plants to travel in, and to admit warmth and air.

If inconvenient to plough under, manure may be taken to the field, placed in a compact heap and covered with loam. It should be placed as near the spot where it is to be used as possible. In this form and place it will be ready for early overhauling in the spring.

These and many other things may be done in the pleasant month of October.—New England Farmer.

GERANIUMS.

The scarlet, white, pink and cherry Geraniums must be pulled up by their roots; all the earth shaken from them; every leaf, bud and delicate shoot cut off, and the whole plant suspended by the roots, with a stout string tied around the stems, to the beams of a frost-proof cellar which will not mould. Here they will live as the bears live upon their own fat,—will thrive on the succulent matter stored up in their branches, and when another spring time has come they will renew their beauty. Scarlet salvias can be packed in dry sand. After their rich blossoms are cut down, take off the branches to the roots and pack away in boxes. Fuchsias can be also kept in sand after all their leaves have fallen; but care must be taken to keep all such plants where they will not mould, as that will destroy their vitality.

Anecdotes.

"When are you going to settle this bill?"

"We've had a settlement already."

"When?"

"The last time you called."

"How so?"

"Didn't I tell you I meant to settle the bill."

"Yes."

"Very well, then: wasn't that a settle meant?"

Jimmy, my boy, take these eggs to the store, and if you can't get a quarter bring them back." The boy went as directed, and came back, saying:

"Father it takes me to make a trade. They all wanted them at forty cents, but I screwed them down to twenty-five cents."

Mortgagee's Sale.

PURSUANT to a power of Sale, contained in a mortgage deed, made by Caroline J. Plummer and Rufus B. Plummer, in her right to Harris Russell, dated August 29th, 1870, and recorded in the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds, Liber. 897, Fol. 61, for breach of condition and default and non-payment of the same; will be sold at Public Auction, on the premises, in Hyde Park, on MONDAY, the 6th day of November, 1871, at half past three o'clock, in the afternoon, all that lot of land in said Hyde Park, with the buildings thereon, containing about 17,420 feet; bounded Southeast by River Street, about one hundred and eight feet ten inches; Southwest by land of Campbell, about one hundred and fifty-two feet eight inches; Northwest, by land now, or lately of Harvey Cook, about one hundred and thirty-seven feet, and Northeast by Perkins Avenue, about one hundred and thirty-nine feet, six inches; being the land, which was conveyed to said Caroline, by E. G. Perkins, by deed recorded in said Registry, Lib. 367, fol. 175—with all improvements thereon, and all right and interest of said mortgagors, in the granted premises, whether at law or in equity—said premises are subject to a prior mortgage, named in said deed of mortgage, and this sale is of said premises subject thereto.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d. We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

THE HALL
TREADLE!

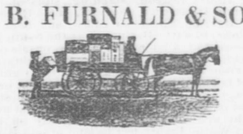

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

KEATING & SPEAR'S
Furniture Rooms, who are the agents for Quincy.

K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE
34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Blains, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

SUPPLEMENT.

ONWARD.

Onward—onward! slowly and steady;
Be each footprint firm and deep,
Bear your form erectly, nobly,
While the narrow path you keep.
Do the work which God has given you,
Be your calling what it may;
Bury not, nor hoard your talents,
Labor with them on your way.

Onward—onward! look not backward;
Stop not to regret the past,
Nor upon its joys to linger—
On! your sands are running fast,
Take from memory what can aid you—
Let oblivion have the rest;
Be whate'er your heart enshrineth,
Be the purest and the best.

Onward—onward! look not round you,
At the laborers by your side!
If you pause in idle dreamings,
From the path your foot will slide,
Yet help on your feeble brother,
If he faint in doubt and fear,
Let your love his spirit strengthen,
Let your faith his spirit cheer.

Onward! onward! look beyond you,
Keep the beacon light in view;
Let no idle ignis fatus
Lure you from the safe and true.
Onward, with your heart ennobling,
Soul refining more and more,
Till at the gate of Heaven
Drop the burthen that it bore.

BE HAPPY.

A cheerful temper, a kindly heart, and a courteous tongue, can not be too carefully or too sedulously cultivated. On the other hand, a disposition to be gloomy and captious, to be bitter and ill-natured, to be cynical and slanderous, can not be too cautiously avoided. The one habit, too, is as apt to grow and become powerful as the other. If we permit ourselves to look constantly on the dark side, and to view everything with distrust and jealously, we shall seldom be able to realize and enjoy anything that is bright, beautiful, kindly or generous. There is, moreover, nothing so calculated to impair health, deface beauty, and take away from the human countenance all those rosy, shining lights which are admirably suited to brighten and adorn, as a disposition to fret, vex, and be miserable. The soul is thus reflected through the human countenance, just as it is often mirrored in the eye.

STARTING IN LIFE.

No young man who desires to succeed in business has any time to lose in shuffling about in experimental clerkship; and after finishing his school education the sooner he makes choice of his business for life, and sets himself at work to learn and become successfully established, the better. No young man can afford to make a mistake in his choice of occupation; the first choice should be the true one. And for this reason we would say to a young man in regard to routine clerkship, by no means accept a place of that kind, not even if the salary is large; it may seem large at first, but there can be no compensation to a young man for the loss of time. Indeed, we are sincerely of the opinion that a young man at the start, had better work for nothing or even pay for the privilege of going into an establishment where he can learn a good business, than to take one of these clerkships at any price.

HARD ON THE PAINTER.

A painter was employed in painting a West India ship in a river, suspended on a stage under the ship's stern. The captain, who had just got alongside for the purpose of going on shore, ordered the boy to let go the painter (the rope which makes fast the boat.) The boy instantly went aft, and let go the rope by which the painter's stage was held. The captain, surprised at the boy's delay, cried out, "you lazy dog, why don't you let go the painter?" The boy replied, "He's gone, sir, pots and all."

THE FIRST BUTTON MAKER. The first manufacturer of buttons in the United States was Samuel Williston. While he was dragging along as a country storekeeper—his eyes having failed him while studying for the ministry—his wife bethought her that she could cover by hand the wooden buttons of the time, and thus earn an honest penny. From this the couple advanced in their ambition until they had perfected machinery for covering buttons, the first employed for the purpose in the United States.—From this sprang an immense factory and then others. His factories are still running at Easthampton, coining wealth for the proprietors, and known to every dealer in buttons in the world over. He is now between 70 and 80 years of age, is worth five or six millions dollars, and has given $400,000 to Easthampton for a seminary and for churches, $200,000 to South Hadley Female Seminary, and $200,000 to Amherst College, besides lesser gifts.

HIGH HEELS.

These little high heels, which are attached to all the modish shoes and boots of our girls, are very pretty to look at, but they don't bear reflecting upon. For, like a great many things pleasant to the eye, their end is destruction, the destruction of the shapeliness of the foot. An English journal is the last protester against high heels. It says that "the English foot is deformed enough at best, without adding to its ugliness by the unnatural and cruel forcing of the foot by the use of extremely high heels into a shape and position it was never meant to occupy. That strikes us as a bold sentence for a newspaper desirous of circulation in British families. The idea of so insultingly taking it for granted that "the English foot is deformed enough at best!" Wherever there is a young lady in the empire that reads that libel on her understanding, there will be found a coaxing voice begging papa to stop this horrid paper. The usefulness of the warnings and reproofs of the journal that, doubtless, meant well, were thrown on stubborn soil, by reason of the unfortunate opening sentence. But, over here, where the American foot is a miracle of beauty at its worst, the eyes appertaining to the feet can read calmly what the young Britisher in anger would refuse to read at all. So let the American girl whose foot is pretty, and she knows it, and desires to keep it so, be less ambitiously heeled. She cannot have her cake and eat it. If the heels of her boots must be wonderfully high, then her incased feet must grow wonderfully deformed. When the heel is so elevated, the front part of the foot is put in an uncomfortable position by the great weight thrown upon it, while those bones which act conjunctively with the higher parts of the leg also suffer. In time it destroys the natural shape of the ankle and calf, and thus to a great extent mars the beauty of a member whose beauty should certainly be preserved.—Albany Evening Journal.

THE VOICE.

The most beautiful and touching instrument which man has received from the hands of his Maker is the voice. Through words he can impart life and signification to his melodies; he can tell forth the most secret feelings of the heart, awaken every passion into living reality, and powerfully vibrate all the chords of the soul. What joyful sensations can not the simple song of the shepherdess of the Alps inspire! If such be the case, how much greater must be the effect produced by a cultivated singer, if his song be enlivened by art and regulated by fancy—we say, regulated by fancy—for how often do singers, betrayed by vanity and affectation, overstep the limits marked out by nature.

A HAPPY WOMAN.

A happy woman! Is she not the very sparkle and sunshine of life? A woman who is happy because she can't help it—whose smile even the coldest sprinkle of misfortune cannot dampen. Men make a terrible mistake when they marry for beauty, for talent, or for style; the sweetest wives are those who possess the magic secret of being contented under any circumstances. Rich or poor, high or low, it makes no difference; the bright little fountain of joy bubbles up just as musically in their hearts.

☞ One of those odd bits of wit that get detached from books and float about the columns of country papers is worth preserving. It is the definition of a bachelor as "a man who has missed the opportunity of making a woman wretched." Would it not be more in accordance, however, with common sense and common experience to reverse the epigram and define an old maid as "a woman who had missed the opportunity of making a man insufferably happy?"

A PLEASING EXPERIMENT. To take a coin out of a plate of water without wetting the fingers, a plate is filled with water, to the depth of about a quarter of an inch; a coin is then placed in the water. A piece of paper is lighted, put whilst burning, on the surface of the water, and covered with a tumbler, when, as the paper burns under the tumbler, the water will rush up under the tumbler and leave the coin in the plate, when it may be taken up without wetting the fingers.

The public pleasure grounds within London now comprise about thirty-five hundred acres, while those in the suburbs amount to ten thousand acres more. Of the former some fourteen hundred acres are in public squares.

An enterprising Yankee is travelling around among the negroes in Florida selling them a peculiar kind of oil, warranted to make their hair grow a foot in length and as straight as a white man's.

Plainfield, N. J., with a population of 6,000 souls, has fifteen church edifices.

THE YANKEE AND DUTCHMAN.

A Yankee peddler, on his way to the West, with a two-horse load of notions, put up at the house of an honest Dutchman, between Harrisburg and Wheeling, and as it happened, was detained there three or four days by a heavy rain which made the roads and streams impassable. At last the sky brightened up and he hitched to, but when the reckoning came to be paid, which was ten dollars, Jonathan requested the host to score it until he returned home from his voyage, promising very honestly to discharge it then. This did not suit the Dutchman, however who insisted on the cash, which was at last reluctantly paid him. It was then the custom, as it is now, to treat a traveler upon payment of his bill, and the tavern-keeper was never backward in following the custom. But on handling out a mug of clear cider, Jonathan remarked shrewdly that it would make fine wine, and said he had a secret by which through a short process he could convert cider into the best wine.

This put Mynheer on nettles—possess it he must—so finely he took the Yankee up at his offer of putting the cider into the process of wine making, for ten dollars down, and fifty more when he returned, if it succeeded to the landlord's mind. Jonathan was accordingly conducted to the cellar, and having procured a half-inch auger, bored a hole in one end of a hogshead of cider and directed Mynheer to apply his thumb to it, while he bored a hole in the other end, and then ordered him to stretch his other arm so as to cover that also. Having thus got the unsuspecting Dutchman into business, he directed him to remain so until he cut two spiggots for the holes, and walking out to his wagon, jumped in and was off, leaving his credulous friend to make wine of his cider the best way he could, and get the ten dollars when he caught him.

WE FADE.

As the trials of life thicken, and the dreams of other days fade one by one in the deep vista of disappointed hope, the heart grows weary of the struggle, and we begin to realize our insignificance. Those who have climbed to the pinnacle of fame, or revel in luxury and wealth, go to the grave at last with the poor mendicant who begs by the wayside, and their names are soon forgotten. Generation after generation, says an eloquent writer, have felt as we feel, and their fellows were as active in live as ours are now. They pass away as a vapor, while Nature wore the same aspect of beauty as when the Creator commanded her to be. And so it shall be when we are gone. The heavens will be as bright over our graves as they are now around our path; the world will have the same attraction for offsprings yet unborn that it had once for ourselves, and that it has now for our children.

Taylor's Flour, $10 per Barrel.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

Poetry.

SABBATH EVENING.

Is there a time when moments flow
More lovely than all beside?
It is of all the times below,
A Sabbath eve in summer tide.

O! then the setting sun smiles fair,
And all below, and all above,
The different forms of nature wear
One universal garb of love.

And then the peace that Jesus beams,
The life of grace, the death of sin,
With nature's placid woods and streams,
Is peace without, and peace within.

Delightful scene! a world at rest,
A God all love, no grief nor fear,
A Heavenly hope, a peaceful breast,
A smile unsullied by a tear.

If heaven be ever felt below,
A scene so heavenly, sure, as this
May cause a heart on earth to know
Some foretaste of celestial bliss.

Delightful hour! how soon will night
Spread her dark mantle o'er thy reign;
And morrow's quick returning light
Must call us to the world again.

Yet will there dawn at last a day,
A Sun that never sets shall rise;
Night will not veil his ceaseless ray,
The heavenly Sabbath never dies!

Interesting Selections.

Spiced Apples. Eight pounds of pared apples, four pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, one ounce stick cinnamon, half-ounce of cloves. Boil the sugar, vinegar, and spices together; put in the apples when boiling, and let them remain until tender (about twenty minutes.) Take them out, and put them in a jar. Boil down the sirup until it is thick, and pour it over.

Split Rolls. One egg well beaten; one tablespoonful sugar; one yeast cake, dissolved in a cup of warm milk; two teaspoons salt; flour enough to make a stiff batter; set to rise; when risen work in a large spoonful of butter and flour enough to roll; roll out an inch thick; spread over with butter or lard; fold in half; cut with biscuit cutter; let rise and bake.

☞ One great trouble in a printing office is the indistinctness with which proper names are written, and many a man finds fault because his name is printed wrong when the fact was that the compositor was obliged to guess at the name. Let those who "write for the papers" take particular pains to write proper names very legibly.

Pretty but Useless. As a fashionable dressed young lady passed some gentlemen, the other day, one of them raised his hat, whereupon another, struck by the fine appearance of the lady, made some inquiries concerning her, and was answered thus: "She makes a pretty ornament in her father's house, but otherwise is of no use."

THE BOGUS CHECK.

A day or two ago a talented young lawyer of St. Louis, whose name is not Smith, and whose briefs have been like angels' visits, was delighted by finding in his office a richly dressed lady, who announced her desire to employ him professionally. With a beaming smile that could hardly be restrained from bursting into a full-blown laugh, the young Blackstone handed the lady a cushioned armchair, and assured her that he was "entirely and devotedly at her service."

Seating herself in the proffered office chair, the lady ungloved a small white hand, that literally glistened with diamonds, and applied a scented handkerchief to her lips, blushed, and, casting her eyes upon the floor, said:

"My business is very particular—it is—pardon me, sir, but you will not betray me!"

"Betray you? Not for the world, madam. You can confide in me with the same reliance as in a priest at the confessional."

"The fact is—I want—that is, I have been unfortunate in my marriage relations."

The eyes of the lawyer glistened with pleasure, and, drawing his chair close to the side of the lady, remarked:—

"I see—I see—you want a divorce.—I am just the man to get it for you. I am perfectly au fait in matters of this kind, although I never had a case in court. How long have you been married?"

"Nine years."

"Nine years! You must have been very young when you entered the blissful—I mean miserable state."

"I was a mere child—a foolish, inexperienced school girl. A doting mother placed me in the arms of a man old enough to be my father; but he was rich, and for two or three years I did not know the difference—I was as happy as though my husband had been twenty years younger. But association with other married women opened my eyes, and I became wretched. I pined for—well, a heart that was more congenial with my own. A man of your age, now, would have suited me better."

"Exactly so!" exclaimed the lawyer, rubbing his hands and twisting his incipient moustache. "But your sufferings will soon terminate; I will get you a divorce, and then—"

"O dear me!—and then—but I must not be too sanguine. My husband is very rich, and he will never permit me to get a divorce if he can help it,"

"Madam, you don't know the law—its majesty—its glorious certainty—its magnanimity. Consider yourself divorced, and rest easy."

"Well, sir, how shall I proceed?'

"Let me see—in the first place give me a statement of your grievances."

"That would take a whole week.—You can imagine what a woman like me must suffer with such a husband."

"Yes, yes—cruel and barbarous treatment, condition intolerable—neglect and all that sort of thing. I will just jot down a few of the items. Your name is—"

"Mrs.——You must know my husband."

"What, the merchant? He's rich as Crœsus!"

"Yes, he's rich; but I don't care for that; I want a divorce."

The lawyer wrote down a sketch of the lady's matrimonial infelicities, and again assured her that he would have no difficulty in procuring a divorce, with at least ten thousand dollars alimony.

"How much are you going to charge me for making me so happy?" asked the lady.

"Well, I ought to charge you a thousand dollars, but, out of consideration for your sufferings, I will only take a retainer of one hundred dollars, and when it is accomplished you will increase it to five hundred dollars."

"That is extremely reasonable. I have no change about me now. Oh, yes, here is a check for two hundred dollars that my husband gave me to go shopping. I will only want half of it to-day. Will you get it cashed for me?"

"It is after bank hours, but the check is all right. I will give one hundred for your shopping and keep the check."

The lawyer had that day received a remittance of a hundred dollars from his father, and handed it over to the lady, and placing his check in his pocketbook, bowed his client to the door. He was exceedingly happy at his good fortune, and that night dreamed of angelic clients, sensational divorce cases, and a huge pile of one hundred-dollar bills.

The next morning he went to the bank to get his check cashed, and was thunderstruck when the teller informed him that the name of Mr.—— was forged.—Indignant at the though that his fair client had been guilty of so base a crime forging her husband's name, he hurried to the store of Mr.—— with the intention of exposing the lady. He was still more astonished when Mr.—— informed him that he was a widower, and had not been blessed with a wife for more than ten years.

Young Blackstone was seized with a fit of melancholy, which still afflicts him, for all his efforts to find the fair swindler have proved unavailing. He has come to the conclusion to have nothing to do with divorce cases, and has written to his father to send him another one hundred dollar bill to replace the one he gave his client for a bogus check.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

New York, Oct. 25, 1871.

The great sensation of the present week was the appearance of Mad'lle Nillson in Opera. She appeared on Monday evening in "Lucia di Lammermoor" at the Academy of Music, and created a great a furore in opera, as she did months ago in the concert room.

The races between the English yacht Livonia, and the American yachts for the Queen's cup, won by the American years ago, has resulted in an overwhelming defeat of Mr. John Bull, for the Livonia, won but one race out of five, the Columbia and the Sappho, respectively, winning two races each.

Yesterday, young Bennett sailed his staunch yacht, the Dauntless against the Livonia, and won with ease.

The political cauldron is boiling over with candidates and parties. We have the straight Democratic ticket, Tammany Hall; the Reform Democracy; the Greeley Republicans; the Murphy Republicans; and a half dozen other organizations, who are willing to feed at the public crib.

The contributions for the sufferers in Chicago still keep coming in every day, bringing something substantial for the sufferers. The fire fiend has been busy in this State, burning over a large extent of country, in Orange County. Luckily we are having a heavy rain to-day, which will doubtless put a stop to the flames.

There was commenced this morning a suit in equity against Tweed, Ingersoll and Garvey, to recover monies said to have been stolen from the city treasury. The bail has been fixed at two million dollars. The prosecution will take place in another county, as the people begin to be of the opinion that Judge Barnard is somewhat "shaky."

The trial of Rosenzweig, the abortionist of trunk fame, who killed Alice Bowlsby, was commenced this morning. The impaneling of a jury was the only thing done to-day.

We have a cable dispatch that the Count de Paris is dying.

There has been a fearful riot in Los Angelos, California. An officer attempted to arrest a Chinaman, when he was shot dead. His friends, exasperated by his death, made a deadly onslaught on the Chinamen, and the result was that fifteen of the "heathen Chinee" were sent to the shades.

This forenoon a car driver on the 42d St. line was pulled over the dash-board by the horses and the car passed over his body. By a similar accident a driver on a Broadway stage met his death.

Coal has declined in price, in spite of the efforts of speculators to inflate it.

I show a comparison; Grate, Sept. $5.16 1-2. Oct. $4.30. Stove Sept. $6.02 1-2. Oct. $5.50. This is at the wholesale price. Gold is easier, 111 5-8, being the closing quotation.

The Emperor of Brazil has appointed Senor Ituba arbitrator in the Alabama claims which makes the commission complete.

☞ A darkey prisoner in Georgia ingeniously remarked to the jailer, "Oh, look at dat snake dar!"—and ran like the bright-eyed gazelle. Neither snake nor prisoner have been seen since.

☞ Excess of ceremony shows want of breeding.

KEEP STRAIGHT AHEAD.

Pay no attention to slanderers or gossip-mongers. Keep straight on in your course, and let their backbitings die the death of neglect. What is the use of laying awake nights, brooding over the remark of some false friend, that runs through your brain like forked lightning? What's the use of getting into a worry and fret over gossip that has been set afloat to your disadvantage, by some meddlesome busybody, who has more time than character. These things can't possibly injure you, unless, indeed, you take notice of them, and in combatting them give them character and standing. If what is said about you is true, set yourself right at once; if it be false, let it go for what it will fetch. If a bee stings you, would you go to the hive and destroy it? Would not a thousand come upon you? It is wisdom to say little respecting the injuries you have received. We are generally losers, in the end, if we stop to refute all the backbitings and gossipings we may hear by the way. They are annoying, it is true, but not dangerous as long as we do not stop to expostulate and scold. Our characters are formed and sustained by onrselves, and not by others. Let us always bear in mind that "calumniators may usually be trusted to time and the slow but steady justice of public opinion."

A "HEATER."

The Helena (Ark.) Gazette tells a story of a young man of that city who spent a few months in St. Louis last winter. It says that one cold day he walked into the Southern Hotel, and looking in vain for a stove, asked the clerk if there was no place where he could warm himself. The clerk, smiling urbanely, escorted the colonel to a register, and told him to stand on the grate and he would soon get warm. The "colonel" was much pleased. Later in the day, while perambulating about the city, becoming rather chilly, he espied a coal grate in the sidewalk. Here, he thought, was another "heater," and he would improve the opportunity by warming his feet. A few minutes later a passer-by heard him ejaculate; "These things may do very well for a hotel, but they ain't worth a picayune to warm the city."

TIRED OF WAITING.

A short time ago in Delaware county a quaker lady, a maiden who had reached the age of sixty, accepted the offer of a man who belonged to the "world's people" and the Presbyterian church, and began to prepare for her wedding. As usual, a delegation of friends from her meeting waited on her and remonstrated with her for marrying out of meeting. The bride elect heard the visitors patiently, and then said:—

"Look here! I've been waiting just sixty years for the meeting to marry me; and if the meeting don't like me to marry out of it, why don't the meeting bring along its boys?"

That was conclusive, and the delegation merely replied "Farewell!" and vanished.

BEEN TO TELL HIS WIFE.

A gentleman was once dining with a friend, when a most dreadful storm arose. In hopes of an abatement, the entertainment was prolonged to the latest possible hour. At length it was over, still the storm showed no signs of ceasing, but, on the contrary, grew worse and worse. The host insisted on his guest's accepting of a lodging for the night, in view of the impossibility of reaching his home. The guest complied, but in a few minutes was missed from the parlor. In half an hour he re-appeared, drenched with rain.

"Where in heaven's name have you been?" asked the host, viewing the singular object, which looked like a dog around the paws and a weeping willow around the head.

"I," said he, quietly shaking off the water, "I have been at home to tell my wife that, as it was such a night, I shall not return."

☞ Stand by your colors. "That's all very well," says Mrs. Midgett, "but suppose they don't stand by you? This plaguy calico that was as gorgeous as a rainbow when I bought it last week, is now as white as a sheet. Stand by your colors, indeed—stand, I suppose, in the bottom of a washtub."

SATURDAY, NOV. 4, 1871

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

LECTURES. The first entertainment by the People's Course, commences on Thursday evening next, by the celebrated humorist and singer, H. B. Barnabee, assisted by Howard M. Dowe. A full house is expected. About four hundred tickets have been sold.

SCIENCES. The second of the course of lectures given by L. S. Richards, Esq. on Sciences, was very largely attended on Monday evening last. We are pleased to say, that Mr. Richards did exceedingly well on this occasion,—improving in many respects on his first lecture. The task is arduous, and requires considerable study and practice, and we are gratified to find him so well versed in his subject.

A FINE CONCERT. The concert given by Paul Revere Post, at the Town Hall, on Friday evening, was a very fine affair. Seldom have we heard such good singing and excellent instrumental music, as on that occasion. We were sorry to see so few of our citizens present to enjoy it.

☞ The Republican caucus will be held at the Town Hall, this evening. The Democrats nominated by acclamation on Thursday evening, John Quincy Adams, Esq., as their candidate for Representative to the next General Court.

The Annual State election takes place on Tuesday next.

ACCIDENT. A little girl, named Alice Brown, was knocked down and run over by a horse on Thursday afternoon, on Elm Street. She was conveyed to her residence, by the young lad who was driving, and we learn that she was fortunately but slightly injured.

☞ An estate on Spear Street, left to the town by the late Dr. Woodward, was sold at auction on Monday last, by Jos. W. Lombard, to Mrs. Lydia Averill for $3,100.

Mr. Lombard sells on Monday next, at Squantum, a variety of personal property belonging to Capt. John R. Pratt.

THANKSGIVING DAY. Gov. Claflin has appointed Thursday, the 30th day of November, as the annual Thanksgiving in this Commonwealth. Gov. Jewell, of Connecticut, has followed Governor Claflin, in appointing the same day. Thanksgiving in New York, is to be observed on the 23d. Rhode Island, the 30th.

☞ William M. Evarts and Benjamin R. Curtis have been appointed counsel on the part of the United States to the Geneva Commission. Caleb Cushing was appointed some time ago, so that the legal force to advise and assist Mr. Charles Francis Adams will consist of the three ablest lawyers on matters of international polity to be found, probably, in the Union.—New York Herald.

☞ Virginia papers report the tobacco crop inferior in quality and short in quantity, but those who want good cigars will find them at C. P. Bolin's, corner of Hancock and School streets, at reduced prices.

CRYSTAL WEDDING. A pleasant and quite a numerous party of relatives, friends and neighbors met at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Berry, in Charlestown, on Friday evening of last week, to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. The arrangements had been pleasantly planned for the occasion, but owing to the weather, were not fully carried out, but were well enjoyed by those who were present. The surprise was as complete as could be desired. Many beautiful presents were bestowed, and after spending a few hours in social enjoyment, the party separated, leaving the happy couple many pleasant memories to cherish. Mr. and Mrs. Berry were former residents of this town.

SQUANTUM. The Squantum Land Associates have sold 11 lots of land on Beach and Maple avenues, Pine and Spruce streets, for $3500.

Mrs. Charles A. Green, sold 24,000 feet of land corner of Green and Ocean streets to Granville Perry, for $36,000.

NEW RAILROAD. A new road in Dorchester, is under contract and will be finished by spring. It is a branch of the Old Colony, about 2 1-2 miles long, in the form of a bow. It will start from Harrison square and go to the west; cross Dorchester avenue just south of Field's Corner; then Park avenue; have a station at Freeman street; another at Melville avenue; then making a semi-circular sweep it will come back to Dorchester avenue, at the junction of Ashmont street, and go under both of them; cross Codman street a few rods north of Stoughton intermediate school; go under Adams street, and after passing through the southerly part of Cedar Grove Cemetery connect with and enter upon Dorchester & Milton Branch Railroad.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

One hundred and forty was the attendance at the Sunday School Concert, last Sunday evening. The subject was Character. According to the usual custom each scholar repeated a verse relating to the subject. Remarks were made by Mr. Sprague the Superintendent, M. Emery of Quincy and Mr. Emery the Superintendent of the North End Mission School, who gave an interesting account of that institution.

The Secretary reported the number of the school to be 65; average attendance for October 55. Balance in the Treasury $28.72.

Singing school under the direction of Mr. W. W. Bemis commenced last Tuesday evening. Fifty-seven scholars were present. SUICUL.

THE QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY.

This Society has been in successful operation for a great many years. Its object is to furnish food and fuel to needy and deserving families; and a considerable number of families are now the annual recipients of its bounty. It is supported mainly by the annual contributions of its members; each gentleman paying the sum of one dollar, and each lady twenty-five cents into its treasury. It is also the occasional recipient of large donations. The late Lemuel Brackett, Esq., during the latter years of his life, was in the habit of making generous contributions; and, since his death, his heirs have followed out his wishes in continuing them. The recent gift of Mr. Henry H. Faxon, is but one of a series of like benefactions. Mrs. Charles Francis Adams should also be mentioned, as a generous donor.

This Society ought to be much larger than it is. It is wholly unsectarian in its composition, in its aims, and in its methods. There is no good reason why it should not embrace a large proportion of the men and women in town among its members.

The Annual Meeting of the Society will be held at the house of Mr. Benj. Curtis on Monday evening, Nov. 6 at 7 o'clock. It is a meeting of members, for the election of officers, and other important business. It is hoped that the Society will be well represented there.

BEALE STREET.

From a memorandum in the handwriting of Judge Edmund Quincy, who died in London, in 1738, it appears that in 1735, he superintended running the lines between the farms of "Mr. John Bass,—and Mr. John Beale." They are run from a white oak stump.

Some very old apple trees near Beale street, indicate the location of an ancient farm, to which the well recently discovered at Wollaston heights, may have belonged. It was probably the homestead of the Mr. John Beale, the boundaries of which were determined in 1735. The ownership of the farm may have an earlier date, as the name of Beale occurs among those of the witnesses to a will written by the father of Judge Edmund Quincy, in December, 1697.

A. SUBSCRIBER.

Quincy, Oct. 30, 1871.

President's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The process of the seasons has again enabled the husbandman to garner the fruits of successful toil. Industry has been generally well rewarded. We are at peace with all nations and tranquillity, with few exceptions, prevails at home. Within the past year we have been in the main free from ills which elsewhere have effected our kind. If some of us have had calamities there should be an occasion for sympathy with the sufferers, of resignation on their part to the will of the Most High, and of rejoicing to the many who have been more favored. I therefore recommend that on Thursday, the 30th day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship, and there make the usual acknowledgements to Almighty God for the blessings he has conferred upon them for their merciful exemptions from evils, and invoke his protection and kindness for their less fortunate bretheren, whom in His wisdom, he has deemed it best to chastise. In faith, thereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

U. S. GRANT.

☞ The plan adopted at the Old Colony Railroad Depot at Boston of placing a placard on each car, denoting its destination, gives universal satisfaction and saves asking and answering many questions. Superintendent Bullock is doing all in his power to accommodate the patrons of his road.—Barnstable Patriot.

Forty-two per cent. of the legal voters of Massachusetts pay only a poll tax.

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN.

What is this about an underground schoolroom at the North End? Is it possible that the school Committee, who in spite of recorded votes of the town providing for better accommodations, have for many years suffered two of these abominable pens to exist, are going to perpetrate another similar nuisance?

What is the matter? Are the Committee afraid to spend the money voted by the town? We dare to say that our citizens will always give them freely all the money that they want, to save their children from destruction.

While we are luxuriating in our renovated and elegant Town Hall, which has cost us some thousands of dollars, let us consider the far more needed reform in our school-houses; and as we breathe the pure air of a well-ventilated apartment, let us remember the poor children in whom the vitiated atmosphere of law and unwholesome rooms, is sowing the seeds of insidious disease. I.

For the Patriot.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

Satan spared Job one sore trial which has broken the patience of many a modern Saint. He never sent vagrant cattle to browse Job's small fruit, gnaw his cabbages, or trample over his new made lawns. Fences about dwellings and gardens are often not only expensive but uncomely; and the laws of this State have wisely protected such, by requiring that the owners of animals shall fence them in, instead of requiring others to fence them out. This makes the Pound necessary and the field driver indispensable.—We are glad to learn that our Wollaston friends are determined to magnify this law and make it a terror to all marauding cattle that may chance that way. Armed with the power, and sustained by the insignia of office and the pled ges of support, and the fines of the aggrieved, the efficient Field Driver of this section has already commenced a raid on the dumb klu klux which have lately infested their gardens. He has threatened several,—has pounded two, and promised to pound more.

One thing is certain, enforcement of the law is the only way to retain this office here, and leniency to the brutes or their owners, will but increase, the throng of eager aspirants for this—Fiat justicia, &c.

☞ Messrs. Chickering & Sons, the celebrated Piano-Forte Manufacturers of Boston and New York, have been awarded during the months of September and October, 1871, Five First Premiums (Gold and Silver Medals) over all competition, at different State Fairs. This makes a total of Eighty-one First Premiums received by this house for the superiority of their Pianos.

Summary Intelligence.

The Weymouth boot and shoe manufacturers lose about $200,000 by the Chicago fire.

They are putting up a $25,000 school house in Centre Abington.

After the great fire in the Wisconsin woods, thirty-two dead bodies were found in a well which had been vainly sought as a refuge from the flames.

Nearly 10,000 German immigrants arrived at New York last month, making 50,042 since January 1st.

Hunting Indians is one of the pastimes of border life. A Kansas paper urging enlistments for a regiment to fight the Indians, says: "The service will last for three or four months only, and will be a source of health, pleasure and profit to all who enlist."

A Chicago bootblack has just bought $900 worth of property in Detroit, paying for the same in ten cent pieces. It took some hours to count the funds. This was all earned in the legitimate "Shine 'em up" trade in five years.

David Manning was run over and cut in two by a train of cars at Easton, on Tuesday, while incautiously walking on the track. He was 60 years of age and leaves a large family.

The nut crop this season is extensive. In addition to a full supply of walnuts, chestnuts and butternuts, there will be a heavy yield of beechnuts. The trees in the forest are heavy laden with this latter kind. Old time people say it is a "sure sign of a long and cold winter."

Nearly a million dollars' worth of postage stamps, which were in the collector's office at Chicago, were burnt.

A railway is to be carried to the top of the Swiss mountain of Righl. It is already opened to the height of 4,000 feet.

Mr. Nathaniel Jordon of Ellsworth, Me., has buried over 1600 persons, and has dug 1100 graves himself, since he has been sexton of that town.

The average weekly sales of the East Weymouth co-operative store are $1400.

A petition fifty feet in length, was received at the Executive Mansion on the 24th ult., signed by the women of Utah, in favor of polygamy.

The Queen of England, is in such a precarious state of health that she is liable to die at any moment.

The Hon. L. M. Sullivant of Iroquois county, Illinois, raised six thousand acres of corn last year, has raised ten thousand this year, and proposes to raise sixteen thousand next year. His crops average forty bushels to the acre at a cost of fifteen cents a bushel.

☞ The paint shop of Mr. C. M. Fairbanks, in Fall River, was burned on Friday night. Loss about $300. Mr. Fairbanks was a resident of this place for some time, and done quite an extensive business, and removed from this town to Fall River.

☞ So general has the public confidence become in Dr. Ayer's medicines, and so great the demand for them, that unprincipled villians are attempting to deceive the unwary by imposing upon them their worthless nostrums under a similarity of name. Cherry Pectoral Lozenges, Dr. Ayer's Troches, Ayer's Pastiles for Coughs, Cherry Pectoral Cough Drops, Ayer's Fever and Ague Cure, Doct. Ayer's Indian Pills, &c., &. (none of which are of Dr. Ayers's manufacture or composition) are specimens of this villainy and deceit. They not only defraud the sick of their money but of their health, or the recovery of their health, which is far more important than money. From actual counterfeits the people are protected by law which the Doctor promptly enforces, but these evasions sometimes elude the law, and purchasers must protect themselves by refusing to be deceived by them.—*Dover N. ☞ The following strong certificate as to the curative virtues of Miss Sawyer's Salve, we clip from the Pattern Voice:

REWARD OF MERIT. We are happy to lay before our readers the following cure, effected by the use of Miss Sawyer's Salve.

Mr. Silas Bryant of Sherman, has been afflicted for years with what the doctors pronounced a scrofulous cancer. He consulted the most skilful physicians in vain, and was finally induced to try Miss Sawyer's Salve and now after using the fourth dollar box, he is entirely cured, and enjoys perfect health.—Advertisement in another column.

SONG.

The laborer works from day to day,
Struggling hard his bills to pay;
The merchant sits in his easy chair
Counting his golden coins so rare;
The sailor rides o'er the stormy seas;
He tries his shipmates all to please,
Head winds and gales he'll never mind,
A port he is always bound to find.
'Tis a supreme law that all must work,
No man from duty should ever shirk;
The greatest study of man is man,
'Tis true, deny it now who can.
'Tis true that George H. Richards sells
Fine clothing cheap, his suits fit well,
Suits no baby, splen-did, rich and rare,
Buy at Twenty-five Dock Square.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The Boys then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

MISS SAWYER'S SALVE.

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.

It is prepared by Miss Sawyer, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.

The principal diseases for which this salve is recommended are. Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Deafness, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on Children.

It never fails to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs. For Piles it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons that have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For Erysipelas it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For Chapped Hands it produces a cure immediately. Let those with Salt Rheum obtain this Salve, and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in cases of Scrofula and Tumors. Cancers have been cured with it. The best Salve ever invented for Swollen Breast and Sore Nipples. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. Sore or Weak Eyes—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting in the ears on a piece of cotton. For Felons this is superior to anything known. For Pimples this acts like a charm. For Burns and Scalds, apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For Old Sores, apply once a day.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or Bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a Christian lady and a skilful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:

FRIENDSHIP.

A tiny, slender, silken thread,
Is friendship, and we make it
Bind hearts and lives to hearts and lives;
But e'en a breath may shake it,
And oft it takes but one wee word—
But one wee word—to break it!

It draws the lips in smiling shape,
It draws the look of pleasure;
From eye to eye when hands touch hands,
When two hearts beat one measure;
And draws a meaning from a word,
Which makes that word a treasure;

Like string of tuneful harp or lute
Between glad souls 'tis bolden,
And Love's fond fingers on the thread
Makes music rare and golden—
Makes music such as tender hearts
Could live and e'er grow old in.

But if a breath may shake it, let
That breath come near it never;
And never spoken be that word
Which friendship's tie might sever;
But let the cord grow stronger till
The dawning of Forever.

Farmers' Department.

BULBS.

In cultivating bulbs we must always remember that the crop of flowers will be more or less in proportion to the crop of leaves; unless fine large leaves continue in the bulbs till they gradually decay, they will produce few, if any, flowers next year. For the sake of neatness, too many persons cut off the leaves of bulbs nearly as soon as the flowers decay; this is a great mistake. Upon the maturity of the bulbs the power to produce flowers the following season depends. The bulbs cannot mature themselves if the leaves—the grand organs of the plant, and only next in importance to the roots—are prematurely destroyed. We must then bear with the rather untidy appearance of the leaves turning yellow, in order to mature the bulbs, and so induce an abundance of bloom.

Planting hyacinth in beds. The Dutch florists grow large fields of hyacinths and other bulbs near Harlaem, in Holland. The soil there is well known to be of a sandy nature, low and flat, formed of sand and other deposits of the sea. In this soil the fine bulbs are produced which are imported every season so largely into this country. In order, then, to flower them as fine, and continue the roots in the same state of perfection, we must, as far as possible, imitate the soil. Such of your readers as live near the coast can easily procure sea sand, and vegetable mould to mix with the sand, and light loam; mix the preparation in equal parts, all together in sufficient quantity to fill your beds; remove the soil to the depth of fourteen inches at the bottom, place a layer of small stones, then a layer of cow dressing, then put on the compost, and raise the bed at least four inches above the level. In planting, mix the colors regularly so as to be in harmony with each other. The bulbs should be six inches apart, and the head of the bulb four inches deep. I have sometimes covered the beds with tanners' bark about two inches. This will shelter the roots from the severity of the weather, and may be allowed to remain until the blooming season is over; it will have the effect of keeping the soil moist during the spring and encourage the plants to make firm foliage.

These instructions may appear to some too minute; but it is by such close attention to every point of culture that the cultivator of plants succeeds in bringing them to the utmost perfection.

I see no reason why hyacisths and other Dutch bulbs, with proper soil and careful management, may not be grown to the greatest perfection in every garden.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ An Irish agricultural paper says the best way to fatten geese is to put three or four into a darkened room, and to give each bird one pound of oats daily, thrown on a pan of water. In fourteen days they will be found almost too fat. Never shut up less than two together, as they pine if left alone.

Anecdotes.

"Bob Brown, did you say that my father had not as much sense as Billy Smith's little yellow dog?"

"No; I never said any such thing. I never said that your father had not as much sense as Billy Smith's yellow dog. All I said was, that Billy's little dog had more sense than your father; that's all I ever said." "Well, it's well you didn't say the other, I tell you."

A Nashua gentleman said to an old lady who had brought up a family of children near the river, "I should think you would have lived in constant fear that some of them would have got drowned."

"Oh, no," responded the old lady, "we only lost three or four that way."

The first day a little boy went to school, the teacher asked him if he could spell.

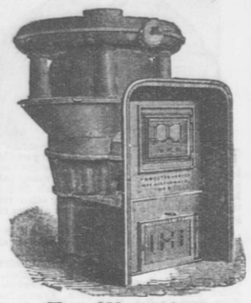

"Yes sir."

"Well, how do you spell boy?"

"O, just as other folks do?"

Who Does Business
FOR THE
GOOD OF MANKIND?
Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:
1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.
2d We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.
3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.
4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

A GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE
34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.
The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.
Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.
Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.
Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., NOVEMBER 4th, 1871.

GREAT FIRES OF THE PAST.

Among the great conflagrations of the past that of London in September, 1666, will always stand pre-eminent for its terrible destructiveness. It followed upon the great plague, which had carried off one-third of the population in the previous year, and swept over nearly five-sixths of the space including within the city walls at that date. It lasted four days, and the ruins covered 436 acres.—It destroyed eighty-nine churches (including St. Paul's) the Royal Exchange, the Custom-house, Guildhall, Zion College, and many other public buildings, besides 13,200 private houses. Four hundred streets were entirely laid waste, and about 200,000 of the inhabitants of the city were obliged to encamp for some time in the open fields of Islington and Highgate. The most disastrous fire in London since that date occurred on the 25th of March, 1748, when 200 houses in the Cornhill Ward were destroyed.—Many destructive fires have occurred in the British metropolis at later dates, the most recent worthy of special note being the burning of the cotton and other wharves of Tooley street in June and July, 1861. The fire continued raging with great or less fury for nearly a month. Several persons were killed and property was destroyed to the value of £2,000,000.

On the 5th of May, 1842, a fire broke out in the City of Hamburg, Germany, which raged with great fury for four days, destroying about one-third of the city.—sixty-one streets, containing 1,747 houses were utterly laid waste and thousands of people were rendered homeless. There were few public buildings of value destroyed, and that portion of the city was quickly rebuilt in a much more substantial manner, than before.

In this country great fires, especially before the day of improved fire-engines, have been comparatively frequent, and New York has had her full share. In September, 1776, soon after the city came into the hands, of the British, 500 houses were destroyed, forming at that time a large part of the town. The buildings were rather huddled together at the lower end of the island, and were mostly of wood, and the district west of Broadway and below Cortland street was swept bare. New York was visited by another great conflagration, the greatest in its history on the 16th of December, 1835. Six hundred warehouses, and property to the extent of over $20,000,000 were consumed. Our oldest inhabitants still remember the horrors of that terrible disaster. On the 6th of September, 1839, the city had another severe visitation, when forty-six buildings and property valued at $10,000,000 were destroyed. The next conflagration of large extent in this city took place on the 19th of July, 1845, when 302 stores and dwellings in the lower part of the city were destroyed. These, however, were of comparatively inferior value, the whole loss amounting to $6,000,000. Four lives were lost on this occasion. Since that time, owing to the increased efficiency of the means employed to prevent and extinguish fires, they have generally been confined to a single building or a small group.

In the same year of the last great fire in New York, 1845, Quebec suffered terribly from the same destroying element. On the 28th of May, a fire broke out in the Faubourg St. Roch which destroyed 1,500 buildings before it could be quelled. Several lives were also lost. Exactly one month later 1,300 buildings were burned and by these two conflagrations nearly two-thirds, of the city was laid in ruin. The pecuniary loss has been stated at $8,000,000. In the same year, on the 12th of June, nearly the whole town of St. Johns, Newfoundland, was destroyed, and 6,000 people were rendered homeless.

Albany suffered from a great conflagration on the 9th of September, 1848. Six hundred buildings, besides steamboats, piers, and other property, valued altogether at $3,000,000, were burned. Twenty-four acres of land within the city limits were covered with ruin.

St. Louis had a great fire in May 1849, when fifteen blocks of houses and twenty-three steamboats were consumed, causing a loss of over $3,000,000.

Philadelphia has been fortunate in having few great fires, but one occurred in that city on the 9th of July, 1850, which destroyed 330 buildings. These were of inferior value, and the whole loss was but $1,500,000, though twenty-five persons were killed, nine drowned and 120 injured.

A large portion of San Francisco was destroyed in 1851. On the 3d of May a fire broke out which consumed nearly 2,500 buildings, causing a loss of $3,000,000 and several lives. A little over a month later, on the 22d of June, 500 more buildings were burned, valued at $3,000,000 or more.

Twelve acres of land in Syracuse were burned over on the 8th of November, 1856. About 100 buildings were destroyed, and the loss of property amounted to $1,000,000.

The scene most naturally recalled by this fearful disaster in Chicago is the terrible celebration of the Fourth of July in Portland, Me., in 1866. The leading facts of that great event are still fresh in the public mind. The fire, beginning in a boot store on High street, swept north, and destroyed in its course nearly one-half of the city. The pecuniary loss was about $15,000,000, and one-fourth of the population were rendered homeless.

It seems probable from the reports thus far received, that the terrible fire in Chicago has no parallel in modern history unless in the conflagrations kindled by war. Even the great fire of London, though relatively more destructive, did not equal it in absolute extent. The London of that day was little more than two-thirds the size of the Chicago of to-day, having less than 250,000 inhabitants; two-thirds of Chicago is in ruins, the desolated territory is far greater than the five-sixths of London said to have been laid waste in 1666.

THE HALL
TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

KEATING & SPEAR'S

Furniture Rooms, who are the agents for Quincy.

K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

CREDIT. We often hear persons say that this one or that one has no credit. This should not be so. The poorest man in the State can have good credit, if he will only do as he says he will. It is not money alone that constitutes credit—it is honor. When a man says I will do so and so, and then fulfils the promise, he is a reliable man; and a reliable man always has credit. Always make your word good. Men in moderate circumstances would do well to keep this in mind.

PAID IN HIS OWN COIN. Hahnemann, the founder of the homœopathic school, was one day consulted by a wealthy English lord. The doctor listened patiently to the statement which the patient made to him. He then took a small vial, opened it, and held it under the lord's nose. "Smell! Well, you are cured!" "The lord asked, in surprise:—"How much do I owe you?" Thousand francs," was the reply. The lord immediately pulled out a bank-note and held it under the doctor's nose. "Smell! Well, you are paid!"

So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon regains its perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days during her treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1848, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

WAITING.

Learn to wait—life's hardest lesson,
Conned, perchance, through blinding tears;
While the heart-throbs sadly echo
To the tread of passing years.

Learn to wait—hope's slow fruition;
Faint not, though the way seems long;
There is joy in each condition,
Art, though suffering, may grow strong.

Constant sunshine, howe'er welcome,
Ne'er would ripen fruit or flower;
Giant oaks owe half their greatness
To the scathing tempest's power.

Thus a soul, untouched by sorrow,
Aims not at a higher state;
Joy seeks not a brighter morrow,
Only sad hearts learn to wait.

Human strength and human greatness,
Spring not from life's sunny side;
Heroes must be more than drifted
Floating on a waveless tide.

Interesting Selections.

NAHANT BUNNS. Three cups of new milk, one cup of yeast, one cup of sugar, and flour enough to make a stiff batter; rise over night. In the morning add one cup of butter, one of sugar, one nutmeg, one teaspoonful of soda; add more flour with it to make it as stiff as for bread; let rise again, then cut it out and let it rise in the pan while the oven is heating; just before setting in the oven, take the white of an egg and put over the top. Cut out very thin and bake quickly.

☞ Recently a thief, of the Mawworm type, said to an English judge quite confidingly, "My lord, I really assure you, I committed the theft in a weak moment; quite, indeed, against my own will, my lord, quite." "O, very well," said his lordship; it is only right that you should have no cause for complaint. The offence will be met in a proper spirit. As you committed the act against your own will you will be punished against your own will."

☞ Much of the "jujube paste" sold in the shops, is made of glue and molasses—or the same composition as is used for printer's rollers.

☞ Economy is no disgrace; better living on a little than outliving a great deal.

☞ To make an amusing sympathetic ink, mix lemon and onion juice. Writing or pictures made with this mixture on plain white paper, will, when dry, be invisible. But, on warming the paper before a fire, the lines will appear in brown tints. Very pretty effects may be thus produced.

☞ A lady says:—Take my advice ye young maidens contemplating matrimony. Never marry a man who is unkind to his mother, snubs his sister, helps himself to the best at the table, is afraid of work, or is unable to support you."

☞ A restored invalid was asked by an acquaintance who had not seen her for years, and who was struck with her healthy appearance, what produced so great a change in her condition. "I stopped fretting and took to laughing," was the answer.

☞ A citizen of Connecticut, recently introduced to a newly-married man, congratulated him warmly, and said:—"Ah these Litchfield county girls make clever wives; I've had three of 'em."

☞ A good man is kinder to his enemy than bad men are to their friends.

☞ Letter writing, says Mr. Beecher, should be taught in schools, instead of composition. There are few things more absurd than to set a child of ten or twelve years of age to the writing of a composition. But every child can be taught to describe familiar things, to use his senses sharply in observation, and to record accurately what he sees, or hears, or feels.

☞ While talking a few days ago about a lady of his aquaintance, a friend of ours remarked that she was so graceful that she walks about the house "like a sylph." An Irish gentleman who was present, and who heard the observation, remarked, "An' would you have her then crape about like a crab or a cat? Shure, what could she do but walk like hersilf?"

☞ Hint to mothers—when a child will creep rather than walk, it's a sign of an on-kneezy disposition.

☞ Mrs. Dowdy says that one of her boys don't know nothing, and the other does. The question is, which knows the most.

☞ He that would be well spoken of himself must not speak ill of others.

☞ An old bachelor says that during leap-year the ladies jump at every offer of marriage—hence the term.

OUTWITTING A MOTHER.

Mrs. Sallie Spruggins was a widow—fat, rather fair, and forty-five. She was mistress of a second-class boarding-house much against her inclinations, and had been for the last twenty years; it being just that length of time since her dear Sammy died, leaving her nothing but a little daughter, also named Sallie. As soon as the little Sallie was old enough she was sent to a cheap boarding-school. Widow Spruggins was very anxious to again enter the matrimonial state; and "who wants a woman with a great girl like you around?" she said. So Sallie was kept at school until she was almost twenty years old, and was determined to stay no longer. Of all Mrs. Spruggins's schemes and scheming to catch a husband in that time it would be useless to tell, since they were all failures.

"Mebby, Sallie will make a good match, and then I can have ease for the rest of my life," she said; and from that time forth, all her energies were directed to that end.

Sallie, jr., was not a beauty; though, like most girls, she thought she was. She was large and heavy; wore number seven shoes, and a yard and a half of belting just reached around her waist. She had a large face, liberally freckled, red cheeks but a redder nose; hair that she persisted in calling auburn; although, had she seen it on another's head, she would not hesitate to call it a "furious red." So, you see, Miss Sallie was not a beauty.

No doubt, had she been wealthy, she would have had admirers; but as she was not worth a "single, solitary rupee," as one of her mother's boarders said, Sallie never had a beau. Still, she was a pleasant, cheerful girl, and she assured her mother she would do her best to get "settled," as she said.

"Sallie, there is young Bliff; his father and he quarrelled, and he is going to cut him off with a shilling if you could only get him—his father is awful rich."

"I know; but, mother, why don't you try the old fellow? He is still very fine looking."

"Nonsense! do you think I didn't?—I tell you girl he don't want a wife. He told me, himself he had more than enough of matrimony."

"You must have driven him to the wall, mother," laughed Sallie.

"Well, I don't mind saying I did, and so did every other unmarried woman in town. I tell you, the mistress of White Hill will be a lady; or, at least, can live like one, and that is worth trying for. As the old one will not marry, why, of course, his only child's wife will be mistress there."

"All right, mother; but you must help me, for young Bliff is very bashful."

"You know I'll do all I can."

Sallie went to the window and looked at the White Hill house. It was certainly a handsome building, surrounded by flowers, and fountains, and all the other belongings of wealth and good taste.—Would it not be splendid to be mistress there, and invite some of the school girls there who had often snubbed her at school on account of her boarding-house antecedents? Yes, she would encourage Joe Bliff; what mattered it if he was rather idiotic than otherwise, since he could confer such benefit on her?

Sallie resolved that she would make the most of her present opportunity; but, nicely as she would plan, her mother was sure to be ahead of her. And she noticed too, that Joe got more than his share of the choicest dishes at the table.

"Mother is determined to have Joe for a son," thought Sallie.

But Mrs. Sallie had no such intentions for her daughter. One week after, she astounded Sallie by asking how she would like Joe Bliff "for a step-father?"

"Why, mother, what on earth do you mean?"

"Just what I say. To-morrow, Joe and I get married."

"Mother, mother! It's a burning shame. You are as old as his father."

"I'm good enough for him, I guess. As long as he is satisfied, you ought to be; and if you ain't you may get married yourself, or earn your own living."

"I will, I assure you. I'm ashamed of you, mother."

"Are you?" she sneered. "Well, I guess you will get over that when you find I'm reigning queen of the White Hill house, as you once hoped to be."

And so saying, she left Sallie to her own reflections, which were anything but pleasant. She sat by the window till long after the darkness hid the Hill house from her view; then, donning a hood and shawl, she went softly through the hall and out of the front door, wending her way quickly toward Mr. Bliff's residence. She soon reached it, rang the bell, and was shown into a room where a fine-looking old gentleman sat reading.—He was very polite to Sallie, seated her comfortably, and wished to know what he could do for her.

Sallie told him all her mother had said to her. The old gentleman was very indignant, but could do nothing to prevent his son from doing as he pleased, he being of age.

"But he'll find he has caught a Tartar. Excuse me; I forgot I was speaking of your mother."

"Oh, never mind. Mother don't care for Joe. She thinks she will live here and play fine lady; but I do anything I could to outwit her."

The old fellow looked steadily at Sallie a few minutes, then said:—

"There is one way you could outwit both of them."

"Pray tell me."

"If I were——" The old man looked irresolute. "If I were younger!"

"Oh, you are young enough."

He smiled. "Don't you see my gray hair?"

"I adore gray hair."

"But I'm bald into the bargain."

"Indeed, you must not say so. You have a beautiful, high forehead."

"Yes, it goes clear to the back of my head. Ha! ha! ha! But if you think you can like me as I am, we will try and outgeneral Joe and his motherly bride.—What say you?"

Sallie said "Yes without any hesitation "That's right, my girl. But they are to be married in the morning, are they?"

"Yes, sir, to-morrow morning."

"To be sure! of course! the minister is in town."

Sallie was willing; but first she must go back for something more suitable to wear. Her admirer was not willing to lose sight of her, but she assured him she would be back in half an hour. The gentleman accompanied her to the gate.

"Now, Sallie, returned quickly. Bless my heart! I little thought of this, this morning. It may be only a dream, though. Let me see;" and throwing an arm around Sallie, he gave her her first kiss.

When Sallie returned, she found the carriage awaiting her, and her old beau, in full dress, ready to hand her in. A few minutes' rapid driving, a few more at the minister's house, and Sallie returned to White Hill, its undisputed mistress.

Next morning, Joe and bride, both looking rather sheepish, made their appearance. His father met them at the door, and exclaimed:—

"Well, Joe, my boy, been getting married, have you? I don't blame you. No, indeed, for I've been doing the same myself. Come in and sit down here a few minutes, and I'll present my wife—your step-mother."

Mrs. Sallie looked at young Joe, and he looked at her; both too much astonished to speak. Who on earth had got ahead of her, or what was she to do with Joe if his father had a wife? But who can describe her amazement when her father-in-law, with her daughter Sallie proudly leaning on his arm, entered the room?

LOVE OF MUSIC.

An English writer says. "I believe that there is a taste for music in every child born, and that if it disappears in after life it is for the want of cultivation. Was there ever yet a baby that could not be sung to sleep? However this may be, to play some one instrument is of more value to a man than at first sight appears. To the character it is a refiner. Music is the medicine of the soul; it smooths the wrinkles of a hard life of business, and it lifts us from thoughts of intrigue, enterprise, anxiety, hatred, and what not, to a calmer, more heavenly frame of mind.—To a man himself, therefore, the power to play is of use. He may not always have a sister, wife, or daughter to sing or play to him; he may not always be within reach of the opera and concert rooms. Then, too, half the enjoyment of the music is gone, when you cannot enjoy it as you list and what kind you need, gay or grave, as your fancy lies. It is an indulgence to a pure mind, and one of those few indulgences which are free from harm."

IN A BAD FIX.

A very good widow, who was looked up to by the congregation to which she belonged as an example of piety, contrived to bring her conscience to terms for one little indulgence. She loved porter; and one day, just as she had received half a dozen bottles from the man who usually brought her the comfortable beverage, she saw two of the grave elders of the church approaching her door.—She ran the man out of the back door, and the bottles under the bed. The weather was hot, and while conversing with her sage friends pop went a cork.—"Dear me!" exclaimed the good lady, "there goes the bed-cord; it snapped yesterday the same way. I must have another rope provided." In a few minutes pop went another, followed by the peculiar hiss of escaping liquor. The rope would not do again; but the good lady was not at a loss." "Dear me!" said she, "that black cat must be at some mischief under there. Scat! Another bottle popped off, and the porter came stealing out from under the bed-curtain. "O, dear me!" she said, "I had forgotten; it is my yeast! Here, Prudence, come and take these bottles of yeast!"

PAST TROUBLES.

Don't harp on past troubles. When we see a pale, nervous woman in the midst of her friends preferring to entertain them with a list of the racking pains she has suffered to a saunter in God's free air and sunshine, we cannot wonder that the rose returns not to her blanched cheek. Why is it that to some these memories are very meat and drink?—They consume them—the bitter agony is acted over and over again, the tears thrice shed, the place cherished where fondly petted that tells of the almost fatal knife. They gasp over and yet cling to them.

CATCHING COLD.

Catching cold is a common phrase for an attack of catarrh, but it is a very incorrect one. One year I suffered so very severely from a series of colds that my attention was drawn specially to them. I was then lecturing on medicine, and every night from five o'clock to six during the winter months had to turn out from a warm room to go out through all weathers, lecture half an hour in a theatre heated by a stove and lighted by gas, and then return again to my snuggery at home, when I felt a fresh cold beginning. I tried in vain to account for it, until I accidentally saw in Copeland's Dictionary that the most fertile cause of a cold was coming from a moist, cold air to a hot and dry room. This at once explained to me the reason of my frequent suffering, for I had invariably gone into my hot room straight from the cold. I of course changed my habit: I sauntered in the hall while taking off my great coat, perambulated the rooms which had no fire in them, went up and down stairs, and the like, ere I went into my study, the temperature of which was also reduced. Since then I agree with a friend, who says that "a cold comes from catching hot," and I am disposed to think that there is a strong analogy between a chilblain on a child's toes and a cold in a person's nose, throat and lungs.—Dr. Thomas Inman.

THE HABIT OF DETRACTION.

Nothing is so easy to form, or so hard to overcome, as a habit, whether it be mental or mechanical—a habit of thought or a habit of person. And of all, none is so easy and persistent, not to speak of mischievous and destructive, as the habit of detraction. It is such a temptation to get into the way of seeing the worst of every one, and turning up the seamy side of everything; and, ghoulish as is the satisfaction of fattening our own lean reputation on the destruction of another's, there is a selfish value in it also, as thereby we show forth ourselves so much the better by the force of contrast. For, all things being relative in this world, and nothing absolute, if we can but paint another's complexion of a full black, our own doubtful white seems snow-colored, and even our own dusty gray not so very far removed from white.

THE LECTURE COURSE. Mr. H. B. Barnabee's "Patchwork of Song and Story" at the Town Hall, on Thursday night, was most decidedly successful, and gave great satisfaction to a large and enthusiastic audience. He was in fine voice, and both sang and acted with excellent effect; and he was well sustained by his accompanist, Mr. Howard M. Dow, who also gave a pleasing piano forte solo,—one of Gottschalk's compositions with good taste and expression. Among the many good things of the evening, the songs "O Loving Heart Trust on" and "The Cork Leg," and the Speech on Cuban Annexation, perhaps deserve special mention. "Parrhasius" was also well rendered.

On the next evening Mrs. Livermore, on the education of our daughters.

A PLEASANT VISITOR. Miss Mary Bass, a lady of some seventy years, called at our office one day last week, to pay in advance, her subscription to the PATRIOT, for another year. She is one of those social, active ladies that one likes to meet with, and whose presence is always enjoyed with pleasure. We are fortunate in having quite a number of these pleasant visitors during the year.

in North Bridgewater and is to commence operation immediately. The building is fitted up with all fixtures necessary for the prosecution of the business. Quincy is sadly in need of just such an institution. Who will start it

A GOOD SHOT. A sportsman recently brought down fourteen black ducks at one shot, on York pond, at North Stoughton.

SOCIAL MEETING. The Hook and Ladder Company, held their never failing election meeting at their house, on Tuesday evening last, and with their usual courtesy, extended invitations to the selectmen, engineers, representative elected and other distinguished gentlemen. This company has ever been noted for its liberal hospitality, and on this occasion the usual supply of excellent chowder, was received, and duly appreciated. Gentlemen accept our thanks.

CLIPPING HORSES. All persons having fast horses, whose hair is long and thick, and needs clipping, will do well to apply to Mr. Whitney, near Mr. Hall's livery stable, and they will have the work done in a satisfactory manner.

☞ Sunday School Concert, in the audience room of the new Church tomorrow evening, at 7 o'clock. Subject—"The Gates Ajar." A brief address or two may be expected, but the time will be mostly occupied by the children in recitations and singing.

☞ Rev. G. J. Sanger, of Danvers will speak in the Universalist Church tomorrow.

AURORA BOREALIS. One of the most beautiful displays of this interesting phenomenon that has ever been witnessed in this vicinity, was seen about six o'clock Thursday evening. The northern heavens were beautifully illuminated with a brilliant red color and streaks of white. It lasted about an hour.

☞ The Boston postmaster says that over one hundred letters are daily mailed n that office without stamps upon them, stamped with revenue stamps, or insufficiently pre-paid. The daily number of letters handled in Boston is 120,000.

☞ The Folio for November is interesting as ever, with three pieces of music and thirty columns of spicy reading matter, all for ten cents. Address White, Smith & Perry, Publishers, Boston.

THE ELECTION IN QUINCY. The American Traveller speaking of the election in this town on Tuesday, says, "the election of Mr. Henry H. Faxon, as representative, over Col. John Quincy Adams, is a noticeable event in the history of Quincy. Neither of the candidates had the full vote of his own party. Nearly fifty Republicans, disliking the position of Mr. Faxon on the temperance question, voted for his opponent, but this deficiency was more than made up by the votes of respectable Democrats. There were seven tickets in the field, and much excitement at the polls. Mr. F. is a large owner of real estate, and one of the incidents of the election was the hanging on a tree in front of the Town Hall, of the effigy of a man bearing the placard, "High Rent and Prohibition." The two candidates are prominent politicians, and but for a split in the Democratic party, the contest would have been a very close one. Mr. Adams is much esteemed among his townsmen for his fairness in politics and in local matters, and Mr. Faxon has secured the good will and esteem of the better class of citizens by his frequent donations to the poor, and to the charitable, religious and temperance organizations of the town."

WISE HEADS. Word came to the Town Council of Edinburgh, Scotland, that the rope of the chief bell had given way. It was necessary to decide whether it should be spliced at a cost of two shillings, or replaced with a new one at a cost of two and six-pence. Three solemn dinners were held, costing £10 each, and it was finally decided, on the score of economy, that the rope had better be spliced. They declared "as faithful stewards of the public funds, they were bound to be careful."

AUCTION. Mr. Lombard sells this afternoon, in front of his store, a valuable cow and other property. For particulars see notice.

STATE LIQUOR AGENCY. The annual report of the State Liquor Agent, just made to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, shows that only thirty-nine cities and towns in the State purchased liquors of the agency during the year ending October 1, and that the amount of sales this year was about $100,000 less than the previous year. The sales for the past year amounted to $58,793. Commission on sales, $3383. The expenses of the agency were $11,12½.

Summary Intelligence.

Last week a gravel train was passing over the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad, where it crosses one of the otter ponds, when the road bed sunk into the pond, making a gap about forty feet long and carrying down the rear car of the train.

Chicago the next three years, will want, for building purposes alone, 800,000 tons of iron. She will need, during the same time, $30,000,000 worth of lumber.

The coldness of the weather at this time of year is unprecedented in eastern Maine. Boys are skating upon the ponds near Belfast.

A citizen of Weymouth has been fined $17 for maiming a dog, by shooting the animal with beans.

Skowhegan traders are advertising goods at "grasshopper prices."

A fog horn has been put in operation at Boston Light which can be heard seven miles. A blast on that may save seamen from being wrecked by blasts of old Boreas.

Female orchestras are proposed for Boston and New York theatres.

It is proposed by the Swiss authorities to forbid, under heavy penalties, the climbing of the Alps at dangerous seasons of the year.

It is estimated that three hundred thousand hogs will be packed at Louisville this season, being sixty thousand more than last year.

It is estimated that, out of the 415,000 people rendered destitute by the Chicago fire, 65,000 were relieved in that city, while 350,000 are traveling on refugee passes.

Two inches of snow fell at Lancaster N. H. Wednesday morning.

Grapes have been extraordinary abundant in California this year, and the wine crop will be very large. The total vintage is established at 8,000,000 gallons.

Two of Darwin's sons have been on a visit to the Yosemite. It is said that the monkeys recognized them at once, and asked kindly after their father.

A lady died in Palmer, Mass., a week or two since, aged 43 years, who had never felt the sensation of pain from any cause. Even her sickness and death were attended by no suffering.

The experiment of using naphta for fuel in running a locomotive is said to have been tried in Russia, with a saving of fifty per cent. in both cost and weight.

An English fish dealer imported 9000 lobsters from Sweden in floating chests to preserve them. When they arrived they were all found dead, the filthy condition of the water in the dock having killed operation.

The total product of gold and silver in the United States for the year 1870, as estimated by Mr. R. W. Raymond, United States Commissioner of Mining Statistics reaches $66,000,000.

The wife of Socrates was said to be a great scold. Had her husband furnished her with Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil to cure a painful toothache, and headache, she would, no doubt, have been one of the best women of that age.

LECTURE. Mr. L. S. Richards lectures on Monday evening next, on Astronomy, the Tidal Wave and the Universe. These subjects are very interesting ones, and we hope that an attentive and appreciative audience will be present.

A VARIETY. Yesterday afternoon it snowed, rained and then the sun peeped out; after a short interval it snowed and then came the rain once more, making a disagreeable variety.

HOGS. Mr. J. V. Packard understands the art of dressing hogs in good shape, and would like to fill any orders from our citizens, as will be seen by our advertising columns.

BASE BALL. There was a friendly game of ball played at Braintree, on the 28th of October. Between the Actives of Braintree, and the Experts of Quincy, which resulted in favor of the Experts, by a score of 26 to 13. The game was called on the 6th inning on account of darkness. JAMES A. McLELLAN.
Quincy, Nov. 11. tf

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6, 1871.

Again New York stands on the eve of a municipal election. The morrow will tell the tale, whether our proud city must still remain a prey to the vultures who are gorging themselves on her vitals, or whether the people will shake off the shackles and rise in power and might to crush out fraud of every sort. The last few days have been busy ones among all classes, particularly among the politicians. The various parties are preparing for the contest on the morrow, and all night long the streets of our city will be lively with strange scenes, unknown outside of Gotham. The militia regiments have all been ordered on duty to-morrow, so that if the riotous element of our population do not behave themselves we will be able to give them the same "dose" we gave them on the 12th of July last.

The prince, or duke—rather—has not yet reached our shores.

There was quite a sensation yesterday in a Fifth avenue stage. A lady passenger suddenly became unconscious when she was removed to the hospital, and it was then ascertained that she had taken poison, with suicidal intent. She died last night. Her name was ascertained to be Mapes, her profession, a governess. What caused her to commit the rash act is unknown.

Last night a young man, a resident of Troy, named Farrell, jumped off a Third avenue car, when he was knocked down by a car coming from the opposite direction, and horribly mutilated, and now lies at the point of death.

Judge Bedford in charging the grand jury this afternoon used the following language: "To-morrow an important election takes place. I feel convinced that every honest vote will be protected, * * * * * and gentleman, you may rest assured that the penalty, on conviction, will be promptly meted to the guilty."

The register's office was the scene of an attempted robbery on Saturday evening. One of the clerks was caught attempting to carry off a quantity of deeds, mortgages, &c. He was promptly arrested.

The first ice of the season made its appearance to-day. The weather has been very cold all day, an evident intimation that old Winter will soon be along.

The Governor has altered the date for Thanksgiving day in order to comply with the President's suggestion, and the 30th of November has been appointed.

We have news to-day of the loss, in Arctic ocean of Thirty-three whaling vessels, who were run down by Ice floes near Point Belchor, and abandoned by their crews.

A terrible accident took place in the African church at Louisville, Ky., on Sunday evening. One of the columns supporting the galleries gave way, precipitating the people into the church below, and in the panic which ensued eleven persons were killed outright, nine women and two children, while many more were severely injured. W. F. G.

A. T. Stewart has given away $200,000 since 1862.

which I will guarantee in every particular.

They are made to my especial order, and are a very much better article than was sold before the war for $48.00.

Having sold over two hundred of this particular grade in Quincy and vicinity, I can refer to those carrying them as to their reliability and economy of wear.

Also, on hand watches of lower and higher grades from $15.00 to $200.00.

ANOTHER VICTIM TO KEROSENE. At Bath, N. H., on Monday evening, Mrs. Ellery Kentfield dropped a glass lamp filled with kerosene, which broke, and the fluid, bursting into a flame, set her dress on fire. A lad who was passing rushed in, and taking a pail of water, extinguished the flames, but Mrs. K. was burnt so badly that she is not expected to survive.

The above announces another of those sad accidents caused by burning kerosene. Scarcely a week passes but we see notices of this kind; still there are thousands of people who continue to burn, through ignorance or carelessness, kerosene that is inflammable. If our readers will be careful and procure Downer's kerosene they will be free from these awful accidents. Messrs. Furnald & Son always have the pure article direct from the manufacturer, which they sell very cheap.

There have been two accidents in this place recently from burning kerosene.—One at Mr. John T. Ripley's, the other at George W. Miles' on North street. Fortunately no person was seriously injured. The one at Mr. Miles' residence occurred on Tuesday evening last. The lamp had not been lighted but a few moments, and was on a table at the time of the explosion. Mrs. Miles having left the room for a moment. Articles near by were set on fire but were soon extinguished with but little damage.

☞ Boucicault's great sensational play of "Elsie," will have its first representation at the Boston Museum on Monday the 13th inst. Extensive preparations have been made for its production, and in the way of scenery, appointments, mechanical effects, and acting, it will be a strong and attractive feature of the present brilliant season.

☞ The United States Watch Co., (Giles, Wales & Co.,) employ 500 hands in their works at Marion, N. J., and are turning out 250 of their celebrated timekeepers daily, or one watch per day for each two hands employed; their working time is 10 hours per day, or 600 minutes, producing a fine watch complete every two and a half minutes, and a little more, and even at that, are unable to keep pace with the constantly increasing demand caused by the extraordinary records the watches are making as accurate and reliable timepieces, an instance of patient and preserving energy and enterprize, rewarded by prosperity which we are glad to see.

☞ The Coal Mines of Alaska bid fair to give a new value to our new possessions there. The coal beds are extensive and of good quality, generally bituminous, but often of the purest anthracite. The coal, it is claimed, can be mined and delivered at San Francisco at a cost of from five to six dollars per ton.

Stoughton has a valuation of $2,410,475, and 1199 polls. Rate of taxation $19 on a thousand.

SONG.

The laborer works from day to day,
Struggling hard his bills to pay;
The merchant sits in his easy chair
Counting his golden coins so rare;
The sailor rides o'er the stormy seas;
He tries his shipmates all to please,
Head winds and gales he'll never mind,
A port he is always bound to find.
'Tis a supreme law that all must work,
No man from duty should ever shirk;
The greatest study of man is man,
'Tis true, deny it now who can.
'Tis true that George H. Richards sells
Fine clothing cheap, his suits fit well,
Suits nobby, splendid, rich and rare,
Buy at Twenty-five Dock Square.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce iron Steed.
The Boys then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "CLOTHED" at GEORGE FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

Harper's Magazine.

Notices of the Press.

There are few intelligent American families in which HARPER'S MAGAZINE would not be an appreciated and highly welcome guest. There is no monthly that came an intelligent reading family can less afford to be without. Many Magazines are accumulated. HARPER'S is edited. There is not a Magazine that is printed which shows more intelligent pains expended on its articles and mechanical execution. There is not a cheaper Magazine published. There is not, confessedly, a more popular Magazine in the world.—New England Homestead.

A repository of biography and history, literature, science, and art, unequaled by any other American publication * * * The volumes are as valuable as a mere work of reference as any cyclopædia we can place in our libraries. HARPER'S MAGAZINE is a record of travel everywhere since the hour of its establishment. Livingstone and Gordon Cumming in Africa, Strain among the Andes and Ross Browne in the East, Speke on the Nile and Macgregor on the Jordan—indeed, all recent travellers of note have seen their most important discoveries reproduced in these pages. Most of our younger and many of our older writers find here their literary biography. Our artists see the best evidences of their genius and the most enduring specimens of their work in the Magazine. MISS SAWYER'S SALVE.

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.

It is prepared by Miss Sawyer, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.

The principal diseases for which this salve is recommended are. Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Dandruff, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on Children.

It never fails to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs. For Piles it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons that have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For Erysipelas it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For Chapped Hands it produces a cure immediately. Let those with Salt Rheum obtain this Salve, and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in cases of Scrofula and Tumors. Cancers have been cured with it. The best Salve ever invented for Swollen Breast and Sore Nipples. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. Sore or Weak Eyes.—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting in the ears on a piece of cotton. For Felons this is superior to anything known. For Pimples this acts like a charm. For Burns and Scalds, apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For Old Sores, apply once a day.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or Bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a Christian lady and a skilful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:

Poetry.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL.

How to be beautiful when old?
I can tell you, maiden fair—
Not by lotions, dies and pigments;
Not by washes for the hair.
While you're young be pure and gentle,
Keep your passions well controlled;
Walk, work and do your duty—
You'll be handsome when you're old.

Snow-white locks are fair as golden,
Gray as lovely as the brown,
And the smile of age more pleasant
Than a youthful beauty's frown.
'Tis the soul that shapes the features,
Fires the eye, attunes the voice;
Sweet sixteen, be these your maxims,
When you're sixty you'll rejoice.

Farmers' Department.

ECONOMY OF CUTTING FEED.

A thrifty animal will consume about three per cent of its live weight in fodder daily. For a cow of 800 pounds, twenty-four pounds of hay should be provided. But it has been abundantly proved that when this hay is cut, wetted, and mixed with the allowance of meal (two to four quarts,) eighteen pounds daily is ample to keep an ordinary cow in good condition. The difference then is the amount saved, which is equal to one-fourth. This represents the gain in digestibility of the food by the method of preparing it. In practice the gain is greater, because no waste can occur in using cut feed, while in using long hay much is always wasted. —American Agriculturist.

THE DAHLIA.

As it is time to take up the Dahlia and lay the tubers away for winter, a word in regard to the best mode of keeping them may not be out of place. The stem should be cut down near the ground leaving only enough at the bottom to serve as a handle, by which to lift them without breaking the tubers apart. After drying a day or two till the soil adhering to them will all shake off, they should be carefully labelled with the name or color of each clump, then packed into boxes and filled up with sand that has been carefully dried in the sun for this purpose. They will decay if the sand is damp. Put them in a dry cellar out of the way of freezing.

KEEPING SWEET POTATOES.

Mr. Fuller writes to the Agriculturist, the following method for keeping sweet potatoes. He says, take a barrel, fill it with sweet potatoes with dry sand between the layers, and keep it in a warm place. Mr. Ely stated that he had seen sweet potatoes that had been kept sound for two years in a cellar near the furnace. A warm temperature was all the magic.

WATERING PLANTS. Let it be remembered that nearly all plants thrive best in moist, not in wet soil. We think that most house plants are wet too much. Never pour water in the saucers, but into the pots, and then never until the surface is dry. The saucers may be used for neatness, but not for holding water. Rain water is the best; hard well water the worst. The morning is the best time to apply the water. Always use a fine sprinkler.

Anecdotes.

A distinguished gentleman produced quite a scene in a western hotel, by fainting away at the dinner table. Having been carried to his room, and by diligent attendance restored to consciousness, one of his friends undertook to rally him a little on the excitement he had occasioned, saying, "Why did you make such a rumpus for nothing? Why didn't you kick the bucket and be done with it, while you was about it?"

"Oh," said the poor gent still pale as death from his faint; "I had no thought of kicking the bucket, I only turned a little pail."

A person looking over the catalogue of professional gentlemen of the bar, with his pencil wrote against the name of one of the bustling order:

"Has been accused of possessing talents."

Another seeing it, immediately wrote under:

"Has been tried and acquitted."

"Do you chew tobacco?" asked a lady, hesitating to sit down by a gentleman in a car.

"No, ma'am, I don't," he replied; "but guess I can get you a chaw, if you want one."

"Arrah, Pat, and why did I marry ye? Just tell me that? for it's myself that's had to maintain ye ever since the blessed day that father O'Flannagan sent me home to yer house."

"Swate jewel," replied Pat, not relishing the charge, "and it's myself that hopes I may live to see the day when ye're a widow weeping over the cold sod that covers me; then, by St. Patrick, I'll see how ye get along without me, honey."

A Dutchman, being asked how often he shaved, replied, Dree dimes a week effery tay but Soontay; den I shaves effery tay."

THE HALL

TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

Ayer's

Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence: and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

THE LOWEST PRICES!

Lace Curtains, Draperies and Bedding.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d. We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

NEW DRESS GOODS

At E. CLAPPS'.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.

Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.

FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

Hair Life.

THIS Beautiful preparation for the Hair and Scalp, has gained the confidence of the people more than any thing that has ever been discovered. It restores the Hair from a Gray, to a beautiful Black or dark Brown, without those poisonous minerals that's so injurious to the eyes; it removes all Dandruff and the most inveterate itching of the Scalp. For a toilet article, its unsurpassable.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH!

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days while for his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., NOVEMBER 11th, 1871.

NO HOUSE KEEPER.

"Mrs. Jones is a right nice woman, goodhearted, and all that, but I am sorry to say she is no housekeeper."

"Don't know how to cook, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, she knows how to cook—I never sat down to better bread, and cake, and coffee, and relishes, than I've seen on her table; and she does her own work too."

"What is the trouble, then?"

"Why, she isn't neat—don't keep things in order, as a woman should."

"Don't comb her hair, or sweep her room, or dust her things?"

"Her hair always looks well enough, and I believe she sweeps and dusts every morning, but then she lets her children have their own way too much."

"Does she? I was not aware—"

"I mean," said Mrs. Smith, "they have their baby-rags, and dolls, and blocks, and other playthings over the floor, and they keep house in the corners of the room, and I don't know what all; now I should soon go distracted with all that nonsense."

"So you don't allow your children such privileges, do you?"

"I rather think not; they have to do better than that when I'm about. What's the use of having a house in such confusion, and everything at all sixes-and-sevens?"

"Well, now, Mrs. Smith, I want to know how you manage your little ones. Come, tell me your rules."

"I don't know as I have any particular rules—only they shall not make a noise around me, nor litter up the floor with their gimeracks."

"You let them have their playthings, don't you?"

"No, indeed; I locked them up long ago, to keep them from being broken, I tell you, there's no use in humoring young ones so much. I must keep things tidy in my house, and the dear knows I have a time of it anyhow, with Mr. Smith not cleaning his feet on the mat, and the children almost always quarreling about something or other."

"Do you think Mrs. Jones has as hard a time as you have?"

"No, I don't believe she worries about anything. Seems to me she don't care how things go."

"Yes she cares a great deal, and knows exactly how to make her children happy at home, and her husband is always welcomed with a smile, mat or no mat. When her children come to see mine, they are neither noisy nor quarrelsome, but gentle, playful, healthy, and happy."

"And my children?"

"Well, they are somewhat different. You see they are kept so tightly at home, that they are pretty boisterous in other houses."

"Why don't you send them home, then?"

"Because they will not go; they declare that "Ma is cross, and won't let them play, and they don't like home a bit!"

"Do my children thus speak of their mother?" said Mrs. Smith, as she rose and drew her shawl around her and her veil over her face to hide the coming tear.

"They do it often, my dear friend; but take courage—there is time yet to draw their hearts to you. Have patience with them; give them their toys, and let them enjoy them in their own home.—Your house is always so plainly neat and quiet that I almost hate to go there."

"You shall hate it no more on that account," said Mrs. Smith, as she wrung her friend's hand. "I own up that Mrs. Jones is the better house-keeper."

SECRET OF SUCCESS. A merchant who, from being a very poor boy, had risen to wealth and renown, was once asked by an intimate friend to what he attributed his success in life. "To prompt and steady obedience to my parents," was the reply. "In the midst of many bad examples of youths of my own age, I was always able to yield a ready submission to the will of my father and mother, and I firmly believe that a blessing has, in consequence, rested upon me and upon all my efforts."

LAZY BOYS.

An exchange says, a lazy boy makes a lazy man as sure as a crooked sapling makes a crooked tree. Who ever saw a boy grow up in idleness that did not make a shiftless ragabond when he became a man, unless he had a fortune to keep up appearances? The great mass of theives, criminals and paupers have come to what they are by being brought up in idleness. Those who constitute the business part of the community—those who make our great and useful men—were taught in their boyhood to be industrious. Boy take that pipe out of your mouth and think of this.

Taylor's Flour, $10 per Barrel.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. In view of the cruelty to which a couple of horses were subjected, from want of proper shelter, while detained in a Pound, near this place, recently, the Massachusetts Society have commenced active measures in the case, which, so far, has resulted in the provision of a suitable building for animals while under distraint. The matter is an important one, and should at once be looked into by selectmen and others, inasmuch as the responsibility is as well defined in the care of a town as in that of an individual.

WINTER QUARTERS. Sergeant Hearn, of the United States Army, is on Mt. Washington, where he will remain during the winter. The house has undergone improvements, and everything will be done to make it more comfortable than last season. There will be two rooms occupied above, and two below. The telegraph cable is laid, and supplies will be put in immediately by government. Canned meats and pilot bread with a barrel or two of flour will make up the winter supplies. Potatoes are allowed to freeze as soon as they are put in store. If they are not permitted to thaw before cooked, and never washed, they can be baked so as to be as good as new.—Sergeant Hearn, with a single companion is to pass the long, dreary winter months in these cheerless regions, for the sake of making observations which may be of advantage to the scientific world.

LOVE TO A MOTHER. A little boy, the son of a poor widow, once repeated to his teacher four chapters in the Testament. A gentleman who was present was so much pleased that he called him to him, and gave him the choice of a pair of blankets for his mother, or a suit of clothes for himself. Although he was dressed in rags, and greatly needed a new suit, he at once chose the blankets. The gentleman then gave him the clothes too as a reward for his kindness to his poor mother.

Harper's Magazine.

Notices of the Press.

There are few intelligent American families in which HARPER'S MAGAZINE would not be an appreciated and highly welcome guest. There is no monthly Magazine an intelligent reading family can less afford to be without. Many Magazines are accumulated, but HARPER'S is edited. There is not a Magazine that is printed which shows more intelligent pains expended on its articles and mechanical execution. There is not a cheaper Magazine published. There is not, confessedly, a more popular Magazine in the world.—New England Homestead.

A repository of biography and history, literature, science, and art, unequaled by any other American publication * * * The volumes are as valuable as a mere work of reference as any cyclopædia we can place in our libraries. HARPER'S MAGAZINE is a record of travel everywhere since the hour of its establishment. Livings one and Gordon Cumming in Africa, Strain among the Andes and Ross Browne in the East, Spoke on the Nile and Macgregor on the Jordan—indeed, all recent travellers of note have seen their most important discoveries reproduced in these pages. Most of our younger and many of our other writers find here their literary biography. Our artists see the best evidences of their genius and the most enduring specimens of their work in the Magazine. Taylor's Flour, $10 per Barrel.

We have sold this flour since July of 1870, and in no instance does it fail to give entire satisfaction. In fact so popular has it become with our Customers, both at Wholesale and retail, that we have ordered the miller to ship us, and are now receiving, 800 barrels per month instead of 400 as at first.

Taylor's Flour is ground from the best Southern Ohio Wheat, by a Miller of long experience with the most improved machinery, who selects only the head of the Bolt for this Flour, thus securing as good a barrel of flour to families at $10 00 as is usually sold at $10.50 to $11.00 per barrel. 25 cents allowed on flour to pay express out of town. Use one barrel and you will never use any other kind when you can get this.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT.

TUNE,—Yankee Doodle.

The Yankee folks have had a treat,
And Uncle Grant has seen 'um;
They had a time that can't be beat—
A jolly time between 'um.

Chorus—Forward ev'ry Mother's son,
Over hill and hollow;
Know it isn't ev'ry one,
The Yankees deign to follow.

But when they meet a fellow like
To U. S. G. the Hero,
They'll follow him o'er rail and pike
Through blazing heat to zero.

Forward ev'ry Mother's son, &c.

The citizens were wide awake,
Their hall's with plenty teeming;
Their cannon all the forests shake;
Their flags like meteors streaming.

Forward ev'ry Mother's son, &c.

The boys and girls, and women too,
Were ardent in their greeting;
The woodsmen and the boys in blue,
Their welcome notes repeating.

Forward ev'ry Mother's son, &c.

You see the case is very plain,
They like the man in total;
They mean to choose him o'er again,
And so intend to vote all.

Forward ev'ry Mother's son, &c.

And St. Domingo out or in,
A trifle will not sever,
The tie that makes us all akin,
To gallant Grant forever.

Forward ev'ry Mother's son,
Over hill and hollow;
Know it is'nt ev'ry one
The Yankees deign to follow.

F. M. Adlington, Weymouth.

Interesting Selections.

Cream Cake.—For the Crust.—Ten eggs, one pint of water, one-half pound of butter, three-fourths pound of flour, one small teaspoonful of dry saleratus. Boil the water and butter together, and just as they begin to boil stir in the flour; when cooled a little add the egg, which must be well beaten; drop these with a spoon on the pan you wish to bake them in, leaving room for them to rise without touching each other, and bake in a quick oven.

For the Cream.—Four eggs, one teacupful of sugar, one teacupful of flour, one quart of milk. Boil the milk, then add the eggs, sugar and flour, well beaten; flavor with lemon. To be put into the cakes while hot. This quantity will make about forty cakes.

☞ A young lady in Wisconsin was standing on the verandah, with her lover's arm around her, enjoying a thunder storm, in perfect safety, when the young man left her for a moment and she was struck by lightning. The young man is censured for leaving her unprotected.—Since that occurrence, when a storm comes up, it is amusing to see the girls rush to their favorite lightning-rods.

☞ A couple of men, brethren of the same secret society, were traveling together, the purse of one of them giving out, he nonchalantly proposed to share that of his comrade, but was met with a flat refusal. "Why not share your purse with me? Ain't we brothers?" he asked. "Oh, yes; but then, you see, our purses ain't sisters."

Blissful Ignorance. A young man of color was caught by the Memphis police, walking through the upper part of the navy yard, carrying a coil of clothes line in his hand, on one end of which was a nice sucking pig, just right for roasting. When asked where he got the pig, he said that "it was jist follerin' him, and he hadn't the faintest idee whar it come from."

☞ Making people happy, says Mr. Beecher, is not a small nor an unimportant business. As I regard good nature as one of the richest fruits of true Christianity, so I regard the making of people round about us happy as one of the best manifestations of that Christian disposition which we are commanded to wear as a garment.

☞ "I am, said a reverend rector of the old school to a ritualist curate, a martyr to the gout." "Pardon me, my dear sir, replied the latter, "happily you will survive. You should not call yourself a martyr, but a confessor."

☞ A female lecturer said—"Get married, young men, and be quick about it. Don't wait for the millennium, for the girls to become angels. You'd look well beside an angel, wouldn't you—you brutes?"

☞ "Gentlemen and ladies," said a showman, "here you have a magnificent painting of Daniel in the lions' den.—Daniel can be easily distinguished from the lions by the green umbrella under the left arm."

☞ The Chinese in California are learning civilization. The other day a lot of railroad laborers struck, throwing down their picks and rolling on the grass, crying—"We sabee white man's dodge."

Miscellany.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

The following curious adventure happened in Bath, in the year 179—, and the lady who narrated it to the writer was in those days a young lady staying in the house. It was in the palmy days of Bath, when that now fallen city rivalled London in brilliancy and dissipation, and when all the rich, the gay and the high born of England congregated there in season and graced the balls and assemblies.

Mrs. R——, once the belle of the court of George III. but at this period gradually retiring from general society, possessed one of the largest of the old houses, and gave in it entertainments, which were the most popular of the day. She was celebrated for three things (once for four, but the fourth—her beauty—was of the days gone by); these things were her facination, her benevolence and a—set of the most matchless amethysts.

Her house contained tapestried chambers. The walls of the one in which she slept were hung around with designs from heathen mythology, and the finest piece in the room was that which hung over her dressing table. It represented Phœbus driving the chariot of the sun.—The figures and horses being life size, it filled up the whole space between the two windows; and the horses were concealed behind the high, old-fashioned Venetian looking-glass; while Phœbus himself, six feet high, looked down by night and day upon his mistress at her toilet.

One evening Mrs. R—— had an unusually large party at home. She wore her amethysts. On retiring to her room, about four o'clock in the morning, she took off all her jewels, laid them on the table, and dismissing her weary maid, intended to put them away herself, but before doing so knelt down, as usual, to her prayers. While engaged in her devotions it was a habit with her to look upwards, and the face of Phœbus was generally her point of sight as it were, and the object on which her eyes most easily rested. On this particular night, as usual, she raised her eyes to Phœbus. What does she see? Has Pygmalion been here at work? Has he filled those dull silk eyes with vital fire? Or is she dreaming? No. Possessed naturally of wonderful courage and calmness, she continued to move her lips as if in silent prayer, and never once withdrew her gaze, and still the eyes looked down on hers. The light of her candle shone distinctly on liquid, living orbs, and her good keen sight enabled her, after a cleverly managed scrutiny, to see that the tapestry eyes of Phœbus had been cut out, and that, with her door locked, and the servants in bed in their distant apartments, and all her jewels spread out before her, she was not alone in her room.

She concluded her prayers with her face hidden in her hands. We can well imagine what those last prayers must have been! She knew there was some one behind that tapestry; she knew that the bells and screams were equally useless, and she lay down in her bed as usual, and awaited the issue, her only omission being that she did not put away her jewels. "They may save my life," said she to herself, as she closed her eyes.

The clock struck five before a sound was heard and then the moments arrived. She heard a rustle, a descent from behind the tapestry, and a man stood at her dressing table. He took of his coat, and one by one he secured the jewels beneath his waistcoat. What would be his next move? Would it be her bedside, or to the door, or window? He turned and approached her bedside; but by that time she had seen enough, and, again closing her eyes, resigned herself to the Providence whose protection she had just been craving. The man was her own coachman.

Apparently satisfied by a brief glance under his dark lantern that he had not disturbed her, he quietly unlocked her door and left her. For two hours—they must have seemed two days—she allowed the house to remain unalarmed, her only movements having been to re-lock the door, which her living Phœbus has left ajar. At seven in the morning she rung her bell, and ordered the carriage around immediately after breakfast. All this was according to her usual habits. On the box was a man who had cost her a night's rest, and most probably all her jewels. However, she drove off; she went straight to the house of a magistrate.

"Seize my coachman," said she—"secure him and search him. I have been robbed, and I can hardly think he has had time to disencumber himself of the jewels he has taken from me."

She was obeyed, and she was right; the amethysts was still about him, and he gave himself up without a struggle. All he said was: "I wish now I had killed her. I meant to do it, only she was so good, I hadn't the heart."

It is most probable that after this exciting episode the tapestry of that bedchamber was remorselessly condemned, and the eyeless Phœbus was consigned to oblivion.

Sample Clerk Wanted in a Drug Store.

Jem B —— is a wag. A joke to Jem is both food and raiment, and whenever there is an opening for fun, he "goes into" it.

Jem was recently in a drug store, when a youth, apparently fresh from the "mountain," entered the store, and at once accosted Jem, stating that he was in search of a job.

"What kind of a job?" inquired the wag.

"Oh, a'most anything—I want to get a kind of a genteel job; I'm tired o' farmin,' an' kin turn my hand to almost anything."

"Well, we want a man—a good, strong, healthy man, as sample clerk."

"What's the wages?"

"Wages are good; we pay $1000 to a man in that situation."

"What's a feller got to do?"

"Oh, merely to test medicines, that's all. It requires a stout man, one of good constitution—and after he gets used to it, he doesn't mind it. You see, we are very particular about the quality of our medicines, and before we sell any, we test every parcel. You would be required to take—say, six or seven ounces of castor oil some days, with a few doses of rhubarb, aloes, croton oil, and similar preparations. Some days you would not be required to test anything; but as a general thing, you can count upon—say from six to ten doses of something daily. As to the work, that does not amount to much—the testing department, simply, would be the principal labor required of you, and as I said before, it requires a person of very healthy organization to endure it—but you look hearty, and I guess you would suit us. That young man (pointing to a very pale-faced, slim-looking youth, who happened to be present,) has filled the post the past two weeks, but he is hardily stout enough to stand it. We should like to have you take right hold, if you are ready—and if you say so, we'll begin to-day. Here is a new barrel of castor-oil just come in; I'll go and draw an ounce—"

Here verdant, who had been gazing intently upon the slim youth, interrupted him with,

"N-no, no, I g-u-ess not, not to-day, anyhow. I'll go down and see my aunt; and ef I 'clude to come, I'll come up termorrer and let you know."

He has not yet turned up.

SALT FOR THE THROAT.

In these days when diseases of the throat prevail, and particularly a dry hacking cough, which is not only distressing to ourselves, but to our friends and those with whom we are brought into business contact, those thus afflicted may be benefitted by using the following remedy:

Last fall we were induced to try what virture there was in common salt. We commenced by using it three times a day, morning noon and night. We dissolved a large teaspoon of common salt in about a tumblerful of cold water. With this we gargled the throat most thoroughly just before meal time. The result has been that during the entire winter we were not only free from the usual coughs and colds to which so far as our memory extends, we have always been subject, but the dry hacking cough has entirely disappeared. We attribute it entirely to the salt gargle, and do most cordially recommend it to our readers who are subject to disease of the throat.

Many persons who have never tried the salt gargle have the impression that it is not pleasant. Such is not the case. On the contrary, it is pleasant and after a few days' use no person who loves a nice, clean, and first rate sharpener of the appetite will abandon it.—Exchange.

Cinder-consuming Locomotives.

Every one who has traveled in a railway car must have been greatly annoyed by the flying dust and cinders which prevent proper ventilation and cause so much discomfort in the person. To avoid this disagreeable accompaniment of railway travel, numerous expediments have been tried, but none with the success attained by the recent invention of a gentleman in Gloucester. The main point of this contrivance lies in the fact that the smoke stack of the engine, instead of being vertical, as is generally the case, is bent backward and then upward, spreading widely at the mouth. Within the stack at the second curve is placed a wire screen at an angle of forty-five degrees with the course of the smoke, and the usual fire screen is stretched across the mouth. The dust and cinders carried into the stack are stopped by the slanting screen and fall back harmlessly, the second screen assisting by catching what few grains the first allows to pass. Besides these two screens another prevention is provided in the shape of a small hot-water pipe in the stack, from which a spray is produced that wets the cinders, deadening them and assisting them in their passage into a waste-pipe below, which carries them to a box at the side of the engine. This attachment may be used or not at the pleasure of the engineer, being governed by a stopcock from the boiler.

This invention has been on trial upon the Fitchburg Railroad during the past three weeks with sufficient success to warrant the inventor in pushing his plans to perfection. The advantages of the curved stack is not only in the prevention of dust and cinders upon the train, but to avoid the damage by fires along the track, which have been the cause of so much expense to railway companies. This latter object is completely attained, and that without any apparent loss of power. It was at first supposed that the draft would be so seriously checked by the new stack as to counterbalance the other advantages, but experiments have shown that such is not the case, and that steam is made equally as well as with the ordinary stack.

A PROCESSION OF DRUNKEN MEN.

A merchant, going home drunk, staggered against a lamp post.

"Beg your pardon," said he, "I hope no offence. It's dark, and the street is narrow, you see."

In a few moments he came in contact with another post.

"Couldn't help it, sir," said he, lifting his hat; "I never saw such crooked lanes."

"Again he ran foul of a post, this time with a force which sent him over backwards."

"Look here, neighbor, you need not push a fellow down because he happend to touch you; the road is as much mine as yours, and I have as much right to be here as you, old stick-in-the-mud."

He picked himself up, and made another effort to reach his home, but he soon came plump against another post.

"I shan't make any apologies," said he, "If you get into the middle of the street, and stand in my way, that's your look out, and not mine."

Proceeding on his journey again, and becoming angry and dizzy, he seemed to be entangled in an inextricable labyrinth of lamp posts, which led him to make a general speech.

"Gentlemen, you are not doing the fair thing. You do not give a man a chance. You run from one side of the street to the other right in my way."

Just then he met a friend, and taking him by the hand he said:—

"There is a procession going along the street and every man is drunk; they have been running against me all the way from the club. I knocked one of the fellows down, and then a lot of them got around me, and I believe they would have kicked me within an inch of my life if you had not come to the rescue.—Let us go out of this street before the procession comes back, for they are all drunk."

Thoughts and Facts. A friend that you buy with presents will be bought from you. That is a good horse that never stumbles, and good wife that never grumbles. Censure is a tax that man pays to the public for being eminent. Be thrifty to yourself, that you may be liberal towards others. Hurry is the mark of a weak mind; despatch is the evidence of a strong one. When fortune caresses a man too much, she is apt to make a fool of him. Between passion and lying there is not a finger's breadth. There is no blessing like that of health, particularly when you're sick.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

CLOSING LECTURE. The last lecture of the course on sciences, by Mr. L. S. Richards, on Monday evening next, will be on correlation of forces, which explains heat, light, motion, tide, and electricity, including lightning and the telegraph.—These lectures have been listened to with pleasure and increased interest by a very attentive audience who are indebted to Mr. Richards for a few pleasant and well spent evenings. We think that if our children could have more lectures, on some interesting subject that could be explained and illustrated it would not only be of great advantage to them now, but some good seed might be sown from which a rich harvest might be reaped in the future.

HORSE KILLED. A valuable horse belonging to J. Loud & Co., grain dealers near the depot in this town, was killed on Monday evening, on the bridge over Granite street, by the lightning train. The horse while being unharnessed, escaped and ran on the railroad track until he came to the open bridge when his legs went through making him a prisoner. The depot master knowing that the New York train was about due, ran with the flag to have them brake up, but owing to the speed they were unable to stop. The engineer seeing the danger ahead and being unable to prevent an accident, put on all the speed he possibly could, and rushed ahead tearing the poor imprisoned creature into fragments and scattering the pieces as far as the bridge over School street. But for the presence of mind of the engineer we might have had a frightful accident to record.

We hope that the Corporation will see that this bridge is planked immediately, or something else done that would make it passable, for it appears to be nothing but trap as it now is,—three accidents having happened at the same place within a yaer.

RASCALLY. Some persons entered the Blacksmith shop of Mr. Lockwood, on Hancock street, on Wednesday night last, and wilfully smashed to pieces a machine used by Mr. Whitney for horse clipping. It is thought by some that it was done by parties interested in the same business. But whatever the motive, it was a rascally act, that deserves a good punishment. Mr. Whitney, fortunately has a number of these machines, which do their work in an excellent manner, much better than can be done by hand, and is prepared to clip all the horses that our citizens may desire.

A HANDSOME YIELD. Daniel Baxter, Esq., planted some squash seeds, on a small piece of land about three rods square, near his residence, on the tenth of June last, where he had some potatoes growing, and on the twelfth of September, gathered about a ton of handsome marrow squashes, many of them weighing about eighteen and twenty pounds apiece. This we call gardening to some purpose, and doubt if any one in this vicinity could show such a yield, produced on such a small piece of land.

ROGUES. Some one entered our office between Saturday night and Monday morning last, by prying open a window in the press room. After effecting an entrance they chiseled open two doors, we suppose with the expectation of finding an entrance to the store below. In the lower entry near the street door they concluded to bore for "ile" in Mr. Clapp's cellar, but unfortunately they hit a beam, which prevented them from going very deep. The same night an unsuccessful attempt was made to enter Mr. Clapp's store, through the rear window, but the shutter was too tightly barred.

ACCIDENT. Mrs. Daniel French, an aged and estimable lady of this place, met with quite a serious accident, two weeks ago to-night, which at the time was thought would prove fatal. Having occasion to get something from a top shelf in a closet, she stood on a chair which tipped over, throwing her against the stove, cutting a deep gash in the back of her head. She has been in a very critical condition since the accident, owing to erysipelas, but we are pleased to learn that the symptoms are a little more favorable, and hopes are entertained of her recovery.

☞ Rev. Mr. Francis, of Cambridge, will preach in the Universalist Church, in this place next Sunday.

Rev. W. W. Dean, of Washington, is expected on the following Sunday.

Sentence of Daniell---the Bank Defaulter.

In the United States Circuit Court on Monday last, Ellery E. Daniell, of Dedham, the defaulting Cashier of the Webster National Bank of Boston, to the tune of $46,000, was sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Dedham jail. He had carried on the embezzlement for about a dozen years, by making false entries in the bank books, when, at last, by accident the crime was exposed.

On being discovered he surrendered all his property to indemnify the bank as far as he could.

Mr. Daniell and family have resided in Dedham for many years. For the last eight or ten, they have lived in the height of fashion,—a handsome house, nice furniture, many servants, fast horses, &c., and in the summer spent several months at the seashore, in a residence at Squantum. He has many friends in Dedham, and his request was that his imprisonment should be in the jail in that place.

QUERY.

Can any of your numerous readers give any information concerning the whereabouts of the Superintendent of the Cemeteries, who was chosen at the last March Meeting.

Has he gone to that bourne from which no traveler returns; or has he been spirited away: or has he got lost in that crooked way which leads from Sea to Greenleaf street. GRAVESTONE.

☞ The heavy rain on Wednesday last, together with the unusual high tide did considerable damage in various parts of the town. We are pleased however to learn that Squantum causeway, which has cost considerable the past year for repairs, was scarcely injured by the tide.

SAILED. The Hon. Charles Francis Adams, of this town, one of the arbitrators to the Geneva Conference, sailed from Boston, on Tuesday last, in the steamer Tripoli, for Liverpool. He is accompanied by his youngest son, Mr. Henry Brooks Adams. He bears with him the regards and respects of all his fellow citizens. At the monthly meeting of the Massachusetts Historical Society, at which he was present last week, the President (Mr. Winthrop) gave expression to the sincere wishes of them all for his health and welfare, and to the earnest hope, entertained by them all, that his mission in the cause of peace and justice might be crowned with success, and that he might entitle himself to renewed honor and gratitude on his second return home as an ambassador of his country. The whole society rose in attestation of their hearty concurrence in the good wishes of the President.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14, 1871.

The elections—municipal and State—have passed off in a very quiet manner, and are, in the aggregate, very satisfactory to all who value the rights of freemen, albeit, there was some very glaring frauds perpetrated by both parties. The friends of reform were eminently successful in this city, and the series of investigation commenced, will not end until the whole system of fraud is unearthed and laid bare. The wrong under which the metropolitan city has suffered will be righted by the people themselves, and at the assembling of the legislature such rigorous measures will be enacted that political rogues will be forced, henceforth, to take a back seat.

As an instance of the vigor with which the work is progressing I may mention that the Hon. (?) James Irving, ex-alderman, ex-assemblyman, ex-gambler etc., was arrested for interfering with a Deputy U. S. marshal, and marched to the Tombs hand-cuffed, like any ordinary criminal; and although the prosecution may fail in making out the case fully, it will be a good lesson to those high in power, who are prostituting their offices to the basest purposes.

In Brooklyn the frauds have also attracted attention, and at a mass meeting—large in numbers and of the greatest respectability—a committee of fifty was appointed to bring to justice those who endeavored to nullify the purety of the ballot-box.

The Duke Alexis has not yet arrived, although the city was thrown into convulsions on Saturday by the arrival of a frigate of the Russian fleet. When he does come there will be a series of splendid fetes and pageants, all of which I will inform you.

The city was treated to a somewhat novel sight on Sunday. The 84th regiment marched from their armory to Calvary church, without music, and listened to a sermon from their chaplain.

Botts, the murderer of the notorious "Pet" Halstead, of Newark, has been sentenced to be hung, a specimen of "Jersey" justice which New York would do well to copy.

Barnum, the irrepressible showman, is again in the city, with a rare collection of beasts and curiosities, at the Rink, the largest building in New York.

Miss Cushman, by long odds the greatest actress of the age, has just concluded a most brilliant engagement at Booth's Theatre.

Henry Ward Beecher, on Sunday, preached an excellent sermon on political corruption, to a crowded congregation; hundreds being turned away for want of room.

The remainder of the "ring" have not yet been arrested, but are skulking all over the country to avoid arrest; transferring their property and endeavoring to hide the evidences of their guilt. Truly "the mills of the gods grind exceeding slow, but grind exceeding sure.

The weather has continued very cold, but as yet snow has not made its appearance, and I trust it will not for a while, for however pleasant it may be in the country it is a great nuisance in a large city like New York.

The new grand depot is in active operation, the Central & Harlem both starting from thence. W. F. G.

NEW FIRM. Mr. James A. McLellan having connected himself with a wholesale firm in Boston, will keep at his old stand a choice and very extensive stock of dress goods, flannels, shawls, and a general stock of fancy goods, which he intends to sell at Boston prices, thus saving our citizens the necessity of going to the city for these goods.

AUCTION. Jos. W. Lombard, sells in front of his store this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, two calves, two stoves, &c.—Chance for bargains. Mr. Elbrige Clapp bought a large and pretty cow, suitable for beef, for about $19, on Saturday last, at the same place.

LECTURE. The second lecture of the People's Course will be on Thursday evening next, by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, who is universally acknowledged to be the ablest woman orator in New England. We have heard her spoken of as a woman of rare intellect, with a clear ringing voice, which convinces and captivates the audience.

HARPER'S FOR DECEMBER. With the present Number is commenced the Forty-fourth Volume of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. For the artistic excellence, as for the number of its illustrations, HARPER'S MAGAZINE is unsurpassed. Its immense circulation, enables the Publishers to expend upon it, for literary and artistic features alone, the sum of fifty thousand dollars a year. Containing from fifty to one hundred per cent. more matter than any other Magazine in the world, the greatest variety is secured in its contents, while it is possible, at the same time, to include long and important articles upon all subjects commanding the attention of the public mind. For sale at Souther's Periodical Store.

Summary Intelligence.

Oscar Dunn, the Lieut. Gov. of Louisiana, was thirty years ago a runaway slave, for whom a reward of $500 was offered.

The lobster factory at Prospect Harbor, Me., has packed 188,000 cans of lobsters this season.

An Illinois burglar slid down a chimney to get into a store, but as the fireplace had been walled up he did not get out until the occupants helped him.

The shipments of Missouri iron ores are nearly double those of last year for a corresponding period.

An old lady in Hartford, who had during her life broken nearly every principal bone in her body, fell Thursday, cracked her skull, and added one to the score.

A parasol with a perfect clock in the handle is exhibited in a Detroit jeweler's shop-window.

Newporters put camphor bags around the necks of pet dogs to prevent them taking the small-pox.

The Relief Committee of Chicago have expended upwards of $100,000 in stoves. They are the only article that can be used for heating the temporary structures erected to shelter the homeless population.

Some single days, over 100,000 bushels of oysters have been taking from the Chesapeake Bay, which is the greatest oyster-bed in the world, and is said to be inexhaustible.

It is estimated that 3000 pianos were destroyed in the Chicago fire, besides $1,500,000 worth of other instruments.

The locomotives of this country have consumed it is said, during the past twelve months, $56,000,000 worth of wood; and it is estimated that 150,000 acres of the best timber land in the Republic are cut down every year to supply the demand for rail way ties alone.

☞ The Hancock House is receiving a coat of paint. Several residences in the centre of the town have received like attention recently. Many persons believe that cold weather is the best time to paint a house, as the oil does not soak into the wood so deeply, but remains more on the surface, forming a hard and durable coat.

Sales. We copy the following sales of Real Estate, in the north part of the town, from the Boston Journal, viz :—

Joseph H. Beale to Edward G. Randall, corner Beale street and Highland avenue, 11,665 1-2 feet, for $3300.

Cheever Newhall to David H. McKay, four lots on the southerly side of Appleton street, and two lots on Walker street, for $10,378 90.

Squantum Land Associates to Mary A. Dodge, 29 lots lying on Beach, Grove and Cottage Avenues, 117,950 feet, for $9436.

Squantum Land Associates to Cornelia Hurlbut, 8 lots corner Beach and Circuit avenues, 30,878 8-10 feet; 2 lots between Beach and Cottage avenues, 8000 feet, for $3110 30.

By another deed from same to same, 10 lots on Beach and Cottage avenues and Circuit street, 40,000 feet, for $3200.

Earned $500 in One Day. A young woman in a Lynn shoe manufactory, whose duty it is to fasten in the caps and soles of ladies' boots together, preparatory to lasting, recently prepared twenty cases of boots in ten minutes less than ten hours. The achievement was the result of a bet of $1000 against $500 that she could not perform such a task, which she undertook with the promise that she should have one-half the forfeit, if successful. She thus earned $500 in one day.

☞ A letter passed through the Belgrade, Me., Post Office the other day bearing the following direction : "To the Post Master to Boston, Mass. Misther, plase to sind this letter to my friend Bridget Roberts who does Gineral House work at No. 11 Camdem St., and don't charge her nothing for I have paid three cents."

The largest cotton-mill in the world will commence operations in Norwich, Conn., in a few weeks. Its capacity is 110,000 spindles.

The "Little Washer." We would call the attention of our readers to Hall's "Little Washer." We have had one of these excellent articles, to lessen the fatigue of washing day, in our household for a number of weeks, and must say that it gives the most perfect satisfaction.—It is simple, but durable, and works very easy. If any part of the garment is more soiled than the rest, that part can receive the most washing, which is not the case with most washing machines offered to the public. Any further information in regard to this useful invention will be ready given by us, or by the agent, C. H Leverton, P. O. Box 228, Hyde Park, Mass.

Commerce of Boston. Since January 1st, 1871, thirty-two hundred and eighteen vessels from foreign ports have arrived in Boston with cargoes, making an average of more than ten per day. At the present time there are nine ships on the way from Calcutta, and twenty-one more from Bombay, Foochow, Manilla and other East Indian ports, making a total of thirty Indiamen.—Nearly seventy more vessels from other foreign ports, are also bound to Boston, all of which are laden with valuable cargoes. The commerce of the metropolis of New England the present year will probably nearly equal that of Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans and San Francisco combined.

Nearly all new churches in Brooklyn are built of iron.

☞ F. Zuchtman, 238 Washington Street, Boston, has at his warerooms the United Piano Makers celebrated and world-renowned grand, square and upright Gold Medal greatly improved Patent Agraffe Piano Forte, the most perfect success ever introduced to the public in the shape of a musical instrument.

☞ Watch No. 21039, Stem Winder —Manufactured by United States Watch Co., (Giles, Wales & Co., Marion, N. J., has been carried by me four months; its total variation from mean time being seven seconds per month,—S. M. Beard firm of Beard & Cummings, 128 Front St., N. Y.

There are twenty thousand acres planted to grapes in western New York.

A Child with Eight Legs and a Pig's Head. There is in the possession of a French physician, named D. Vemame, who resides in Brooklyn, a monstrous curiosity, in the shape of a malformed child of porcine tendencies. The pig headed child is preserved by the doctor in a large two-gallon glass jar, which is filled with spirits. It has a head resembling very closely that of a pig, with four ears, two bodies from the abdomen down, and is likewise provided with eight legs. The eyes particularly resemble those of a pig, and the nose, mouth and chin project slightly after the manner of a porker. Altogether it is a sight at once strange and horribly repulsive. The doctor intends to send it to Paris as soon as possible.

WINTER IS COMING.

The sere and yellow leaf now cast
Upon old Mother Earth,—
Rude Boreas, with his frosty breath,—
All speak of winter's birth.

Then be wise in time, all you that mean
For his advent to prepare,
And call, where Good Clothing can be seen,
On Richards, twenty-five Dock Square.

In vain you will not call, we know;
For there you'll surely find
The price and garments he will show,
Just suited to your mind.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

What changes in the world we've seen,
Since fifty years ago, or so;
What revolutions there have been,
A host of facts there are to show.
To travel fifty miles a day,
Our fathers found a task indeed;
Two hundred now—or more—we may
Be drawn by the fierce Iron Steed.
The Boys then "dressed" in home-spun 'clothes'
With cow-hide shoes upon their feet;
But now they're "Clothed" at George Fenno's,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

UNION
BUSINESS COLLEGE,
400 Washington street, opp. Boylston, BOSTON.

The most complete, practical and thorough instruction in all branches of a sound business education. The rooms (the largest, best lighted and ventilated in New England) have been recently refitted and refurnished at a great expense, making them the pleasantest and best arranged apartments to be found. The course of study is divided into three departments, viz : Initiatory, Theory and Practice, and will be carried out in the most able manner by teachers of more than 40 years' combined experience. Call or address for superior samples of penmanship, and college circular containing terms, etc., etc.

THE LOWEST PRICES!
Lace Curtains, Draperies and Bedding.

We invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons :
1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer
2d We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.
3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.
4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

WORK FOR ALL.

"Folded hands are always weary"—
This is what the children sung,
All the morning I have heard it,
Sounding in a clarion tongue.

If I cannot help in planting,
Or in garnering the grain,—
If I cannot furnish sunshine,
Or the warm and strengthening rain,—

I may yet with careful watching
Keep the garden free from weeds,
That the gentle rain and sunshine
May enrich the precious seed.

Farmers' Department.

COW STABLE FLOORS.

Throughout the country not more than one barn in every ten can be found that contains a stable floor so constructed but that the cattle are compelled to lie in their own filth, and the sides, legs and udders of the cows are in a most untidy condition when the morning milking is done, and unless a great deal of washing and painstaking is practiced the milk cannot be carried from the stable in its original purity.

Now but little work is required to remove the one great cause of discomfort to cattle in stalls, and almost the whole cause of having winter milk unpalatable and impure. A platform should be built for the cows to stand upon, extending far enough back from the stanchions to give sufficient standing room, and no more. In this way a dry, clean place, to lie upon is secured.

There are different modes for making this platform. Where a new floor is being put in, a short part can be laid at the back and the balance laid at an elevation of two or three inches above; the last, of course, over-lapping the first.

On floors already laid, a good way is to spike down two by three scantling a little back of where the hind feet will come, and fill the space between this and the stanchion sill with sawdust or dirt. This will make a good bed for the animals to rest upon, and it will also absorb all the moisture that may fall upon it. If dry sawdust, spent tan bark or dirt are put in, moisture will not be contracted in sufficient amount to injure the floor below, unless stock other than cows are kept upon it.

Another good way is to lay down three strips of inch boards, and upon these lay the platform of two inch plank, giving an elevation of three inches. Air will circulate between the two floors and prevent rot. It is not economy to nail one floor to another without space between.

KEEPING FRUIT.

The agricultural writer of the N. Y. Observer makes the following suggestion in regard to keeping fruit.

The only reason why fruit will keep better in a dark than in a light apartment is, light apartments, being entered more frequently than dark ones, the temperature is not maintained with as much uniformity as it is in dark rooms which are not occupied. Let a quantity of apples or pears be placed on shelves in a light room which is not occupied by any person, and let a similar quantity be enclosed and placed in the same room, where both will be exposed to the same degree of heat and cold, and it will be seen that the fruit that was left in the light, when fully ripe, will be more luscious than that left in the dark. The reason why fruit of any sort shrinks more on a shelf than in a drawer is, moisture is constantly evaporating from the surface; and when it is in an airy place it will yield up its moisture and shrivel much sooner than if it were in a close receptacle where evaporation would be impeded.

WORMS IN FLOWER-POTS. Mrs. D. B. Morse, Steamboat Rock, Iowa, writes Oct. 7th, 1871: "My house-plants have a great many very small, white worms in the earth at the roots, in consequence of which the growth is stopped and all the buds blast and drop off. Please tell me what I can do to destroy them and preserve the plants." As no information is given as to the kind of plants, we must answer on general principles. We should turn the plants out of the pots. Shake out what earth would come away readily, and then wash off the rest, putting the ball in a pail of water, and moving it gently up and down. We should then examine the roots, and be sure that no worms remained; cut back the tops of the plant somewhat, and re-pot in fresh earth.—Hearth and Home.

Anecdotes.

"Pat, "who is this Nillson we hear so much spakin' about in the newspapers?"
"Don't you know, Mike?
Why, it's that ould sea divil, Nillson, that fit the battle of the Nile, to be sure."

"Peter," said a mother to her son, "are you into them sweetmeats again?"
"No, ma'm, them sweetmeats is into me."

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless langnor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

WATERS'

BOTANICAL

Hair Life.

THIS Beautiful preparation for the Hair and Scalp, has gained the confidence of the people more than any thing that has ever been discovered. It restores the Hair from a Gray, to a beautiful Black or dark Brown, without those poisonous minerals that's so injurious to the eyes; it removes all Dandruff and the most inveterate itching of the Scalp. For a toilet article, its unsurpassable.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So triumphant is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1846, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., NOVEMBER 18th, 1871.

HOW ABOUT ELIJAH?

A Methodist minister was on his travels through the West of Illinois, twenty years ago. Illinois was a wild place then. He traveled twenty miles one day before coming to a farm-house. But there he was received with hospitality. Chicken pot-pie and corn dodgers composed his supper; but to a hungry man these are as good as a truffled turkey.

A fine old grandmother of the house was most profuse in her hospitality. She pressed the pot-pie upon the holy man's plate till he could eat no more. And then, when the family was gathered around the great log chimney, and its blazing fire, the venerable dame opened her mouth and thus spake:

"Ah, well-a-day! it's a grand comfort to have a minister of the Gospel in these parts. It's twenty years ago now since I have seen one on 'em. I've been readin' o' my Bible all that time, and a waitin' to see a minister to ax him a question about suthin' I don't rightly understand."

"Madam," answered the cautious minister, "I am so tired with my long ride that I could not enter into a serious question till I have slept; but if you will ask me to-morrow morning, before I set out, I will answer it to the best of my ability."

The old lady expressed herself satisfied, and the cunning minister secured a soft couch for the night. The next morning grandma was up early, and hard at work trying slapjacks for the minister's breakfast. This last being dispatched, the old lady was still in a nervous fidget about her question, while the holy man's horse was saddled and brought to the door.

After adjusting his saddle-bags and shaking hands with all the family, he mounted his horse, and turning to her asked:

"And now, madam, what is your question?"

"Waal, minister," said she, "yer know how it sez in the Bible, that arter Elisha was made a prophet, the heavens opened and Elijah was taken up to heaven in a chariot and horses o' fire.—It's better nor twenty years sin' I seed that ere in the Bible, and I have puzzled over it ever since; an' there an't a soul round these diggins knows any more nor I. But you're a minister o' the Gospel, an' ought to know all them things. Now, what I want to know is this: Did the Lord take up Elijah right straight to heaven, or didn't he go kinder slantendicular?"

History has not recorded the minister's reply.

A GOOD DAUGHTER.

There are other ministers of love more conspicuous than she, but none in which a gentler, lovelier spirit dwells, and none to which the heart's warm requitals more joyful respond. She is the steady light of her father's house. Her idea is indissolubly connected with that of his fireside. She is the morning sunlight and his evening star. The grace, vivacity and tenderness of her sex have their place in the mighty sway which she holds over his spirit. She is the pride and ornament of his hospitality, and the gentle nurse of his sickness.

The eight pin factories of the country produce annually 6,720,000,000 pins.—The production and consumption increase about ten per cent. every year. There is but one hairpin factory, which turns out fifty tons per month.

HEATING A CITY BY STEAM.

Among the many improvements in cities which the enforced rebuilding of Chicago has suggested, is that of heating the entire town by steam in a manner very similar to that by which it was formerly lighted—by means of pipes running under ground from some central reservoir to each house, thus doing away forever with the annoyance caused by bad coal, damp wood, kindlings, &c. It may be doubted, says the New York Times, whether the time is ripe for so extensive an improvement; but when we remember that steam may be forced through these pipes to an immense distance, with a very slight diminution of heat, at the rate of seven miles per minute, it does indeed seem as if the day could not be far distant when a practical application shall be made of what has long been theoretically admitted.—*Phila. Poetry.

MOTHER'S HAIR.

I'm gazing on a token now—
A treasure pure and fair—
Which memory loves and values much,
This lock of mother's hair.

The tears steal slowly down my face,
There's none my grief to share—
Alone and sad, ah! how I prize
This lock of mother's hair.

When fortune frowns upon my path,
And I'm bowed down with care;
Solace I find in looking on
This little lock of hair.

Ah! loved memento, silken tress,
Precious beyond compare!
Blest was the day they gave to me
A ringlet of her hair.

Earth may take from me all I have,
But naught shall ever tear
From my bereaved and lonely heart,
This lock of mother's hair.

Interesting Selections.

Dutch Cake. Two and a half pounds of flour, one pound of butter, one pound of sugar, a little yeast, cinnamon, nutmeg, two glasses of rose water, some currants or raisins.

To Keep up Sash Windows. This is performed by means of cork, in the simplest manner, and with scarcely any expense. Bore three or four holes in the sides of the sash, into which insert common bottle corks, projecting about the sixteenth of an inch. These will press against the window-frames along, the usual groove, and by their elasticity support the sash at any height required.

☞ A young lady having called out an ugly gentleman to dance with her, he was astonished at the condescension, and believing that she was in love with him desired to know why she had selected him from the rest of the company. "Because, sir," replied the lady, "my husband commanded me to select a partner that would not give him cause for jealousy."

☞ No career, however noble or exalted it may seen in itself, will truly bless him who follows it, unless he carry into it the spirit of truth, justice and love. Then all business is sacred, and all life is religion.

☞ The following lines were found on a lawyer's table in a court house after the adjournment of the court the other day—"Fair woman was made to bewitch; a companion, a nurse, a blessing, a curse, fair woman was made to be which?"

☞ "It is bad breeding." said an English work, "to abstain from taking the last piece on a dish, because it implies a contempt on your part for the resources of your entertainers. Are you to suppose for a moment that they have no more of the same in the house?"

☞ A plasterer and his boy employed to whitewash a house by the day, were so tedious that the owner asked the lad, in his master's absence, when he thought they would be done. The boy bluntly replied that "his master was looking out for another job, and if he found one, they should make an end that week."

☞ God renders earth desolate to induce us to seek a better country; He strikes away every human prop, and puts failure and vexation into every wordly scheme, that you may turn from your idols unto Him.

☞ A clergyman, reading a chapter of the Bible for his congregation, found himself at the bottom of the page with the words, "And the Lord gave Noah a wife," then, turning over two pages instead of one, he continued, "and he pitched her within and without with pitch."

☞ There is no happiness like that of being loved by your fellow-creatures, and feeling that your presence is an addition to their comfort.

☞ George Elliot hints the rustic practice of chewing the end of a straw may be some faint reminiscence of the time when the human animal was granivorous.

☞ The chairman of an Ohio vigilance committee, who was instructed to duck an obnoxious citizen, thus reported to his constituents: "We took the thief down the river, made a hole in the ice, and proceeded to duck him; but he slipped through our hands and hid under the ice. All our efforts to entice him to come out failed, and he has now retained his point of advantage some hours."

☞ It is said that fruit-trees planted in timbered land will come into bearing sooner than those planted on prairie land, but the latter will continue fruitful much longer than the former.

Sabbath Breaking. A little Utica girl noticing a gentleman of very severe countenance passing in the street on a Sunday, asked, "Mother, ain't it breaking the Sabbath to look so cross when he's going to meeting?"

☞ Men fear death, because they do not know it, as children fear the dark.

Miscellany.

ONLY A COUNTRY GIRL.

"You're mistaken. I would sooner die than marry a country girl."

"But Fred, suppose her intelligent, moral, full of natural poetry, tender-hearted, graceful, unspoiled by admiration, a guileless, simple, loving creature!"

"Oh!" said Fred laughing, "choice collection of virtue and grace! Country beauties are always sweet, and so are country cows. No, I tell you if she was as lovely as an angel, with the best sense in the world, still, if unskilled in music and literature, with no soul above churns and knitting-needles, I would not marry her for a fortune."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Helen Irving, but it was a very pianissimo laugh, away down in the very corner of her heart.—Hidden by the trunk of a large tree, she sat reading within a few feet of the egotist.

In another moment the lady came in sight. Fred's face crimsoned, and he whispered, with visible trepidation:—

"Do you think she heard me?"

"No, rejoined the other, audibly; "she shows no resentment; she has not even looked up from her book; you are safe; she could not have heard you; but what an angel she is!"

Yes, Helen was an angel as far as outward beauty might merit the encomium. She sat half reclining on a rustic seat, striving to smooth out the dimples in her cheeks as she laid her book aside, and began to twine an unfinished wreath of wild roses.

Leaning on one white arm, the gnarled white oak tree's back ground, flowers strewed around her, peeping from her dress, she sat quite at ease apparently unconscious that two handsome young gentlemen were so near her.

Approaching with a low bow, upon which his mirror had set the seal of faultless elegance, Frederick took the liberty of asking if the young lady would inform him where Mr. Irving lived.

With an innocent smile the beauty looked up.

"Mr. Irving, the only one living in the village, is my father," said she, rising in a graceful and charming manner. "The large house on high ground, half hidden by trees and thick shrubbery, that's where we live."

He replied with another very graceful bow.

"Tell your father," said he, "that I shall do myself the honor to call upon him to-morrow. He will remember me, Frederick Lane, at you service."

"Yes, sir, I will tell him for you," said Helen, tucking her sleeve around her, pretty arm, and making a rather formal courtesy. Then catching up her books, and gathering some flowers, she hurried home.

"Now father, mother, aunt and sister," exclaimed the merry girl, bounding into the room where the family were at supper, "so sure as you and I live, that Mr. Lane you talk so much about is in the village. He will call here to-morrow—the first specimen of a city beau (as of course he is,) all sentiment, refinement, fautless in kids and spotless in dicky, important and self-assured as one of that kind can possibly be. Promise me, all of you, that you will not lisp one word about music, reading and writing, in his presence, because I have a plan. Father will not, I know, but if you, sis, will keep quiet and ask no questions, I will give you that work-box you have coveted so long."

"Helen you are not quite respectful," said her father.

"Forgive me, dear father," and her arms went around his neck. "I always mean well, but I am thoughtless. There, all is right now," she added, kissing him lovingly on the temple.

"Come, sis, what say you?"

"Why, on that condition, I'll be as still as a mouse; but what's your reason?"

"Ah! that's my own business," said Helen, dancing ont of the room.

* * * * * * * *

Helen sat down at an open window, through which rose-bushes thrust their blushing buds, making both a sweet shade and fragrance. The canary overhead burst forth every moment in wild snatches of glorious music. Helen was at work on long, blue stockings, nearly finished, and her fingers flew like snow-birds.

"You knit most admirably. Are you fond of it?"

"Yes, quite,—I like it better than anything else but one,—that is, I mean I can churn well."

"And do you read much?" Fred's glance had traveled from the corners of his eyes to every table, shelf and corner, in search of some books or papers; but not a page nor a leaf, yellow or rare, repaid his search.

"Oh! yes," said Helen, with a sanctified air.

"What books? permit me to ask."

"I read the Bible a good deal," she said, gravely.

"Is that all?"

"All, of course not; and what do we not find in the Bible? History, poetry, eloquence, romance, the most thrilling pathos, blushing and recollecting herself, she added, with a manner as childish as it before had been dignified," as for the other books, let me see, I've got in my library—there's the Primer (counting on her fingers), Second Class Reader, Robinson Crusoe, Nursery Tales, Fairy Stories, two or three elements of something, Biography of some person or other, Mother's Magazine, and King William III. There, isn't there a good assortment?"

Fred smiled.

"Perhaps I don't know as much as those who went to school more," she added, as if disappointed at the mute rejoinder, but in the art of making bread and churning butter and keeping house, I am not to be easily outdone."

The young man felt more in pity than in love, but his visit did not always so result. He began to feel a magnetic attraction, and he mainly attributed it to Helen's beauty; but the truth is, her sweetness and artlessness of character, engaging manner and disposition, quite won the city-bred, aristocratic Frederick Lane. There was a freshness about what she said or did. She perplexed as delighted in him.

Often, as he was wondering how some homely expression would be received in good society, some beautiful sentiment would suddenly drop like a pearl from her lips remarkable for its originality.

"If I should fall into the snare," thought he "I can educate her. It will be worth trying."

It was useless to combat his passion; so at last he fell at Helen's feet, figuratively speaking, and confessed his love for her.

"I care not, Helen, only be mine," was his invariable answer to her exclamation of unworthiness. "How would she appear in society?" * * * * * *

They were married, had returned from their wedding tour, and yet at the expiration of their honeymoon; Fred was more in love than ever. At a grand entertainment, given by the relatives of the bridegroom, Helen looked more beautiful than ever. Her husband did not insist that she should depart from simplicity, and indeed, without jewels, or laces, with the fresh, white robe, simple sash of blue, and ornaments of fair moss roses, she was by far the most lovely creature in the room. As she entered the great saloon, blazing with light, her heart failed her.

"Shall I love him as dearly," she asked herself, "if I find he is ashamed of me? I cannot bear the thought; but should he overcome all conventional notions, then I have a husband to be honored, and then he shall be proud of his wife."

How she watched him as he presented her to one and another.

"Simple," whispered a magnificent girl, resplendent with diamonds, as she curled her lips and passed by. The observation escaped neither Helen nor her husband. She looked at him. He smiled a lover's smile, and only drew her closely to his side. Many in that brilliant gathering pitied poor Fred, and wondered why he had martyred himself on the shrine of ignorant simplicity.

But he—oh joy! he seemed to love her the more as she clung to his arm so timidly. His noble face expressed the pride he truly felt. He looked as if he would have swept back the scorners with one motion of his hand, had they ventured one wave too high on the shore of his pride. He seemed to excuse every look, every word not in strict conformity to etiquette; and Helen's heart beat high, and tears came to her eyes, when she felt how noble a heart she had won.

The young bride stood near her husband, talking in a low tone when a new comer appeared. She was a beautiful, slightly-formed creature, with haughty features. Ill-concealed scorn lurked in the brilliant eyes whenever she glanced toward Helen. Once she held sway over the heart of Fred, and hearing whom he had married, she fancied her time had come.

"Do you suppose she knows anything?" whispered a low voice near her.

Helen's eyes sparkled, her face flushed indignantly. She turned towards her husband. He was gone, speaking at a little distance with a friend.

"Do you play, Mrs. Lane?" she asked. There was a mocking tone in her voice.

"A little," answered Helen, her cheeks blushing.

"And sing?"

"A little," was the half reply.

"Then do us a favor," exclaimed Miss Somers, looking askance at her companions.

"Come. I myself will lead you to the instrument."

Hark! whose masterly touch? Instantly was the half-spoken word arrested, the cold ear and haughty heads were turned in listening surprise. Such melody! Such correct intonations! Such breadth, depth and vigorous touch! Who is she? She indeed plays like an angel.

"Glorious voice!" said Fred to his friend, who with the rest had paused to listen.

"Who can she—"

The words were suddenly arrested on his lips. She turned from the piano, and the unknown was his wife!

"I congratulate you, Fred," said the young man at his side, but he spoke to marble. The color had left his cheeks as he walked slowly towards her.

If he was speechless with amazement, she was not. A rich bloom mantled her cheek, triumph made her eyes sparkle as they never did before. They flashed like diamonds. A crowd gathered to compliment her. In a graceful acknowledgement she blended wit and humor.

"How well she talked! Who would have thought! He had found a treasure," was whispered all round the room,

Meanwhile Frederick Lane stood like one enchanted, while his rustic wife quoted books with perfect abandon—admired this one, condemned that.

A sedate-looking student lost himself in a Latin quotation: Helen smilingly finished it, and she received a look of eloquent thanks. Bonmots, repartee, language choice, rich, fancy and imagery fell from her beautiful lips, as if they had received a touch from some fairy hand.

Still Frederick stood by her side like one in a dream, pressed his hands over his eyes to be sure of his bewildered senses, when he saw her bending a breathing vision of loveliness, over the harp, her full arm leaning on its golden strings, heard again that rich voice, now plaintive with some tender memory, rise and fall in sweet and sorrowful cadence.

"Tell me," he said when alone "what does this mean? I feel like one awakened from a dream."

"Only a country girl" said Helen; then falling into her husband's arms she exclaimed, "Forgive me, I am that little rustic you would die sooner than wed.—Are you sorry you married me?"

"Sorry, my glorious wife! But, Helen, you could not deceive. Did I not understand you had never—"

"Been at an academy," she broke in, never took a music lesson, never was taught to sing—all very true, and yet I am all you see me here to-night, myself my own teacher. With labor and diligence I hope I am worthy to be the wife of one so good and exalted as I find my husband to be."

Reader, wouldn't you and I like to be there just now, hear her story, and see the bright smiles, upon her pretty dimpled face, as she tells how she banished piano, books, harp, portfolio, music, all in an empty room by themselves, and locking the door, leaving them to seclusion and dust, as the country girl, without any deep-laid scheme, succeeded in convincing the well-bred city gentleman that he could marry a charming rustic, if her fingers were more familiar with the churn and knitting-needles than with the piano and books.

☞ Curran was asked one day what an Irish gentleman, just arrived in England, could mean by perpetually putting out his tongue. "I suppose," said Curran, "he is trying to catch the English accent.

SATURDAY, NOV. 25, 1871

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THANKSGIVING SPORTS. The members of the Active Base Ball Club, propose if it is fair on Thanksgiving morning, at 9 o'clock, to hold forth with merry games, so rife in ye olden times,—running, wrestling, base ball, foot ball, and wheel barrow race. We have no doubt the people can interest themselves for an hour or two.

NEW POST OFFICE. Postmaster Burt, accompanied by the Hon. Oakes Ames and other influential gentlemen, paid a visit to West Quincy on Monday, for the purpose of considering the postal necessities of the residents on and near the line of the Granite Branch Railroad. An urgency exists for a new post-office to accommodate the citizens, and a new office will probably be recommended to be located either at the Granite Bridge station in East Milton, or at West Quincy.

PRESENTATION. Mrs. Sarah G. Dunn, a very estimable lady of this town, has presented to the Orthodox Society, a splendid casket of communion service for use in their new church. At a meeting of the Society, a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Dunn, for her beautiful gift.

DECEASED. Mr. George Minot Dawes, formerly of this town, died at his residence in Brookline, on Sunday evening last, aged 70 years. The deceased was a son of Judge Thomas Dawes, many years since of the supreme judical and probate courts in Suffolk county, and served his time in the employ of the late Josiah Bradlee. Subsequently, he was engaged in the commission trade in Baltimore, and later with the firm of Dawes & Greenleaf in Boston. He was for several of the last years of his life crier of United States courts. He was a man of sterling character and was esteemed and beloved for his many good qualities by an extensive circle of relatives and personal friends.

His remains were brought to this town, on Wednesday last, and interred in the family lot in the old cemetery.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE. There will be a union service of the Methodist, Baptist and Orthodox society in the Congregational Church on Thanksgiving day, commencing at 10 1-2 o'clock. Sermon by Rev. Mr. Williams of the Baptist Church. The public are invited.

SILVER WEDDING. A social gathering of the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Arnold, of this town, met at their residence, on Monday evening, to congratulate the happy couple who had journeyed together in happy wedlock for the last twenty-five years. Many handsome presents were bestowed upon them, and the evening was spent in a social and happy manner. When the company separated, they gave expression to their heartfelt wishes that they might be spared to celebrate their golden wedding.

NEW PRESS. It has given us pleasure to place in our office this week, a new cylinder press, manufactured by C. C. Childs, Esq., of Boston. It was invented some few years since but did not reach that perfection, which gave perfect satisfaction to the public, and to the inventor, Mr. Montague, until quite recently. It is now said to be the best newspaper press for a country office ever manufactured.—As to real merit, from our own experience, we cannot speak, but think from the little we have used it, that it is all that is claimed for it.

Since we enlarged our sheet in 1856, our circulation has been constantly on the increase, so that it has become a long tedious job to work our edition on a hand press; for this reason we have procured the new Acme press to aid us. Also, that we might be able to enlarge our size, thereby giving our subscribers more reading matter. Our advertising patrons, having learned the value of our columns, have badly pressed us of late.

We intend to make our paper still better the coming year, and if all the necessary arrangements can be made previous to the first of January, we shall at that time present the PATRIOT enlarged and improved.

BRAINTREE. On Monday morning last, Mr. Atwood, box maker, of Abington, in passing through the south part of the town on his way to Boston, fell from his load a distance of eight or ten feet. He was taken up insensible and remained so about one hour, when he revived and was taken home to his friends. He is supposed to have fallen in a fit.

The Braintree High School held their annual reunion on Wednesday evening, at the Town Hall. Oration by Mr. D. G. Brooks. The evening was spent pleasantly, concluding with a dance. D.

REPLY TO GRAVESTONE.

I will inform your Correspondent that I am not lost on that crooked way between Sea and Greenleaf street, nor have I gone to that land from whose bourne no traveler returns; but when I proposed to have some work done there, the Chairman of the Board of Selectmen told me he should not pay for it; and stated that the cemeteries were under the direction of the Selectmen, by a vote of some fifteen years standing. The said vote I found on the town records.

Not being willing to serve under the direction of the Selectmen I have had but little to do with them since, except to carry out with my own hands some of the plans began the first of the season.

HEAVY TAXES.

Many years ago the laws of Massachusetts required every man to pay a ministerial or parish tax. This tax was to be paid to the oldest parish in town unless the person registered his name as member of some other religious society, previous to the first day of May. Many men came from New Hampshire and other States every year to work for the season, in the granite ledges in the West part of this town. As there was no such laws in New Hampshire they thought it was very unjust to compel them to pay the tax, but being law-abiding citizens they told the Deacon of the first parish, who was also collector, if he would come on a certain day they would all be ready with the money. Fortunately for the Deacon he went with his carriage that day, for by previous agreement, every man had provided himself with the amount of his tax, in old-fashioned copper cents. As the Deacon's pockets were hardly of sufficient capacity or strength to hold the required amount, a friend kindly lent him an old-fashioned pocket handkerchief, probably about three-quarters of a yard square, in which to tie up the remainder. Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Sensible of their indebtedness to the goodness of God, the people of the Commonwealth have ever been ready to express their gratitude to Him by public acts of worship for all His mercies. We have especial cause of thankfulness that we have been protected during the past year from dreaded disease, from devastating calamity and popular disturbance, and that our labors have been generously rewarded.

In accordance, therefore, with the recommendation of the President to the people of the whole country, I invite the inhabitants of this State to assemble in the usual places of worship, on THURSDAY, the thirtieth of November next, for the purpose of Thanksgiving and Praise.

Let them remember, also, in their social gatherings all those offices of love, charity, and good-will which give to the Present its highest joy, and lift the thoughts, with hope, to the Great Future.

WILLIAM CLAFLIN.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS. The County Commissioners agreeably to a previous notice, viewed the route for a new street from Wollaston Heights to Adams street, last Monday and heard testimony. The only remonstrants, were John Quincy Adams, who appeared for his father, C. F. Adams, senior, and himself; and Hon. E.W. Underwood, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, who remonstrated in behalf of the town. After a somewhat spicy hearing the Commission took the matter under consideration. The watchful care exercised by the town fathers will no doubt be appreciated by the new residents which enterprise has drawn to these Heights.

Rev. Mr. Dodge, Congregationalist, who is now erecting a fine dwelling here, will preach at Union Hall to-morrow. Sabbath School Concert in the evening.

A singing school numbering about 55 is now being taught by Mr. Bemis, a resident of Wollaston and late of Park street Choir. Much interest is evinced.

Fifteen new dwellings are now in process of building and another season promises a rapid increase of dwellings on and about the Heights.

☞ South Scituate voted by 176 to 60, more than the necessary two-thirds—to subscribe five per cent. of its valuation $41,800—for the new Plymouth County Railroad from South Scituate to Quincy Point. The president of the road, Mr. James M. Jacobs, expects by spring to have the whole amount required ready and to begin the road.

☞ The Old Colony and Newport railway company is testing the Westinghaus atmospheric brake, upon one of the regular trains. If the trial proves satisfactory, and there is little doubt that it will, these brakes will be immediately applied to all the passenger trains upon the line.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21, 1871.

"HE HAS COME."

Yes, the Grand Duke Alexis, whose advent to the shores of the United States, has been so anxiously looked for, arrived in our harbor on Sunday morning, and to-day was the recipient of an ovation never excelled in this great city.

From early morning Broadway was thronged, and as the hour for the procession to move drew near, the crowd became so great as to entirely choke locomotion for vehicles. It was not a crowd, it was a jam, and repaid the careful observer who stood and gazed upon it. All classes, conditions and colors were represented: the wealthy banker, the jaunty sprig of fashion, the well-dressed clerk, the hard fisted mechanic, and the ever-present "bummer" And the ladies, well, if the Duke has a heart to lose, he could have lost it a score of times, for bright eyes and lovely forms were everywhere present.

About one o'clock the Duke landed from the steamer Mary Powell, and stepped upon pier number one, which was magnificently decorated for the occasion, the entire 700 feet being hung with flags and bunting. Outside were twenty carriages, with drivers in livery and white gloves, intended for the Duke and reception committee.

As his Highness stepped out, deafening cheers arose, and this applause was continued all the way up Broadway.—Opposite Trinity Church the bells struck up a chime, a Russian march; and opposite the Equitable building, one of the finest in the city, which was fairly alive with ladies, a statue was unveiled. This seemed to please the Duke very much. The statue represents Hope protecting an infant.

At Union Square a balcony was erected, from which he reviewed the troops. The military made a most imposing appearance, and reflected credit on our city.

The police, too, behaved and looked admirable. After the review the Duke retired to the Clarendon Hotel, which has been fitted up in most elegant style for his reception. His further movements I will advise you of in my next, as it is now time for mail to close.

We have had the cholera at our very doors at Quarantine, but it has been checked there, although it may re-appear next summer.

The Savings banks have had a panic, which I fear is not yet over. The Guardian Savings bank, of which Wm. M. Tweed was president, closed its doors last Friday, and the depositors are "out." Being principally supported by city "pap," and the politicians being ousted at the recent election, the "pap" failed and the bank went under. Several other banks are reported as shaky, and no doubt will suspend in a few days. Banking business has been very loosely managed lately, and its effect will be to rob the poorer class of their hard-earned dollars.

The small-pox still keeps pace in certain portions of the city, in spite of the most rigid surveillance of police, and health authorities.

The weather is still very fine for the season. W. F. G.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS. We would call particular attention of our citizens to the advertisements in to-day's paper, of the fair for "Our Dumb Animals." All citizens who can conveniently do so, should lend their aid in some manner. The cause is certainly a good one, and worthy the attention of all our readers.

SALES. Mr. Lombard has two sales advertised in to-days paper. One this afternoon of furniture; and another on Tuesday next, the John Thomas estate, on Granite Place, which is worthy the attention of our readers.

Mr. Hardwick sells on Friday next, a lot of wood belonging to the heirs of the late Jonathan Baxter. For particulars see notice.

☞ Benjamin Webber of this town, who was sentenced to eight years confinement in the State Prison, some four weeks ago for stealing fish at Gloucester, died at the prison on Monday last. He was idiotic, insane and in an almost dying state when incarcerated. He will be remembered by many of our citizens, as a peddler of fish.

LECTURE. The second lecture of the Peoples' course was given on Thursday evening to a large crowd of attentive listeners, by Mrs. M. A. Livemore, who expressed her views in a pleasant lady-like manner. Her ideas were not at all radical, and we think there was none present who did not heartily acquiesce in most of her convincing arguments.

FARMER'S ALMANAC. This old and faithful monitor for 1872, has arrived, and like its predecessors, will find a welcome in every home. We have heard of families who never go on a journey without consulting this oracle of wisdom.—Souther keeps them. Procure one immediately.

Summary Intelligence.

The mud at the outlets of the Mississippi river advances seaward 338 feet every year, and the work of keeping the channels open constantly increases in difficulty.

The women of this country wear 350,000,000 yards of calico a year, and the "horrible" men have to pay for it.

The Massachusetts mills have sent an agent to Hong Kong to employ coolies for operatives. A cargo of them is expected at Salem.

Twenty-five new stores have been opened in North Bridgewater the past year, and more are wanted.

The posterity of John Essex of Bartholomew county, Indiana, who died last week at the age of ninety-nine years, numbers two hundred and ninety-four souls.

Farmers in Vt., are becoming disgusted with the Early Rose potato on account of its rotting badly and turning out poorly.

Marble was first sawed in the manner now in use in New England, with strips of smooth soft iron aided by sand and water, in 1804, by Eben W. Judd, Esq., of Middlebury. This was a revival of the old method employed in Italy in the time of Pliny the younger.

Of all the State debts, that of Virginia is the largest, and that of Oregon the least.

It is reported that Secretary Boutwell and the Senate Finance Committee propose to reduce taxation fifty million dollars. That is about half right.

St. Louis has a direct trade with 10,000 miles of navigable rivers. Her capital invested in river interests is $6,000,000.

Twelve millions of pounds of wool have been exported from California during the past nine months.

In the United States there are one hundred and forty blind persons, two deaf and dumb, seven insane and five idiots over one hundred years old.

A man was discovered the other morning, lying drunk on the sidewalk on Broadway, New York. Eleven thousand dollars were found in money on his person, and scattered about him $10,000 in South Carolina bonds.

There are 10,000,000 bushels of coal at Pittsburgh, waiting for the Ohio River to rise.

Sewing-machines are soon to be introduced in the public schools of the State of North Carolina.

It is estimated that over one hundred and sixty million feet of lumber were destroyed by the recent fires on the shores of Lake Michigan.

The Cape Cod Gazette says seventy-five barrels of cranberries were destroyed by frost at Marston's Mills on Sunday week.

A convention of inventors will meet in New York on the 13th of next month, for the purpose of forming a national union.

☞ We learn that Mr. Joseph A. Bass has recently purchased a very fine two story house at Wollaston, of Mr. C. F. Pinkham, for $4,500.

LARGE TURKEYS. Among the sales at the Union Live Stock market, at Watertown, on Tuesday last were a splendid lot of one hundred turkeys, fifty of them weighing nine hundred and seven pounds which was sold to Charles A. French of South Braintree.

PETERS' MUSICAL MONTHLY. The December number has been received and contains nineteen choice pieces of vocal and instrumental music. The publishers send as a supplement, with this number a copy of Christmas Chimes which is a fine collection of Christmas Carols, and is sent to any address, postpaid for twenty cents. J. L. Peters, 599 Broadway N. Y.

THE NURSERY. We have received the December number of this popular little magazine for children. Its simple but interesting stories and pretty pictures make it an acceptable present for little ones. Those who subscribe now will receive the numbers for November and December in addition to all the numbers for 1871. The terms are only $1 50 a year and the publisher's address is 36 Bromfield street.

WESTERN CORRESPONDENCE.

RED ROCK, Nov. 10th, 1871.

The weather in Kansas has been very dry. We had no rain for over two months. Everything was dry as tinder. Extensive prairie fires have burned over thousands of acres, in many instances.—Houses, barns, hay-stacks, &c., have been destroyed; people will neglect ploughing fire-guards until it is too late, and then have to suffer the consequences.

Herdsmen have lost great quantities of hay, and now they have to drive their cattle many miles, to get on to unburnt lands, frequently, driving three or four days without feed; the people here think that thousands of cattle must starve, unless we have a mild winter. Last winter, many farmers kept their cattle well without feeding at all. All kinds of cattle are lower. Our best native cows are sold for $40. Texas are plenty, and dull sales at from $15 to $20.

It commenced raining on the 7th and has rained hard up to this time. It is said, that it never rains in Kansas, but it pours, and this is generally the case.

I certainly never saw so much rain fall in so short a time as I have seen here, and such thunder and lightning we never experienced in Massachusetts.

Our crops of grain have yielded abundantly. The average yield of corn is near fifty bushels to the acre, and the yield of winter wheat exceeded our greatest expectations.

Our State Fair at Topeka, was a triumph over all our past endeavors in that line, and would put any agricultural fair, that I ever saw in Massachusetts, in the shade.

The hunting season has arrived. Turkeys, ducks and prairie chickens are plenty, and soon we start out for the buffalo, and bring in our supply of meat for the winter. C. C. P.

WOOD AND LAND
AT AUCTION.

WILL be sold at Auction, in lots to suit purchasers, on FRIDAY, Dec. 1st, at 9 o'clock, A. M., all the wood standing on about five acres of Land, situated about one mile from John Pierce's, adjoining land of Seth Spear and Jeremiah Nightingale, and belonging to the Heirs of the late Jonathan Baxter. The wood is of very old growth, some of it is sixty years or more, with plenty of large old Chestnuts.

Immediately after the sale of the Wood, the Land will be sold.

Persons attending the sale should turn in at the Rocky Hill Road.

If very stormy the sale will take place the first fair day.

For information apply to Seth Spear or John Pierce.

Old Colony and Newport Railroad.

The annual report of the Directors of this company has been completed, from which it appears that the gross receipts of the road for the year ending Sept. 31, 1871, were $1,671,478.51; ending May 31, 1870, $1,536,395.24, an increase of $135,083.27. The increase of working expenses was $96,482.16; net earnings for the year ending Sept, 30, 1871, $403,-412.52; ending May 31, 1870, $359,-623.24; increase, $43,789.28. The increase from passengers was $69,000.48; in the number of passengers carried, $598,-781; increase of receipts from freight was $43,128.05; of tons carried was 51,-383. Of the increase from passenger receipts, $46,323.21, was from the local business. The local freight receipts have increased $45,017.71, and those from connecting lines decreased $1,889.66. The number of passengers carried during the past year was 3,332,750; carried one mile 45,437,286; tons of merchandise 395,157; one mile, 10,845,206.

During the year the Granite Branch to West Quincy has been completed; also the Duxbury and Cohasset railroad, and a business contract has been made with the latter road and the South Shore road.

The equipment of the road is as follows: 28 passenger locomotives, 12 freight locomotives, 76 passenger cars, 20 baggage cars, 177 long box cars, 229 long platform cars, 9 cattle cars, 25 six-wheel stone cars, 20 short platform cars, 109 coal and gravel cars; 2 new locomotives, 6 passenger cars, 2 baggage cars, 48 freight cars and 19 coal cars have been added to the rolling stock; 5 locomotives, 2 passenger cars, 20 freight cars and 15 gravel cars have been rebuilt.

About 800 tons of new iron and 500 tons of steel rails and 39,000 new sleepers have been used in repairing the track, and 2000 tons of rails have been taken up, repaired and relaid.

Land has been filled up at South Boston to increase yard room. A paint shop in Boston and a new engine-house and turn-table have been built at Fall River, at an expense of about $18,000.

All the above additions, renewals and repairs have been charged to expense account and paid for out of earnings the past year. The Directors suggest a number of enterprises, among which is that of furnishing $133,000 to aid in building the railroad from Plymouth to Sandwich. It is proposed to ask the Legislature for an increase of capital stock to $6,600,000. The annual meeting of the stockholders is to be held on Tuesday next.

WHAT'S BEST.

What it is best for us to do
We sometimes do not know;
'Tis then we prize a friend who's true,
Our proper course to show;
His words of kindness should we heed,
And treasure in our heart,
Feeling he is "a friend indeed,"
Such knowledge to impart.
'Tis best whene'r the BOYS need "CLOTHES,"
Coat, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,

WINTER IS COMING.

The sere and yellow leaf now cast
Upon old Mother Earth,—
Rude Boreas, with his frosty breath,—
All speak of winter's birth.

Then be wise in time, all you that mean
For his advent to prepare,
And call, where Good Clothing can be seen,
On RICHARDS, twenty-five Dock Square.

In vain you will not call, we know;
For there you'll surely find
The price and garments he will show,
Just suited to your mind.

MEDICAL DISCOVERY
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the unwary to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants.
GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER, and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever type or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you meet with an obstruction through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores, cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages, English, German, French and Spanish.

MISS SAWYER'S SALVE.

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.
It is prepared by Miss Sawyer, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.
The principal diseases for which this salve is recommended are, Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Deafness, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on Children.
It never fails to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs. For Piles it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons that have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For Erysipelas it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For Chapped Hands it produces a cure immediately. Let those with Salt Rheum obtain this Salve, and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in cases of Scrofula and Tumors. Cancers have been cured with it. The best Salve ever invented for Swollen Breast and Sore Nipples. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. Sore or Weak Eyes—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting in the ears on a piece of cotton. For Felons this is superior to anything known. For Pimples this acts like a charm. For Burns and Scalds, apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For Old Sores, apply once a day.
FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or Bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a Christian lady and a skilful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:

Poetry.

The Printers's Devil and His Love.

A printer's devil was pierced in the heart
With the charms of a little miss ;
Quoth he to the lass, "my dear, ere we part
Let us seal our love with a kiss."
The maiden replied, as the imp she eyed :
"Don't think that I'll let you revel
Where others before have vainly tried ?
No, no ! I'll not kiss the devil."

Years rolled along, and the sweet little lass
Became an old sorrowful maid;
She lived like a qneen—was rich, but alas !
Her beauty had all decayed.
Once again they met, and the old maid tried
To recall the former issue,
But he gally smiled, and only replied,
"The devil now wouldn't kiss you!"

Farmers' Department.

THE MILK QUESTION.

This interesting subject, after a lengthy discussion, has been finally settled in Boston for the winter, by an agreement on the part of the contractors to give fifty cents per can (the same price as last year) from the 1st day of December to the 1st of April. Now what is the meaning of all the agitation about the price of milk? Simply this; that the contractors insisted on paying to the farmers a lower price for milk than they could afford to produce it for. An intelligent farmer is supposed to know somewhere near what the products of his farm and industry actually cost, and it is only fair that he should regulate his prices accordingly.

The Milk Producers' Association of Mass. and N. H., made up as it is, of the most intelligent farmers of the two states, has begun a great reform, which we trust will be carried forward with that energy and determination, that has characterized its past efforts. It struck its first blow against the adulteration and dilution of milk, and was seconded in its efforts by the present Inspector of milk. Its second blow hit the contractors and middlemen, who have propagated the idea that the game of high prices rested with the farmers. The annual meeting of the Association will take place early in December, and it behooves all men who have the farming interests of the State at heart, to be present and uphold the hands of those men, whose only aim is to give to the "sons of the soil" a fair compensation for the work of their hands and the product of their farms.— Church and Republic.

COVER YOUR STRAWBERRY BEDS.

Strawberry beds should now be covered with some light litter, which will protect the plants and prevent them from being thrown out of the ground by the action of the frost. We know of no better covering than refuse meadow hay, which may be laid lightly over the rows, and secured from being blown about, by heavy poles laid lengthwise of the rows. Such a covering is easy removed in the Spring, and is still serviceable as litter for the stable or hog pen. We have found it an advantage always to go through the strawberry bed with a hoe before covering them, and also to give a light dressing of guano or of ashes, sown broadcast.— There is no crop that better repays care than strawberries.

HENS EATING FEATHERS. Mr. A. W. Bryant, of Lexington, says the reason why hens eat their feathers is usually from a want of salt; he gives the following remedy. "A little boiled salt fish, as too much salt is injurious. It is necessary to freshen it somewhat."

Anecdotes.

A countryman stopped at the Maxwell House, Nashville, for dinner. The waiter inquired what he would have, and was told by the countryman to bring 'something of what he had." The waiter brought him a regular dinner upon small dishes, as is the usual form, and set them around his plate. The countryman surveyed them carefully for a moment, and then broke out,

"Well, I like your samples, now bring me my dinner."

"I say, friend, your horse is a little contrary is he not?"

"No, sir!"

"What makes him stop then?"

"Oh, he's afraid somebody'll say whoa, and he shan't hear it."

"Bob, what are you going to give me for a Christmas present? asked a gay damsel of her lover.

"I have nothing to give but my humble self," was the reply.

"The smallest favors gratefully received," was the merry response of the lady.

"I say, Sambo, where you get de shirt studs?"

"In de shop, to be sure."

"Yah! you just told me you hadn't no money."

"Dat's right."

"How you get dem, den?"

"Well, I saw on a card in de window, "Collar Studs," so I went in and collar'd dem."

☞ Be meek, merciful, patient, and thankful.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:

1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.

2d We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.

3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods, and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.

4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

WATERS'

BOTANICAL

Hair Life.

THIS Beautiful preparation for the Hair and Scalp, has gained the confidence of the people more than any thing that has ever been discovered. It restores the Hair from a Gray, to a beautiful Black or dark Brown, without those poisonous minerals that's so injurious to the eyes; it removes all Dandruff and the most inveterate itching of the Scalp. For a toilet article, its unsurpassable.

HALL'S

VEGETABLE SICILIAN

HAIR

RENEWER

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicine.

Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.

FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

Manufactured by R. P. HALL, & CO., NASHUA, N.H.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

Address, R. GREENE, M. D., 34 Temple Place, Boston., Mass.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system, Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted per son soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

TRADE WITH A MONKEY.

Monkeys are scarce in Michigan. A saddler in Detroit kept one for a pet, who usually sat on the counter. A country-man came in one day, the proprietor being in a back room. The customer, seeing a saddle that suited him, he asked the price.

Monkey said nothing.

Customer said, "I'll give you twenty dollars for it," laying down the money, which the monkey shoved into the drawer. The man then took the saddle, but monkey mounted him, tore his hair, scratched his face, and the frightened customer screamed for dear life. Proprietor rushed in and wanted to know what's the fuss.

"Fuss?" said the customer, "fuss? I bought a saddle of your son sitting there, and when I went to take it he wouldn't let me have it."

The saddler apologized for the monkey, but assured him that he was no relation.

EATING WITHOUT APPETITE.

It is wrong to eat without appetite, for it shows there is no gastric juice in the stomach, and that nature does not need food; and there not being any fluid to receive and act upon it, would remain there only to putrify, the very thought of which should be sufficient to deter any man from eating without an appetite for the remainder of his life. If a "tonic" is taken to whet the appetite, it is a mistaken course; for its only result is to cause one to eat more, when already an amount has been eaten beyond what the gastric juice supplied is able to prepare. The object to be obtained is a larger supply of food, and whatever fails to accomplish that essential object, fails to have any efficiency towards the cure of dyspeptic diseases; and as the formation of this gastric juice is directly proportioned to the wear and waste of the system, which is to be the means of supplying and this wear and waste can only take place as the result of exercise, the point is reached again that the efficient remedy for dyspepsia is work—outdoor work—beneficial and successful in direct proportion as it is agreeable, interesting and profitable.

POST AND PARSONS.

The following fresh trifle from an English party is not bad:—

I was one morning overtaken by an active, hale old fellow, who had been a soldier and seen a great deal of service, but was at the time a river barge-man. In our journey we passed a directing post, with arms in good condition, and containing full information.

"Do'ee know what that is?" said my companion.

"A directing post, of course."

"I call 't a parson."

"A parson! Why?"

"Cause 'ee tell'th the way, but dothn't go."

Before we separated we passed another post, which was very much dilapidated, and had lost its arms.

"If the post we saw just now was a parson," said I, "what's this one?"

"Oh, he's a bishop."

"Explain."

"He neither tell'th nor go'th."

WORK.

No product of the vineyard, or field, or the sea, however aided by inventive art, will furnish a welcome repast to one who sits in listless idleness on a downy cushion half the day. It is by labor that man comprehends the existence of Deity, and the beauty and utility of His works —to adorn the earth and bring forth its productive power, and to expand the human mind and body.

Every person in society should produce, physically or mentally, as much for society as he requires to receive from society for its full enjoyment. No father can transmit to his son the right of being useless to his fellow-creatures. The man who earns not his bread, but eats that of idleness is, so far as the original intention is concerned, leading a life of doubtful morality. A moral and intellectual being disdains to lead a life of uselessness; for, rich or poor, strong or weak, every idle member of society is either a knave or a fool.

Why, man of idleness, labor rocked you in the cradle, and has nourished your pampered life; without it the woven silks and wool upon your back would be in the silk-worm's nest, and the fleeces in the shepherd's fold. For the meanest thing that ministers to human want, save the air of heaven, man is indebted to toil; and even the air, by God's wise ordination, is breathed with labor.

AN OLD ANVIL. In a deserted shop in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, there rests on its block an anvil that has done duty for more than three hundred years. It is as sound to-day as it was in 1633, when Elizweed Pomeroy, after welding for the Stuarts the ponderous horseshoes of the same style and pattern that his ancestors had made during many generations for the Tudors and Plantaganets, grew weary of taxes without law, and work without wages, and taking his anvil, sailed for the new world. A deft workman, he throve in the settlements, and left his anvil as an heir-loom to his descendants.

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

Poetry.

TO-MORROW.

A bright little boy with laughing face,
Whose every motion was full of grace :
Who knew no trouble, and feared no care,
Was the light of our household—the youngest there,

He was too young this little elf,
With troublesome questions to vex himself;
But for many days a thought would arise,
And bring a shade to the dancing eyes.

He went to one whom he thought more wise
Than any other beneath the skies;
"Mother"—O word that makes the home!
"Tell me, when will to-morrow come?"

"It is almost night," the mother said;
"And time for my boy to be in bed;
When you wake up and it's day again,
It will be to-morrow, my darling, then."

The little boy slept through all the night,
But woke with the first red streak of light;
He pressed a kiss on his mother's brow,
And whispered, "Is it to-morrow now?"

"No, little Eddie, this is to-day;
To-morrow is always one night away;"
He pondered awhile, but joys came fast,
And the vexing question quickly passed.

But it came again with the shades of night;
"Will it be to-morrow when it is light?"
From years to come he seemed to borrow,
He tried so hard to catch to-morrow.

"You cannot catch it my little Ned;
Enjoy to-day," the mother said:
"Some wait for to-morrow through many a year,—
It always is coming, but never is here."

Interesting Selections.

Delicate Cake. The whites of four eggs, well beaten, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, one-half cup of sweet milk, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of soda, and three of cream of tartar.

☞ A. Mr. Moore, who derived his pedigree from Noah, explained it in this manner :—"Noah had three sons, Shem, Ham, and one more."

☞ A naughty little boy, blubbering because his mother wouldn't let him go down to the river on the Sabbath, upon being admonished, said :—"I didn't want to go in swimmin' with 'em ma.—I only wanted to go down and see the bad little boys drown for going a swimmin' on a Sunday."

☞ It is hardly credible that but little over twenty years ago San Francisco was a barren waste, and to-day has 170,000 inhabitants, yet both are facts.

☞ A wag, on hearing that a man had given up chimney sweeping, expressed surprise, as he thought that business sooted him.

Clear Air in the Kitchen. A sink near a kitchen door-step may spread sickness through an entire household.—Everything of the sort should be so contrived that no spot near the house can retain standing water, whether it be in the rain, the contents of a wash-basin, of the slop-bowl, or of the water-pail.

☞ Passing along the street a few days ago, we observed in the window of a partially vacant house, the following notice :

"The upper part of this house to let, containing three rooms, a cellar, kitchen and backyard !"

☞ Some boys and girls read a book entirely through in a single evening, and the next day are eagerly at work on another, to be as quickly devoured. No mind, however strong, can stand such a strain. You see, at once, that it would be absolutely impossible for them to remember what they read. And so they read for a momentary enjoyment, and gradually fall into the habit of reading to forget. I need not tell you that such a habit is fatal to any very high position in life.—Merry's Museum.

☞ It is next to the angels to be a beautiful, pure woman, rich in health, strong in love, abounding in charity, large enough to bear with the shortcomings of weaker people, severe only in judgment of herself.

Sound Advice. Better never jump from a moving vehicle; but when you must do it, jump the way the vehicle is going. Again, when getting into a carriage, take hold with the hand opposite the foot placed upon the steps; then if there is a sudden start the body won't swing around as if on a pivot, but be balanced.

☞ A young man accompanied by his lady love, took breakfast at a hotel the other day. Never having seen any fish-balls, he handed one to his lady, under the impression that it was a doughnut. After breaking his own, he carefully examined, then smelt of it, and with a sepulchral voice said: "Sal, don't eat that doughnut; there something dead in this."

☞ The old lady who mended her husband's trousers with a patch of grass, is now smoothing her hair with the comb of a rooster.

☞ To-morrow is the day on which idle men work, and fools reform.

HULDAH'S THANKSGIVING.

The great, wide-mouthed chimneys of the Bellinger homestead were puffing out volumes of smoke against the clear, sharp cold, with that peculiar Thanksgiving "tang" which comes in the early days of a New England winter, after "killing time" is over, and when turkeys are plump, and the first flurry of snow has powdered the golden stubble of the fields.

The "women folks" in the farm-house kitchen were all astir and bustling with Thanksgiving preparation.

Mother Bellinger, of ample, solid proportions, with the sleeves of her stuff gown tucked well up above her broad, dimpled elbows, stood by the table packing a comfortable basket with specimens of flesh and fowl, highly suggestive of the season.

"Come Jack, said she to a hardy, thick-set lad of fourteen, who was taking a bite preparatory to going out into the cold, bundle up well; and by that time I'll have the basket ready."

Jack accordingly wrapped his tippet around his ears, pulled down the lappets of his cap, and slipped his hands into a pair of blue yarn mittens that came high up on his wrist.

"The sassage and spare-rib, mind, is for Blind Betty. Take the goose to Parson Hazeltine's. Then drive on to old lady Bascom's with the chickens.—Hold a bit, though! I'll just tie them together with a string; and you can hang them on the knob of the door, and give a knock, and slip off behind the woodpile. I don't want Miss Malviny spreading on the thanks, next Sunday, and rubbing 'em in before the whole congregation."

"Don't fail to go to the Deacon's, continued the matron. Tell him to come and eat dinner with us to-morrow, after meeting. He must fetch the girls along, too, or Huldah will be disappointed."

"Oh! mother, cried Huldah Bellinger (a pretty, fresh Yankee lass, of twenty), from where she sat by the chimney-side, briskly rubbing some old-fashioned silver spoons with whitening and chamois leather, you know well enough I never liked the Bridgem girls."

"Mother Bellinger squared round upon Huldah with a frown. That's your contrariness. It's a real Bellinger streak.—I always told your father so, when he was alive. It's my right to send what word I please; and, when folks come to the house, they shall be well treated.

Huldah gathered up the whitening and the silver spoons in her apron; and with her blooming face slightly discomposed, ran to the window, and looked out over her mother's big shoulder.

"Jack! I say, Jack! Don't forget to inquire at the post-office."

"I should like to know who you are expecting a letter from, said Mother Bellinger, closing the window energetically, and directing a look of suspicion at the girl's face."

"Of course, mother, we are always looking for letters from Frank."

Frank's wife a fragile little woman, looked up quickly from the ruddy gold of the pumpkin she was sifting, and said :

"What were you saying about Frank, mother? Do you think there's any chance of hearing from him to-day?"

"I don't see why we shouldn't hear, said Huldah, quickly. If the boys down there in Dixie ever think of home, I guess it will be now, at Thanksgiving time."

"I guess so, too, responded Mother Bellinger, softened a little by this speech of Huldah's. I'd give all I'm worth, twenty times over, to see Frank sit down to dinner with us to-morrow. Nothing would suit me better than to feed the whole regiment. I'll do it, if I live to see the glorious day when the boys come marching home."

"You forget, mother, that Sam Raymond is one of them, said Huldah, with a gleam of malice dancing out of her bright eyes."

"You don't let me forget what a sneaking fondness you have for that fellow, retorted the dame, with asperity."

"There is nothing sneaking about it, exclaimed Huldah, lifting her head proudly. A brave man, like Sam Raymond, has the right to be loved openly and above board."

"There, now! exclaimed Mother Bellinger, in a taunting tone, as she buried her plump arm in a pan of mince-pie meat. Go and take up with them shiftless Raymonds, and give the Deacon the go-by. But, mark me, you can't touch a cent of property during my life-time; and I won't see your father's hard earnings, that I helped him rake and scrape together, go into the hands of that family, I don't say anything agin Sam, while he's fighting for his kentry; but none of them Raymonds have ever make their salt.—And there's Deacon Bridgem, as forehanded a man as there is in the country, everybody knows what a husband he would make."

"I think the Deacon had better be reflecting on his own end, said Huldah, with a toss of her pretty head. It's about time for him to be attending to the concerns of his soul, instead of looking out for a young wife, when he's old enough to be her father."

"It don't make a mite of difference, in my view, retorted Mother Bellinger, how old a man is, if he keeps his young feelings."

"Folk's eyes ain't all set in the head alike, said Huldah, rubbing away at the spoons. To my thinking, he'd appear much better if he didn't color his hair and frisk round with the young people."

"Now I think of it, continued Mother Bellinger, with her arms akimbo, I'll plan to invite the Deacon to carve the turkey; he asks such a beautiful blessing. Your Uncle Freeman would do very well; but he ain't a professor."

"Uncle Freeman sent off three boxes to the Sanitary Commission last week, said Huldah; and I know he gave a thousand dollars towards helping out the soldiers' bounties. I haven't heard of the Deacon's putting his hand in his pocket once since the war begun."

"The Deacon knows how to keep tight hold of the purse-strings, remarked Letty, quietly. Frank used to say a silver dollar looked as big as a cart-wheel in his eyes."

Just then Rafe, the hired man, appeared at the door, bringing a bundle of spruce sticks, followed closely by little Jane, and another child, taller than Jane, and larger of her age. This new-comer hung back, as if not quite sure of a welcome, and twisted her little chapped hands in the folds of her faded calico dress.

"Why, its Martha Raymond, said Aunt Sukey, in her chippy way. Walk right in, child, and warm yourself. You look half frozen. We're having an oncommon cold snap for this time o' year. How's your ma's health, Martha?"

"She's pretty slim thank'ee ma'am.—It's as much as she can do to keep round. She said maybe Miss Bellinger would lend her a drawing of tea. Father was took with one of his dizzy turns last night and he'd like to get a little camfire to snuff. If you ain't going to use your flats to-morrow, and there's no objection, our folks would like to borry 'em. Don't you know, Martha, to-morrow is Thanksgiving Day? Folks here in New England don't work on that day, said Letty."

"It don't make a mite of difference over to our house, retorted Martha. But I guess bime-by we shall fix up and be like folks; for our Sam's a kunnel now."

"What's that I hear? cried Mother Bellinger, sharply. Sam Raymond a colonel? Humph? When you catch me believing that story, you catch a weasel asleep."

"It's a fact, spoke up Martha, with spirit. Ben. Allen brought the news last night from the Junction; and he says it has got into the papers."

"More than one lie gets into the papers. I shan't put no faith in it until I hear what the Deacon has got to say. To be sure the bravest or the deservingest don't always git promoted."

"Letty saw a tempest brewing on the curl of Huldah's lip, and she made haste to disperse its lightnings silently.

"Wait and see, mother. I don't know why Sam. Raymond isn't as likely to rise as any other man."

The widow gave a scornful toss to her cap-strings. She stepped to a corner cupboard, and took down a blue teacup from the top shelf.

"Here, Martha, is the tea your mother sent home last time. It ain't the kind I use in my family; and she's welcome to it."

After the neighbor's child was gone, Widow Bellinger did not choose to comment on the news she had heard.

A breathing spell had come in Mother Bellinger's day. She had seen the pies—mince, apple, and pumpkin—committed to the deep of the great brick oven.—There they were fizzing and sputtering away in darkness. There, too, were the pound-cakes, and fruit-cakes, with spatters of plums over their hillocky surfaces, and the fair loaves of rye and "Injun" bread; and the great Injun pudding, that would bake all night and secrete a whey of the richest red; and the pan of sweet apples, that sputtered spitefully, and gathered a clear jelly about their globes as they grew browner and browner.

The dame's ample proportions just filled snugly her favorite chintz-covered rocker, with no room to spare. She sat in a golden stream of November sunshine, that fell through the south window.

At last, the intense quiet of the piece of road visible from the window, was broken by the rattle of the one-horse wagon.

"Hurray! shouted Jack, before he had pulled up at the hitching-post and jumped out on the door-step. Hurray! hurray! Our Herricktown boys have had a healthy old brush with the rebs, you had better believe. After a two-hours fight, the scamps skedaddled, and left a hundred and fifty on the ground.—We didn't lose a man, and had only ten wounded."

Did you hear who they were? inquired Letty, taking her hands out of a dish-pan, and running forward, with pale face."

"No I didn't. There's been skrimmidging all along the front for a month or six weeks. The guerrillas are as thick as spatter, and the boys mean to clean 'em out. Oh you ought to have seen them blasted Copperheads squirming up there at the store! Some of 'em had bet that our regiment would't smell gunpowder this year, because they didn't have a chance to go in at Antietam. Sam. Raymond is a colonel, sure pop."

Jack's volubility was here cut short by Huldah, who threw her arms round the lad's neck and kissed his ruddy cheek with enthusiasm. "Oh! Jack! you're the best boy that ever lived. Did you bring me a letter?"

"No, but here's one for mother. And he pulled out a yellow envelope, and tossed it into the dame's lap."

"I don't know the hand-writen, said Mother Bellinger, with a little touch of disappointment. It looks as if it had been all round the gould."

"Dear Mother, ran the letter:—I write to let you know that I got a scratch on the arm in last Tuesday's skirmish.—The papers, likely have told you all about it; you won't be scart if you see my name among the wounded. I can't make much of a fist at writing yet, as my arm is in a sling; so I've got one of the hospital nurses to write for me. Don't let Letty cry a whimper about me. Tell her we lame ducks mean to be out Thanksgiving day, hurraying for the folks at home. The box you sent came all right, and was as welcome as molasses in flytime. Tell Aunt Sukey her socks were just the dot."

"The biggest piece of news I've got for you is that Sam. Raymond has been promoted to the colonelcy. We never knew what stuff that fellow was made of until we got down here at the post of danger. And there isn't a man of us that don't sanction the choice. Sam is the true blue in his principles. He don't smoke or drink a drop. I guess he's seen enough at home to turn him against it."

Here the letter broke off, and was renewed in a weak, trembling hand. "I want to say a word myself, mother, about Sam Raymond. I, practically, owe my life to him; for I was captured, and being carried off to Andersonville, when he rescued me at the point of the bayonet. If you want to show your gratitude to God for my deliverance from death, or something worse, you will give your consent that Sam. and Huldah shall get married. I know you don't like the tribe but, from what Sam. tells me, I believe his father got hipped with a big misfortune, and then everybody was ready to give him a kick.

Mother Bellinger read the letter, and then she took off her glasses, and folded her hands, and rocked back and forth, with her eyes shut, for some time. Letty read it, and then Huldah. The girl crept near, and laid her face on the dame's coarse apron, and looked up with eager, tearful imploring eyes.

"Mother, mother, will you consent? Say that you consent!"

Mother Bellinger did not answer directly; but her hand stole down and touched the silky waves of hair against Huldah's temples. I'll never say ag'in that I'll do a thing; for we don't know what we may be led to do. Put on your things, child, and go and ask them Raymonds to come and eat dinner with us to-morrow—the whole kit, big and little. I don't believe they've had a full meal of victuals for ten years.

Huldah obeyed with alacrity; and, as her trim figure went tripping along the well-frozen pathway, her glad heart sang as sweet a song of praise as went up that day under the blue New England heavens.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, DEC. 2, 1871

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THANKSGIVING DAY.

This time honored New England festival, which was instituted by our forefathers as a day of prayer and praise, has now become a National Holiday. Many hearts will be filled with joy, as they meet around the festive board in a happy and glad reunion. On this day above all others every home should be made happy with a table well spread, and hearts filled with thankfulness for the mercies received from the Giver of every good and perfect gift. If there are any among us who lack the requisite means for a proper enjoyment of the day, we trust that those more highly favored will not be backward in giving of their abundance, and thereby secure a double portion of happiness for themselves.

Never may the hand of time mar, the frost of indifference chill, or the mist of forgetfulness blot out the sweet and hallowed recollections that cluster round this day. Heap well your tables with the good gifts the waning year has brought you, oh, sons and daughters of New England! Sacrifice the fattest turkey, spare neither toil nor money to make this festival the feast your childhood knew. Then gather from far and near, all in whose veins kindred blood may flow! This is the day for all family feuds to be forgotten, for all family wounds to be healed. This to the day to open wide the doors to old recollections, to review the broken lines of old friendships and old loves. This is the day to lift your hearts gratefully to the One who has crowned your life with so much of completeness, who has given you so much of comfort and of peace. And if some voice may be silent, some chair vacant that may never more be filled, darken not this day with mourning and grief. Gather closer in your arms the household jewels that are left, thanking Him for the dear ones that his love has spared you, but thanking Him far more for those whose tired feet have ceased from all wandering, whose eyes have looked their last upon earthly trouble and pain.

BRIEF LOCALS. A row of sheds have just been completed in the rear of the new Orthodox Church, for the protection of horses from the cold and storms of winter.

The old church, which has been unoccupied the past summer and fall, has been leased to the town, and is now being fitted for an armory, for the McClellan Guards. The steeple is to be taken down.

Messrs. John D. & T. A. Whicher have hired Mechanic's Hall in connection with the lower part of the same building, and also a part of another large building in the rear of Mr. Abercrombie's store, for boot manufacturing purposes, which will make quite extensive additions to their large manufactories at the south part of the town.

We have had the coldest snap of the season the present week. The thermometer on Tuesday morning indicating but a few degrees above zero. The poultry dealers have enjoyed it, and prices of turkeys have advanced five to eight cents on a pound.

Rev. Mr. Perry, will preach in the Universalist Church next Sunday.

Mr. Frederick Souther and family after an absence of nearly two years, have returned to their native town, and are much pleased to be "at home" once more.

The John Thomas estate, was sold on Tuesday, by Jos. W. Lombard, for $2110, to Mr. James Fletcher.

We put our paper to press this week on Wednesday, according to our usual custom on Thanksgiving week.

☞ Rev. W. W. Dean, of Washington, formerly a very successful and much beloved pastor of the Universalist Society in this place, preached to quite a large and appreciating audience on Sunday last. It seemed much like old times to see his familiar face in the pulpit once more.

☞ The Hyde Park Gazette says:—Rev. S. Kelley of Quincy Point, in the 50th year of his ministry, preaches four sermons every Sunday.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE UNIVERSE

Mr. L. S. Richards, who has just completed so successfully the course of lectures on the Sciences, at Revere Hall, is to give a course of fifteen Lectures on The Universe, at Rogers Chapel, commencing to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 2 1-2 o'clock, and continuing each successive Sunday afternoon until the completion of the course.

The following is a list of the lectures as passed to us:

First,—The origin, development and composition of the earth and planets.
Second,—Water.
Third,—Air.
Fourth,—Rocks and crystals.
Fifth,—Ores and metals.
Sixth,—Origin and composition of soil.
Seventh, — Origin, germination and structure of plants.
Eighth,—Origin of continents, rivers, mountains, ocean depths, earthquakes and volcanoes.

BRAINTREE. G. A. R. Post 87, Commander Stevens, were visited by Post 125 of South Boston, Doherty Commander, on Tuesday evening of last week. After the usual congratulations, Post 87, accompanied by the Braintree Brass Band, escorted their visitors from their Headquarters to the Town Hall, where Caterer Field, of Taunton, had in readiness one of his superb suppers. About 150 comrades sat down to tables fairly groaning with the good things of this life, temptingly spread upon them.

After doing justice to this feast of friendship, Commander Stevens of 87 made a few very appropriate remarks welcoming comrades of Post 125. In response Commander Doherty of Post 125 took the floor, speaking with much feeling of the past, the present and the future. Rev. Mr. Thayer of 87 was next called upon. Comrade Johnson of 125 came next, then Comrade Thomas of 125 was called upon, he responded with some of his "laugh and grow fat" songs. Next came Comrade Bestie of 87, and then Comrade Doherty of 125, Pingrum of 125 next, and last but not least, Comrade Storrs of 125, Editor of the South Boston Enquirer.

After cheers for 87 and 125, also the Caterer, the two Posts joined hands around the Hall singing.

"Should old acquaintance be forgot, &c."

Much credit is due the Braintree Brass Band, for their fine music. Every one declared the whole affair a success. D.

☞ Rev. George H. Hepworth delivers the next lecture of the Peoples' course on Wednesday evening next.—Thus far the lectures have been decidedly successful.

☞ Attention is called to the notice in another column, of the Annual Reunion of the High School association.—Members and friends should respond generously to the call for refreshments.

ACCIDENT. A train on the Old Colony Railroad ran over and instantly killed a man named Patrick Costello, at Crescent avenue in Dorchester, on Saturday evening last. The deceased leaves a wife and one child.

JURORS DRAWN. Messrs. George Saville and Samuel T. Allen have been drawn to serve as jurors, at the December Term, of the Superior Court, Norfolk County, Criminal Session.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION TO HOTEL GUESTS. Judge Allen has recently decided that hotel-keepers are liable for watches that may be stolen from guests occupying rooms where are posted notices of a safe for the keeping of money, jewels and ornaments, the judge holding that watches are not an ornament, but useful during night as during the day.

FABER'S TALKING MACHINE. This curious invention, which has awakened much interest in New York and Philadelphia was put on exhibition last Saturday in Boston. It was originated thirty years ago, though much time was required to bring it to its present perfection. It speaks, not words merely, but phrases, in the English, French, and German languages, and can be made to laugh shrilly. It is capable of pronouncing all the letters and elementary sounds in our language. In arrangement and construction it is as close a copy as possible of the human vocal apparatus.

Potatoes are only eighteen cents per bushel in Iowa.

REV. GEORGE NEWCOMB.

We copy from Zion's Herald of the 16th ult., the following just tribute of respect to the memory of our late townsman, Rev. George Newcomb.

"In the colored school of Beaufort. Bro. Newcomb was an efficient laborer. As superintendent or trustee, his influence was ever felt in them a power for good. He was himself a model teacher, and many of the colored teachers there have graduated from his normal class.

He was ever a true, staunch friend of the Freedmen; they loved him, believed in him, and never doubted his fidelity to their interest. His exuberant spirit and cheerful bearing made him an attractive centre, around whom they loved to rally. In the churches where he preached, in the schools, and on the swarming plantations, the Freedmen welcomed his presence as a living benediction.

In the Christian field Mr. Newcomb was a devoted worker. He rose early, toiled all day, and often far into the night, and many were the sheaves he brought home. Sent as missionary to the Sea Islands during the war, he found the flock of the good Shepherd scattered by wild beasts, torn and bleeding, and the stray lambs feeble and bruised. These he gathered into the fold, and fed with the bread of heaven. He organized churches and Sabbath-schools, opened springs in the moral desert, and made many a dark corner radiant with Gospel light. No cabin was too humble for him to kneel down in and pray, and no sinner too low in the depth of vice for him to reach out a helping hand and lift up. He had faith in the people, worked for them with zeal, enthusiasm, and a will, loved his work, and was happy in doing it.

Residing one year in Beaufort, under the same roof with Bro. Newcomb, I could observe his daily walk, and see how clearly his life illustrated that charity which "thinketh no evil." His religion did not consist in doctrines and creeds, but in earnest work for sinning, suffering humanity. He delighted to feed the hungry, lift up the down trodden, and save the lost. In passing through the streets he would part with his last cent to give bread to the sad-eyed orphan. He would often so deplete his own wardrobe to cover the shivering invalid, that scarcely a change would be left for his own use. The needy and the destitute flocked around him, and after helping them all he could, I have seen his eyes suffused with tears that he could do no more.—He gave freely as long as he had anything to give, and when his funds were gone, he gave himself, his sympathy, counsel, and kind words; so the poor Freedman withdrew, saying, "It do me good, Massa Newcomb, to tell you our trouble, if you no help me." He was always accessible. The one who sought him was the one he wanted to see, and believed Providence had sent. The shrinking woman could roll down her burden of grief at his feet, and the little unwashed vagrant was sure of finding in him a friend.

Brother, in thy last hard conflict, though no wife or child bent over thee in love, to fan thy fevered brow, and watch thy panting breath, white-robed angels, we know, enfolding thee, solaced thy weary spirit with soft music, sweet perfume, and breezes from Beulah. And when they had borne thee to the top of Ascension Mount, and the opening heavens received thy ransomed soul, did not the dear Master say to thee, "Well done, good and faithful servant?"

☞ There is a stir among the stars. Encke's comet and Tuttle's comet are coming towards us. The astronomers are busy sighting them on their celestial pathway, a few weeks hence, the wise man tells us, that ordinary mortals who have no far-reaching telescopes to sweep the sky, can see these cometic wonders by careful canvassing the starry concave. Encke's namesake will adorn the evening sky with misty light, while Tuttle's will faintly glimmer fore the morning dawns.

THE DEATH OF FATHER SULLIVAN. The Holyoke Transcript in speaking of the late Father Sullivan, who was a pastor in that place for several years, says:—The announcement of the death of Rev. James Sullivan in the prime of life at his home in Quincy, Mass. during the early part of this week, has been received with a general feeling of regret in this community, where the deceased was formerly known as the esteemed pastor of St. Jerome's (R. C.) church. During the several years of his labors in this town Father Sullivan enjoyed the affections of his people and the cordial respect and esteem of our citizens generally—without distinction of sects—and his removal to another field of duty about six years since was very sincerely regretted. The lapse of years since his connection with St. Jerome's society closed, has only served to strengthen, by contrast, the popular appreciation of his liberal culture, his tolerant and sympathetic disposition, and the genial qualities of his heart and mind. Father Sullivan will be long remembered and very sincerely mourned by all who knew him here.

☞ Watch No. 1007, Stem Winder—bearing Trade Mark "Frederic Atherton & Co., Marion, N. J."—manufactured by United States Watch Co., (Giles, Wales & Co.,) has been carried by me some months; its total variation from mean time being only eight seconds per month.—Wm. Mitchell, Conductor P. & K. R. R.

☞ The Abington Standard says:—A man hailing from Quincy, and boarding at J. W. Wheeler's, on Vernon street, calling himself A. Daly, stole $90 from J. Hoyt, boarding at the same house, on Wednesday night of last week. In the morning he was missing. The same fellow had previously stolen a pair of cuff buttons from another boarder.

RELIEF. Mrs. L. A. Newcomb, of this city while on a visit to the East, collected in Quincy, Mass., two barrels of wearing apparel for the relief of the Michigan sufferers. They were received yesterday by the Central Committee.—Detroit Tribune, Nov. 23.

☞ Benjamin Hobart, Esq., celebrated his 90th birthday at Abington, last Friday. Mr. Hobart graduated at Brown University in the class of 1804, and is one of the two surviving members of the class for that year.

RESIGNED. Hon. Gideon Haynes has resigned his position as warden of the States Prison, to take effect on the first of next month.

THE ECLIPSE OF THE SUN. The total eclipse of the sun which takes place on the 11th of December, visible in India and the islands south of Asia, is already attracting the attention of science, and instruments are being placed in position to seize upon all phases of the phenomenon during the two or three minutes ofits duration, that it may be afterwards subjected to study and speculation from which important results in astronomical science are anticipated. Much is expected especially of the English expedition to Ceylon, which, with the recent experiences in Sicily less than a year ago to guide it, has made elaborate preparations and been furnished with all needed appliances. The vexed question as to the nature of the bright corona which surrounds the disc of the moon during obscuration is in a fair way to be settled if no "act of God" intervenes to thwart the efforts of the observers. Connected with this question is that of the existence and nature of the atmosphere of the sun and the substance and condition of the luminary itself. Accurate data regarding these will furnish a basis for study and conjecture concerning the fixed stars. Hence the importance attached to the phenomenon. It is to be hoped that the observers will meet with all success.

☞ Shoe business in South Abington is improving. Most of the shoe firms have taken account of stock, and are now making preparations for a busy season.—We think a week after Thanksgiving will find them all running on full time.—Abington Standard.

☞ The Messrs. A T. & O. F. Barron, proprietors of the Twin Mountain House, at the White Mountains, have purchased the Crawford House at the Notch, with 17,000 acres of land for the sum of $50,000.

☞ An independent young woman in Missouri, Josie Mitchell, poor herself, but having rich relatives, determined to make her own livelihood rather than be supported by others. She accordingly became a telegraph operator in St. Charles, and had not been there two years before she received her reward in the form of a legacy of $200,000 left her by an uncle.

☞ The postmaster at North Bennington, Vt., was somewhat embarrassed, the other day, on being asked by a lady if there was a letter for "my cow." Being disposed to treat her politely, he replied that there wasn't nothing for anybody's cow. The lady, being equally embarrassed and also disposed to be polite, said she inquired for Mike Howe.

A COOL RIDE. A citizen of Wisconsin, on a recent trip to St. Louis, took a sleeping car berth on a through express train. In the night he got up, and clad only in his sleeping garments, went out on the platform of the car to look at the moon. The door closed with a spring lock, and the porter of the car was asleep. He says he never enjoyed a fifty-mile ride as he did that one.

PERSONAL. We were pleased to receive a call, during the past week, from Dr. AYER's traveler, who was in our town devoting his time and attention to the preparations of the great medicine man. This call has become a pleasant annual to us from the able and reliable business character of the accomplished gentleman whom this firm send out to transact their business. No house is better known or valued by the press for its promptness in settlement than the well-established and popular J. C. AYER's & Co., Lowell, Mass., whose medicines have become a household necessity, and won the confidence and praise of all.—Our own acquaintance with them has extended over a series of years, and we have invariably found them, their travelers and their medicines worthy of the commendation they everywhere receive. —Jackson (Tenn.) Tribune.

WHAT'S BEST.

What it is best for us to do
We sometimes do not know;
'Tis then we prize a friend who's true,
Our proper course to show;
His words of kindness should we heed,
And treasure in our heart,
Feeling he is "a friend indeed,"
Such knowledge to impart.
'Tis best whene'r the BOYS need "CLOTHES,"
Coat, Pants, Vest, Hat and Shoes complete,
To "SUIT" them at GEORGE A. FENNO'S,
Corner of Beach and Washington Street, Boston.

WINTER IS COMING.

The sere and yellow leaf now cast
Upon old Mother Earth,—
Rude Boreas, with his frosty breath,—
All speak of winter's birth.

Then be wise in time, all you that mean
For his advent to prepare,
And call, where Good Clothing can be seen,
On RICHARDS, twenty-five Dock Square.

In vain you will not call, we know;
For there you'll surely find
The price and garments he will show,
Just suited to your mind.

THE HALL
TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines
AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversa of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at
KEATING & SPEAR'S
Furniture Rooms, who are the agents for Quincy.
K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

Keep within your means, young man;
Don't fear to say you're poor;
And if your "chums" don't like it,
They can step without the door.

It's better far for you to pinch,
And pay your honest way,
Than bear the name of being flush,
No matter what they say.

Let no demands of debt accrue,
To load you down through life;
With honest heart and ready hand,
Go forward in the strife.

Be just with self and every one,
And envy no man's store;
But keep your heart in purity,
And none will think you poor.

MANAGEMENT OF FOWLS IN WINTER.

W. T. W. writes to the American Stock Journal as follows:—"As the season is approaching, when all fowls need to be cared for, a few hints in regard to their management may be acceptable. All fowls during the winter need some accommodations and the better these are, the better will the fowls repay all labor. But whatever the accommodations, they should be clean, well ventilated and free from vermin. To keep the house free from vermin, and also to keep it clean, the best way is to whitewash it thoroughly. On the exterior of the house, taste and beauty may be the principal points, but on the interior the health and comfort of the fowls, is all that should be regarded. In selecting fowls for breeding purposes, only the best of the variety should be used, and allow one cock to four or five hens. In feeding, the rule of variety should be observed, such as boiled potatoes and meal, Indian meal mash, and occasionally corn, oats, and buckwheat. Fowls thus managed will be found to amply repay all labor in their behalf and also, afford a means of pleasure."

WARM WATER FOR PLANTS.

Mr. R. G. Williams, of Vermont State Normal School, writes us upon this subject as follows:—

I see some remarks in your monthly report upon the benefit of watering house-plants with warm water. Last winter we had about one hundred plants in the house, and usually gave them warm water and very frequently water that was much too warm for the hand; some water at or very near the boiling point, has been poured into the saucers of the pots and just on the sides. We have about forty persons in the family, from different parts of the country, and their testimony is that they never saw so fine geraniums, heliotropes, fuchsias, verbenas, passion-flower, oleanders. These plants show very marked improvement; others have flourished finely under the treatment.

All house-plants are better for being watered with water several degrees warmer than the atmosphere in which they are grown.—American Workman.

CARROTS FOR HORSES.

Carrots are most excellent food for horses. They impart a bright glossiness to their coat, and give them health, vigor and activity. By frequent experiments that have been made, one bushel of oats and one bushel of carrots are better for a horse than two bushels of carrots. One thousand bushels of carrots have frequently been grown to an acre, and five hundred bushels can be raised with perfect ease.

Anecdotes.

A young lady in Philadelphia having been observed to spend an hour or two daily walking in the sunny part of the back yard, without bonnet or sun shade, was asked why she acted so imprudently.

"Why, mother," replied the miss, "you know I can't go out of town this summer, so I am trying to get sun burned before other folks get back, and make them believe that I have been away too."

"Well, Pat, Jim didn't quite kill you with that brickbat, did he?"

"No; but I wish he had."

"What for?"

"So I could a' seen him hung, the villain."

"What is your consolation in life and death?" asked a clergyman of a young miss in a Bible class that he was catechising. The young lady blushed, hesitated.

"Will you not tell me?" urged the clergyman.

"I don't want to tell his name," said the ingenious girl, "but I've no objections to telling you where he lives."

"Why do you call me birdie, my dear?" inquired a wife of her husband.

"Because you are always associated in my mind with a bill," was the answer.

"I have insulted you, and you will have to brook the insult," said a little man to a big one.

"I will brook you," said the big one, taking him up and tossing him into the middle of a stream close by.

WE invite those in want of Furniture of any kind, to call and examine our stock, and think it would be for their advantage, for the following reasons:
1st. We purchase our lumber from the mills at the West, where it is taken direct from the forest; and import our Upholstery goods from the manufacturers in Europe, thereby saving the profit of the Importer and the Lumber Dealer.
2d. We manufacture on a large scale, and are enabled to get the best workmen because we can employ them the year round; and in manufacturing articles by the hundred we can do so much cheaper than those who manufacture only by the dozen.
3d. We have double the quantity and variety of goods and nearly double the room to display them of any Furniture house in Boston, thereby offering purchasers a better chance to suit their taste.
4th. Our rent is cheaper than that of any other Furniture house in Boston, considering the amount of goods sold, and as our sales are large we can afford to sell at a small profit, and are willing to do so.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical. Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.
Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE
34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.
The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.
Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.
Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.
Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

CAUTION
TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH
DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Deranged ments, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed to a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.
Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.
Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.
Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

Poetry.

HAND IN HAND.

Down life's western slope, beloved!
We are walking hand in hand;
To the rest that lies beyond us,
To the fair and better land.
Dark the shadows fall behind us,
But the sunlight lies before,
Making bright the way about us,
Guiding toward the shining shore.

Long have we thus walked together,
Through the changing, by-gone years,
Bearing burdens for each other,
Sharing smiles and sometimes tears.
Many a fair and fragrant blossom
In our path has paled and died;
Many a hope has un forsaken,
As we journeyed side by side.

But, within the home we hope for,
Safely housed from sin and pain,
Love will give our long-lost treasures
To our longing heart again.
When we reach the crystal river,
Where our weary wandering cease,
Hand in hand we hope to enter
Into God's eternal peace.

MRS. SMITH'S CHEESE.

Mrs. Jones, being the newly married wife of a well-to-do young farmer, took it into her pretty head one day that it would be well for her to learn to make cheese, and thereby astonish her Henry and the world.

Now the whole neighborhood, usually at sixes and sevens on half a dozen points, were fully agreed on one. They all "allowed" that Mrs. John Smith made the best cheese of any woman in the country. Therefore to Mrs. John Smith did Mrs. Jones determine to offer herself meekly for instruction in the magic art.

People keep early hours at a country farmhouse, and Mrs. Jones having no children to hinder her rapid steps from kitchen to pantry and from pantry to bedroom, got her dinner out of the way, her dishes washed, and herself nicely dressed in a new pink gingham, set off by a coquettish ruffled white apron, before the great eight-day clock in the corner struck two. Down the hill and through the lawn she tripped, her gypsy hat swinging from her arm, to learn the mystery of making cheese from Mrs. John Smith.

She found that lady's house easily enough, because it was the only one visible for half a mile or more. And there was no mistaking the person of the lady herself, because she sat in the centre of a great clean-looking kitchen, with a cheese press at the further end, and a basket of curd on the deal table by her side.

Mrs. Jones explained her errand, and sat reverently awaiting the reply.

"Want to make cheese, eh?" said the good old lady, cutting calmly away at her curd. "Well, it's a master job, I can tell you. My Hannah was just crazy to learn when she was about your age, and was going to be married. "I should so like to make a cheese for Doremus, ma," said she. Doremus was her husband. And she made one. A pretty thing it was, too; no more like a cheese than my head is. Doremus could'nt eat it, and my Hannah cried like a good one, great girl as she was."

"I suppose every one must learn, Mrs. Smith," said Mrs. Jones, blushing as she thought of "her Henry," and the cheese she boped to make for him. "How do you begin? What do you do first?"

"Oh, law, child, you just take your tub, and set it right in the middle of the floor, like this. It's a good long job I can tell you, and you'll be sick enough of it before you get through. The first cheese I ever made, I thought my mother was just about the wickedest woman on the face of the earth, because she kept me right at it till it was done. I'd a great sight rather play than work in them days, just like any other gal."

"And what did she make you do first?" asked Mrs. Jones, thinking to get the needed information in the shape of a story, if in no other way.

"Oh, law, just as I told you. She made me bring out the great cheese tub, and set it right in the middle of the floor. And just as I had got it there, in come young John Smith—him that I married: and he had burt his eye a chopping up in the woods to fix the fences, so the horses couldn't jump out of the paster. His eye was all tied up in a handkerchief, and he couldn't see much to speak on out of the other, for first I knew he walked right over the tub, and down he went—ker-slam! I was scared half out of my wits, for I really thought he had broken his neck, but I had to laugh for all that, just as gals always will; and he was so mad that he picked himself up, and marched out of the house as straight as he could go. "There," says mother, "you have lost him now, Mirandy!" And I really thought I had, for a week or more, when he never come nigh me. But he came round after all, and we were married: and a very happy life we have had of it, take it with one thing and another—"

"I'm glad to hear it," said Mrs. Jones. "What did you do when he fell over the tub! Was there anything in it? Had you put anything in it? Had you put anything in?"

"Law, no! There hadn't been time, when he come in and fell over it, ker-slam."

"And after he had gone, what did you put into the tub then?" persisted Mrs. Jones.

"Law, me, that tub wa'nt good for much after John Smith fell over it ker-slam! Mother was mad enough when she looked at it! If the hoops was started in one place they was in fifty! She made John Smith get her a new one before he married me, and I made my first cheese in it for him after we came home from our wedding jaunt."

"And what did you put into the new tub, the first thing!" asked Mrs. Jones desperately.

"Well, you see, I took that tub and set it right out into the middle of the floor in my own house, and John he came in to help, and we were just like all boys and girls then, full of nonsense! And I give him a push, and he give me one, and I declare if he didn't go and fell right over the new tub, ker-slam! Mother she came in, and says she, "Well, of all the born fools I ever did see, you and John are the biggest, Mirandy!" And sometimes I begin to think that mother was in the right."

Mrs. Jones began to think so too. She staid chatting half an hour longer with her neighbor, but she asked her no more questions, and to this day she has not the remotest idea how Mrs. John Smith makes her excellent cheese.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28, 1871.

The Grand Duke Alexis is now the prevailing topic of the hour. His highness left N. Y. last week, for a brief visit to Washington, to see President Grant. Yesterday he visited Brady's Photographic Gallery and had his "photo" taken. From thence he went over to Brooklyn to visit the Navy Yard. The scene was a very brilliant one, all the officers of the army and navy in and around the city being present in full dress uniform, while the elite of our belles graced the scene arrayed in "purple and fine linen." A dinner and a dance were the principal features of the occasion. In the evening he attended the opera, to hear Nillson. To-day at one o'clock, Alexis reviewed the Fire Department of our city at Tompkin's Square, and sounded an alarm himself, as an experiment, to see how quickly our fire-laddies could get to work. To-night the grand ball, tendered by the naval officers, takes place at the Navy Yard, and it bids fair to be the most imposing of all the fetes to be given in his honor. He will visit Boston in December, and perhaps the citizens of Quincy may get a peep at him by going to town the day he arrives.

The sailors of the Russian fleet, over one hundred in number, were on a visit to the city yesterday, and saw the "elephant" quite largely.

The Grand Jury, now in session, are investigating the frauds committed by our rulers. Yesterday they had the Hon. Samuel Tilden before them to testify. A number of inspectors of election, who are charged with fraud in the late election, were before Justice Rixby this morning and were held in $2000 bail to answer. The Reform Committee are pushing matters very hard. Comptroller, (or Ex-Comptroller) Connelly, known politically as Slippery Dick, was arrested on Saturday, and held in $1,000,000 bail. So far he has not been able to obtain that amount, and is consequently held a prisoner, not in Ludlow Street Jail, or the Tombs, where he ought to be, but in the fashionable "New York Hotel," on Broadway. That's the difference between a rich thief and a poor one.

Sunday night there was a daring attempt to rob Tiffany & Co., the extensive Jewellers. A man hired apartments next door, and some time in the night he got on the roof and effected an entrance, and managed to pack up $15,000 worth of jewelry, in spite of the fact that twenty watchmen are employed on the premises. He was seen, however, by a policeman in the street as he came out of the second story window, and the alarm being given, he was arrested.

The Gas Companies at present are receiving unlimited blame for the poor gas they furnish the citizens, and it is to be hoped that the next Legislature will afford a remedy.

There is a magnificent silk flag on exhibition at Ball, Black & Co's., a present from the citizens to the police, for their splendid behavior during the draft riot, and the riot of July 12.

DEEP MUD.

Two chaps came in contact at one of our restaurants, some time since, and were regaling on a long nine, when the mud and bad roads became the topic of their conversation. One observed that several coal teams were stuck in the mud axletree deep, and that he saw twenty yoke of oxen straining every nerve, but without effect. The other, no doubt considering that a pretty tough yarn, said that when he was coming to the city, he saw a man sitting on a fence, cracking his whip, and yelping and bellowing at a furious rate. He approached him and inquired what was wrong.

"O, nothing much; only I have a wagon and four yoke of oxen in the mud (pointing to the road), and the plaguy brutes won't pull a bit."

At this moment an old Hoosier entered, who had heard only the winding up part of the story, drew up a chair, and commenced a yarn about what he had seen. Said he:—

"Friend, was you ever on the American bottoms? I crossed there once, and as I was wading through the mud, which, as a matter of course, was not the best walking, I kicked out a hat, when a voice, which said:—

"Quit that, old fellow," saluted my ears.

Looking around and seeing nothing, I concluded to give it another kick, which I did, when the same voice exclaimed:—

"Stop; you're kicking my hat!"

I here discovered that a man was sticking in the mud, and observed:—

"Old fellow, you had better be getting out of that before night, or you will be sure to freeze to death."

He yelled out:—

"I don't care a darn. I've got a good mule under me!"

GROWTH OF CHILDREN.

Children grown up—nothing on earth grows as fast as children. It was but yesterday, and that lad was playing with tops, a buoyant boy. He is a man, and gone now. There is no more childhood for him or for us. Life has claimed him. When a beginning is made it is like ravelling a stocking; stitch by stitch gives way till it is all gone. The house has not a child in it—there is no more noise in the hall—boys rushing pellmell; it is very orderly now. There is no more skates, sleds, or balls left scattered about. Things are neat enough now. There is no delay for sleepy folks; there is no longer any task before you lie down, of looking after children and tucking up the bedclothes. There are no disputes to settle, nobody to get off to school, no importunities for impossible things, no rips to mend, no fingers to tie up, no faces to be washed, or collars to be arranged. There was never such peace in the house! It would sound like music to have some feet to clatter down the front stairs! Oh, for some children's noise! What used to ail us, that we were hushing their loud laugh, checking their noisy frolic, and reproving their slamming and banging the doors?

"MEN'S "RIGHTS."

Men have rights which I think all women are bound to respect in a degree; they have rights in their own kitchens; they have a right to have their tastes and appetites catered to in a healthy and reasonable way. I have known fearful antagonism to grow out of very small differences and neglects. The wife loves her steak and roast cooked brown, the husband desires his rare. He wants his cup of coffee; she "can't endure coffee." He would like his breakfast at six, to suit his business; she don't choose to rise till seven, and so on through an interminable chapter of little things, out of which grow strange miseries. It is not the little matter itself, perhaps, but the absence of any desire to please; the outgrowing of selfishness that shows itself in all these little things, making the tea more bitter, the steak less juicy—in fact, taking all the relish out of many and other wisegood meal, and sending father and son and brother too often away from the home-hearth, to still a discordant spirit or satisfy a craven appetite with unholy things. Think of this, O dear wives and mothers! and if you have forgotten or neglected these little enticements, try them at once, and mark their effect.—Mother's Journal.

☞ Nearly all women like soldiers, and some would like a good offer sir.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, DEC. 9, 1871

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It will, we imagine, be a surprise to many of the people, old and young, of Quincy, to hear that the Public Library has now been open as a reading room for nearly a week. The notice sent to us last week by the Trustees that it was to be opened for public use on Monday, did not reach us until the PATRIOT had gone to press, which was three days earlier than usual, it being Thanksgiving week. The notice will, however, be found among our advertisements to-day, and not a few have already found out that the library room is open to all who choose to come, both afternoon and evening.

After this week the catalogue will probably be so far completed that books can be taken out under the rules established by the Trustees. These limit the right to take out books for the present to persons over 14 years old; but every one can go to the library to read, and the children, until they are 14 years old, must get their fathers and mothers to take out the books they want for them.

The library now has between 4000 and 5000 volumes, nearly 2000 of which have been purchased for it and are new; —the rest are gifts. It contains books of all kinds, and suited to all ages and all tastes. There are scientific works and books of reference, besides histories, stories, biographies, essays, novels and poems. Miss Hailes, the librarian, is engaged in preparing as fast as she can a list of books now in the library; a printed copy of which is to be sent, probably within the next month, to every house in Quincy. People will then be able to see exactly what the library has, and send for what they want. Meanwhile they can ask for any book they wish to read;—and, if the librarian has not got them, we understand that the money subscribed and appropriated to found the library is not all expended, and that the Trustees intend to buy those additional books for which there shall seem to be most demand.

Besides the books, which can be taken out of the library, there are also the magazines and periodicals which belong to the reading room. The greater part of these cannot be taken out of the library room while they are new, for every evening people are coming in who want to read them. When they become old they can be taken out like books. Meanwhile the library is open every afternoon and evening, and it is warm and light and comfortable; we hope that young and old will make use of it and enjoy it, and that, before another year is out, its books will have found their way into every house in Quincy.

TRIAL JUSTICE. J. Q. Adams, Esq., has been appointed Trial Justice for this town, and may be seen at his office in this village, at 9 o'clock every morning, or at any time during Tuesdays or Fridays.

REAL ESTATE SALES. A double cottage house and 1-4 of an acre of land, with fruit trees, at Quincy Neck, owned by Henry H. Faxon was sold to R. O. Colson, for $1500.

House and 1-4 of an acre of land, on Main street, owned by Henry H. Faxon, sold to Jeremiah Falvey, for $1100.

Mr. Faxon, has also sold his estate, corner of South and Beach streets, Boston, to Faxon Brothers.

GRAND BALL. The largest ball of the season, was givenby the Tiger Engine Company, No. 2, Thanksgiving night, at the Town Hall, about two hundred couples being present. The extreme cold and disagreeable weather did not prevent those who enjoy these social festivals from being present. During the evening Capt. W. W. Penniman was made the recipient of a handsome silver watch and chain, presented to him by the company.

GLASS WEDDING. The fifteenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Spear. formerly of this town, was celebrated at their residence, in Charlestown, on Tuesday evening. There were about forty persons present, many relatives and friends went from this town. The bride and groom were dressed in a very tasty though rather old-fashioned costume. A great many useful, ornamental and appropriate gifts were bestowed upon them. The tables were spread with the delicacies of the season. The company spent a very social and pleasant evening and when separating for their homes, expressed their wishes for the continued comfort and happiness of those whose wedding festival they had so happily celebrated.

☞ The Grand Duke Alexis and suite arrived in Boston on Thursday.

HIGH SCHOOL RE-UNION

The fifth annual Re-union of the High School Association, occurred on Thursday evening last, at the Town Hall. Circumstances combined to make it the most enjoyable and successful of the series thus far held. The weather was moderate and favorable; the hall, in its new dress and appointments, seemed to show to better advantage than at any previous lighting, filled as it was with a large and fashionable audience; the choice music from Gilmore's Band, six members of which led by Mr. Daggett, performed a number of selections in their usual artistic style; and then the management of the whole affair was almost a model in its way,— extending to every detail, thereby causing everything to work systematically and smoothly. All these happy surroundings, then, would seem to require a high order of merit in the literary portion of the programme, and the audience declared this to be a fact by their hearty applause.

The Oration by Mr. J. C. Randall, was a well written production, containing many reminiscences of school days and bringing many of our own experiences vividly to mind; several bits of humorous description were also noticed. It was clearly delivered and well received by the audience.

The Poem by Miss Lizzie E. Morse, was quite skilfully worked up, and illustrated many points of school life and manners; the whole effort was very creditable, and was heartily received.—After these exercises were concluded dancing was in order, and the floor was occupied by the requisite number of dancers who threw off the various changes very gracefully. These were a kind of introductory, however, for an intermission for refreshments was soon called and the audience invited to the Lyceum Room where a bountiful supply of choice edibles was distributed by the committee in charge. Dancing was then resumed, and when we consider the fine music, the thoroughly sociable feeling which prevailed, and the really good ventilation of the hall, it is no wonder that time passed quickly, finding the company in full enjoyment when the prompter was calling the last changes.

The occasion was an entire success and when the next Re-union occurs "May we be there to see."

The following list comprises the board of officers and directors for the ensuing year:—

President,—Mr. H. C. Rodgers.
Vice President,—Mr. J. P. Bigelow.
Treasurer,—Mr. W. P. Barker.
Recording Sec.—Miss J. M. Wright.
Corresponding Sec.—Mr. J. C. Randall.
Directors,—Miss Dora A. French, Miss S. Addie Souther, Mrs. H. C. Rogers, Mrs. G. H. Field, Mr. S. C. Gregg, Mr. T. W. Curtis, Mr. Edward Whicher, Mr. D. Fred French.

ROBBERIES. The grocery store of Messer & Baker, at Quincy Point, was entered by robbers, on Tuesday night, about half past one, by prying open the side door with two crow-bars, carried for that purpose. They drilled two holes through the safe door and blew it open with powder. They also broke off the money drawer, and took what coppers and currency they could find, but very kindly left a pocket book in the back part of the drawer, containing $15,00. The whole amount stolen was $75,00, in silver, coppers and currency. As near as can be seen they did not take a single article from the store except money. The explosion was plainly heard all over the Point, but no one knowing its resource took the trouble to get up. Mr. Baker's room, is in Thomas Lincoln's house, about 100 feet from the safe, and strange to say,he slept so sound he knew nothing of it until morning.

The thieves on their way to the store, broke into Daniel Baxter's carpenter shop, and stole a mallet, with which they drilled the hole in the safe. This they left, also the tunnel that they poured the powder through. (They can have the same by calling at the store and proving property.)

The store of Mr. D. B. Stetson, on Washington street, was broken open, on Monday night, and boots and shoes to the amount of two to three hundred dollars were taken. Boxes after being emptied of their contents were thrown over into the adjoining premises. The rogues effected their entrance through a front window, and although the family were living over the store, they did not hear the burglars at their work.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS. The citizens of this new village are now blessed with two fine schools, with some sixty scholars. The second school was opened on Monday last, and is taught by Miss Hattie H. Morse of this town. We congratulate our citizens of that place in having so able a teacher procured for them. Miss Morse is an excellent instructor and has been put in charge of the Grammar school and Miss Ella Walker the Primary.

For the Patriot.

THE WOODWARD SCHOOL.

It would seem to be quite time that those having direction of the Woodward School were moving for its establishment. The funds must be sufficient to provide accommodation and teaching for all who will avail themselves of its opportunities. And it seems right that the generation of girls known to Dr. Woodward, and in which he felt a personal interest, should have the advantage of his liberality. It is to be hoped that those having charge of this fund will not fall into the mistake (so often made, and repented of, in America) of spending upon a showy building the money that should be devoted to the higher objects of their trust. But as there has been some suggestion of an edifice that would equal or exceed in cost the Adams Academy, it may be well to point out the difference in the cases. The Supervisors of the Adams fund were required to put up a stone building of which one room must be devoted to the library of President Adams, and the others accommodate a classical school for boys to be opened to the whole country. That school may at any time have a national reputation, and count its pupils by hundreds as the Academy at Exeter does to-day. In view of positive requirements and recognized probabilities, the Supervisors may have been justified in erecting a structure of considerable cost and large accommodation. The conditions of the Woodward School are notoriously different.

It is a town school,—for a limited class of pupils. It is open only to girls born in Quincy, and offers no inducement to tax payers to bring their families among us. Out of this town, it can excite no interest, and will be wholly unknown.—Dr. Woodward—a man to whom ostentation was utterly foreign—would have been the last to require a stately edifice for the modest function he designed for his school. As it is to be presumed that the Managers of the Woodward institute will interfere as little as possible with the work of our public schools, it is clear that no large attendance of pupils can be expected for many years. A building ample to accommodate our wants need not cost ten thousand dollars. It could be planned with a view to additions whenever they were required. And if some future generation shall find that the increase of Quincy and the increase of the Woodward fund justify a costly structure, whatever is now put up can be sold and something finer be built. This, however, is a very remote contingency with which we need not trouble ourselves. For it is at present the duty of our citizens who knew Dr. Woodward, and who accepted from him the means to found the school with which he desired to endow Quincy, to see that his wishes are carried into effect as soon as possible.

CIVIS.

VERY SUCCESSFUL. From a letter sent to one of our citizens, by our townsman, Noah Curtis, Esq., who is spending a few weeks gunning at Monkey Isle, Currituck Sound, near Norfolk, Va., we copy the following diary of the number of birds killed the first eleven days:

A PLEASURE TRIP. The six ton yacht, Francena, sailed on the 1st inst., from Neponset, for Florida and the Gulf, having on board but two persons. One of them was Mr. W. C. Reed, formerly of the old Squantum House, and owner of the yacht, the other was Captain John Spear, of Neponset, a veteran of upwards of seventy years of age, an old and skilful pilot, having sailed out of Boston harbor for a great number of years. It is their intention, we learn, to proceed slowly along, stopping at all the principal ports, and are to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida and its vicinity. The Francena is a small, but new boat, and under the guidance of such experienced hands will we doubt not, be carried through safely.

WEST QUINCY. The Granite Engine Company gave a grand ball Thanksgiving Eve, at the Willard House, and notwithstanding the cold disagreeable weather, a very large crowd was present to participate in the pleasures of the evening; in fact more than the hall could comfortably accommodate. We learn that there are rumors of erecting a large and commodious building, near the Depot. The citizens of this prosperous and pleasant part of our town are determined to have better accommodations for their lectures, concerts, balls, &c. May success attend this new enterprise.

WESTERN CORRESPONDENT.

RED ROCK, Nov. 22d, 1871.

Winter has come upon us in earnest. It commenced raining on the morning of the 17th and continued all day. The weather grew cold towards night, and the storm changed to hail and then to snow, which fell to the depth of several inches, the wind blowing a gale from the north all the time. Sunday morning dawned clear and cold.

Thousands of cattle were driven before the storm for miles.

Herdsmen were hunting stock in all directions. Many head have been driven among the bluffs so far that they got lost, and must starve. Your Correspondent lost a yoke of steers and a cow, which he found on Mulberry river, twenty-two miles from this place.

Ponies that were brought here from Texas this season, are dying off, from the effect of the cold and poor feed. One man lost twenty-two cattle, of the Texas, stock. Many old cattle, yearling and young calves have already lost their hides. Prices are very low. The business has been so profitable, that many have invested their all in this kind of stock, which must ruin some, and all must loose, this season, on account of the fires, and the present cold weather. The stock is as high now in Texas as it is here.

Ten dollars per ton is offered for hay, and none for sale. No one having more than enough for his own use. Corn has risen from 35 to 50 cents per bushel and still going up. Wheat is one dollar and has an upward tendency, with all other grains. A cold winter is prophesied. The buffalo have left for the South, none being within 150 miles of this place. C. C. P.

For the Patriot.

HEPWORTH'S LECTURE.

A large audience gathered at the Town Hall, on Wednesday evening, to hear the third lecture of the course, by Rev. G. H. Hepworth of New York. Knowing his high reputation as a preacher and public speaker, we expected he would fully sustain it on this occasion; but, to our mind, the lecture was quite a failure and seemed to fall flat on the audience, also. A small amount of "manly eloquence" and fine declamation, being made to serve in place of great thoughts and new ideas, and that able treatment of the whole that the audience had a right to expect from him. His argument seemed weak and improbable, his stories quite old and backneyed; his slow delivery did not favorably impress, either; for otherwise we should have heard it all by half past eight. However, it was short enough, and the great contrast between this lecture and that delivered by Rev. E. H. Chapin, about a year ago, was doubtless remarked by all who had the good fortune to hear that masterly effort. We can see no reason why a lecture contract should not be as fairly and squarely met as any other, and, considering the high price paid in this instance, we feel that the swindle was nearly complete.

JUSTICE.

Over 7,000 bushels of onions have been shipped from Cornwall, Vt., during this season, and they have as many more left.

A young man who was recently married engaged a whole train to convey himself and bride on the first part of their wedding journey.

They have snow six feet in depth on the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, with the mercury at twenty degrees below zero.

Forty thousand sheep perished by the recent sand storm in Los Angelos county, California.

The latest style of mantel-pieces are of black walnut, inlaid with medallions and pieces of bronze representing scenes from the Old and New Testament. This is an old style revived.

Soreness of the flesh, tenderness of the scalp, are cured by using Renne's Pain-Killer Magic Oil. This is excellent also for sore throat, pain in the joints, and people say "It works like a charm."

Marriages.

In this town, on the 30th ult., at the residence of the bridegroom's father, by Rev. John D. Wells, Mr. Charles Munroe Hayden of this town, to Miss Abbie M. Hackett, of Lakeville.

The usual token of remembrance was received, for which we in return give our best wishes, for their happiness and prosperity, wishing the happy couple a long, pleasant and useful life.

In South Braintree, on the 29th ult., by Rev. L. Wheaton Allen, Mr. Gardon W. Mansfield to Miss Josephine A. Churchill, both of Braintree.

On the 29th ult., by Rev. F. A. Frigulietti, Oscar Nonby of Boston, to Miss Sarah Pierce of this town.

On the 30th ult., by Rev. John D. Wells, Mr. Horace Luzarder to Miss Mary S. Holbrook.

Deaths.

In this town, on the 4th inst., Mabelle daughter of Mr. Samuel H. and Mrs. Abbie B. Spear, aged 1 year, 6 months and 22 days.

WHAT'S BEST.

What it is best for us to do
We sometimes do not know;
'Tis then we prize a friend who's true,
Our proper course to show;
His words of kindness should we heed,
And treasure in our heart,
Feeling he is "a friend indeed,"
Such knowledge to impart.
'Tis best whene'r the BOYS need "CLOTHES,"

WINTER IS COMING.

The sere and yellow leaf now cast
Upon old Mother Earth,—
Rude Boreas, with his frosty breath,—
All speak of winter's birth.

Then be wise in time, all you that mean
For his advent to prepare,
And call, where Good Clothing can be seen,
On RICHARDS, twenty-five Dock Square.

In vain you will not call, we know;
For there you'll surely find
The price and garments he will show,
Just suited to your mind.

The Boston Journal.

Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly.

For 1872.

In presenting the Prospectus of the BOSTON JOURNAL for the year 1872, it is quite unnecessary to allude in detail to those features which have won for it the name of

The New England Family Newspaper.

Its reputation as a wide-awake, enterprising newspaper, so thoroughly organized in all its departments that the people look to it with confidence for the earliest and fullest reports of the news of the day, has given it a circulation unapproached by any paper of its class in New England, and unequaled by but few in the country. The aim of its publishers will be to maintain the position it has now, by the most liberal expenditure of money, the employment of the best talent in all its departments, and the introduction of such new features as the experience of the past or the developments of the future may suggest.

The year 1872 is to witness

Another Presidential Campaign,

which is to be preceded by a VERY IMPORTANT AND EXCITING SESSION OF CONGRESS, in which questions of the utmost importance to the commercial, civil and political interests of the country are to be discussed and decided, and which will render an enterprising newspaper a necessity to every man who would be informed in regard to the live questions of the day. By means of the JOURNAL Bureau at Washington, under the direction of BEN. PERLEY POORE, it will be enabled to give its readers the earliest information of all important measures affecting the public interest, with an occasional glimpse of the movements behind the scenes.

In all its several departments we mean that the JOURNAL for 1872 shall be better and more acceptable to its readers than ever before—that it shall cover the whole field at home and abroad—and that those who depend upon it for a daily epitome of the world's progress shall find their expectations realized.

NEW ENGLAND NEWS.

As heretofore, special attention will be paid to New England news. With experienced Reporters and Correspondents at the Capitals of each of the New England States and in all the large cities and towns we shall be able to give THE JOURNAL readers the earliest news from all parts of New England.

THE BOSTON JOURNAL.

PUBLISHED MORNING & EVENING,

And containing the fullest and latest news from all quarters of the globe up to the hour of going to press. Five and sometimes SIX EDITIONS are issued daily. City subscribers are supplied by route carriers. One copy by mail, $10 per annum.

SEMI-WEEKLY JOURNAL.

Published Tuesdays and Fridays,

Containing all the news of three days preceding, full reviews of the markets, ship news, etc., and is especially valuable for business men in the country, as well as for families who do not care to take a daily, and want the news oftener than once a week.

Poetry.

ALONE.

In nevermore there is despair
In fair-thee-well, a dirge-like tone;
But agony, too hard to bear,
Breathes in that mournful word—alone!
It tells of broken hearts and ties,
Long silent lips, and curtained eyes;
Of vanished birds, abandoned nests,
And white hands clasped on silent breasts.

Alone! alone! what echoes wake
In memory's cavern, at the sound:
While phantoms their appearance make,
As if the lost again were found.
But ah! how desolate the thought
Such figures are of moonlight wrought;
Alone! alone! no sadder word,
By mortal ear, is ever heard.

Farmers' Department.

HOW TO FATTEN CHICKENS.

It is hopeless to attempt to fatten chickens while they are at liberty. They must be put in a proper coop; and this, like most other poultry appurtenance, need not be expensive. To fatten twelve fowls, a coop may be three feet long, eighteen inches high and eighteen inches deep, made entirely of bars. No part solid—neither sides nor bottom. Discretion must be used according to the size of the chickens put up. They do not want room; indeed the closer they are the better—provided they can all stand up at the same time. Care must be taken to put up such as have been accustomed to be together, or they will fight. If one is quarrelsome, it is better to remove it at once; as, like other bad examples, it soon finds imitators. A diseased chicken should not be put up.

The food should be ground oats; and may either be put up in a trough or on a flat board running along the front of the coop. It may be mixed with water or milk—the latter is better. It should be well soaked, forming a pulp as loose as can be, provided it does not run off the board. They must be well fed three or four times a day—the first time as soon after day-break as may be possible or convenient, and then at intervals of four hours. Each meal should be as much and no more than they can eat up clean. When done feeding, the board should be wiped and some gravel may be spread. It causes them to feed and thrive.

After a fortnight of this treatment you will have good fat fowls. If, however there are but five or six to be fatted, they must not have as much room as though there were twelve. Nothing is easier than to allow them the proper space; as it is only necessary to have two or three pieces of wood to pass between the bars and form a partition. This may also serve when fowls are up at different degrees of fatness. This requires attention, or fowls will not keep fat and healthy.

TO COOK AN OLD FOWL. Dress and stuff as for roasting; then boil three hours in a covered pot, with one quart of water, to which add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar; then take it from the water, rub it over with a little butter, sprinkle over some flour, and put the fowl into the bake pan and bake in a hot oven one hour. Use the liquor in the pot for gravy, and to baste with. The vinegar makes it very tender, but does not taste at all.

DRESSING FOR A TURKEY. The crumbs of one large loaf of bread, rubbed up fine, two eggs, half a teacup of butter, one teacupful of celery, chopped fine, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of ground pepper. This is delicious.

Anecdotes.

"Well, Harry, do you love me?" said an ugly and not very agreeable friend of the family, to the pet four-year-old.

"I know, but I can't tell," was the answer.

"But why not?"

"Because I should be whipped if I did," was the frank reply of the observing child, who had been taught by past experience that it was not always safe to tell the truth about his mamma's visitors.

"Do you mean to say there is cholera of any kind in this city, sir?" asked an indignant New Orleanser of a stranger.

"Yes I do," was the reply.

"Then, sir, I must say that your belief is but a phantom of your imagination!"

"Very well, then; that's the cholera-in-phantom, isn't it?"

The other night Jack S. said to a fair partner at a ball,

"Don't you think my moustachios are becoming?"

To which she replied:

"Well, sir, they may be coming, but they have not yet arrived."

"I'm on the sea, I'm on the sea," roared a bad singer.

"You're not," cried a musical punster, in company, "you would be on the C if you sang in tune; but you're on the B flat, confound you!"

THE HALL
TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines
AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at
KEATING & SPEAR'S
Furniture Rooms, who are the agents for Quincy.
K. & S. will apply this Treadle to machines at short notice, and warrant it satisfactory. They also Repair Sewing Machines, and furnish Oil, Needles, and findings for various Machines.

GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

WATERS'
BOTANICAL
Hair Life.
THIS Beautiful preparation for the Hair and Scalp, has gained the confidence of the people more than any thing that has ever been discovered. It restores the Hair from a Gray, to a beautiful Black or dark Brown, without those poisonous minerals that's so injurious to the eyes; it removes all Dandruff and the most inveterate itching of the Scalp. For a toilet article, its unsurpassable.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE
34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.
The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.
Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.
Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.
Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

Poetry.

NOTHING LOST.

There's nothing lost in God's economy,
No useless waste to careless riot runs;
No needless falling of the autumn rains—
No chance-wise motion of the circling suns.

The wild-wood minstrelsy—the flowers that blow
In the cool shadows of the lonely wood;
The faintest colors in the summer air,
And nature's constant ministers of good.

There's nothing lost; in the Creator's plan
All tends to use—e'en things we most despise
As useless, in God's wondrous providence,
Into new images of beauty rise.

There's nothing lost; O patient soul, take heart!
Thy simple strivings in unnoticed ways,
Are safely garnered; some day thou shalt see
Their royal blossoming, with sweet amaze.

No, nothing lost! the heart's unuttered prayer,
The earnest thought, the spirit's yearning cry,
The gentle word, the simplest deed of love,
Is never lost; such tidings can never die.

Interesting Selections.

Graham Cakes. To one quart of Graham flour add one teaspoonful of salt, five table-spoonfuls of molasses, two table-spoonfuls of yeast, or a small yeast cake; stir as thick as pound cake. Let it stand over night, if wanted for breakfast. When ready to bake, add a well beaten egg and a teaspoonful of soda. Bake in cups half an hour. They are said to be excellent.

Molasses Fruit-Cake. One cup of butter, two of sugar, one of molasses, one of boiling cider, or sour milk, one pint of flour, one pound of raisins, one grated nutmeg, half a teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of soda; beat them into the molasses, and put in the last thing.

The Pen. The pen in the hand that knows how to use it, is one of the most powerful weapons known. As the tongue of the absent, how charming? When self-respect gives it a new vigor, how pleasing? When virtue guides it, how beautiful? When honor directs it, how respected? When wit sharpens it, how fatal? When scurrility wields it, how contemptible? 'Tis the weapon of the soul.

Enjoying Misfortunes. A journalist who has been spending a fortnight in the White Mountains, says he has enjoyed himself very much, having fallen into six rivers, sprained his ankle, skinned his face and neck, and broken three ribs, the first nine days.

☞ "If there is anybody under the canister of heaven that I have in escrescence," said Mrs. Partington, "it is the slanderer, going about like a boy-constructor, circulating his calomel upon honest folks."

☞ Base all your actions upon a principle of right, preserve your integrity of character, and, doing this, never reckon the cost.

☞ A young blood had been out on a spree, and going home was run against by a three-story house, which was chasing some small buildings up the street.—On coming to, he thus reasoned with himself: "Is this mud, (hic) or is it (hic) brains? If it is mud, I'm mortal (hic) 'tossicated; if it's brains, I'm slightly dead (hic)—that all."

☞ A knowing traveler out west, who had chartered half a bed in a crowded hotel, and was determined to have the best half, buckled a spur on his heel before turning in. His unfortunate sleeping partner bore the infliction as long as he could, and at last roared out: "Say, stranger, if you're a gentleman, you ought to cut your toe nails."

☞ A drunken fellow with a box of matches in his pocket, lay down on the sidewalk in Muscatine, the other day, to enjoy a quiet snooze. While rolling over in his sleep the matches took fire.—Awakening, he snuffed the air suspiciously smelt the burning brimstone, and ejaculated, "Just as I expected, in t'other place (hic,) by hokey."

☞ What can a man have in his pocket when it is empty? A big hole.

☞ A countryman whose load of hay was found to contain half a dozen paving stones when weighed for sale, said he couldn't quite account for them, but he remembered that in coming out for a team on the road, he drew putty clus to a stun wall."

☞ An English writer thinks the American early potatoes will come to an end ere long, for as each new variety is claimed to ripen about ten days earlier than any other, the time between planting and digging will soon be used up.

☞ When you see two young persons seated in the centre of a pew in church, you may make up your mind that they are engaged, or going to be; but when one is at the head and the other at the foot of the pew you can immediately determine that they are married.

☞ A man out West, who owns a large farm, says he stacks up all the hay he can out of doors, and the remainder he puts in the barn.

Miscellany.

HOW A BURGLAR WAS CAUGHT.

I will tell you a story of how I once saved my life, entirely through having learned the deaf and dumb alphabet.

There were two little boys who used to come to stay with Frank and me, when we were first married, and they could neither hear nor speak.

They were deaf and dumb; they could not talk, except with their fingers—so—only ever so much quicker.

Frank and I learned this foreign alphabet on purpose that we might understand what they said. They were quick and clever; they could read and write, and draw and sew, and do many other things which most boys would make a very bad hand at.

They could play at draughts, and backgammon, and chess, and at fox and geese, as well as any boys. They could almost see what we said, although they could not hear, with such quick, eager eyes did they watch every movement of our lips. We soon, however, got to talk as easily with our fingers as with our tongues; and sometimes, when the lads were not with us, Frank and I used to converse in that manner when we were alone for practice.

It happened upon one occasion that he had to go to London on important business; he was to have gone by an afternoon train, but something delayed him, so that he was not able to leave before the night express.

I was not in very good health, and retired to my bedroom about two hours before his departure; he promised, however, to come up and wish me good-by before he started, which would be between twelve and one o'clock in the morning.—The matter which had called him away was connected with the bank here, which had just been burned down; and my husband, it seems, although I did not know it at the time—so great a secret had he endeavored to keep it—had many thousand pounds belonging to the concern in his temporary possession, locked up in the iron safe in our bedroom where the plate was kept. He was bank manager, and responsible for the whole of it. It was a cold time, and there was a fire in the room so bright and comfortable that I was in no hurry to leave it to get into bed, but sat up looking into the coals, and thinking about all sorts of things; upon the long journey Frank had to take that night, and of how dreary the day would seem until he returned, and in particular, how lonely I should feel in that great room all by myself when he should be away—for I was a dreadful coward. It was a little after eleven o'clock when I got into bed, but I did not feel the least inclined to sleep even then. I knew that Frank would be coming to wish me good-by presently; and, besides, there seemed to be all sorts of noises about the room, which my foolish ears always used to hear whenever alone at night-time.

If a little soot fell down the chimney, it was, I thought, a great black crow at least, which would soon be flying about the room, and sitting on my pillow; if a mouse squeaked in the wainscot, it was the creaking of some dreadful person's shoes coming up stairs to kill me with a carving knife; and if the wind blew the casement, it was some person trying to get in at the window, although it was two stories high.

You may imagine, then, my horror, when I heard a tremendous sneeze within an inch of me, just behind the head-board of the bed, and between that and the wall, where there was a considerable space.—I had, as usual, taken the precaution, before I put the candle out, of looking everywhere in the room where it was quite impossible any person could be hid; but the little alcove into which the bed was pushed I had never so much as thought of looking into, although it was a capital hiding place for anybody.—Ever since I slept in that room, in short, I had been like the ostrich, who puts his head in the sand, and then imagines himself in security.

I had piqued myself upon precautionary measures that, after all, might just as well have been omitted. The only thing, I believe, which saved my reason from departing altogether, when I heard that terrible sound, was that my mind clung to the hope that it might be, after all, the sneeze of a cat. Fifty cats together could not make half such a disturbance, it is true, for it was the sneeze of a man who sneezed in spite of himself, and almost shook the house; but the idea sustained me over the first shock.

The next instant the wretch had sneezed again, and pushing aside the bed, which rolled on castors, I felt he was standing beside my pillow looking at me. If he had given only one sneeze, he might, perhaps, have believed me asleep, as I lay quite still, breathing as regularly as I could, and pretending to be; but he reasoned very justly that unless I was deaf or dead I must have been awakened by the second.

"You're awake, marm," said he, in a gruff voice, "and it's no use of shamming! If you don't want a tap with this life-preserver, just look alive!"

I opened my eyes exceedingly wide at this, and beheld a man with crape over his face, standing by the bed-side; he had a club, with two knots upon it, in his right hand, and with his left he pointed to the afe.

"Is the money there?" said he.

"The plate is," said I, in a tremulous voice; "pray take it, sir; I am sure you are very welcome;" for he might have everything of value in the room, with all my heart, so long as he saved my life.

"The money—the gold—the notes—are they there?" cried he again, in a terrible sort of whisper.

"It is all there," cried I, although I knew nothing about it; "all except fifteen and sixpence in my purse on the dressing table yonder. There's silver, mustard pots in the pantry, and a couple of candlesticks in the study, only they are plated, for I would not deceive you sir, on any account."

"You had better not," observed the burglar, grimly, "or it will be all the worse for you."

He produced a key like that my husband used, and approached the iron safe; but as he did so, his guilty ear caught the sound of a footstep upon the stairs.

"Who is that?" cried he.

"My husband, sir," returned I; "but pray don't hurt him."

"Is he not gone to town, then?" cried the ruffian, with an oath of disappointment.

"He is going at twelve o'clock," replied I; "he is indeed."

"If you tell him, woman," said the burglar hoarsely, "if you breathe but one word of my presence here, it will be the death doom of you both." He then slipped into the alcove, and drew back the bed to its place again in an instant.

My husband entered immediataly afterward, and even while he was in the room I heard the awful threat repeated once again through the thick curtain behind me:

"If you do but, whisper it, woman, I will kill you where you lie. Will you promise not to tell him?"

"I will," said I solemnly; "I promise not to open my lips at all about the matter."

Frank leaned over the pillow to kiss me, and observed how terrified I looked.

"You have been frightening yourself about robbers again, I suppose, you silly child."

"Not I, Frank," returned I, as cheerfully as I could; "I have a little headache." But I said with my fingers, so that he could plainly read it in the firelight, "For God's sake, hush! there is a man behind the bedstead."

Frank was bold as a lion, and had nerves like iron, although he was so tender-hearted and kind. He only answered—

"Where is your sal volatile, dearest?" and went to the mantel-piece to get it.—I thought he never could have understood me, he spoke with such coolness and unconcern, until I saw his fingers reply as he took up the bottle, "All right, don't be afraid!" And then I was not afraid, or at least not much; for I knew I should not be left alone one instant; and I thought my Frank was a match for any two such men in such a case. Only he had no weapon.

"He has a life-preserver," said I with my fingers.

"Your fire is getting rather low, Georgey," observed he, as he took up the poker. (Ah! he had a weapon then!) "I must leave you a good blaze to comfort you before I go."

He poked the fire and left the poker in, without even taking his eyes off me and the bedstead.

"I will just ring the bell, and see whether Thomas has got the portmanteau ready. Mary," continued he to the maid who answered the bell, "send Thomas up." Then when she had gone upon that errand, "By Jove, I never gave him that key. Where is it, Georgey? I have not a minute to spare. If it is in your dressing-case with the rest, I shall be an age looking for it. Might I ask you to get out of bed for an instant, and show me where it is?" He said with his fingers, "Jump!" and I jumped, you may be sure, quick enough, and was inside the dressing-room, with the door locked, in half a second.

"Come in, Thomas," said Frank, "come in," for Thomas was modestly hesitating at the chamber door. "There's some blackguard got into the house, and behind my bed there. If he makes the least resistance, I'll kill him with this hot poker."

At these words the bed was pushed slowly outward, and the burglar, without his crape mask, and with a face as pale as ashes, emerged from his hiding place. Frank knew him at once as having been a bank messenger, who had been turned out of his situation since the fire, on suspicion of dishonesty.

"Oh, sir, have pity upon me," cried he. "I am an unlucky dog. If it had not been for a sneeze I should have had ten thousand pounds in my pocket by this time."

"Oh! you came after that, did you?" said my husband coolly. "Well, please to give up that life-preserver which you have in your pocket before we have any more conversation."

"And did your lady tell you that, too?" cried the villain, in accents of astonishment, as he delivered up the weapon to the man servant; "and yet I stood by her yonder, and never heard her utter a single syllable."

"I never spoke a word," cried I through the dressing-room key hole, for I did not wish the man to think that I had broken my oath, nor, to say the truth, was I anxious to make a deadly enemy of him, in case he should ever be at large again.

"Then it's a judgment upon me!" exclaimed the miserable wretch; "and it's no good for me to fight against it."

"It's not the least good," replied Frank, decisively; "and we'll go to the police office at once."

So off went the burglar in their custody, leaving me safe and sound after all. And now don't you think there's some use in learning everything, even so small a thing as the deaf and dumb alphabet?

ARTESIAN WELL IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transcript mentions as follows an artesian well now being sunk by the Gas Light Company of that city:—"It costs the company at present about $10,000 per annum for water for their numerous steam boilers, and for cooling the coke produced. Salt water is unfit for either purpose, and, when used for the latter, renders the coke unfit for fuel.

"The work of boring the well was begun in the latter part of the month of March last, and has been going steadily forward up to the present time, the progress made being from one to fifteen feet each day, at a cost of fifteen dollars per foot, and as the well has already reached the depth of one thousand feet, of course the cost already foots up $15,000, and how much more it will take is a matter of uncertainty; but even should it cost $30,000, the company would save the amount in three years, and have their future supply at a merely nominal price.

"The well is now over one thousand feet in depth, nine hundred feet of which are through solid ledge, varying, of course, in hardness according to the strata, but never softer than an occasional layer of slate and honeycomb stone. When the work was first commenced, a drill would last thirty-six hours without sharpening; now the same kind of a drill will only last one hour.

"The diameter of the bore is five inches; the drill is four inches across. The drill and iron shafting which connects it weigh now 1,200 pounds, and the rope by which it is lowered weighs 900 pounds. The machinery used for driving the drill is similar to that used in the oil regions of Pennsylvania.

"The power is furnished by a sixteen-horse engine, with a walking-beam of thirty-six inch stroke, at the rate of about thirty strokes per minute. It is the intention of the company to keep the drill at work until they obtain a sufficient volume of water for their use, unless their money gives out, or the drill goes through on the other side."

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

Last week we alluded to the schools recently established at this new village; this week it gives us great pleasure to chronicle the fact that the ground has been broken there for a new Baptist Church. We have seen the plans for the proposed building, and will predict that when completed it will be one of the most beautiful churches in the vicinity of Boston.

The well known Architect and designer Hammet Billings, Esq., of Boston, made the plans and will have the general supervision of its construction. The estimated cost is about $25,000. In its general appearance it will resemble the church recently completed by the Congregational society in this place. The main audience room is designed to seat five hundred persons, while the Chapel will accommodate over three hundred.

As there is no Baptist Church in Quincy, those of that faith in the centre of the town will doubtless aid in supporting this new interest, especially if the new street, which the County Commissioners now have under consideration should be built.

This is really an age of progress. Less than two years ago the whole tract of land, (some three hundred and fifty acres,) now known as "Wollaston Heights" was used as a cow pasture, with the exception of a few acres, owned and occupied by Geo. W. B. Taylor, Esq., and was considered of but very little value. We think the taxes assessed on the whole was less than $500. This year at least $3000, have been collected, with the probabilities of a still more rapid increase in the future. One of our largest tax-payers made the assertion before the County Commissioners, at the hearing on the petition for the new road above mentioned, that the new movement at Wollaston Heights had raised the value of property in the town of Quincy, at least two millions of dollars,—adding that his own property in the town was worth forty to fifty thousand dollars more in consequence of it. We sincerely congratulate the promoters of this enterprise on its success, and trust that they will reap a substantial reward.

PUBLIC LIBRARY. This literary institution, of which Quincy may justly be proud, has been well patronized since its opening. We hope this will in future, be the centre of attraction to our young men and boys, instead of resorting to saloons and stores, or loafing on the street corners. In the warm and well lighted rooms of the Public Library, a pleasant evening can be profitably spent, and a rich intellectual feast enjoyed. From Monday the 4th inst., to the 9th inclusive the Reading room only, was open to visitors. Monday, there were 18 visitors; Tuesday 27, Wednesday 20; Thursday 28; Friday 45; Saturday 73; Total 211. There were 356 names registered up to Thursday last. There were 150 books taken out on the 11th inst.; on the 12th, 145; on the 13th, 82. Number of persons using the Reading room; on the 11th 80; 12th 175; 13th 80. One hundred books have been added since the opening.

THANKS. Noah Curtis, Esq., has our thanks for a pair of handsome canvas-back ducks. We congratulate him on the good luck he is having on his gunning excursion South. Many gentlemen in this place, who enjoy this kind of sport, would willingly have given all their old hats to have been in his company at Currituck Sound for one week.

SALES. The following Real Estates in this town, have changed hands recently. On the northerly side of Ocean street, 26,200 feet of land, owned by Mrs. Chas. A. Green, was sold to Alexander Pope, for $5960.75.

One third of an acre of land with buildings, on Commercial street, owned by George White, sold to Mrs. Joseph H. White, for $2500.

Land and buildings, on Edwards street, owned by Charles P. Derby, sold to Henry T. Rodgers, for $3475.

Buildings with 4750 feet of land between Copeland and Cemetery streets, owned by Joseph W. Robertson, sold to Enoch H. Doble, for $2000.

SELLING CHEAP. Mr. D. B. Stetson has, albeit a large stock was disposed of last week without money or price, a large assortment which he is selling low.—Those of our readers in want of boots, shoes, or rubbers, will find it to their interest to give him a call.

☞ About three inches of snow fell on Wednesday last, and on Thursday many sleighs with their musical bells made our streets lively for the first time this season.

TOWN HISTORY.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

If there is one thing above all others in which a Public Library should be rich, it should be in the possession of all possible material relating to the history of the town to which it belongs. In behalf of our new library I wish to make an appeal in this respect to the people of Quincy. Documents relating to local history are peculiarly perishable; they are swept aside and destroyed, and when at last they would be valuable they cannot be replaced. A complete file of the Patriot, or of the old Aurora, would now be of great value and interest; but it is stated that neither is in existence. No full set of the reports of the school committee of the town, even, has yet been found;—certainly the school committee itself does not possess one. Every year it will become more and more difficult to make any collection of this class of documents. The same is true of the numerous pamphlets, orations, discourses sermons, &c., published in past years and which possess a continually growing interest.

Much of this raw material of history now undoubtedly exists upon the bookshelves, or perhaps hidden away in the closets and attics of the older residents of Quincy. Any day may witness the careless destruction of some part of it; on the shelves of the Public Library it would be safe, and could be consulted not only by its present owner but by all others interested. Without further loss of time the Trustees of the Library wish to make a beginning of a collection of these local documents. A very little effort on the part of individuals will enable them to do so. It is only necessary for those who possess them, to look up and leave with the librarian any copies, the older the better, of the town reports and documents, of the printed discourses addresses, orations &c., or files of the town newspapers, and a very fair collection could doubtless even yet be gathered together. Any persons, therefore, who will take the trouble to do this, or who will even suggest to the Trustees where such documents might not improbably be looked for, will make the most truly interesting contribution which now could be made to the Library, besides rendering perhaps a very considerable public service to the town itself.

CHARLES F. ADAMS, JR.

Quincy, Dec. 13, 1871.

☞ Washington M. French, Esq., of this town, has been appointed agent for the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Dumb Animals. Those driving disabled horses in this vicinity, will do well to stop the practice, or they will have Mr. French looking after them.

WOOLEN GOODS. It will be seen by a notice in another column that Mr. Frederick Hardwick has enlarged his store and added a splendid stock of woolen goods, which he is selling cheap. If our readers want more proof, they should read his low prices in our advertising columns, and then call and examine his rich stock of goods for themselves. He is determined to try the plan of "quick sales and small profits" and our readers will do well to patronize him.

☞ The granite quarry business at Rockport and Pigeon Cove is said to be very much depressed at this time. One company have failed and others have discharged a large part of their workmen, throwing several hundred persons out of employment for the winter. This depression is partly due to the dishonest officials in New York city, where large quantities of paving and other stones have been shipped from Cape Ann.

FIRE. A dwelling house owned by Mrs. Lucy Stone Blackwell, on Mansfield hill, Dorchester, was discovered to be on fire last Sunday evening. It originated in the L part of the house and had gained considerable headway before the engines arrived. At one time it seemed as if the fire would totally consume both house and contents. The house was made almost worthless, that portion which was not on fire being greatly injured by water. The loss is estimated at from $9000 to $10,000; fully insured in Dorchester, Quincy and Weymouth offices. The barn, which contained a large quantity of hay, carriages, a horse and cow, was saved. Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell were both in Washington.

☞ All the members of the board of arbitration appointed under the treaty of Washington were expected to arrive at Geneva, on the 14th inst. They were to meet yesterday for the first time, at the Hotel de Ville.

☞ It is said to be the intention of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad Company, next spring to make North Bridgewater or Campello the southern terminus of all the special trains now running between Boston and South Braintree.

THE OTHER SIDE.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

Noticing in your last issue rather a severe criticism on Mr. Hepworth's lecture on "Luck and Pluck," it would please one of your subscribers to see the following notice, copied from the South Boston Inquirer, inserted in your columns:—

"Rev. Geo. W. Hepworth delivered the last lecture of the Dorchester street M. E. course, to a fair sized audience, last Tuesday evening. The subject of the lecture was "Luck and Pluck." The lecture was a capital one, and was listened to with close attention."

"Mr. Hepworth is a good speaker, and the vigorous tones in which he asserted his beliefs and encouragements to industrious toil, put to shame some of the languid and effeminate speakers who are thrust before the public."

"The lecture was full of illustrative anecdotes well told, and the pointed sarcasms on the state of affairs in New York city were well received by the audience. The lecturer puts no faith in what is called "good luck," deeming the best luck to be born poor, and with an indomitable will to carry out the purpose of an honest heart. Honesty and pluck are the two elements needed to secure success. By pluck he means insensibility to defeat; never to know when you are down. Keep on your feet, and keep pushing. There is nothing in the world but what can be secured by persistency.

"The lecture is one well calculated to rouse the faint-hearted to new exertions, and so be the means of much good."

BRAINTREE. The dedication of the new School House at the South part of the town, took place on Saturday last, and on Monday the primary, intermediate and grammar schools took possession of the premises, and are now rejoicing in pleasant rooms and ample accommodation. The cost of the building including grading is about $12,000.

The Sabbath School Concert on Sunday evening last at Rev. Mr. Allen's Church was good. The subject was Cross and Crown.

The Boston Organ Company is now in good running order, having some forty or fifty men employed. Braintree can now furnish music for the million. D.

ARRIVED. The schooner Mair & Cranmer arrived at Quincy Point, on the 11th inst., laden with Franklin and Furnace coal, consigned to D. Howard Bills. This coal is of the best quality and need only be tried to prove its excellence.

A NEW FACE IN AN OLD PLACE.—By reference to our advertising columns, our readers will learn that the old and favorite resort of the Billiard players of Quincy so long conducted by Mr. Frederick Hardwick, has passed into the hands of Mr. Hiram P. Abbott, who has refitted it, and added new tables. It is to be reopened this evening, with a free lunch.

☞ On Sunday morning at South Scituate, a boy who was out gathering cranberries found the head of a woman sticking out of the ice, frozen in solid, the ice being about seven inches thick. The selectmen were notified, and the body was cut out and found to be that of Miss Amy Sprague of Hingham, a maiden lady 65 years of age. She has a brother and sister in Hinghan, and left home to visit relations in South Scituate about two weeks ago. It is supposed that she missed her way and got into the pond, and that the body had lain there ever since.

☞ Holiday Gifts will soon be in order; in fact, the wise are making their selection early, ere the choicest goods shall have been culled from the market. S. S. Houghton & Co., Boston, in their five splendid stores, offer an innumerable variety of presents (both useful and ornamental), suitable for every age, condition and sex, at prices that seem ridiculously low compared to the same goods elsewhere. Messrs. Houghton & Co. have a card in our issue to-day, giving location of their stores; all on leading thoroughfares.

☞ D. B. Brooks & Brother, at 55 Washington street Boston, are making great preparations for the Holidays.—They have adapted the popular Field Game, Le Cercle, to the parlor for floor or table. Ring Quoits, Table Croquet, Indian Clubs, Cue Alleys, and a host of smaller games. Give them an early call.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. Mr. Baker, an agent of this society, at Hinghan, on Wednesday, arrested Albert Hersey for driving a disabled horse, and being arraigned before Justice Lewis he was convicted and fined $5 and costs.

TRACT. We have received a Tract entitled Hints to Youths on the Preservation of Health, by W. M. Cornell, M. D. It is chiefly selected from the "Beacon," which was highly recommended by Dr. Hopkins, President of Williams College; by Dr. Allen, President of Girard College, and by the press generally. It will be sent, post paid to any person, on receipt of 10 cents; or 75 cents a dozen. Address the author, as above.

GOOD SPORT. The following is a tally of the shooting done by a party of four, of whom our townsman, Noah Curtis was one, at Currituck Sound, N. C. on the dates mentioned. The greater part of the ducks killed were canvas-backs. They have killed in all to Dec. 2d, 12 swans, 77 geese and 534 ducks. It is enough to make anybody's mouth water to read about it.

☞ The banquet given by the Duke Alexis to a few invited guests at the Revere House, Boston, on Monday evening, cost $50 a plate, and that given in honor of the visit of the Grand Duke by the merchants at the same place, on Saturday evening last cost $35 a plate.

THE BOSTON JOURNAL. The prospectus of this favorite journal for New England will be found in our advertising columns. It is truly a wide-awake paper, containing the earliest and fullest reports of the day. Very few of its readers are aware of the labor and money expended daily in producing this excellent sheet for their instruction and enjoyment.

Summary Intelligence.

The Governor of Wisconsin has issued a letter of thanks to the people of the United States for their timely aid to the sufferers by the late fires in that State.

Russia commenced and finished a railroad 400 miles long within a single year. It completes a direct line between Warsaw and Moscow.

Victor Emmanuel, the King of Italy, is a very hearty eater. His favorite dish is pork, of which he consumes every day a large quantity.

The Russian government is considering a plan for uniting the Black and Caspian Seas by a canal, at an estimated expense of fifty million dollars.

Good beef sells for five cents a pound by the quarter, and round hogs from 6 1-2 to 7 cents a pound, in Canaan, N. H.

The manufactories of Pittsburg, numbering nearly five hundred, would extend, if placed in a continuous line, a distance of fifty-five miles.

It is stated by many large practitioners that diseases of the scalp and hair were never so prevalent in Boston as they now are.

Duxbury is waking up under the influence of the new railroad. Estates have nearly doubled in price within the past two years, and houses for rental are getting scarce. The hotel is also crowded with boarders.

BILLIARD HALL.

THE Undersigned respectfully announces to the public, that he has purchased and refitted the well known and favorite Billiard Hall, so long conducted by Mr. Frederick Hardwick, on Franklin St., and by strict attention to the wants of patrons, hopes to meet their patronage.

Norfolk County Commissioners.

COURT HOUSE, DEDHAM,
December, 11th, 1871.

THE ANNEXATION OF BROOKLINE.

NOTICE having been officially published that a petition will be presented to the next Legislature for the Annexation of the Town of Brookline to the City of Boston, which, if consummated, blots out of existence an ancient Town organization, where every municipal right and privilege appears to be enjoyed in the highest decree of perfection, and which severs from the County of Norfolk a large and intelligent population, possessing one-sixth part of her valuation—thus increasing the burdens of taxation—dwarfing her institutions, and breaking up cherished associations, with little corresponding benefit;—The County Commissioners deem it important to call the attention of their fellow-citizens to seriously consider whether they will consent, without earnest remonstrance and efficient action, that the larger and wealthier towns shall be removed to another jurisdiction already wielding a disproportionate influence in State affairs, so that the smaller remaining towns must either be absorbed by the adjoining interior Counties, or combine with other towns into some new association for County purposes.

It is easy to perceive that should this work of disintegration go on, the old County of Norfolk will become extinct at no distant day.

This is not a question for the County Commissioners to meet single-handed, nor for the loyal friends of the County in the towns where the desire for a change exists, but for the citizens and tax payers of every town in the County.

The Commissioners therefore, at the suggestion of prominent citizens, and in discharge of their trust as the official Guardians of the public property and interests of the County, respectfully invite the SELECTMEN OF THE SEVERAL TOWNS, and such delegations as the citizens may appoint, or as desire to attend, to meet at TEMPERANCE HALL, in Dedham on THURSDAY, the 28th instant, at 10 o'clock, A. M., to take such action as in their judgment the exigency requires.

SAVE BUT DO NOT HOARD MONEY.

We are every few days reminded that it is more judicious to save money than hoard it. This, as expressed, may seem a distinction without a difference, but the intent is, there is a difference. Of the millions of industrious artisans and mechanics in the country who earn from fifteen to twenty-five dollars per week, we doubt if there be one fifth of the number who regularly deposit their savings or surplus funds in a Savings Bank, for safe keeping, but do what may be termed hoard it about their houses or person, sometimes in large sums, to their own discomfeiture for its safety, and often to its actual loss by fire or theft. This is doing themselves a wrong, as well as the great business public, who would be glad to pay them for the use of this hoarded wealth. Every man or woman who has a few dollars to spare weekly or monthly, over current expenses, should deposit them in some Savings Bank, and by so doing where fifty absolutely lose their money by hoarding it away, probably not one of this number would lose it by being a depositor in some Bank. It is not only safer, but then it becomes part of the great current wealth of the country, makes money more plenty and assists the various avenues of trade and commerce that must be carried on to make good times for the rich and poor alike. If all the currency of the country were put in our pockets and kept there, business would have to cease, or we would have to resort to the primitive method of swapping brass buttons for wooden shoes, or a peck of oats for a pound of butter, in order to make any exchange of business.

The present time is favorable to depositors for action on the above suggestion as it will be seen by the notice of the Quincy Savings Bank in our paper to-day, that all deposits will commence drawing interest on the second day of January next.

Song---THE FAR WEST.

How beautiful the prairies of the West,
How sublime the sight when on fire,
How fragrant the forest where all can rest,
It seems our souls to inspire.
We love the West and its fields of grain,
We love its valleys and hill;
'Tis Nature's garden, 'tis Nature's plain,
Our souls with rapture it fills.
We love our own New England,
We love its rock-bound coast;
As Prussia loves its Fatherland,
We love New England the most.
We like a nobby suit of clothes,
GEO. H. RICHARDS deals so fair,
We'll buy his coats, his pants and vests,
At TWENTY-FIVE DOCK SQUARE.

WHAT'S BEST.

What it is best for us to do
We sometimes do not know;
'Tis then we prize a friend who's true,
Our proper course to show;
His words of kindness should we heed,
And treasure in our heart,
Feeling he is "a friend indeed,"
Such knowledge to impart.
'Tis best when'r the BOYS need "CLOTHES,"

The Boston Journal.

Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly.

For 1872.

In presenting the Prospectus of the BOSTON JOURNAL for the year 1872, it is quite unnecessary to allude in detail to those features which have won for it the name of

The New England Family Newspaper.

Its reputation as a wide-awake, enterprising newspaper, so thoroughly organized in all its departments that the people look to it with confidence for the earliest and fullest reports of the news of the day, has given it a circulation unapproached by any paper of its class in New England, and unequaled by but few in the country. The aim of its publishers will be to maintain the position it has now, by the most liberal expenditure of money, the employment of the best talent in all its departments, and the introduction of such new features as the experience of the past or the developments of the future may suggest.

The year 1872 is to witness

Another Presidential Campaign,

which is to be preceded by A VERY IMPORTANT AND EXCITING SESSION OF CONGRESS, in which questions of the utmost importance to the commercial, civil and political interests of the country are to be discussed and decided, and which will render an enterprising newspaper a necessity to every man who would be informed in regard to the live questions of the day. By means of the JOURNAL Bureau at Washington, under the direction of BEN. PERLEY POORE, it will be enabled to give its readers the earliest information of all important measures affecting the public interest, with an occasional glimpse of the movements behind the scenes.

In all its several departments we mean that the JOURNAL for 1872 shall be better and more acceptable to its readers than ever before—that it shall cover the whole field at home and abroad—and that those who depend upon it for a daily epitome of the world's progress shall find their expectations realized.

NEW ENGLAND NEWS.

As heretofore, special attention will be paid to New England news. With experienced Reporters and Correspondents at the Capitals of each of the New England States and in all the large cities and towns we shall be able to give THE JOURNAL readers the earliest news from all parts of New England.

THE BOSTON JOURNAL.
PUBLISHED MORNING & EVENING,

And containing the fullest and latest news from all quarters of the globe up to the hour of going to press. Five and sometimes SIX EDITIONS are issued daily. City subscribers are supplied by route carriers. One copy by mail, $10 per annum.

SEMI-WEEKLY JOURNAL.
Published Tuesdays and Fridays,

Containing all the news of three days preceding, full reviews of the markets, ship news, etc., and is especially valuable for business men in the country, as well as for families who do not care to take a daily, and want the news oftener than once a week.

MISS SAWYER'S SALVE.

HERE you have a salve combining soothing and healing properties, with no dangerous ingredient. A remedy at hand for the many pains and aches, wounds and bruises to which flesh is heir. Is more easily applied than many other remedies, never producing a bad effect, but always relieving pain, however severe.

It is prepared by Miss Sawyer, who has used it in her own extensive treatment of the sick, for nearly twenty years, with great success.

The principal diseases for which this salve is recommended are, Chilblains, Rheumatism, Piles, Scrofula, Old Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Sprains, Burns, Fever Sores, Felons, Pimples, Erysipelas, Sore Eyes, Barber's Itch, Deafness, Boils, Ring-worms, Corns, Bites of Insects, Cancers, Toothache, Earache, Sore Nipples, Baldness, Swollen Breasts, Itch, Scald Head, Teething, Chapped Hands, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Croup, Cracked Lips, and Sores on Children.

It never fails to cure Rheumatism if properly applied. Rub it on well with the hand three times a day. In several cases it has cured palsied limbs. For Piles it has been discovered to be a sure remedy. Persons that have been afflicted for years have been relieved by a few applications. For Erysipelas it works wonders, allaying the inflammation and quieting the patient. For Chapped Hands it produces a cure immediately. Let those with Salt Rheum obtain this Salve, and apply it freely, and they will find it invaluable. It is good in cases of Scrofula and Tumors. Cancers have been cured with it. The best Salve ever Invented for Scolles Breast and Sore Nipples. No way injurious, but sure to afford relief. Sore or Weak Eyes—Rub it on the lids gently, once or twice a day. Cures deafness by putting in the ears on a piece of cotton. For Felons this is superior to anything known. For Pimples this acts like a charm. For Burns and Scalds, apply the Salve at once and it gives immediate relief. For Old Sores, apply once a day.

FOR HORSES AND CATTLE.—For Sores or Bruises on Horses or Cattle this Salve is invaluable, and has astonishing effect in curing scratches on horses. This Salve has worked its own way into notoriety, and is a safe and sure remedy for all the above ailments.

We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with Miss Sawyer for many years, and believe her to be a Christian lady and a skilful nurse, and having used her salve in our families, it gives us great pleasure in saying it is the best general medicine we have ever used:

ALE! ALE!

Poetry.

THE LIFE-LEDGER.

Our sufferings we reckon o'er
With skill minute and formal;
The cheerful ease that fills the score
We treat as merely normal.
Our list of ills, how full, how great!
We mourn our lot should fail so.
I wonder do we calculate
On our happiness also?

Were it not best to keep account
Of all days, if of any?
Perhaps the dark ones might amount
To not so very many.
Men's looks are nigh as often gay
As sad or even solemn;
Behold, my entry for to-day
Is in the "happy!" column.

Farmers' Department.

MILCH COWS.

The extreme sensitiveness of the mammary functions in cows to the influences of cold, fatigue, excitement, unpleasant odors, etc., is indeed surprising. We have been greatly interested in observing the effects of cold upon the milk secretion as seen in the herd of cows upon the farm.

During the past summer, in the hot days in July and August, the animals resorted to the Lake to drink, and after slaking their thirst, they would wade into the water and remain sometimes an hour or two with the legs half immersed. This habit it was found invariably diminished the flow of milk at night, and in order to learn the extent of the diminution careful observations were made. It was ascertained that standing in the water an hour diminished the flow to the amount of 8 or 10 quarts in a herd of thirteen cows. The loss was so great that whenever they resorted to the water they were driven away to the pasture again at once. We have learned that from simply turning the herd into the yard upon a cold day in winter, and allowing them to remain fifteen minutes, the flow of milk was diminished to a serious extent, and consequently the animals are not now allowed to leave the warm stable during the entire winter, except for a brief period upon warm, sunshiny days. Water is brought directly from a well into the barn, and the drinking vessels are arranged so that the animals have to move but a step or two to supply their wants. The nature of the water supply, and conveniences of access, are most important points in the management of milch cows. A draught of ice-cold water, taken by a cow in winter, cuts short the milk yield for the day from one to two pints. Well water drawn into vessels, and allowed to stand a few hours covered, in the warm barn, has its temperature raised several degrees, and this practice should be adopted by all thrifty farmers. It would undoubtedly pay well to slightly warm the water, but this is attended with considerable inconvenience where large herds are kept, unless steam apparatus is used. The influence of a cold current of air, and cold drinking water, upon cows in milk, is not of a transient nature; it extends for a longer period than a day or a week. Many fine animals are ruined by careless exposures every year, and self interest and feelings of humanity should prompt all cow owners to keep diligent watch over their welfare and comfort.—Boston Journal of Chemistry.

LARGE GAIN FOR A HOG. Mr. J. Martin of South Weymouth, recently dressed a hog fattened by Josiah B. Spurr, of that town, which was one year, four months and ten days old, which weighed after being dressed off neatly seven hundred and seventy-three pounds. The live weight is not stated, but the average gain per day during the life of the pig must have been about two pounds. —N. E. Farmer.

Anecdotes.

A distinguished visitor once entered the counting room of Rothschild, who was very much engaged. Without looking up he said. "Take a chair and beseated?"

The gentleman addressed feeling aggrieved at such a reception, remarked:

"You did not perhaps hear my name. I am the Count——."

"Oh, yes," replied the banker. "Take two chairs if you please."

A gentleman was introduced to a young lady recently, and addressed her as follows: "Where do you live when you are at home?"

To which she promptly replied, "When I am at home I live there."

"Pa, isn't that man in what they call the spring-time of life?"

"Why, my son?"

"Because he looks so very green."

"Ma, why don't you speak?" asked little Jake.

"Why don't you say suthin' funny?"

"What can I say? Don't you see I'm busy frying doughnuts? Say suthin' funny, indeed?"

"Wal, yer might say, Jake, won't yer hev a cake?" That 'ud be funny for you."

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.

Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.

FOR THE WHISKERS.

As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation; which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

Manufactured by R. P. HALL, & CO., NASHUA, N.H.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system, Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

MEDICAL DISCOVERY

WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

PATRIOT SUPPLEMENT

QUINCY, MASS., DECEMBER 16th, 1871.

The New Coliseum Building.—According to a painting of the World's Coliseum, drawn up by Mr. Emil F. Ackerman, draughtsman for the New England Lithographic Company, the great structure for the International Peace Jubilee, to be held in Boston next June, will be a most imposing one. It will cover an area of eight acres and will have seating accommodations for one hundred and twenty five thousand people. The top of the centre tower will be higher than Bunker Hill Monument, and each of the four side towers will reach an altitude equal to any church spire in the city. It is to be located on the Back Bay, near the Providence Railroad, not far from the foot of Newton street. The building is represented in the painting as in a complete condition, decked for a holiday occasion, with the flags of different nations floating from the several towers and cornices, while the representatives of all countries are ingeniously grouped in the foreground. Mr. Gilmore has the promise of one of the best bands in England to take part in the demonstration, and probably other nations will send their choicest musical organization to the grand festival of harmony. Another triumph for the projector may be anticipated.

Homestead. During the month of October, upwards of sixty thousand acres of land were taken in Sioux City (Iowa) land district, under the homestead and preemption laws, the cash receipts of the office being over twelve thousand dollars. Four hundred and eleven homestead papers were filled, which number exceeds that of any previous month since the office was opened. All that remains unclaimed is about one-quarter of a million acres, which, at the above rate, will be entirely taken by the first of next May. To any one desiring to settle in the West, no better opportunities is afforded, as it really costs a married man but little, if anything, more than the fees for a survey, &c., to become the possessor of a homestead, after occupying and cultivating the land during the prescribed term of five years.—Lynn Reporter.

☞ Look always at the bright side of things, as the cheering and invigorating sun does; and remember that content is the mother of good digestion.

☞ A man may borrow money, steal from a widow, discount his own whiskey bill, or "nip" a prayer-book from a dying heathen, and still have some chance of pardon; but when he tries to swindle the printer out of his bill, we think the devil has such a firm grip on the seat of his pantaloons that repentance and forgiveness are utterly out of the question. —Randolph Transcript.

☞ One side of a house at Dighton Mass., has just been reshingled for the first time since the house was built, 77 years ago. A large portion of the old shingles are but little worn. They are of southern cedar, and the nails were all made by hand. The west side of the roof, which is less exposed to storms, will apparently last many years longer.

☞ There is a needle factory at New Haven, where the whole process of changing a coil of wire into needles is performed by a single machine, which turns out 30,000 to 40,000 needles per day, while another machine arranges the heads and points together, and a third piece of mechanism puts them into paper.

An incorrigible bore wants to know if W-o-r-c-e-s-t-e-r, spells wooster, why R-o-c-h-e-s-t-e-r don't spell rooster.

The Catholic population of America is estimated at 5,500,000, with 4800 priests, worshipping in 4250 churches and 1700 chapels and stations.

The largest single contract for railroad construction ever made in the United States was by W. D. Mann of the Mobile and Northwestern Railroad, for the entire line from Mobile to Helena, Arkansas, to be completed by December 31, 1873.

Much building is going on at the present time at Cohasset. Land has been bought up very fast within the past year for the purpose of building private seaside residences thereon.

In Germany the barbers have struck for five cents for hair-cutting, and two and a half cents for shaving. They are now receiving three and a half cents and one and a half cents respectively.

The population of the State within six miles of the State House, is about four hundred thousand, and has doubled every seventeen years since 1800.

More than seven hundred thousand life policies are now in force in this country, assuring more than two thousand million dollars. One hundred men are insured for nearly ten million dollars.

A YEAR'S CROP OF GOLD AND SILVER. Mr. Raymond, the U. S. Commissioner of Mining Statistics, estimates the total product of gold and silver in the United States, during the year 1870, at $66,000,000. Of this amount California yielded $25,000,000, and Nevada $16,000,000. Gold, to the value of from $9,000,000 to $13,000,000, is used every year in the arts, by jewelers and others. A part of this is coin. Silversmiths and silverplaters melt up fine silver bars.

THE HALL

TREADLE!

For Sewing Machines

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

KEATING & SPEAR'S

Poetry.

POEM.

Delivered by Miss Lizzie E. Morse, at the Quincy High School Re-union, December 7th, 1871.

Schoolmates and friends, it gives me great delight
To see so many here present to-night,
And each one looking so merry and bright—
Let me heartily say:—Welcome this night.
Once every year we come to revive
Memories of school-days long left behind.
We're different now from what we were then,
But for a short time let's jump back again;
Let us join to night's pleasures gay and free,
And be just as happy as we can be;
Laugh and chat with all, without distinction
Of any difference in sect or station.
When children at school, we were always pleased
When story time came; all woes it appeased.
As we're scholars now, a story I propose
To relate, though some will say I suppose,
That 'tis not proper for our Re-union.
That I should talk about Education,—
Perhaps of the Adams Academy tell news;
Or about the Woodward fund give my views.
But it takes these schools so long to start,
That my faith in them will soon quite depart;
They're far in the future, and in my opinion
Are themes for another generation.
So friends, for entertainment, with your leave,
I'll a story, with a moral tell this eve.
While Truth is putting on its boots to rise,
Old Scandal from Maine to Florida flies.
Now those who have passed the primary age,
And reached but the intermediate stage,
Will know, what others cannot help but guess,
That but for our town the way would be less.
In this honored place, it has made its lair,
So of twice told tales, we're more than our share;
But this one, to-night, I hope will be new,
And what matter if it isn't strictly true.

A few years ago, one night bitter cold,
To follow out a goodly custom old,
Some gentlemen met in a church near by,
To deck it with green, for Christmas was nigh.
This year a new design was intended;
'Twas to have from the ceiling suspended
A rod, with the green in short spiral curves,—
A barber's pole, an illustration serves,
From the end of this in regular order,
Garlands were hung to every corner.

Those who had planned, to execute were bound,
But 'twas "easier said than done" they found.
The men were tall, but the church was taller;
No ladder that seemed to bring them nearer;
They could measure the distance only with eyes,
And the walls were heard to echo deep sighs.
Should the project fail? A puzzling question!
Each one hastened to give a suggestion;
One was welcomed by all without a frown,—
Though the pole couldn't go up, it might come down.

Stairs, such as they were, led up overhead;
They were better once, at least so 'tis said.
To explain the change would be needless talk,
For you all remember the Old Town Clock,
Which required constant travel day and night,
In the futile efforts to keep it right.
These must be mounted, so three volunteers
Stepped forth from the ranks and conquered their fears.
Lantern in hand they commenced the ascent,
But the dangers increased as on they went.

They struggled on, not minding their fears,
Where perhaps no person had been for years,—
Through such small cracks, between rafters creeping,
One might have thought them prisoners fleeing;
Destroying the cities of spiders there,
With no more regret than our Western fire.
Stepping on boards which would tilt and then squeak,
Filling the darkness with a ghost-like shriek.
When at length, they reached their destination,
Each felt he deserved congratulation.
Ready for work,—looking calmly about,—
When,—horror of horrors! the lantern went out!

For matches they searched their pockets in vain,
So aid from below they must obtain;
They pounded and shouted with all their might,
And at last made known they wanted a light.
Being heard, they soon received assistance;
And half frozen, quickly made their appearance;
But so completely enveloped were they,
By the dust and cobwebs caught up by the way,
You would scarce have known one, Mr. Wh——
No names allowed but it rhymes with pitcher.

Don't think this an exceptional case,
For it comes to all. With time it keeps pace,
In days when m. seemed n. and q. was p.,
The lantern went out both for you and me.
'Twas exactly the same all the way through,
Intermediate, Grammar, and High School too;
From A. B. C. to Geometry's Arc,
Continually we were left in the dark,
But never were we in so bad a plight,
For our teachers were matches, our lamps to relight,

We used to think when school life was finished,
That all our trials and troubles had vanished;
That we could pass through the journey of life,
Without any thoughts of battle or strife;
But we've all discovered long before this,
We cannot have everything quite as we wish;
Whate'er we do, in all our various ways,
I am sure that each one has his dark days.
Never despair, but wait on and trust finding
That "every cloud has a silver lining."

Interesting Selections.

Rice Waffles. Take three gills of cold boiled rice, warm it with a pint of milk, mix it smooth; then take it from the fire, and stir in a pint of cold milk, and a teaspoonful of salt. Beat four eggs and stir in with flour enough to make a stiff batter. Cook on a griddle.

☞ "What! are you drunk again?" "No, my dear; not drunk, but a little slippery. The fact is, my dear, some scoundrel has been rubbing my boots till they are as smooth as a pane of glass."

☞ If the waves threaten to engulf you, don't add by your tears to the amount of water.

Miscellany.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

"Please, sir, will you buy my chestnuts?"

"Chestnuts! No!" returned Ralph Moore, looking down carelessly on the upturned face whose large brown eyes, shadowed by tangled curls of flaxen hair, were appealing so pitifully to his own.—"What do I want of chestnuts?" "But please, sir, do buy 'em" pleaded the little one, re-assured by the rough kindness of his tone. "Nobody seems to care for them, and—and—"—

She fairly burst into tears, and Moore, who had been on the point of brushing carelessly past her, stopped instinctively.

"Are you so very much in want of the money?"

"Indeed sir, we are," sobbed the child; "mother sent me out, and"—

"Nay, little one, don't cry in such a heart-broken way," said Ralph, smoothing her hair down with careless gentleness, "I don't want your chestnuts but here's a quarter for you if that will do you any good."

He did not stay to hear the delighted, incoherent thanks the child poured out through a rainbow of smiles and tears, but strode on his way, muttering between his teeth:

"That cuts off my supply of cigars for the next twenty-four hours. I don't care though, for the brown-eyed object really did cry as if she hadn't a friend in the world. Hang it! I wish I was rich enough to help every poor creature out the slough of despond!"

While Ralph Moore was indulging in these very natural reflections, the dark-orbed little damsel whom he had comforted, was dashing down the street with quick, elastic footsteps, utterly regardless of the basket of unsold nuts that still dangled upon her arm. Down an obscure lane she darted, between tall runious rows of houses, and up a narrow wooden staircase to a room where a pale, neat-looking woman, with large brown eyes, like her own, was sewing as busily as if the breath of life depended upon every stitch, and two little ones were contentedly playing in the sunshine that temporarily supplied the place of the absent fire.

"Mary! back already? Surely you have not sold your chestnuts so soon!"

"O, mother, mother, see!" ejaculated the breathless child. "A gentleman gave me a whole quarter! Only think, mother, a whole quarter?"

If Ralph Moore could only have seen the rapture which his tiny silver gift diffused around it, in the poor widow's poverty stricken home, he would have grudged still less the temporary privation of cigars to which his generosity hed subjected him.

* * * * *

Years came and went. The little chestnut girl passed entirely out of Ralph Moore's memory as if her pleading eyes had never touched the soft spot in his heart, but Mary Lee never forgot the stranger who had given her the silver piece.

* * * * *

The crimson window curtains were closely drawn to shut out the storm and tempest of the bleak December night—the fire was glowing cheerily in the well-filled grate, and the dinner-table all in a glitter with cut glass, rare china and polished silver, was only waiting for the presence of Mr. Audley.

"What can it be that detains papa?" said Mrs. Audley, a fair, handsome matron of about thirty, as she glanced at the dial of a tiny enameled watch. "Six o'clock, and he does not make his appearance."

"There's a man with him in the study, mamma—come on business," said Robert Audley, a pretty boy, eleven years old, who was reading by the fire.

"I'll call him again," said Mrs. Audley, stepping to the door.

But, as she opened it, the brilliant gas light fell full on the face of an humble looking man in worn and threadbare garments, who was leaving the house, while her husband stood in the doorway of his study, apparently relieved to be rid of his visitor.

"Charles," said Mrs. Audley, whose cheek had paled and flushed, "who is that man—and what does he want?"

"His name is Moore, I believe, love, and he came to see if I would bestow upon him that vacant messengership in the bank."

"And will you?"

"I don't know, Mary I must think about it."

"Charles give him the situation."

"Why, my love?"

"Because I ask it of you as a favor and you have said a thousand times you would not deny me anything."

"And I will keep my word, Mary," said the lover-husband, with an affectionate kiss. "I'll write the fellow a note this very evening. I believe I've got his address somewhere about me."

An hour or two later, when Bobby, and Frank, and little Minnie, were tucked snugly up in bed in the spacious nursery abovestairs, Mrs. Audley told her husband why she was interested in the fate of a man whose face she had not seen for twenty years.

"That's right, my little wife!" said her husband, folding her fondly to his breast, when the simple tale was concluded, "never forget one who has been kind to you in the days when you needed kindness most."

Ralph Moore was sitting the self-same night in his poor lodgings, beside his ailing wife's sick bed, when a liveried servant brought a note from the rich and prosperous bank director, Charles Audley.

"Good news, Bertha!" he exclaimed, joyously, as he read the brief words.—"We shall not starve — Mr. Audley promises me the vacant situation."

"You have dropped something from the note, Ralph," said Mrs. Moore, pointing to a slip of paper that lay on the floor.

Moore stooped to recover the estray. It was a fifty dollar bill, neatly folded in a piece of paper, on which was written:

"In grateful remembrance of the silver quarter that a kind stranger bestowed on the little chestnut girl, twenty years ago."

Ralph Moore had thrown his morsel of bread on the waters of life, and after many days it had returned to him.

THE HIGHEST PROFESSION.--NO. 1.

The time has been when all looked up to the three learned professions as they were called, as being above all other pursuits, in rank, influence and respect.

But in the process of time a change has evidently come over the spirit of our dreams in these matters. Now the lawyer too often has dwindled into a mere politician or pettifogger. A race it would seem as influential only as stirrers up of mischief and strife, or devoted to low ambition. We knew one in Boston, who had the reputation of making it a principle never to take a client, the right and justice of whose claim he had a doubt. His fellow lawyers were in the habit of attributing to him the firm belief that the party in any case that arrived first at his office with a retainer, was the one possessing the right in his estimation. At any rate the fact that the profession is up for hire to parties on either side of a case, seems to imply (at least to a few,) that the tone of right and justice has very little influence in the acceptance of clients.

As to the doctors, it is often asked what we shall do when they disagree, as if all confidence in their advice upon any matter concerning which there should arise more than one opinion, was of but little value. Now it seems as if in all that concerns the health and well-being of poor mortals, there is no one thing in which doctors so much differ in opinion and practice, as that of their vocation. Alas we, the practiced upon, have nearly or quite arrived at the point where if we do not take the prescription blindly, we must inform ourselves of the principles and comparative value of allopathy, hydropathy and homœpathy, with their opposite and complex theories, in order that we may in security make our selection whom to employ among this large tribe of disagreeing professionals. And finally the clergy having, (as some writer aptly remarks,) ruled New England with despotic power, for two centuries, must take their turn now, in being held to the stone on which they formerly ground so many of their parishoners and fellow mortals. At any rate their prestige is well nigh gone. But a few are able to keep up with their pewholders in theology, still fewer in the practice of toleration. It is lamentable that so few of them retain, we will not say the veneration they once enjoyed, but the decent respect of mankind, as they ought.

So much for the learned professions. Here, perhaps, we ought to stop in reference to them. We feel that we ought, or we may appropriately be charged as cynical. Having a word to say of another profession, and one in our estimation of even a higher consideration, we will proceed to that, with a single remark. And that is, we have alluded to professional occupations generally thought to be the more honorable, for the purpose only of showing there is one often looked upon in comparison as almost insignificant, and yet, which is to assume in coming time, the most important, the most honorable position, and the one to whom mankind will yet place on the highest pinnacle in the temple where they offer their esteem and gratitude. This is the profession of teacher of the young. And I would if I could inspire them with a higher and holier ardor in the pursuit of their calling. Here let me say that we speak of the teacher without regard to sex. Be it man or woman, the faithful accomplished and truly fitted teacher, may well be the highest aim of mankind. To them belongs the strongest consideration of honor and respect. We know that to some, perhaps to many, this may seem an exaggeration.

In times past, the teacher, like the chaplain, in English fashionable families, too often served as a butt for contempt and ridicule.

The profession of a teacher is to become, is now every day becoming the most respected and honorable among us, and will soon take precedence of all others.

We speak of the teacher, let it be observed, as one fully qualified in learning and fitness, thorough and efficient, and with a conscience, alive and tender. One whose desire is to do their whole duty. Who love their profession, and spare no pains or efforts to attain and to impart, whatever he undertakes in the best possible manner.

The teacher demanded by the age, has no thought, how he or she, can worry through their six hours per day, and then shut up their school-room and brain together, as though their work was all done.

There is no limits to his attainments. There is no branch of study or science but he should know how to make interesting and useful to his pupils. He must have a general knowledge of all things, from the last discovery in geography, to the latest revelation in the co-relation of forces. If I am thought to demand too much of one mind, I answer this is the ideal, and the teacher must ever do his best to attain it. Progress, as he will, it is true the horizon of learning, is ever spreading out in all directions before him, but that is, or should be his strongest incentive to action; certainly no reason for relaxing his best efforts. He must be a gentleman and teach manners, a christian, and teach by example. His influence will be equal to that of the clergy. For while the one is preaching he should practice. While the one is elevated in his pulpit, afar off, and above, the other is near at hand, every day associates more or less intimately with his pupils, and if faithful, ever touching their hearts and knitting them to his own. The faithful, conscientious teacher, is the last to be spared from our midst. No one so much deserves our best consideration. However blindly we may bow to the dictum of "our minister": to the able and efficient teacher belongs our intelligent support, our readiest and heartfelt aid, and our most liberal payment. We are apt to rely on our clergy, to somehow save our souls, when perhaps, they are so ossified in ignorance and degradation, as not to be worth saving. But we place in the care of our teachers our young, when fresh and spotless, with their body, soul, spirit and intellect, and expect them to be unfolded and cultivated. To have their minds filled, to be lifted up and onward in the journey of life, to make them "but little lower than the angels." * * * * *

"What a piece of work is man, how noble in reason, how infinite in faculties, in form and rearing, how express and admirable, in apprehension, how like a god, the beauty of the world, the paragon of creation." If we can say thus with Shakspeare, shall we be content with an inferior teacher, to have the care and culture of such a nature. Cadmus.

☞ True goodness is like the glow-worm; it shines most when no eyes, except those of heaven, are upon it.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

CHRISTMAS AND SANTA CLAUS.

Again the genial Christmas season is here, and hearty preparations have been made, to accord it a suitable welcome.—It is a time of good cheer, of giving and receiving gifts,—of hearty good wishes among the young; of sober enjoyment among those who have reached the autumn of life. Tasks are given to the winds,—freedom and jollity reigns. How the faces of the children brighten, in anticipation of the good time in store.—Deep are the calculations of what presents Santa Claus will bring them. Happy souls! who can refuse them the trifling gifts that make their young hearts so happy. What music is to be compared with the ringing laughter of children, or what pleasure greater than to witness the hearty enjoyment of their sports.

"Ah! what would the world be to us
If the children were no more?
We should dread the desert behind us
More than the dark before."

"For what are all our contrivings,
And the wisdom of our books,
When compared with your caresses,
And the gladness of your looks?

"Ye are better than all the ballads,
That ever were sung or said;
For ye are living poems
And all the rest are dead?"

Children of a certain age are devout believers in Santa Claus, and rich and rare are the gifts he brings them, as "all wind and weather scorning" he makes his invariable rounds Christmas Eve.—Of all Saints in the calendar, commend us to Santa Claus. We have a strong reverential regard for him, with his white beard, his benevolent jolly countenance, his eyes beaming with good humor (especially when Christmas is approaching,) with his miraculous inexhaustible baskets, out of which comes those gifts that set so many young hearts wild with delight.

Never having seen a reliable biography of Santa Claus, allow us to manufacture one of our own. We are firmly persuaded that when in the flesh he was a hale hearty old bachelor, brimming over with love for children, and having none of his own, he took to petting and making happy the children of others. Possibly early in life he loved fondly, and being crossed in love, all the tenderness of his nature concentrated itself on innocent childhood. When death overtook him he was, no doubt, followed to the grave by an immense funeral train of youthful mourners, who cried as if their little hearts would break when they saw him laid in his narrow house.

Then, when he had passed to the land of shadows, what more natural than that he should be canonized as the patron Saint of children? And so ever since, year after year, he comes on Christmas Eve, laden with gifts, smiling sweetly as he looks on the innocent faces of slumbering childhood, and anticipates the morning shouts of delight when his treasures are discovered. In his miraculous chariot, drawn by swift footed deer, he scours the land delighting to do good, and waiting for no return in thanks. Gently he enters the chamber where on soft pillow and in dreamless sleep, the little head reposes. No knock announces his coming. Like the gentle zephyr he steals in, sees the little stockings hung up in the exercise of child faith, smiles benignantly, waves a benediction, and is gone. But in the morning golden treasures are found where the Saint has been, bright eyes are brighter, happy hearts are happier, because of the gifts left by his loving hands. Let us rest assured that every returning Christmas will find him fresh and vigorous as ever, so long as there are young pure hearts to bless, and little hands to receive his gifts. Blessings on dear old Santa Claus! We believe he does a world of good; kindling and deepening love in the hearts of parents and children, and by his example promoting theoutflow of kindly, generous feeling.

FALLING TO PIECES. Old Norfolk County appears to be very much unsettled, since the city of Roxbury lifted up one corner of the curtain and leaped into the arms of our modern Athens. Dorchester soon thought that she must do likewise. Now many citizens of Brookline and Brighton are praying that a law may be passed by the next General Court, granting them the privilege of doing the same thing. The great question now is where is this to stop? Is it a good policy to allow too many of the large and wealthy towns of old Norfolk County to jump into Suffolk County? Not that we cannot live, move, and make good progress without them; but should we not be more prosperous with them. The County Commissioners invite the Selectmen of all the towns in the County, and all persons interested in this matter, to meet at Temperance Hall, in Dedham, on Thursday next at 10 o'clock, to take such actions as the exigency requires.

COLD WEATHER. The thermometer in Quincy on Thursday morning was from one to five degrees below zero. Yesterday morning it was not quite so cold by a few degrees. This month so far has been decidedly a cold one. If it is only a taste of what we shall have this season, we shall be obliged to put it down as the coldest winter for many years. The carpenters in this place have plenty of work,—many houses are being built, but the workmen make but little progress in these short, cold days.

Ice in some parts of the State is twelve to fourteen inches thick and the ice dealers have commenced cutting their summer supply. Dealers in this vicinity are expected to commence in a day or two if this weather continues.

The sleighing in the rural districts is excellent,—having an icy foundation with some three or four inches of snow thereon. The cold weather however prevents many from enjoying it.

☞ A physician has discovered that the "night-mare," in nine cases out of ten, is produced from owing a bill to the printer. "Money makes the mare go."

If this is the cause of night-mare we can safely say that our friend, Mrs. Joseph Adams, of this town, never need fear an attack, as she always pays her subscription in advance. She made her usual visit some weeks ago and paid for the PATRIOT to Jan. 1873.

☞ Parents, school teachers and all others interested in the cause of Education, will find the first of a series of very interesting articles upon "The Highest Profession," on our first page to-day. They are from an able Correspondent, and will be worthy of a careful perusal.

RELIGIOUS. Rev. S. W. Hanks of Boston, will occupy the pulpit of the Congregational Church to-morrow, presenting the cause of the Seamen in the morning, and in the afternoon will address the young upon Temperance,—illustrating the subject by a diagram of the "Black Valley Rail Road." At the Sunday School Concert in the evening, he will give a talk to the children.

The exercises by the children in the evening will consist of singing, recitations, &c., and will be appropriate to Christmas Eve.

FIRST CHURCH. In place of the usual Vesper Services to-morrow evening, there will be a Service of Song; the members of the Sunday School occupying the galleries. Bell rings at half past six.

On Monday evening will be held the customary Christmas Festival, in the Town Hall, preceded by a Service in the Church,—the Sunday School occupying a portion of the pews on the floor. Bell rings at six.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL for January is still in the advance. For reading at once spicy, vigorous, spirited and high-toned, its bulky January number has our warmest commendation. A capital beginning of the New Year. Besides a large number of instructive and interesting articles, numerous illustrations are given. Price only $3 a year. Single Nos. 30 cents. Now is the tine to subscribe or to make up a club, and secure one of the valuable Premiums offered. Address S. R. Wells, New York.

CURLS, SWITCHES, &C. Mr. T. G. Emerson offers, through our advertising columns to-day, great inducements to the ladies who desire to purchase curls, switches, &c. His prices are very low, and his work is of the highest order, giving the most perfect satisfaction, as many of our readers can testify. No one in want of elegant tresses, the great desire of the fair sex, should fail to give him a call, after reading his very low prices in our columns. A fine set of curls would make a very acceptable Christmas present to many of our lady readers.

GEORGE STEPHENSON. The fourth lecture before the People's Course was delivered in the Town Hall, on Thursday evening last, by Hon. Wm. Parsons. The hall was so cold, that the audience commenced to shake and quiver before the lecturer was introduced. As he proceeded he gathered warmth, and endeavored to impart it to a scattering audience, but the icy finger of winter pinched their extremities so continually, that the speaker found his task an arduous one. Although he did finely, and delivered upon the life of Geo. Stephenson, one of the best lectures of the season, it is doubtful if it was well appreciated by the listeners. If we had a fair sample of the heat producing power of our new furnaces on this occasion, we say remove them. Give us the old stoves; those who want the furnaces are welcome to them, if they will only remove their frigid apparatus from our midst.

CHRIST CHURCH. There will be a Christmas tree for the Sunday School scholars of Christ Church, at 7 o'clock on this (Saturday) evening.

RELIGION AT WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

In the last number of the PATRIOT, it was stated that ground had been broken at Wollaston Heights for a new Baptist Church, to cost when complete $25,000. I rejoice in the enterprise and progressive spirit which has manifested itself to such a marked degree in the rapid growth of Wollaston, and rejoice furthermore that its people have the means and the desire to devote the sum of $25,000 towards the erection of a place for public worship, but I do regret the proposed substitution, (for it will probably amount to that,) of one doctrinal form of worship for the more liberal system of mixed services heretofore existing at the Union Chapel.

Perhaps it is all the more to be regretted, that its substitute unfortunately happens to be the one sect of all other Protestant forms, the most illiberal in its fellowship, namely the Baptist.

Notwithstanding there are so many different sects of religionists (numbering hundreds) there can in reality be but one true religion—and which is the true one? Each assumes that it is right and all the rest are wrong. How can the truth be better eliminated than by friendly discussion? Yet how little inclination is there at the present day among religious sects to meet in friendly discussion in order to reach the truth. On the other hand, they hedge themselves about with self-righteousness, and thoroughly discountenance the hearing even of any doctrine at variance with their own.

The hearing of alternate doctrines on alternate Sundays, looking at the matter from a standpoint above sectarianism, must in the end have a beneficial effect. Still better would it be if the various sects could meet together at stated seasons for the discussion of doctrinal points. Those need not quail who feel that they have truth upon their side. Yet what a different condition of things exists even in the town of Quincy. The Universalist or Unitarian scarcely ever thinks of listening to his Orthodox neighbor's views and still less does the Orthodox or Methodist feel to cross the threshold of the more liberal Churches. Still more unfrequent perhaps is there even an intervisitation between the Catholics and Protestants. Each however is righteous in his own conceit—and there is really good in all.

Would not the various churches manifest a truer Christlike spirit in laying aside their prejudices and condescending to argue as Christ did even with publicans and sinners? Would they not sooner merge into a Church of Universal Brotherhood?

I do not expect our Wollaston friends will forego any of their privileges or regular meetings in consequence of my feeble pen, nor do I ask them. But if in their hearts they feel the Baptist doctrine to be the true one, will they not set apart one evening in a month if no more, for a friendly discussion on general religious topics, and thereby they may make many converts. For "Truth is mighty and will prevail," although "error encircles the earth while Truth is putting on his boots."

It is evident that all the inhabitants of Wollaston are not Baptists, and would not public interest be the best subserved by religious liberality?

Let our Wollaston friends be as progressive in their religious movements as they have been thus far in their business enterprise. VERITAS.

POEM. The fine poem read by Miss Morse, at the Quincy High School Reunion, will be found on our first page.

☞ Read the advertisement of the New England Farmer in our advertising columns. It is one of the best agricultural papers published, and is worthy the attention of our citizens. The Monthly Farmer is discontinued with the December number, and the whole attention of its editors will hereafter be given to the improvement of the Weekly Farmer and the extension of its circulation, which is now considerably larger than that of any similar paper in New England.

CURIOUS INSCRIPTION. In the burying ground at Epping Centre, N. H. is a gravestone bearing the following curious inscription:

"Quintus Plumer, born the 5th day of 5th month of the 5th year of the 5th century, and breathed vital air only five times five days.

HARPER'S. The January number of HARPER'S MAGAZINE offers fresh and unusual attractions to the numerous readers of that periodical. In its poetry, its stories, its illustrated papers, its miscellaneous articles, and its editorial departments, this number reaches the highest standard of excellence. Of its twenty articles, eight are illustrated, the number containing altogether sixty-eight engravings. A glance at the table of contents discloses a variety of attractive, instructive, and interesting matter that is almost bewildering. For sale at Souther's periodical store.

ADJOURNED. The commissioners for the arbitration of the Alabama claims have held a formal meeting in Geneva, and adjourned to the 15th of next June. Hon. Charles Francis Adams, from this town, one of the commissioners has returned to London. In the United States Senate, on Wednesday, $250,000 were appropriated for the expenses of the commission.

THREE LARGE BUSINESS INTERESTS. Boston is now one of the greatest sugar markets of the world, the trade having doubled in ten years, and when the great sugar houses now about commencing are in full operation, the requirement of sugar at this port will be about two-fold the present imports. The imports during eleven months of this year were—hogsheads, 82,398; barrels, 29,639; bags, 488,775; boxes, 41,911. Last year—hogsheads, 83,213; barrels, 38-499; bags, 265,688; boxes, 24,183.

The molasses trade is falling off, sugar taking its place largely. We have received this year about two hundred cargoes of molasses, amounting to about 56,000 hogsheads.

Boston is the greatest wool market of this country. This year the receipts of foreign wool at this port are nearly double those of 1870. Of domestic wool nearly ten per cent. more had been sold this year than found a market here in 1870.—Boston Herald.

PEACE JUBILEE. Mr. P. S. Gilmore has returned to Boston, in excellent health and spirits, after extensively interviewing the musical celebrities of the old world on the subject of the International Peace Jubilee, to be held in Boston next June. He has received assurance that every nation of Europe will be represented in that city at his Jubilee, everything connected with the enterprise having succeeded beyond his most sanguine hopes.

MAMMOTH. A chicken pie containing nearly one hundred chickens, was baked at Bridgeport, Ct., a few days ago, and presented to a Fair in that place. It is the biggest chicken pie ever made, and required four men to move it.

ARRIVED. Schooner Nellie Brown, built some eight years ago at the Point, arrived at that port on Sunday last, from Philadelphia, with 350 tons of white ash and Webster coal, consigned to D. H. Bills, of this place.

☞ D. B. Brooks & Brother, 55 Washington street, Boston, have one of the most splendid stocks of fancy goods, stationery, &c., to be found in the city.—Those who value time and money, or desire to be fully satisfied with their purchases, should call and inspect their goods, just the articles for holiday presents.

☞ The Rev. R. H. Howe, has lately accepted the rectorship of the Episcopal Church in Quincy. He is the son of the Rev. Dr. Howe of Philadelphia, who has just been elected Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, and will doubtless prove a valuable addition to our clergy. Service in the Episcopal Church, will be held on Christmas day at 11 A. M. To which all are cordially invited.

☞ Rev. Mr. Baker, of South Weymouth, is expected to occupy the desk in the Universalist Church in this place, tomorrow afternoon at the usual hour.

The Sabbath School connected with the Universalist Society, will have a Christmas tree with other exercises on Monday evening.

JURORS. Messrs. Ebenezer Adams and Nathaniel H. Eaton have been drawn as Jurors for the December term, of the Superior Court, for this County.

Summary Intelligence.

A man who "ordered everything on the bill of fare" at a Syracuse hotel, was astonished to behold approaching him fourteen waiters, in single file, bearing one hundred and twenty-four dishes.

Good cows are selling in Grafton county, N. H. for $12 50, as hay is thirty-five dollars per ton, and none to be had at that price.

California is proven, by recent surveys, to be twenty-two millions of acres smaller than she thought she was.

The British Museum has an anvil which, it is said, belonged to one of the Pharaohs.

Worth, the famous Parisian dressmaker, has reduced his prices, and now makes a plain dress for three hundred dollars.

Whalebone has sprung up $110 a pound.

A deed 130 years old was presented on Monday, at the Registry of Deeds in Boston, for record.

The old Manassas battle field was sold a few days since for eight dollars an acre. When the war commenced it was under a high state of improvement, and the dwelling house upon it was one of the finest in that section of the State.

THE ANNEXATION OF BROOKLINE.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

I see that the Commissioners of Norfolk County, have called the attention of our community to the endeavors now being made to annex Brookline to Boston While there is no one good reason therefore, there are many why this fashion of an hour should not be carried any farther. I trust the Selectmen of all our towns will notice and act upon the invitation of the County Commissioners.

This ought to be done immediately as the meeting for the County is to be held on the 28th instant. OLD NORFOLK.

Braintree, Dec. 19, 1871.

RETIRED. Mr. Bullock, Superintendent of the Old Colony and Newport Railroad, is about retiring from that position, and Mr. James Kendrick, formerly superintendent of the Concord railroad, is to be his successor.

☞ A few days ago three young ladies from New York, went down the central shaft of the Hoosac Tunnel, which reaches 1,031 feet below the surface, being the first of their sex to make the descent. They were treated to an explosion of nitro-glycerine.

BREAD AND MILK. Dr. Isaac Bartlett of Hope, Me., a man over 60 years of age, and weighing over 200 pounds, says he never tasted of a bit of meat of any kind in his life. He lives almost entirely on bread and milk.

DR. BRAGG. We desire to again call the attention of our readers to the visit of this celebrated surgeon and physician from the Chelsea Infirmary. Remember he will be in Quincy, at Hancock House, next week Tuesday, Dec. 26th. We can cheerfully recommend the services of Dr. Bragg, to all who are suffering from diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Catarrh, Heart, and Lungs, or chronic diseases of any form, assuring them that if a cure is possible he will cure them. Dr. Bragg has more experience yearly in treating the above mentioned diseases than any other physician in the country. All who desire to be cured should call on him without delay. A

Deaths.

In this town, on the 17th inst., Mr. James Jones, aged 25 years and 4 months.

On the 20th inst., Mrs. Elizabeth wife of Mr. Daniel Sullivan, aged 48 years.

On the 20th inst., Mrs. Sarah wife of Mr. Arthur Convey, aged 48 years.

CHRISTMAS comes but once a year. Then select presents which are beautiful, yet durable. The fine furniture bought for their Holiday trade, needs but to be seen to please; and the new and novel designs in Parlor Suites, Chamber Setts, Etageres, Hall Stands, Library Tables, and Writing Desks, are most prominent among the stock at Cunningham's Emporium, 296 Washington Street, Boston.

Boston, July 2 1871 ep—1y

☞ Seventy-five thousand dollars are pledged to effect the secession of East Randolph from Randolph, E. N. Holbrook alone offering $50,000—$25,000 for a town house, $15,000 to wipe out the town debt and $10,000 for other purposes. The secessionists are enthusiastic, and the whole town greatly excited.

BOLD LARCENY. A young man named Henry Bartlett snatched a watch from the counter of the jewelry store of Mr. Federhen, No. 50 Court street, Boston, and suddenly left. He was pursued and collared on Cornhill by Mr. Federhen.

☞ A well-known clergyman of Boston, was accosted the other day by a stranger who wanted to know what had become of the "talking-machine." The clergyman pointed to a woman who was passing and significantly remarked "there goes one."

☞ Marion United States Watch Co.'s (Giles, Wales & Co.,) Watches were awarded the First Premiums at "Fair of American Institute," New York, 1870, at Fair of "Ohio Mechanics' Institute, Cincinnati, 1870, at "Louisiana State Fair," New Orleans, La., 1870, at "Texas State Fair," Houston, Texas, 1871, and at every Fair where exhibited, over all competitors.

Mr. Renne claims that the name "Magic Oil" is his "trade mark," and that any persons who use that name for a medicine do so at their peril, as much so as though they stole any other property of his, beside their extra meanness! The genuine Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil is what the people want, and will have.

Briggs' Allevantor is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper and Alcohol. This compound is unequal in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling and Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c., equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. For Sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally.

CONSUMPTION. This fatal and dreaded disease can, and has been cured. Dr. J. Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer is a pleasant, agreeable and sure remedy for coughs, whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, bronchitis, laryngitis, sore throat, asthma, consumption, and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggist generally.

PILES have caused more torture to the human family than any other affliction. They have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and the efforts to cure them have baffled almost every attempt. By unceasing study and experimenting Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute cure for internal bleeding, external and itching piles. BRIGGS' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally.

CORNS! Just fancy a foot with its perfect organization, designed by the Creator to be of use to man, crowded into a boot or shoe about two-thirds the size required to give room for the working of the joints, muscles, &c., of this wonderful structure. And then consider if it is any wonder that nine-tenths of the adult population and half the children are troubled with corns, bunions, bad nails and other pedal afflictions. All of which are artificial and unnecessary. DR. J. BRIGGS' Alleviator and Curative will surely banish them, and proper fitting boots will prevent their return. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally. Dec. 23.

Song---THE FAR WEST.

How beautiful the prairies of the West,
How sublime the sight when on fire,
How fragrant the forest where all can rest,
It seems our souls to inspire.
We love the West and its fields of grain,
We love its valleys and hill;
'Tis Nature's garden, 'tis Nature's plain,
Our souls with rapture it fills.
We love our own New England,
We love its rock-bound coast;
As Prussia loves its Fatherland,
We love New England the most.
We like a nobby suit of clothes,
GEO. H. RICHARDS deals so fair,
We'll buy his coats, his pants and vests,
At TWENTY-FIVE DOCK SQUARE.

Norfolk County Commissioners.

COURT HOUSE, DEDHAM,
December, 11th, 1871.

THE ANNEXATION OF BROOKLINE.

NOTICE having been officially published that a petition will be presented to the next Legislature for the Annexation of the Town of Brookline to the City of Boston, which, if consummated, blots out of existence an ancient Town organization, where every municipal right and privilege appears to be enjoyed in the highest decree of perfection, and which severs from the County of Norfolk a large and intelligent population, possessing one-sixth part of her valuation—thus increasing the burdens of taxation—dwarfing her institutions, and breaking up cherished associations, with little corresponding benefit;—The County Commissioners deem it important to call the attention of their fellow-citizens to seriously consider whether they will consent, without earnest remonstrance and efficient action, that the larger and wealthier towns shall be removed to another jurisdiction already wielding a disproportionate influence in State affairs, so that the smaller remaining towns must either be absorbed by the adjoining interior Counties, or combine with other towns into some new association for County purposes.

It is easy to perceive that should this work of disintegration go on, the old County of Norfolk will become extinct at no distant day.

This is not a question for the County Commissioners to meet single-handed, nor for the loyal friends of the County in the towns where the desire for a change exists, but for the citizens and tax-payers of every town in the County.

The Commissioners therefore, at the suggestion of prominent citizens, and in discharge of their trust as the official Guardians of the public property and interests of the County, respectfully invite the SELECTMEN OF THE SEVERAL Towns, and such delegations as the citizens may appoint, or as desire to attend, to meet at TEMPERANCE HALL, in Dedham on THURSDAY, the 28th instant, at 10 o'clock, A. M., to take such action as in their judgment the exigency requires.

LET EVERY TOWN BE REPRESENTED.

DAVID H BATES, } Commissioners.

AND other light Machinery, where foot power is used, is admitted by all to be one of the greatest inventions of the age,—using one or both feet or either alternately. With this Treadle the machine can only be run in the right direction, thus preventing the danger of breaking needles or thread, consequent upon the reversal of the proper motion, and there is no need of starting it by moving the balance wheel with the hand. Any machine can be run with the same exertions as used in walking, which is very slight compared with the rocking motion of the old crank Treadle. It needs only to be tried to be appreciated. It can be applied to any Sewing Machine in use,—plain or cabinet. It can be seen in operation at

EMPIRE OF WOMAN.

Her might is gentleness; she winneth sway
By a soft word, and by a softer look;
Where she, the gentle, loving one, hath failed,
The proud or stern might never yet succeed.

Strength, power, and majesty, belong to man;
They make the glory native to his life.
But sweetness is a woman's attribute;
By that she has reigned, and by that will reign.

There have been some who, with mightier mind,
Have won dominion; but they never won
The dearer empire of the beautiful;—
Sweet sovereigns of their natural loveliness.

SPOILING HORSES' FEET.

It is almost impossible to get a horse shod without having the frogs cut away. All veterinary surgeons, all horsemen, all leading blacksmiths agree that the frogs should not be pared one particle—not even trimmed. No matter how pliable and soft the frog is, cut it away smooth on all sides, and in two days it will be dry and hard as a chip. You might as well cut off all the leaves of the trees and expect them to flourish as to pare away the frog and have a healthy foot. The rough, spongy part of the frog is to the foot what leaves are to the tree—the lungs. Again, never have a red-hot shoe put upon the foot to burn it level. If you can find a blacksmith that is mechanic enough to level the foot without red-hot iron, employ him. The burning process deadens the hoof and tends to contract it. If you do not think so, try the red-hot poker on your finger-nail and see how it will affect the growth of that. There are many other important points in shoeing horses, but these two are of more importance than all the rest, level to the apprehension of men not skilled in horses, and the two most disregarded.—Mirror and Farmer.

GREASING WAGONS.

Says an exchange: "But few people are aware that they do wagons and carriages more injury by greasing too plentifully than by any other way. A well-made wheel will endure common wear from ten to twenty-five years, if care is taken to use the right kind and proper amount of grease; but if this matter is not attended to, they will be used up in five or six years. Lard should never be used on a wagon, for it will penetrate the hub, and work its way out around the tenons of the spokes, and spoil the wheel. Tallow is the best lubricator for wood axle-trees, and castor-oil for iron. Just grease enough should be applied to the spindle of a wagon to give it a light coating; this is better than more, for the surplus put on will work out at the ends, and be forced by the shoulder-bands and nut-washers into the hub around the outside of the boxes. To oil an axle-tree, first wipe the spindle clean with spirits of turpentine, and then apply a few drops of castor-oil near the shoulder and end. One teaspoonful is sufficient for the whole."

HOUSE PLANTS. There are three things essential to the healthy growth and beauty of house plants, they are: sunlight, pure water, and fresh air. In proportion as these are supplied success will follow. Do not try to cultivate too many plants; a few vigorous plants, standing in the full sunshine of the sitting-room window, are doubly worth the crowded, ill-assorted collections that disfigure many rooms.—Better a simple geranium with its round, gracefully scalloped leaves of deep green and crowned with bunches of scarlet bloom, than an array of scrawny, illy pruned, bug-infested plants, that make one feel as if he was in a hospital for diseased vegetation.

Anecdotes.

"Why, Sambo, how black you are!" said a gentleman, the other day, to a negro waiter at a hotel, "how in the name of wonder did you get so black?"

"Why, look a here, massa, de reason am dis—de day dis chile was born, dere was an eclipse."

Ebony received a shilling for his satisfactory explanation, and after grinning thanks, continued:

"I tell you what it is, massa, this nigger may be brack, but he ain't green, no how!"

A man passing through a gateway in the dark, hit his nose against the post.

"I wish that post was in hell," said he.

"Better wish it somewhere else," said a bystander, "you might run against it again."

"Have you found a verdict?" said a judge to the foreman of a jury.

"No, your honor, we have hunted through every nook and corner of the room you sent us to, and we can't find nary one."

"Doctor," said a person once to a surgeon, "my daughter had a terrible fit this morning; she continued half an hour without knowledge or understanding."

"Oh," replied the doctor, "never mind that some people continue so all the time."

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists,

LOWELL, MASS.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb. Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So invariably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston. Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.

GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whisky, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the stomach and regulate the bowels, purify the blood, and restore the complexion to healthy purity. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing the combined excellencies of all other purgatives, without their injurious effects.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One Bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins, cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

Poetry.

THE OLD YEAR.

Thou'rt passing out from us, Old Year!—There's winter on thy brow,
Thy vernal trappings, one by one, have fallen from thee now;
The days are gone when we were wont to meet the morning light,
Or linger round the sunset till it faded from our sight.
Thou art passing out from us, Old Year! thy chill and icy breath
Tells us of time's quick transit, of Mortality and Death.

Thou'rt passing out from us, Old Year,—and the fitful evening breeze
Doth chant thy mournful requiem amid the leafless trees;
And leaden clouds are hanging o'er, like sombre funeral pall,
And dreary is the landscape now, and sad the prospect all!
Like some dark fiend that lingers yet till all is loan and drear,
Thou makest all things desolate ere thou dost disappear.

Thou'rt passing out from us, Old Year, with all thy varied train
Of hope, and joy, and happiness of woe, disease, and pain!
Thou hast rescued some from sorrow, thou hast bowed full many a head,
And many that were lovely thou hast numbered with the dead;
The impress of thy presence thou hast left with powerful hand,
In every nation, every clime, throughout the sea and land.

Thou'rt passing out from us, Old Year! upon thy deathless page
Are records that must stand for aye, throughout the eternal age;
And thoughtless things that have been thought, and deeds that have been done,
Are graven with an iron pen upon a bed of stone.
Our dread account, of good or ill, is settled with thee now,
Thou hast garnered up thy harvest of future weal or woe.

Thou'rt passing out from us, Old Year! But with thy farewell voice
Are mingled dulcet tones, that bid the Christian's heart rejoice;
Yet speak to us in holy strains, the chorus from on high;
That first, by humble Syrian swains, was heard in time gone by;
Aye, blended with thy funeral dirge are sounds of "Peace on Earth."
The voice that wails thy requiem proclaims Messiah's birth.

Sugar Cookies Without Eggs.—Two cups sugar, one cup of butter, and one cup sweet milk, one teaspoonful soda; two teaspoonfuls of cream tartar, sifted in the flour: spice to suit the taste, and flour to make it thick enough to roll easy: rub butter and sugar in the dry flour, then wet and roll out, using no eggs.

How to Set Colors. Dissolve a teaspoonful of sugar of lead in a pail of water, in which you soak your colored cambric for fifteen minutes before washing. If more convenient, a little vinegar or a handful of salt thrown into a pail of water, and the dress soaked, will set the color.

Miscellany.

THE NEW SANTA CLAUS.

It was bitterly cold. Little Nelly Tuttle felt it as she wandered along Broadway—felt it in her spirit as well as in her flesh. Her calico dress was faded, patched and ragged; a thin shawl, which had been her mother's in her girlhood, was pinned around her throat. On her arm she had a basket. She stumbled along, her eager eyes intent upon the shop windows, which glistened with gems, were curtained with laces, and draped with costly silks, the lustre which dazzled the poor child's eyes. She searched the faces of passers-by as well as the windows, and, when she noted features seemingly more benignant than the rest, she ventured to pipe the tremulous cry:

"Please buy my matches!" Six bright pennies lay in one corner of the basket; for them she had wandered she knew not how many miles. She had been out all the afternoon. She paused occasionally to peep in at open church doors where were great wreaths of evergreen, and arches trimmed, and pillows wound with the bright coil—the whole so fragrant of hemlock and spruce—and then, after gazing awhile, she would recollect her work and hurry on the faster. She should like to wait for the illumination, she thought. How grand it would all look. And then the music!

"Christ was born on Christmas Day."

She wondered if they would sing that. Her mother always sang it to them—at least she used to; she never sang anything now.

"Please buy one bunch, sir! Only a cent."

"I don't want any of your matches.

Nelly was too use to refusals to mind it. "O, what pretty things!" she exclaimed aloud, as she paused before a toy shop. "If Ted only could have that cart and horse! and a drum, too! O, dear! and there's such a famous trumpet! I'd get Aunt Desire—let me see—I'd get her a rocking horse, I think," (with head turned to one side as if meditating.)—"Mother should have that big wax doll. O, dear! what a heap of money it would take——"

"And what would you have, my little girl?"

Nelly looked up quickly, and found a pair of bright blue eyes smiling at her. With the shrewd instincts peculiar to children of the street, she divined at once his social status. "Please, do you want any matches?"—as a sudden thought struck her.

The stranger thrust a hand into his pocket and drew it out full of pennies.—"How many must you sell before you can go home?" he asked, with real interest.

"O, all I can! I have seventeen bunches"—with an eye to profit—"they would last you a great while."

"They would indeed," he rejoined, laughing. "Here, take these, and keep your matches for another day. It is Christmas eve, and you know you want some candy."

"I shall give it to father, please, sir. Father is sick."

She thanked him so prettily that he felt ashamed he had given so little.

"Have you a mother, little one?"

"O, yes! She takes in washing."

After the little creature had turned away the gentleman's conscience troubled him. Why had he not gone home with her and relieved their distress? Here was, apparently, an opportunity for charity. As he walked on, his self-reproaches grew more clamorous; he suddenly stopped and turned his steps to the lower part of the city.

Nelly sped home as fast as her feet would carry her. Away down in William street, in a room on the fourth floor of a dingy tenement, lived the Tuttle family.

Mr. Tuttle was sick. His feet and hands were swollen with erysipelas; the latter rested on the coverlet, scarlet in color. Teddy had clambered upon the bed, for the fortieth time that evening, to the infinite distress and fear of both parents, and was again lifted down amid screams.

"Come in here, children! called a feeble voice from an adjoining room."

"Come! Aunt Desire's going to tell us a bear story, shouted Teddy."

Desire May was dying of consumption. Ten years before, she had left her country home, allured by the suggestions of better recompense for her labor, and this was the result. She was thirty years old but she looked forty. The Tuttles had been kind to her. They found her one day fainting by their door, and since that they were constant, and almost her only friends. She, in return, amused the children, who called her "aunt," when their mother was hurried, and unconsciously she taught them all a living lesson of patient endurance.

The Tuttles had been unfortunate.—They once possessed a comfortable competence. Their eldest son Frank, ran away and went to sea. He was a wild boy always, but this one desperate act seemed the crowning evil. That was ten years ago. He was a lad of fifteen then. For years they hoped and looked for his return, or at least for some word from him; but they had given both up, long ago. They never spoke of him now, yet was he the oftener thought of.

And now the husband and father had fallen sick. What wonder that the cloud seemed to settle heavier over them! The poor wife labored constantly, while her heart was heavy with tears which her eyes had no time to shed.

"O, Nelly's come! Let's see what she's got." Away they scampered.

Nelly related her story, and exhibited the proof of the truthfulness of her recital. "He's a hero, mother, a real hero," she finished with sparkling eyes.

Her mother smiled and put away the money.

Teddy darted back to hear the rest of his story.

"And another old bear says,—"Who's been tasting of my milk?" continued Aunt Desire.

"Did they really?" asked little Mary.

"No. It's a story!" shouted Teddy, with intense scorn. "Girls don't know nothing do they, Aunt Desire?

"Come, children, and go to bed!" said their mother, appearing at the door, most unwelcomed.

"I can't," says Teddy. "Aunt Desire ain't through."

"Yes, I am, go to bed, like good children." A fit of coughing seized her.

"Ain't we going to hang up our stockings?" demanded Teddy.

"For what?" inquired the mother, soberly.

"Why, for Santa Claus to fill." The boy's eyes glowed. "O, he's a big feller, Mamy, who creeps down the chimbly when we're all asleep, and puts lots into our stockings.

"Poor things!" sighed the mother.—"There never was a year before when we couldn't get as much as an orange apiece for them. But I can't, Thomas, for we need every penny for bread."

"I know it. But let them hang up their stockings. 'Twon't do any harm. They'll forget it before they go to sleep, and you can take them down."

Master Teddy was particular as to the location of his own little hose. Poor Nelly had none to hang up. She looked submissively at the two against the chimney. What mattered it? They would not be filled.

"Here, Nelly," called Aunt Desire.—"Here is mine, dear child. You must hang it up for yours."

"I wonder Santa Claus don't black himself," lisped little Mary.

"He does," rejoined Teddy, patronizingly, "But d'ye s'pose he cares for that?

"You must take these few cents," "I want the children to find something in their stockings in the morning. You've no right to refuse," said the sick girl.—"It's for them."

On the landing outside, stood the strange gentleman who had followed little Nelly unperceived. He had heard the whole. If the door would only open a little so he could look in also! Those tones were strangely familiar to his ears. When had he heard others like them? Away went his memory on a wild sea of speculation.

Yes, he had found a thread at last. But he knew more by instinct than recollection, after all, that he heard his mother's voice speaking, and his father's in reply. Found by accident too. For long months, ever since his landing, he had been seeking them. His old home knew them not. He had traced them a step or two, and then failed to find a clue.

Hist! the door opened. He shrank into the shadow. She went down the stairs. Like a ghost he glided after her.

She went into a grocery, and he followed. There he saw her face by gaslight. Yes, the features were his mother's surely—but changed indeed the contour. He watched her while she selected three fair oranges, noted the thinness of the hands. He followed her back; it seemed as if he could not lose sight of her an instant. Then off to the brilliant toy shop, before whose window he had found his sister late in the afternoon, he posted. Selecting the very doll so longed for, the "famous trumpet," the drum, and the horse and cart, he ordered them to be sent to the house, and went back to watch for them. He paused once or twice on the way to make other purchases. These he laid in a large basket; tea, sugar, meat, a dressing-gown for his father of flannel, fruit in abundance, candy for the children—his arm ached with the burden.

"Mary, Mary, are you awake? I had such a strange dream last night," Mr. Tuttle said early in the morning. "I dreamed that a man came through the door like our Frank. He had a great basket in his arm, and toys hung over his shoulders.

His wife laughed. "That was queer. O dear! if Frank would only come himself, I wouldn't want any presents."

"There goes Ted to look after his stocking," chuckled his father. "I'm glad you got the oranges; it don't take much to make a child happy—" A terrific blast from a trumpet started him and sent the mother on her feet to ascertain the cause.

"See, mother! Old Nick has left just what I wanted."

"Well, well," she ejaculated in utter astonishment. "Your dreams are partly true, Thomas! She gathered an armful and carried it to his bedside. "See here, and here, and here. What does it all mean?"

"O, if it all were true!" said the sick man, trembling. "Look in your stocking, Mary."

"I have none, Thomas. But here's something in my shoe." She pulled out a note. In it were these words and two fifty dollar bills:

"I've come to take care of you—Frank."

Amid the gleeful shouts of the three children the man and his wife shed tears—the tears and the laughter alike for joy.

Frank appeared in their midst soon after daybreak, when the tears fell faster, Nelly, glancing around in ludicrous bewilderment, whispered audibly, "Why he's my hero, ain't he?" Teddy, profoundly equal to the occasion, saluted him with a prolonged blast. And little Mary rapidly winked the big doll's eyes.

"I must go and tell Desire the good news. I think she must be sleeping, as I haven't heard her cough since I woke." Mrs. Tuttle softly opened the door into the sick girl's chamber. The children, with arms full, rushed after her, loudly vociferating.

"Hush, hush!" whispered the mother, turning away from the bedside; "She has gone."

Christmas morning for the sick girl had drawned on her release from pain.

"Merry Christmas" is the rule of the Tuttles now. The prodigal son has indeed proven himself a good Santa Claus.

PROVERBS.

Here is a valuable bunch of proverbs: Borrowed garments seldom fit well.—Haste often trips up its own heels. Men often blush to hear what they are not ashamed to do. What is not needed is dear at any price. He who buys too many superfluities may be obliged to steal his necessaries. A fool generally loses his estate before he finds his folly. A man that hoards his riches and enjoys them not, is like an ass that carries gold and eats thistles. Towers are measured by their shadows, and great men by their calumniators. That man who knows the world will never be bashful, and that man who knows himself will never be imprudent. Success rides on every hour—grapple it and you may win; but without a grapple, it will never go with you. Work is the weapon of honor and he who lacks the weapons will never triumph. It was a saying of Socrates that every man had need of a faithful friend and a bitter enemy—the one to advise, and the other to show him his faults.

☞ There is but one solid pleasure in life, and that is our duty. How miserable, then, how unwise, how unpardonable are they, who make that one a pain.

"Born to no Master, of no Sect are We."

CLOSE OF VOLUME XXXV.

The wheel of Time has rolled round rapidly and brought up to the close of the year 1871, and we cannot do justice to our feelings or give to our patrons what is due them, if we allow the occasion to pass without returning our sincere thanks, for the very liberal support they have ever extended us. It seems but yesterday that we gave our January greeting, and now we are closing the record for the year; and, short as the time may seem, how many scenes of joy and sorrow, bright hopes and noble plans has it witnessed.

With this number closes the thirty-fifth volume of the PATRIOT, and we gratefully acknowledge that our prospects for giving our patrons a good sheet the coming year, were never more cheering than at the present time, and as improvement is our motto, we pledge undiminished efforts to show what can be effected.

And now, while we give to our friends the parting hand of December, we will extend to them the welcoming one for January, and while we clasp both with the warmest gratitude for past favors, and an unabated determination to deserve them in future, we respectfully tend to our numerous friends the compliments of the season, by wishing them all a HAPPY NEW YEAR.

CHRISTMAS. The day was pleasant and unusually mild for this latitude. Many of our readers who expected a sleigh-ride no doubt was sadly disappointed, as the snow went off in a hurry on Saturday night.

The Unitarian Church was very finely trimmed and interesting services were held on Christmas Eve. On Christmas evening the sabbath school held a service of Song in the Church, and then adjourned to the Town Hall where there were several trees and other things that greatly delighted the young, to say nothing of those of an older growth. Much credit is due Mr. Edward Whicher for the able and excellent manner in which he arranged and carried it through.

The Sabbath School connected with the Universalist Society had very interesting services on Christmas evening.—After singing and speaking by the scholars, Old Santa Claus came in and distributed a large lot of presents in a very humorous and pleasant manner, from two finely loaded trees.

The Episcopal Church was handsomely decorated with evergreens, and on Saturday evening they had some very pleasant ceremonies and a Christmas tree, containing presents for the Pastor and family, Sabbath School scholars, and others.

At the Catholic Church the usual Christmas services was held. The Church was handsomely illuminated. Over the Altar was an arch of gas lights, and over the centre of the arch a beautiful star formed of the gas jets shone brilliantly.

Henry H. Faxon, Esq., did not forget the poor at this season of the year, and made many handsome Christmas gifts to those in needy circumstances.

BRIEF LOCALS. Ex-Governor Hawley of Conn., will deliver the fifth lecture before the People's Course, on Thursday evening next.

L. S. Richards will deliver his fourth lecture of a course at Rodgers' Chapel, to-morrow. Seats free.

Rev. W. W. Hayward, of South Acton, will preach in the Universalist Church to-morrow afternoon.

A new gas post has been erected the present week on Washington street, nearly in front of Mr. Joseph T. French's residence. They will have plenty of gas in that vicinity now.

John T. Willey, formerly the "mine host" at the Hancock House, and more recently of the International Hotel, Halifax, N. S., has returned to this place and taken a residence near the Post Office.

Hugh Owens, was found dead in his bed at the Willard House, about ten o'clock on Friday evening last. Coroner Bass was called the next morning but deemed it unnecessary to hold an inquest, as he supposed from facts gathered that he must have died from heart disease.

The State Constables made another raid on the Hancock House the present week.

The Coddington Grammar School will have a Festival at Revere Hall, on Monday evening next. Santa Claus having had a good rest during the week, will be present on that evening.

LIBERATED. Thomas H. Hayes, of this town, who was sentenced to the House of Correction in Dedham, for violation of the liquor laws was liberated on Wednesday on a writ of error obtained from the Supreme Court.

LEGISLATURE. The General Court will assemble in Boston, on Wednesday next. There is considerable interest felt in the result of the contest for the Speakership. Several circulars have been issued stating the claims of two or more prominent candidates. From the number of notices of intention to petition the next Legislature already on file at the office of Secretary of State, it is evident that that body will have a full hand to start with, and a larger amount of business than has been presented to their predecessors since the year 1855, when the celebrated "Know Nothing" Legislature was in session. Up to Saturday last, 124 notices had been filed, against 83 at the same time last year.

ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC. At the regular meeting of Paul Revere Encampment, Post No. 88, held last Tuesday evening, the following list of officers were chosen for the ensuing year:—

Commander,—Wm. G. Sheen.
Senior Vice Com.,—John A. Pratt.
Junior Vice Com.,—George H. Collins.
Adjutant,—Horace O. Souther.
Quartermaster,—Henry Lunt.
Surgeon—D. Fred French.
Chaplain,—Jonas Shackley.
Officer of the Day,—Warren Dunbar.
Officer of the Guard,—John S. Farrell.
Sergeant Major,—Edward Richardson.
Quartermaster Sergeant, — John B. Bass.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS. At a regular convocation of St. Paul's Lodge, No. 37, of this place, held on Wednesday evening last, the following officers were elected:—

W. C.—Thaddeus H. Newcomb.
V. C.—W. S. Leavitt.
F. S.—J. T. French.
R. S.—E. W. Underwood.
B.—E. S. Fellows.
G.—H. O. Souther.
J. S.—John W. Moore.
O. S.—F. H. French.
T.—Wyman Abercrombie.
R.—C. N. Ditson.

NEWS BOYS' ADDRESS. Owing to a rush of job work and the unusual amount of labor incident to the enlarging of the PATRIOT the coming week, we shall be unable to issue for our news boys a New Years' Address, but would say to those generous patrons along their routes, who remembered them so kindly last year, their favors were most heartily received; and the little hearts under their jackets were nearly ready to burst with joy at the advent of a new year with its kind remembrances.

THEATRICAL. The Boston Comedy Compnay, will open Town Hall for two nights, commencing Saturday Dec. 30, and Monday Jan. 1st, as per advertisement. See another column.

This Company is no fly-by-night-Snap Show, but a regular organized Theatre, and are traveling through New England for the season, and by the comments of the press, they deserve the title of the model Company of New England. They bring with them the popular young commedian and Vocalist, Emma Reignolds; Mr. Thomas H. Burns, the Eccentric Irish Comedian, also Mr. E. W. Beattie, which are artists of known ability. We have the authority of our exchanges for saying that the performances are worthy of the company. Saturday night the play is the favorite Irish drama, of Arrah-na-pogue, or the Wicklow Wedding. Monday night, East Lynne. Mr. Albert H. Fernald is the musical director.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW. The proprietors of the American House, the Revere House, the Tremont House, Parker's, Young's Hotel and the Sherman House, plead guilty to selling liquors, in the municipal court on Friday.—"First offence—ten dollars and cost."—Daily News.

☞ Miss Mary H. Graves was ordained as pastor of the Unitarian Society, at Mansfield on the 14th instant. She is the first lady who has entered the Unitarian ministry in Massachusetts, and the second in the whole denomination, Mrs. Celia Burleigh being the first.

GOOD SPORT. The sum total of sea fowls shot by a party of four gentlemen, including our townsman, Noah Curtis, Esq., during a four weeks visit at Currituck Sound, N. C., the latter part of November and first part of December was 300 canvas duck, 470 black, red head and mallard duck, 100 geese and 14 swans. The above sum does not include a large amount of smaller game.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT. A young lady in the Normal School of New York, had the linings and several of the arteries of her throat cut, by the core of an apple that she was eating a few days ago, and was so badly injured that it is impossible for her to survive.

☞ The eagle that is to adorn the new Post Office in Boston weighs five tons, and was executed by one person, who received six dollars a day for his labor, which occupied a year.

For the Patriot.

WOLLASTON HEIGHTS.

As per agreement, Santa Claus will meet the children and friends of the Union Sabbath School at Wollaston Heights, next Monday evening in full regalia. He promised the children a generous welcome.

During the past year the school has been blest by health, growth in interest and numbers,—68 being present last Sabbath,—more than double the number one year ago.

Rev. Mr. Abbott will commence his labors here one week from to-morrow, as pastor of the Baptist Society; and as we have reason to believe will have the hearty cooperation of all who "love our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ." The Sabbath school will remain Union as heretofore. Preaching and the Sabbath school have been held every Sabbath during the year without a scism. May this Christian fellowship founded on Christ, the only hope of salvation, continue when outward ceremonies only, shall organize separate churches looking to the same end.

The temperance pledge now circulating here promises to gather into the cold water army not only all the children but the newly resident parents. May these children grow up to make whiskey, vice and Sabbath desecration, unpopular. If so, the pauper house and criminal courts, will search in vain for recruits here.

The Sabbath School Concert will be held in Union Chapel to-morrow evening.

CONGREGATIONALIST.

BRAINTREE.

CHRISTMAS. The First Baptist Sabbath School, enjoyed their usual festival and Christmas tree on Saturday evening last, at the Town Hall. The singing by the children was excellent. Little Susie doing her part finely. Notwithstanding the storm a large audience was present. At the close of the entertainment Santa Claus distributed gifts to Teachers, Scholars, Superintendent, parents and friends,—all were remembered.

SMALL POX. There has been one case of this disease at the north part of the town. All needful precautions however have been taken to prevent the spread of this unwelcome visitor, and it is hoped there will be no new cases. The person referred to is now recovering and out of danger.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE. Mr. Flint Builder, has bought the estate at the south part of the town formerly owned by Mr. Geo. Reed, for about $3000.

SIXTEEN OUNCES. The Ladies of the first Baptist Society will give an entertainment at their vestry on Tuesday evening next. The main feature of which is to be a pound party. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Society.

DEFACED CURRENCY. The following changes go into effect on the 1st of January:—Defaced and mutilated United States notes and currency instead of being redeemable as now by the Treasurer of the United States, subject to discount for the mutilation, will be redeemable at their full value in new notes or currency by the Treasurer, Assistant Treasurers and designated depositories of the United States and all National Bank depositories and will be received at the full face value by all officers of the Treasury Department in payment of currency due the United States, provided that three-fifths of the original proportion of such are presented in one piece.—Fragments of less than five-eights will be redeemable only by the Treasurer of the United States. If more than half and less than five-eights is presented, half the face value will be paid. Less than half the note will be redeemable only on an affidavit that the missing portion is totally destroyed. Under the new rules any person, bank, corporation or public officer will be permitted to forward five dollars and upwards in fractional currency, and fifty dollars and upwards in legal tender notes for redemption to the Treasurer by express at the expense of the department, under a government contract with Adams Express Company. Heretofore nothing less than $500 was entitled to transportation at the government expense. The officers of the Treasury are determined to remove all causes for complaints concerning the condition of the United States currency, and to that end have concluded to extend to all the most liberal facilities for its redemption. It is expected at the department that the new rules will result in a marked improvement of the condition of the currency.

RETURNING TO SPECIE PAYMENTS.

The New York Herald says that "Gold in its steady decline has fallen below 109, the lowest point reached since July, 1862, the second year of the war, when the difficulties and cost of that stupendous struggle began to send the premium up higher. This was nearly ten years ago. The fluctuations have been great during that period, and were governed principally while the war lasted by the varying successes or failures of our armies. Since the war closed the tendency has been downward, though there has been at times a spasmodic rise caused by Wall street speculations, political affairs at home or troubles in Europe. This, however, was but temporary, and the general tendency, as we said, has been downward all along. We are now in the seventh year since the war ended and have nearly approached a specie basis again. In fact, if the difference of exchange between Europe and this country be not taken into account, we are within a fraction of the specie basis of the rest of the world. There is no reason, then, why we should not soon return to specie payments.

"Several movements have been started in Congress since the present session commenced with a view to bring about resumption. The House Committee on Banking and Currency have been considering the question, and bills that have been introduced relating to it have been referred to a sub-committee for examination and a report. It is said that this sub-committee will be prepared to report shortly after the holidays and that there is an impression the report will be strongly in favor of some measure for resumption. Mr. Sumner, in the Senate, is intent on urging an immediate return to specie payments. Other Senators are seriously considering the question. It is clear, too the President and Secretary of the Treasury are favorable to resumption, if that can be accomplished without deranging the national finances. The tendency is in every direction to that end. The very action of Congress, if determined and able to provide for resuming specie payments, will have the effect of bringing down the premium on gold lower than it is at present, and will make the change easy. We should not be surprised to see specie and greenbacks at par during the progress of legislation on the subject. If no extraordinary event or disaster should happen—and there is no reason to anticipate that—we should return to specie payments, probably, as quietly and insensibly as the dew falls upon the ground, and the people would then wonder at the facility of the operation.

THE STATE POLICE. During the year now closing, the State police have made 2883 seizures of liquor, amounting to 53,845 gallons, at an average value of $2 a gallons, caused $173,199 97 in fines and costs to be paid in, made 37 gaming seizures, 7906 liquor prosecutions outside of seizures, 2963 for general offences, arrested 122 gamblers, made 2 seizures of obscene prints, restored to owners $25,362 94 worth of stolen property, earned $17,812 83 in fees, which go the State treasury, and cost the State during the time $111,038 54. Since July 1, there has been 69 men on the force. City Marshal James M. Drennan of Worcester has just been appointed a member of the force, to date from January 1.

THE DEAN WILL. The will of the late Dr. Oliver Dean, the founder of the Dean Academy in Franklin, has been admitted to probate in Norfolk county. Besides about $149,000 which Dr. Dean during his life bestowed upon the academy which bears his name, he left a fortune estimated at $600,000. The will was executed on the 9th of September last, and in it he bequeaths $80,000 to Tufts College, to be called the Dean Fund. To the City Library of Manchester, N. H., $5,000, the income to be invested in the purchase of books; to his friends and relatives, he bestowed large gifts. To the First Universalist Church, in Franklin, he gave the "Emmon's Farm," with all the buildings, together with nearly all the stock; also his residence, which is to be used as a parsonage. The Dean Library Association in Medway village is remembered with a gift of twenty-five shares in the Boston and Albany Railroad. To the cherished object of his life, the Dean Academy, he gives forty shares of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company; forty shares in the Manchester Print Works; ten shares in the Stark Mills, and two hundred shares in the Vermont and Canada railroad, the income of which is to be appropriated for the payment of the salaries of the teachers of that Academy. All the residue of his real, personal and mixed property is left to the same institution, to be used by the Trustees as they may deem most expedient for its benefit as long as it shall remain an Academy; otherwise it is to pass into the hands of Tufts College.

A LETTER FROM NEW HAMPSHIRE.

CANTERBURY, Dec. 18th, 1871.

To the Publisher of the Patriot.

It is now nearly a year since I wrote you a little sketch of my home and situation, up here in New Hampshire. I had then been here but a few months. The place was all new and novel then; but I have now got somewhat accustomed to the country and scenes around me, and continue to like very much. I sometimes, but not often, hear from the friends in Quincy, with whom I was so long associated.

I have done much better here than I at first expected to do. We have some very cold weather, some snow; it is at present very good sleighing. We are at the time I write having quite a snow storm. I do not intend to write much of a letter. Inclosed you will find two dollars and a half the price of subscription, and I would like to have you send me your valuable sheet, for the next year.—It will be a great pleasure to me to have it to read in the quiet winter evenings.

CHARLES H. BROWN.

THE NATIONAL BANKS. The Comptroller of the Currency, in rehearsing the condition of the national banks, recommends, among other things, some limitations of the power of the States to tax their shares. The average tax paid to the United States is two and one-half per cent. on the capital of the banks, and the equivalent of this tax ought, in his opinion, to be sufficient for the States in which the banks are located. He also suggests the expediency of legislation requiring the banks to stamp all spurious money as "counterfeit," when presented at their counters. He appears to entertain the idea that the best plan in regard to the currency is to let it alone, believing that gold and paper will gradually become of equal value.

NEW GAMES. D. B. Brooks & Brother, 55 Washington street, Boston, has lots of new games for the parlor and sitting-room. Among them are the new game of "Shoo Fly," "Buried Cities," "American Circus," and a great many others. They have a large stock for purchasers to select from.

SEWING MACHINE. The advertisement of the American Sewing Machines, in this issue, is worthy attention of all in need of a machine. Since the introduction of these machines vast improvements have been made. In skilful hands they seem to accomplish almost every kind of work. The American Combination for making even button holes, embroidering on the edge, and sewing "over and over," and in every variety of plain sewing, a friend in whom we have confidence assures us that they are among the best, and are giving great satisfaction wherever introduced.

☞ A Chinaman was buried in San Francisco, on Monday with very imposing ceremonies. There were about one hundred carriages in a line, with twenty professional mourners and five wagon loads of provisions and flowers.

Controller Green of New York has paid $40,000 to the street-sweepers.

Briggs' Allevantor is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper and Alcohol. This compound is unequal in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling and Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c., equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. For Sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally.

CONSUMPTION. This fatal and dreaded disease can, and has been cured. Dr. J. Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer is a pleasant, agreeable and sure remedy for coughs, whooping cough, croup, hoarseness, bronchitis, laryngitis, sore throat, asthma, consumption, and all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggist generally.

PILES have caused more torture to the human family than any other affliction. They have been a terror to mankind for centuries and the efforts to cure them have baffled almost every attempt. By unceasing study and experimenting Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute cure for internal bleeding, external and itching piles. BRIGGS' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally.

CORNS! Just fancy a foot with its perfect organization, designed by the Creator to be of use to man, crowded into a boot or shoe about two-thirds the size required to give room for the working of the joints, muscles, &c., of this wonderful structure. And then consider if it is any wonder that nine-tenths of the adult population and half the children are troubled with corns, bunions, bad nails and other pedal afflictions. All of which are artificial and unnecessary. DR. J. BRIGGS' Alleviator and Curative will surely banish them, and proper fitting boots will prevent their return. For sale by J. H. Veazie, Mrs. E. Hayden, and Druggists generally. Dec. 23.

PARALYSIS AND DEFORMITIES CURED. Waltham Medical Institute, Waltham, Mass., for the cure of Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Curvatures, Contracted Cords, Crooked Limbs and Hands, Wry Neck, Hip Diseases, and all Deformities, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all Lameness.

Song---THE FAR WEST.

How beautiful the prairies of the West,
How sublime the sight when on fire,
How fragrant the forest where all can rest,
It seems our souls to inspire.
We love the West and its fields of grain,
We love its valleys and hill;
'Tis Nature's garden, 'tis Nature's plain,
Our souls with rapture it fills.
We love our own New England,
We love its rock-bound coast;
As Prussia loves its Fatherland,
We love New England the most.
We like a nobby suit of clothes,
GEO. M. RICHARDS deals so fair,
We'll buy his coats, his pants and vests,

The Bost[on] Herald

FOR

1872,

A Morning & Evening [Newspa]per

FIVE EDITIONS EVERY [DA]Y.

The Best Two-Cents Paper in the Country.

Average Daily Circulation Over

90,000.

THE BOSTON HERALD

Enter upon the New Year with increased means for giving all the news to its readers. It has practically resumed specie payments, as it gives twice as much reading matter now for two cents as it gave before the war for one, when it was acknowledged to be the best penny paper in the country.

The HERALD has facilities for obtaining news unsurpassed by any newspaper in the country. It has a large force of local reporters and special correspondents at all points of interest,—in Washington, New York, and at the centres of population, everywhere in New England. These correspondents are instructed to forward all the news as promptly as possible, using the telegraph whenever time in publication can be gained thereby. Indeed the telegraph has almost wholly superseded the mails in the correspondence of the HERALD from all points in telegraphic communication with Boston.

The HERALD has one great advantage over most newspapers which come in competition with it. It is in Politics, and can afford to state the truth about all political events. It belongs to no party or clique; its reports are candid to all parties; and its editorial tone is liberal and tolerant, condemning the wrong and commending the right, wherever they are found.

ENTIRELY INDEPENDENT

The HERALD is the only paper in New England that has

ITS FORMS STEREOTYPED,

and the large editions are now printed on duplicate plates by two of Hoe's Lightning presses, of six cylinders each, and each capable of printing fifteen thousand impressions an hour. These facilities enable the publishers to hold back the forms to the last moment and give their patrons

THE VERY LATEST NEWS.

The HERALD gives its readers more reading matter for two cents than any other newspaper in the country, and its serves the news up in a spicy and spirited form for which it has long been celebrated.

ADVERTISERS

will find the HERALD one of the most valuable mediums for their use. Its daily circulation is over

NINETY THOUSAND COPIES,

which is four times as large as any other paper in New England, and is only exceeded by one newspaper (a small one-cent paper) in the country. Its advertising rates are moderate and uniform; no deviation from printed rates being made in any form whatever, either as discount or as commision to agents.

The HERALD is one of the largest two-cents paper in the country, and as the plates are made fresh from new and unworn type, while paper of good weight and quality is used, the impression is always clear and legible.

The price of the HERALD is two cents per copy, and it is sold to agents at $1.25 per hundred.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Five Dollars per annum, and at same rate for a shorter period.

To Clubs of five or more, to one address four dollars per annum, or one dollar for three months, payable invariably in advance.

No agents employed to solict either subscriptions or advertisements.

THE SUNDAY HERALD

is of the same size as the Daily, containing a great variety of reading matter, including Voluminn Special News Dispatches and Markets, by Telegraph, full report of Local News, Editorials, Timely Musical and Dramatic Criticisms, a Business Review of the Week, the best Review of the Boston Stock Market published, &c., &c. It has a circulation of

Over 21,000 Copies, chiefly in the city and suburban towns. A limited nnmber of Advertisements in the SUNDAY HERALD.

The price of the SUNDAY HERALD is five cents per single copy; and it is sold to agents at $3.50 per hundred. To subscribers, Two Dollars per annum.

The American Sewing Machines

Stitch, Hem, Fell, Tuck, Cord, Braid, Gath, Fringe, Gather, and Sew.

Overseam and Work Beautiful Button and Eyelet holes, Surpassing in looks and Durability Hand-work.

The Plain American Sewing Machine, as recently improved at a reduced price, $60 with cover, is one of the most beautiful, light running and Finely finished Machines made.

It is nearly NOISELESS, it is the most SIMPLE and DURABLE Machine in use. Experience has taught that the AMERICAN MACHINES have all the good points, and do away with many objections, for instance:

They use a straight needle, a new and improved shuttle, never oiling the thread.

The Shuttle has a rocking motion, instead of the sliding, as in old style machines, hence, does not wear.

The Tension is more easily adjusted, simply by turning a screw, through which the thread runs, which gives it an even tension, while in other machines you put the thread through more or less holes in the shuttle. The Machine has less working parts than any other. It turns back on hinges, so you can easily oil and clean it.

The Foot Piece (presser foot) turns back, so the cloth is more easily taken from the machine after the work is done. If accidentally turned backwards, the thread will not break, or the needle get bent, as in other machines.

THE AMERICAN BUTTON HOLE and complete SEWING MACHINE, or COMBINATION MACHINE, (price $75 with Cover), has no rival. It is the cheapest as well as the BEST—since it is really TWO MACHINES combined in ONE—(by a simple mechanical arrangement, never before accomplished,) making either the LOCK STITCH or BUTTON HOLE STITCH, as occasion may require. OVERSEAMING, EMBROIDERING ON THE EDGE, and working BEAUTIFUL BUTTON HOLES and EYELET HOLES, in addition to every kind of sewing done on any other Sewing Machine.

As evidence of the superiority of the machine the report of the judges at the great Industrial Exposition in Cincinnati, where the machine was a successful competitor for and obtained the GOLD MEDAL, will speak for itself.

"The Judges do hereby declare that the Sewing Machine that exhibits the greatest novelty, advancement, and improvement, does the greatest variety of useful work, equal in construction, workmanship and design to any and all others, is the American Button-Hole, Over-seaming and Sewing Machine."

The leading machines were ably handled in competition, and the Exposition was the severest test ever given sewing machines in Ohio.

The sales of the AMERICAN during the last year have gained over 100 per cent., and the factory is running day and night to fill its orders. The great demand for the machines is an evidence of their popularity and usefulness; and those who use them invariably give them the preference.

BOSTON MEDICAL INSTITUTE

34 TEMPLE PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

The object in establishing this Institution was to attain the greatest perfection in the preparation, practice and use of Vegetable Remedies, and to secure a permanent place where Families, Invalids, or any person could obtain the best medical advice, and such remedies as each might require, without the use of poisonous drugs.

Dr. Greene has been Physician of the Institute since its foundation, now more than twenty-five years. Few men have had so large experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Dr. Greene is in his fifty-fifth year and has devoted his life to this branch of his profession, and his success, we believe is without parallel.

Among the diseases to which he gives especial attention may be noticed Cancer, Scrofula, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervousness, Rheumatism, Paralysis, Spinal Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Faint Stomach, Erysipelas, White Swelling, Salt Rheum, Canker, Deafness, Kidney Diseases, Seminal Weakness, &c.

Dr. Greene's Medical Pamphlet, descriptive of diseases and their proper treatment, will be sent free to invalids.

Poetry.

DRIFTING APART.

Broad is the sea where the vessels are sailing,
Fair are the breezes that waft them along,
Clear is the sky that above them is smiling,
Brilliant the sun that is lighting them on.
Ever the billows are playing around them,
Kissing their sides as they speed them away
O'er the wide ocean that lies all before them—
Ocean to cross ere they enter the bay.

Sometimes two vessels will sail on together,
Seeming each other to help and to cheer,
Giving assistance in trial and danger,
Passing the shoals and rocks without fear;
Then, as they journey, a cloud gathers o'er them,
Head winds assail them, wide tossing each bark,
Splinter the masts, rend the sails and the rigging,—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

O, there are hearts sailing out on life's ocean,
Banded together by friendship and love,
Giving assistance in trial and sorrow,
Fearing no danger as onward they rove.
Then as they journey, a storm bursts upon them,
Severs the couplings that bind heart to heart,
Lashes the sea till it foams in its madness—
Waves roll between them, and they drift apart.

You that have friends that are loving and tender,
Whom you can trust with the hopes of your soul,
Let not the trials of life bear asunder
Those who can aid on the way to the goal;
Cling to them always, in darkness, in sunshine,
And, when to Jesus, in prayer goes your heart,
Ask that His blessings may ever rest on them,
Pray him to keep you from drifting apart.

KICKING COWS.

It is sometimes the case that cows, from some cause or other, acquire a habit of kicking. Some would seem to be natural kickers, from their propensity to do so from their first coming in. If such be the fact, and they persist in it, the better way is, if they are not extraordinary good ones, to turn them off for fattening into beef. But if valuable for the dairy, they can be easily managed. Our own process has been to take the iron forceps, used for holding cattle by the nostrils, and tying them by a rope or strap to a beam over head, and drawing up their noses at an elevation, and their securing them, while they are milked. If that is not effective, a leather strap, with a loop just back of the buckle end, through which is put the other end, is the best instrument for the purpose. Put this around one leg, just above the hock joint, run the smaller end through the loop, that it may not slip down; then put it around the other leg, and pass it back through the buckle so as to confine her legs close together. So secured she cannot well kick, as the other strap holds them fast one to the other, and the cow is easily milked. Or, lacking a strap or rope passed around one leg and crossed, then lashed around the other, and brought back with a turn or two around the cross between the legs, and tied, will answer the purpose. She soon becomes accustomed to it, and will readily submit to the operation. We have so used valuable cows for years, with little trouble, preferring so to do rather than lose their services. Scolding, fretting loud threatening, thumping, and flagellations, are of little use. The cow may have a hot temper, as well as the milker, and resist all such sorts of discipline. The law of kindness is usually much more effective. —Exchange.

☞ A good harness blacking is made of four ounces of hog's lard, sixteen ounces of Neat's-foot oil, four ounces of yellow wax, twenty-nine ounces of ivory black, sixteen ounces of brown sugar, and ten ounces of water. Heat the whole to boiling, and stir it until it becomes cool enough to handle, then roll it into balls about two inches in diameter.

☞ There is a cheese on exhibition at Buffalo, weighing 3000 pounds, the product of one day's milking of 2200 cows, yielding 30,105 pounds of milk.

Anecdotes.

"Georgie," asked a minister of one of his parishioner's little boys, "where is your sister Minnie?"

"Gone to Heaven, Sir!"

"What! is she dead?"

"Oh! no, Sir! she went to buy a cent's worth of matches."

"Why, you said she'd gone to Heaven."

"Well," replied Georgie, "you said, last Sunday, that matches were made in Heaven; so I thought she went there!"

An old farmer, who was asked by an impertinent attorney if there was any pretty girls in his neighborhood, answered:

"Yes sir, lots of 'em, so many that they can't find respectable husbands, and lately some of 'em's been taken up with lawyers."

"Sir," said the astonished landlady to a traveler, who had sent his cup forward for the seventh time, "you must be very fond of coffee."

"Yes, madam, I am," he replied, "or I should never have drank so much water to get a little."

If a picture is well hung, does it follow as a matter of course that it is well executed?

CAUTION

TO FEMALES IN DELICATE HEALTH

DR. DOW, Physician and Surgeon, No. 7 Endicott St., Boston, is consulted daily for all diseases incident to the female system. Prolapsus Uteri or Falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, Suppression, and other Menstrual Derangements, are all treated on new pathological principles, and speedy relief guaranteed in a very few days. So luminably certain is the new mode of treatment, that most obstinate complaints yield under it, and the afflicted person soon rejoices in perfect health.

Dr. Dow has no doubt had greater experience in the cure of diseases of women than any other physician of Boston.

Boarding accommodations for patients who may wish to stay in Boston a few days under his treatment.

Dr. Dow, since 1845, having confined his whole attention to an office practice for the cure of Private Diseases and Female Complaints, acknowledges no superior in the United States.
